NOTICE

Deadline for copy for the December issue will be November 15. During the past several months, while revising the mailing list and making new arrangements for printing the Grizzly Bear, we have been somewhat lax in this matter as the magazine was coming out later in the month and we wanted to have the news in it as up-to-date as possible. However, with the December issue, if all goes well, we hope to be back on schedule. Therefore, the 15th of the month preceding date of publication, will be the absolute deadline hereafter. Correspondents should realize that their stories should be in well in advance of the 15th if possible, in order for them to get proper attention, as we do not wait until the final deadline before planning the next month's Grizzly Bear. Even as you read this, several pages for the December issue are already in type and going to press.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all of our readers for their patience, help and understanding, and we hope that you are pleased with the results. Any constructive criticisms or suggestions are always welcome.—The Editor.

November 4, 1872, the presidential and congressional election in California was held. As the result was a foregone conclusion, there was little excitement. The total vote cast in the state was 95,861; San Francisco cast 23,000, Sacramento 4,368, and Los Angeles 2,519. The electors of General U. S. Grant, Republican presidential nominee, received 54,044 and those of Horace Greeley, Democratic nominee, 40,799 votes. For Congress, the Republicans elected Charles Clayton in the First District, H. Frank Page in the Second and S. O. Houghton in the Fourth; the Democrats elected J. K. Luttrell in the Third.

For the first time, the 100-foot-limit law was put into effect, so the polling-place workers were kept that distance from the polls. On the great register of San Francisco were 9,822 natives of Ireland and 6,723 natives of Germany; the city's foreign-born voters exceeded by 4,739 the native-born.

Thanksgiving Day, November 28, was observed in the usual religious, feasting and entertaining manner. A heavy storm set in during the afternoon, breaking the long dry spell and bringing thanks from the farmers and miners who were hoping for rain. The storm lasted several days and soaked the entire state.

A Spanish steer arrived in Butchertown, San Francisco, from Mexico, that had a spread of horns eight feet from tip to tip. It was hairless, and its tail looked like a blacksnake whip.

The first railroad passenger train on the line building south was run into Salinas, Monterey County, November 7.

The City of San Diego celebrated with a parade and speech-making November 11 the commencement of the construction of the railroad to run from San Diego to San Buena Ventura.

A Farmers' Club, formed of Sacramento County farmers, held weekly meetings and discussed their problems. The question of labor and welfare of the laborer was an unsolved one.

At Vallejo, Solano County, wharves this month were twenty-five vessels loading with wheat for Europe.

Twenty cars of charcoal were shipped from Truckee, Nevada County, to Salt Lake City, Utah, November 20.

Charles Rice, 20 years old, was driving a stage from Colfax to Iowa Hill in Placer County, with Miss Annie Hawkins, a passenger, on the front seat beside him. Descending a grade, a valise fell from the seat, hitting a wheel horse and causing the four horses to run away. He grabbed Miss Hawkins in his arms and jumped from the stage as it was about to upset. She was uninjured, but his head struck a rock and he was killed.

A dog belonging to Budd Carson of Grass Valley fell into a well 60 feet deep during the night and managed to get out of the water by scratching off the dirt from a stone just above it. In the morning, when Carson came to the well and drew up a bucket of water, he heard a whine from below for help. Disconnecting the bucket, he lowered the rope which, on reaching the bottom, the dog grasped with his teeth and was then drawn to the top and safety.

Joshua Smith, a 7-year-old lad at Auburn, Placer County, concealed himself beneath the seat of General Jo Hamilton's carriage, just before two young women guests of the Hamiltons, started on a drive. Soon after leaving the town he began to murmur and give an occasional subdued growl, finally giving each a pinch above the ankle. After one of the misses had fainted and the other was making ready to leap from the carriage from fright, he revealed his presence, and later got the licking he deserved.

A woman at Vallejo, while cleaning her rooms and using a broom and dust-pan, received by messenger a package of Arizona diamonds, eight in number, from a relative in San Francisco with a request that she deliver them according to directions given with the package. While perusing the letter, a visitor rang her doorbell. Frustrated, she dropped the diamonds and letter in the dust-pan and went to receive the visitor. Some time later the visitor departed, and the woman emptied the dust-pan and resumed her work. A few hours after finishing her cleaning she remembered the diamonds. Where she threw them out of the dust-pan she did not remember and a search of the premises failed to locate them and they were still missing at the end of the month.

Telegraph Hill as viewed from Union and Montgomery Streets in 1864 (Civil War days.) Where the Coit Tower stands today is the crude semaphore building with the word "Telescope" on its south wall. It was from this highspot that the folk of Yerba Buena down below were flashed word by semaphore signal of the passing through the Golden Gate of a ship. The old road at the right of the building is now a magnificent boulevard. This priceless photo was through the courtesy of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

Telegraph Hill . . .

Used As Signal Station During Gold Rush Days.

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

ONE can look over the early annals of San Francisco history and much of the area known as North Beach is mentioned throughout. North Beach, located in the northeastern section of the city of San Francisco, was covered with sand dunes and low shrubs in 1847. The scene has changed in the last century for early photographs and drawings depict the scene when the west side of historic Telegraph Hill was still a countryside.

Today, busy streets, dwellings and places of business occupy the vicinity where once wild animals roamed. The North Beach district became one of the first populated areas; houses were built through the hollow west of Telegraph Hill extending down toward Meigg's Wharf.

Upon discovery of gold in California on January 24, 1848, Telegraph Hill became useful as a signal station which was erected on its summit to guide the clipper ships bringing miners to the gold fields. Crowds of people rushed to the top of the "Hill" to greet the incoming vessels as they sailed through the Golden Gate.

The "Hill" was named "Loma Alta" (High Hill) by the Spanish.

An improved signal station, located in a two-story house, was erected in September, 1849, which connected with an outer-ocean station, but in December, 1870, was blown down. It was here also that a signal was given to announce the news brought by the steamer Oregon on October 18, 1850, that California was admitted to the Union as the thirty-first state.

The first road built around the base of Telegraph Hill was made by Henry Meiggs, who came to California in 1850.

He cut and opened a level road a few feet above the high water mark around the eastern and northern base from Clark's Point, now Broadway and Battery Street. Meiggs was responsible for improving other streets leading to Telegraph Hill, which soon became populated. Henry Meiggs also built a wharf in the vicinity of the north end of Powell Street, which was known as Meiggs Wharf.

In 1876 a group of early residents purchased the square on the summit and donated it to the City of San Francisco to be designated as a pioneer park, and in 1883 the Pioneer Park Observatory was erected. The Telegraph Hill Railroad was built to connect with other railroad lines in the city. A time ball was installed and was dropped daily at noon by which the mariners in the harbor regulated their chronometers.

The "Hill" was once the residence of many well-known men such as: Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Joaquin Miller and many others.

At present, a large tower can be seen from almost every part of the great city of San Francisco; it stands to the memory of Mrs. Lillie Hitchcock Coit, who in her childhood, was made an honorary member of Knickerbocker Fire Engine Company Number Five. All her life she maintained an interest in the City of San Francisco and her gift to the city exemplified the true spirit of a California pioneer.

Industry was established on the west side of Telegraph Hill as Meiggs Wharf afforded an advantageous point from which shipping was made accessible. Later the Eureka Flour Mill was built at the corner of Powell and Francisco Streets. The Pacific Camphene Works, a starch factory, and other pioneer enterprises were also located in this district. North Beach, during the following years had undergone many changes, and the district, as it progressed, made it necessary to construct more buildings for the growing population. Washington Square was used for celebrations and pageants on holidays and the population of this locality would turn out in large numbers to join in these events.

First San Francisco Wharf Built on South Side of Telegraph Hill

The first suggestion of possible development of San Francisco Harbor occurred under the Mexican regime in 1835. During this year Captain W. A. Richardson, an early California pioneer, established himself in the quiet cove of Yorba Buena (now San Francisco), building the first settlement. Richardson became the first harbor master of the first landing place in San Francisco Bay, for in

Mission Vieja

CALIFORNIA'S FORGOTTEN MISSION

By CHARLES PACKARD

RUMMAGING around on a hillside in the oil stained mountains north of the city of Montebello, California, one finds adobe tile, overgrown with weeds and half buried by dirt. These few fragments are all that remain to remind us of a troublesome and difficult chapter in the history of the Franciscan pioneers.

The story begins in Mexico, five years before Paul Revere took his famous evening ride to Lexington. A sickly young man named Junipero Serra penned an idea to the Viceroy of New Spain, asking permission to organize five missions in Alta California—one to be established under the patronage of Saint Gabriel, the Archangel.

Accordingly on August 6, 1771 a party set out from San Diego consisting of two friars, Father Cambon and Father Somera, accompanied by ten soldiers and ten muleteers.

They found their goal to be a veritable field of gold, for the gentle September rains had brought forth a wealth of yellow flowers cheering the hearts of the weary Padres with a promise of fine fields and abundant orchards. In their own words they said: "the streams had a good growth of cottonwoods, willows and other trees, thickets of blackberries and innumerable wild grade vines."

It was well the Padres rejoiced over their good fortune when they did for it seems it is not the pleasure of the gods that men of good will travel the easy road.

The sight of the Padres, with long flowing robes reaching the ground, the soldiers in their gleaming armor, supporting banners snapping in the breeze, raising a great wooden cross, hanging church bells and decorating an altar with lace and candles attracted the naked Indian from the hills. Soon the Spaniards were surrounded by groups of dark skinned, flat nosed and excited Indians, some pointing and gaping in wonderment at the display of color, others curious, but some resentful of the intrusion by the foreigners.

Slowly, little by little irritation over the superior attitude of the soldiers and a natural distrust for strangers and anything which they did not understand took hold of the warriors. Irritation mingled with fear and a superiority of numbers invited action and in typical Indian fashion with a shrill spine tingling war whoop they started to advance howling and dancing, brandishing their bows, arrows and pointed sticks.

This looked serious to the heroic Fathers. For outnumbered ten to one and fearing a massacre, they fell back on the time honored last defense of the Catholic pioneers. Furiously ripping open their baggage and hurling defiance at the pagans they raised aloft, so all could see, a battered painting of Our Lady of Sorrows.

What now happened temporarily put the fear of God into the hearts of the hardened soldiers. For when the picture was held aloft, the Indians suddenly stopped and gazed at the picture—then lowered their weapons, the chief removed the beads from around his neck and timidly advancing placed them as offerings on the ground in front of the picture.

With this sign of good will from the Indians the Fathers set to work to erect buildings. Padre Zelvidea, the strict task master of the mission, was assigned the job of organizing the Indians to cut and haul the lumber and do the heavy labor. The foremen or gang leaders were armed with bull whips made of rawhide, these they used on both the men and women if they failed to do their work.

The first primitive buildings were made from oak saplings which were plastered with adobe and the roofs were thatched with tule reeds from the river. In the space of a few days they erected buildings for the soldiers, a storehouse for the corn and a kitchen, a corral for the cattle, in the center a church forty-five feet long and eighteen feet wide. There were fifteen units all told and a stockade of rough timber, stood on end, surrounding the area.

The Indians were so friendly and willing to work the missionaries now anticipated no opposition to their efforts at conversion.

Unfortunately, after but one month, constructive mission life proved too slow for the Spaniards who were trained for war. Their idleness became an active cause of evil. Supported by the muleteers, groups of soldiers would mount their horses in the early morning, with or without the permission of the corporal of the guard, and ride out to the Indian villages, "seeking fun." The natives would scatter at the sight of the soldiers but with their lassos the Spaniards would rope the women. Even the Indian boys were not safe from their brutal lust.

The chief, to avenge the insult of his wife, gathered together a group of his friends and set out to punish the guilty Spanish soldier. They found him along with several others, some distance from the mission guarding the horses. In the fight that followed the culprit, who had been singled out by the Indians, leveled his musket at the chief and fired. The Indians never before having experienced gunfire, were horrified and they dropped their weapons and fled in terror, leaving their dead chief on the ground.

At the sound of the gun, the corporal of the guard and his men ran to the scene. On hearing what had happened, the officer not knowing the full story, ordered the head of the Indian be cut off and placed on a pole outside the barracks "to strike terror in the hearts of the pagans."

Later, a small delegation of Indians returned to claim the head of their chief; this the Padres insisted be done. However, it was some time before they lost their fear and only then did the Fathers learn the full story.

A few days after the bloody encounter Comandante Fages arrived with two Fathers and several soldiers on their way to found the mission at Ventura. When Fages heard of the savage assault he decided to leave most of his men in anticipation of another attack, it was decided because there were not enough men left

70 Years of California

The Story of the California Cultivator Mirrors the Agricultural History of the Golden State over a period of many years.

By HAR LAR

WHEN the first editor of the California Cultivator took pen in hand to inform the early California farmers how properly to raise crops and till the soil, in order to gain needed experience and have something to write about, he planted a garden. According to the story, with the exception of one item, his vegetables thrived under his fastidious care. However, something was definitely wrong with the beans. They were growing as no plant is supposed to grow. Each bean seed, so carefully planted, had given itself a push and obviously the wrong way. The seed in the ground had grown backward. Instead of being safe in the ground it was swaying at the top of two inch shoots. Painstakingly the surprised editor carefully pulled them up, turned them over and planted them right.

Editors of the California Cultivator since then have come and gone. Definitely through the years they have improved. A few short weeks ago the Golden State's Big Farm Magazine celebrated its 70th birthday. The entire staff, from managing editor down, has been feverishly burning the midnight oil, preparing the most stupendous farm journal to ever come off the presses and see the light of a California day. Thirty field writers have compiled historical facts, tabulating the beginning of our state's vast farming enterprises and recording their growth until today California is the number one state in the nation, producing during 1947 alone over two billion dollars in cash crops, a sum of $2,121,940,000 to be somewhere exact.

The days of easy gold were over when in 1877 the California Cultivator was born. No longer could the golden flakes be taken from the stream beds just for the panning. Men burrowed into the earth or used great sluices of water in search of the elusive metal. From the gold fields men turned to other occupations. So it was that in 1877 California was raising more wheat than any other state in the nation. The value of golden grain that year was twice that of the gold mined.

Down state in Los Angeles an organization to foster and encourage horticulture was being formed. Known as the Southern Horticultural Society, it edited a monthly bulletin that made its debut in the fall of 1877.

The Los Angeles Evening Express of September 12th of that year made passing comment: "A copy of the Southern California Horticulturist is on our table although rather late in coming to hand. It is a neatly printed and covered pamphlet of forty pages published by the Southern California Horticultural Society of this county with L. M. Holt editor. It is," concludes the Express, "a first class publication of its kind containing much information aside from proceedings and debates of the Society."

A few short weeks later, during October, the Society's monthly pamphlet blossomed forth into a full fledged farm magazine, bearing the impressive title of "Semi Tropical California." The old fashioned handset head was a type embellished with intricate flourishes and curlicues. At least on one occasion the printer pried the head and the masthead appeared as the "Semi Torpical." However, "Torpical" or "Tropic," it was the forerunner of today's big farm magazine, the California Cultivator.

Offices of the Cultivator's predecessor were located in the most elegant office building in town. In fact, the grandeur of the Baker Block was incomparable with anything in the entire west. Located in the three hundred block on South Main at the intersection of Arcadia Street, the mammoth structure boasted a frontage of 186 feet, extending 107 feet deep, with exquisite French style towers towering 85 feet high.

The story of the Baker Block revolves around the exquisite loveliness of an early California woman. Arcadia Bandini was without doubt the undisputed queen of the City of the Angels. Even the stern hard-headed Yankee, Abel Stearns, fell head over heels in love with the lovely miss at first sight. Arcadia became his wife at the tender age of fourteen years. Abel Stearns built for his lovely lady "El Palacio de Don Abel." Sometime later Abel Stearns died.

Colonel Robert Baker owned the huge rancho by the sea that was to become Santa Monica. He it was who courted the pretty widow and escorted her before the altar. Nothing was too good for Dona Arcadia and certainly not Don Abel's Palace. Consequently Col. Baker ordered it torn down and in its place was built the most stupendous edifice in all the west. Arcadia Bandini Stearns Baker reigned there in her elegant top floor apartments.

Be that as it may, it was here that the publication office and print shop of Southern California first farm magazine were located. As the editor ably summed it up, "The Semi Tropical California occupies rooms No. 1-58 where we are always glad to see our friends and invite newcomers to 'drop in' and make themselves at home."

The young magazine was in excellent company. Rev. B. F. Coulter, a newcomer to Los Angeles, forsook his hardware business to open up a dry goods store. Eugene Germain was engaged in the grocery business, doing a bit of commission merchandising on the side. Ralph's Grocery began catering to the whims and tastes of the public in a modest sort of way. Several famous early California lawyers had their offices in the Baker block including Refugio del Valle who was to become a state senator.

Editor L. M. Holt managed the magazine for a scant two years. Financial difficulties forced him to sell to Carter-Rice. This proved an ideal set-up. N. C. Carter not only was a man of means and an active rancher, but was also the secretary of the Horticultural Society. George Rice was a printer by trade.

For the sake of the record it should be noted that Rice sold out his half interest to Charles Coleman Jr. in July '81. He bought out Carter three months later. The next year Coleman sold a half interest to H. S. Dickey. The new partner died that May and Coleman sold back to Rice lock, stock and barrel.

George Rice at that time was planning a new magazine. Bolstered by the circulation of the Semi Tropical, he combined the two to launch the first issue of the Rural Californian with the November edition of '82.

Those early issues tabulated the growth of the Golden State. Half page ads were devoted to singing the praises of southern California communities. Editor N. C. Carter displayed a splendid drawing of his own ranch home "Willowdale" in the magazine's editorial columns and listed it for sale "cheap" along with the new Sierra Madre Tract in what should have been a paid advertisement. Land was selling at $125 an acre in "Redlands, the most celebrated colony of the state."

Stearns Ranchos, including Artesia north into what are now the La Habra and Brea hills, south along the Santa Ana River, encompassing the towns of Anaheim and Westminster, was being subdivided. According to the ad, Abel Stearns Ranchos could be had "In lots to suit, oranges, lemons, limes, figs, almonds, walnuts, peaches, apples, pears, alfalfa, corn, rye, barley, wheat and oats, flax, ramie, cotton, grapes. Flowing artesian wells. Naturally moist land. One-fourth cash. Balance 1, 2, or 3 years at 10 per cent interest." Cucamonga was known as the Iowa Tract. Pomona advertised land and water.

In 1883 glowing ads waxed eloquently over the model settlement of Ontario. Pictured was the three storied edifice (not counting the steeple) of the Chaffey College of Agriculture. "The Land of Oranges, Raisins, Apricots and Peaches," so read the ads. "Euclid Avenue from the mountains to the railroad, six miles long, 200 feet wide, double drive, electric lights every mile. Seven on Euclid Avenue." Best of all "10, 20 and 40 acre tracts $150 to $200 per acre."

Grapes were the most important pay crop in southern California in 1880. Oranges, olives, lemons and deciduous fruit followed in order of importance. Riverside raisins captured all premiums at the Horticultural Fair. Orders for the delicious dried fruit came from Salt Lake and the Eastern markets.

According to the Rural Californian, unimproved land without water but near the cities could be purchased for $10 to $15 an acre. Of course land prices were lower in the rural areas. However, farms with "water privileges" sold for $50 to $75 an acre.

Here was the land of opportunity. Again we quote the forerunner of the California Cultivator as it pens these alluring promises:

"Mr. N. P. Killam near Downey City came to Los Angeles in 1874 without a dollar. Since then he has bought and paid for 22½ acres of land from which proceeds he has paid the following amounts:

22 acres of land.....	$976.00
House	400.00
Trees	30.00
Cows	125.00
Horses	225.00
Harnesses	48.00
Wagon	225.00
Furniture	297.00
Fencing	59.00
Wells	52.00
Outhouses	48.00
Paid railroad fare	160.00
Paid freight on goods	40.00
Has also bought a good family library at about	50.00
Carpenter tools, about	200.00

$2,935.00

But the cycle of editors and publishers of California's early farm magazine went merrily on. December '84 saw the paper changing into new hands. George Rice sold out temporarily to another Los Angeles printer, Fred L. Alles. Two years later Charles A. Garner bought out Alles, taking W. B. Nisbet on as a partner. Almost immediately George Rice again came into the picture when he and C. M. Heintz became sole owners. Finally in September '89 Rice had had enough and sold his share to C. J. Lipe who in turn sold out to his partner Heintz who continued publishing the magazine until his death May, 1907.

When the California Cultivator entered into its second era of transition the editors wrote an article designed to make a manly two-fisted grab for not only subscribers and advertisers, the life blood of any publication, but for manuscripts to be used as editorial matter. Let us quote:

"A paper for the suburban and country home. Anyone interested in producing anything grown from the ground should have an interest in this paper, not only as patrons, subscribers and advertisers, but should write for its columns. Tell through its columns your experiences and successes and last but not least your failures. Failure is the alphabet of success and if your neighbor can know where to avoid your failures, he will most likely succeed. It makes no difference how long or short your articles may be, whether the language is of elegant construction or simple, whether written with ink or pencil, on white or brown paper, so that the writing can be read. With this introduction we leave our paper in the hands for whom it is published."

Exactly eleven months after the turn of the century on December 1st, 1900, Frank Honeywell became part owner. The following September C. B. Messinger purchased a third interest. New Years found Steadman-Goodwin-Honeywell at the helm and they continued the partnership until January, 1905.

It was April 24th, 1908 that the Cultivator Publishing Company was incorporated. At that time the California Cultivator was being edited weekly. H. A. Perkins was president and manager. R. M. Teague, a citrus nurseryman, and H. H. Kruckeberg, veteran Los Angeles printer, published the magazine from early 1911.

The last quarter of a century has seen but few changes. Frank Ironmonger, Judd H. Yetter and William R. Wood purchased the Cultivator Publishing Company in 1922. These men were farmers. Tall lanky Frank Ironmonger had been a poultryman. Judd Yetter owned a citrus grove. William Wood had managed R. M. Teague's nurseries for many years and now owned several citrus orchards.

During this period the magazine's circulation doubled and trebled. Subscription men worked the highways and byways. Every corner of the state was thoroughly canvassed and many farm communities boasted a 100% circulation.

Prior to 1900 to sell subscriptions in those early days such premiums as a 600 page dictionary or a jackknife with pruning, budding and spraying blades was often offered. This brings to mind a story of a later day "Cultivator" subscription agent and his sales problems.

It was during the "depression." The "Cultivator" man had talked himself out. Still the farmer remained adamant. Spying a red hen the salesman says, "How about trading?"

"Yep," says the farmer.

A sale is a sale but the agent hadn't counted on running down a feathered fowl as part of the bargain. Perspiring freely, he at last managed to corner and catch the squawking hen.

"Give you a two year subscription if it's all right with you," he tells the farmer.

"Yep," says the farmer, "it's all right with me if it's all right with the neighbors. She," he continues, looking at the hen, "don't belong to me."

In those twenty-five years the publishers saw good times and bad. Though many a farmer lost his ranch, the California Cultivator aided hundreds of others in surviving the crash. Many a discouraged farmer has trudged up the office steps seeking solace from his troubles. Always the staff lent an attentive ear and a helping hand.

Today there are two partners. Frank Ironmonger passed away in May, 1946. Judd Yetter is president. Jack Klein is vice-president and Managing Editor. H. E. Stone is a lady. "Harriotte," Secretary and Treasurer, a most capable business woman, has been with the "Cultivator" for many years. The staff consists of Joe Crosby, Associate Editor, Marie T. Walsh, Assistant Editor, Marie A. Turner, Household Editor and P. W. Harries, Poultry Editor. Some two dozen well known ranchers with a flare for writing are regular contributors. At least a dozen people take care of advertising and circulation and even more work in the composing room.

Judd H. Yetter, a Kansas farm boy, grew up, so to speak, publishing a farm magazine. His early day training was under that famous mid-West senator, Arthur Capper. His job on the old Kansas Farmer was that of Circulation Manager. That may have been his title but his job included everything that his boss, Editor Capper, could dream up.

Perhaps one of his most outstanding coups was back in 1913 when he single-handedly,

Girl Of Golden West Contest Goes Into Final Stages

All Native Son Supervising District Deputies should by this time have seen that their candidate for the Girl of the Golden West has been chosen and that her name is in to the Regional Chairman by November 15, reports James T. Ritchey, general chairman of the Tournament of Roses Float Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

The Regional Chairman must have completed his regional contest, and have his candidate entered and advise General Chairman Ritchey at the close of November, if possible. The General Chairman will advise the Regional Chairman when and where to present his candidate for the final contest to choose the Girl of the Golden West, who, with her attendants, will ride on the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Tournament of Roses Parade, New Year's Day at Pasadena.

The December issue of the Grizzly Bear will outline plans for the Grand Banquet and Ball at Pasadena, New Year's Eve., at which the proclamation of the Girl of the Golden West and her four attendants will be made.

Native Sons

Grand President's Notes

By Walter H. Odemar
Grand President, NSGW

This is the month wherein one day is particularly set aside to give thanks for our many blessings. We who were born in, and all who have the opportunity to live in California have much to be thankful for.

We should not only give thanks on one day of the year, but should continually realize and, in our own several ways, appreciate and be thankful for the opportunity and blessings that are ours. When Thanksgiving Day comes this year, in addition to thanking our God for our multiple blessings, we should give an outward expression of our thanks by attempting to assist those in our midst who are not as fortunate as we.

All Native Sons know that our accepted charity is the Homeless Children work, but so few know and appreciate the good that it does, not only for the children and the adopting parents, but for the community as a whole. Not one of those whose adoption we have supervised has ever, within our knowledge, come before any Court for disciplinary action. Surely this is a record for which we can be proud and thankful.

Let us all answer the request of the Homeless Children Committee and show our appreciation for our own individual blessings by immediately sending a Thanksgiving donation to the Homeless Children Committee. Each of the members of the Native Sons of the Golden West will receive a letter from me on this matter, with which will be included a return envelope. Do not throw it away, but use it for our most worthy cause and make your gift with the true Thanksgiving Spirit.

Thanks to Brother Earl Warren, of Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, I have changed my occupation and therefore have closed my offices at 458 South Spring Street, and will hereafter be found wherever Los Angeles County might provide space for the several new Courts created by the last session of the Legislature. It is therefore requested that all future mail to me be sent to my home address, which is 166 North Poinsettia Place, Los Angeles 36, California.

Historic Marker Dedicated At Shaw's Flat

Dedication of an historic marker across from the Mississippi House, as a memorial to the pioneers of Shaws Flat was presented Sunday, October 5, by officers of Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West by officers of Tuolumne Parlor of Sonora.

Approximately 100 persons attended the ceremonies which were distinguished by the speech of Walter H. Odemar of Los Angeles, Grand President of the NSGW, who spoke of the discovery of gold in Shaws Flat in 1850 and the resultant settlement of the community.

The Grand President said in part: "Shortly after 1850 there was $100,000 worth of building in Shaws Flat which was named for Mandeville Shaw who died in New Jersey in 1866. . . ." Odemar stated that according to the records of the mint, $6,000,000 in gold dust and nuggets was taken from the ground that is known as Shaws Flat.

Another speaker was John Ratto, who now owns the Mississippi House, who explained some of the construction details.

Committee members of Tuolumne Parlor were responsible for the construction, out of local stone, of the marker, because the State Highway Department could not build markers off the main highway.

Members of the committee were Max Just, chairman, Chas. Golob, Richard Honey, Ed Dambacher, Fred Byers, Harry and James Kane, Oakie Queirolo and James Bucci.

R. W. Muller, the day's chairman and past president of Tuolumne Parlor, closed the dedicatory ceremonies with the hope that other local organizations would take it upon themselves to commemorate other historic spots in the county.

Other Grand Officers of Native Sons of the Golden West present were: R. G. Power, Junior Past Grand President; Walter N. Bailey, Grand First Vice President; John T. Regan, Grand Secretary; Philip C. Wilkins, Grand Trustee; David W. Stuart, Grand Trustee; Emmet P. Joy, Grand Historian.

Miss Doris Treat, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, officially unveiled the marker before the dedication.

Chas. Golob, President of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144, was a tireless worker in handling all of the details of arrangements for the affair.

Grand President Doris Treat Visits Ivy Parlor

Grapes and grape leaves formed the decorative motif for the formal meeting of Ivy Parlor No. 88, Lodi, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Wednesday evening, October 1, when Doris Treat of San Andreas, Grand President, made her official visit.

A dinner at El Charro preceded the meeting in IOOF Hall where large horns of plenty filled with grapes were placed at each station. The Grand President was escorted to a seat of honor in a simulated grape arbor in the center of the floor. The escort team was made up of eight members who carried arrangements of manzanita and grapes.

Under the direction of Gwendolyn Fisher, the escort team included Genevieve Hughes, Mildred Moore, Phyllis Landback, Lorraine Soucie, Harriet Salomon, Henrietta Savio, Josephine Sweet and Edith Stoops.

Several grand officers were present, and responded to their introductions with brief remarks. Among them were Grand Trustee Henrietta Toothaker of Woodland Parlor, Doris Gerrish, grand outside sentinel of Elk Grove; Harriet Welsh, supervising district deputy president of Stockton; and Maggie White, deputy grand president of Manteca.

As each grand officer was escorted to the altar by the marshal, Ethel Hemphill, she was presented with a basket of choice grapes attractively wrapped in cellophane. The presentation to the grand president, made by Gwendolyn Fisher, was a basket of grapes with money concealed in the wrapping. The grapes were all especially packed by Ayra Flanders.

The Grand President spoke on California and registered her approval of the activities reported by Ivy Parlor. Gwendolyn Fisher, history and landmarks chairman, reported on the marker placed at the City Hall and the relics in the lobby of the Hotel Lodi.

Addie Woods, civic participation chairman, reported on the "Tally Ho" coach that was entered in the Festival parade. Other reports were by Virginia Stahl, homeless children chairman; Harriet Salomon, scrapbook chairman, and Lulu Mae Gregg, on the doll project.

Rain Fails to Stop Picnic Of Native Daughters

Sunday, September 21, the Native Daughters of Pasadena held their picnic, in spite of threatening weather. The picnic was planned at Washington Park, Altadena, for 3:30 p. m., but when heavy rain drops started to dampen the out-of-doors, as well as Native Daughters optimism, at 2 p. m. every Native Daughter got busy. Pasadena phone lines became momentarily congested and within one hour plans were rearranged. The American Legion Hall on North Venido was secured and all the Native Daughters were advised. The picnic got off on scheduled time. Approximately 70 attended. Many of the Native Daughters husbands and children were present; fine food loaded every table to breaking point.

The committee in charge was Kay Weaver, Francis Vail and Wilma Larkey. Each Native Daughter was to bring one main dish; however, each fearing the other would not have enough, brought two or more dishes, which accounted for the over-abundance of eats. Also present were Louise Cash, Past President from San Gabriel; Mary Miller, S.D.D.G.P., her son, David; and mother, Mrs. Alphi Mable Bach, District Deputy Grand President.

In helping Montebello celebrate their Pioneer Day festival on September 27, the parlor entered a beautifully decorated float in the parade.

Financial Secretary Vivian Deering is leaving for Idaho, taking a newly adopted baby with her. While it will be a great loss to the parlor, we wish her the best of luck.

On October 29, during the Grand President's visit, the parlor will initiate five candidates, and on the following night will hold a Halloween dance.

The parlor always enjoys a large attendance due in part to the bulletin "Whose Who" put out by Vida Wells, which seems to keep the members on their toes.

Los Angeles Parlor To Hold Dinner And Bazaar

An Italian dinner and bazaar will be held by Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, NDGW, Saturday evening, November 15 at 1828 Oak Street, Mrs. Louise Crawford, president, announced.

Dinner service will commence at 5:30 p. m. and will be open to the public, according to Mrs. Edna Neikirk, homeless children chairman, who said proceeds from the dinner will aid her committee in continuing its work.

Booths at the bazaar will offer for sale a wide variety of merchandise, including hand-embroidered linens and tea-towels, home-made candies and food, aprons, art goods and varied "knick-nacks."

Mrs. Genevieve McKinley, chairman of the bazaar, said money raised from the sale will go to the parlor's general fund. She will be assisted by Mesdames Rowena Johnstone, Emma Rose, Georgia Hart, Thelma Meek, Ruth Hoffman, Bernice Setterberg, Miss Juliette De Nubila and others.

Golden Gate Parlor Drill Team Has Busy Schedule

Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, San Francisco, had a busy and exciting month in October. On October 13 the chair officers, with Lorene Perazzo as chairman, entertained all past presidents of the Parlor. Monday evening, October 27, the Parlor held its annual Halloween party with prizes going for the funniest and most original costume.

The drill team of Golden Gate Parlor is going strong this term, winning a cup for second place in competition for the best drill team in the Admission Day Parade at Long Beach. On October 5 they took part in the parade at Pittsburg and were also in the Columbus Day Parade at San Francisco. Miriam Bagnator is captain of the team.

San Gabriel Valley Parlor Bulletin Takes the Orchids

Among the bulletins of the various Native Daughter Parlors received the Grizzly Bear office the orchids this month go to San Gabriel Valley No. 281 for its October issue of "The San Gabriel Belles." Consisting of four mimeographed pages, the little news sheet, edited by Violet Lutzow, gives a complete account of the hard work that went on behind the scenes in designing and building the float which won San Gabriel Native Sons and Daughters the Sweepstakes award in the Admission Day Parade at Long Beach.

A complete outline of Parlor activities for the month is given in an interesting way, which enables every member to keep in touch with what is being done even though she may not be able to attend all meetings. Such a bulletin can not help but contribute much to the success of a parlor.

Angelita Parlor Loses Valued Member

She was a former organizer in the Parlor and the mother of the Parlor's president, Mrs. Elizabeth Fletcher. A native of Rich Bar, California, she was 72 years of age. Internment was in Meadow Valley Cemetery, near Quincy.

CALIFORNIANA NATIVE DAUGHTERS DEDICATE FAMED SAN RAFAEL ADOBE IN GLENDALE

Editor's Note: Marking of historic spots in our State is not only one of the sacred duties of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, but serves to remind others that both great Orders are a vital part of California. With proper planning any Parlor of either Order can not only fulfill its obligation to its community, but secure much valuable publicity for its members and the Orders by sponsoring a public marking of some place that played an important part in the history of the State. Such activity does much to encourage others to join the ranks of live and growing Parlors.

The news article in the Glendale News-Press by George S. Goshorn following the marking sponsored by Californiana Parlor Sunday, September 28, dedicating the Ranchito San Rafael adobe, is an example of the fame that can come to a Parlor. The story was well illustrated with pictures of those taking part in the marking. We reprint the article.

Assembled outdoors in mingled sun and shade under huge oaks, men and women devoted to preserving California landmarks and keeping alive the history of the early days of Spanish and Mexican dominion, joined in ceremonies Sunday afternoon, September 28, dedicating the Ranchito San Rafael adobe and the Gen. Andres Pico oak tree, both at 2231 Bonita, as a California landmark.

The bronze plaque placed beneath the historic old oak by Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, of Los Angeles, carries the following legend:

Wording on Plaque

"San Rafael Rancho first granted to Jose Maria Verdugo Oct. 20, 1784. Catalina adobe built about 1828 and Gen. Andres Pico oak tree camp site before he surrendered to Gen. John C. Fremont 1847. Marked by Californiana Parlor No. 247, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Sept. 28, 1947."

The earliest date of erection of the adobe building, speakers said, was apparently indicated in a will by Jose Verdugo in 1828 in which he gave the casa "of two rooms" to his daughter Catalina, showing the structure to be standing in that year.

Preceding and following the formal program, visitors streamed through the old adobe casa, admiring the fine state of preservation of the building and the care given in details of any necessary restoration. The landscaping of the grounds, too, won much favorable comment.

Romantic Atmosphere

Adding to the romantic atmosphere of old Spanish days was the sight of many early California costumes, many worn by members of the parlor and their guests, others attiring dancers and musicians.

Three past grand presidents of the Native Daughters organization for the entire State were in attendance, Mrs. Louis S. Hansen of Glendale, Miss Grace S. Stoermer and Mrs. Clarence E. Noerenberg, both of Los Angeles.

Among guests were Alfred Jones, County Surveyor and Engineer, who is chairman of the County Historical Landmarks Committee; Eldred Meyer, past grand president of the Native Sons; Dr. W. R. Harriman, chairman of the Los Angeles Centennial Committee; Roger Sterrett, president of the Southern California Historical Society; A. J. Lorenz, past president of Los Fiesteros.

Dr. Owen C. Coy, director of the California

State Historical Association and professor of history at U.S.C., gave the main address. He said the San Rafael Rancho grant to Verdugo was the first of the Spanish land grants in California and was followed by a handful of others. Then, when Mexico took over, land grants were made by the hundreds. The rancho contained more than 36,000 acres and extended from what is now Burbank to Pasadena, from Los Angeles to La Canada. The grant was made in 1784.

'Hallowed Ground'

"This spot where we now stand," said Dr. Coy, "is hallowed ground so far as the history of that period in California is concerned."

One of the big tasks facing the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, he said, is to make a tie-in between the dry historical facts and dates on the one hand, and the human associations of the period which inject life and understanding into history.

Roger Sterrett, head of the Southern California Historical Society, gave a word picture of California in the time of Jose Verdugo. He commented that in the division of the rancho after Verdugo's death, his daughter Catalina received the choice of the 18,000-acre section in which Glendale lies.

Region of Beauty

"It was a region of indescribable beauty and possibilities," Sterrett said, "but it is sad to have to record the fact that the owner, Catalina, never saw her possessions. She had long been blind as the result of illness. She died in 1871."

During the program the chairman introduced the only descendant of the Verdugos in attendance, Mrs. Dora Verdugo Bullock.

The program was opened by the president of Californiana Parlor, Mrs. John M. Lawson, who presented the chairman of the day, Mrs. Carpenter. The invocation was given by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brouger jr. Judge Kenneth White extended the greetings of the community to the visitors.

Ceremony Under Oak

Dr. Ernest G. Bashor, owner of the property, following the introduction of members of his family, called on a large number of friends who, he said, had given invaluable aid in his plan to restore and improve the adobe site preparatory to its designation as a California historical landmark.

In a ceremony under the Pico oak, the plaque was unveiled by Mrs. Dexter Monroe, the presentation being by Mrs. Eric Lange, past president, and acceptance being taken by Dr. Bashor. The oak, speakers said, sheltered Gen. Pico before he surrendered to Gen. Fremont in 1847.

While the adobe site is now a California landmark and will be the scene of many visits and tours by groups interested in the history of the state, it is private property, not public, and to be viewed only with permission, Dr. Bashor said in reply to inquiries.

it was best to postpone the founding of the mission San Buenaventura.

Finally in a determined effort to develop the mission and its wonderful potentialities Father Lasuen decided to make a survey to determine what should be done. He noted that the numerous streams and ditches surrounding the mission periodically overflowed flooding their lands, the last time washing out the entire first year's crop. So he proposed moving the mission five miles north on higher land in the middle of a large grove of oak trees. Three years passed before his recommendation was favorably acted on.

The attitude of one Padre is indicated in this extract from a letter written by Father Lasuen on April 23, 1774. "I will have completed ten years in the Indian Missionary Service, five in the Sierra Gorda, Mexico and five in the missions of lower California. I would not decline to continue to serve, but I should prefer to retire to the College, if there were a sufficient number of Fathers in the missions. Father Presendente Serra left yesterday for San Carlos, after refusing my petition to retire. Therefore, I leave it to your Paternity. I beg you to do me the favor of sending a whole outfit of clothing; for, inasmuch as I have not received a single stipend during the five years of my administration of Mission San Francisco de Borja, I came from that wretched peninsula altogether without underwear and sandals. I know the reason was that the College found it impossible to send them. Perhaps the deep love of the Indians for me resulted from this want of clothing, if similarity be a motive of love I indeed resemble them very much in so little clothing."

After five years of uphill struggle against floods, famine and the soldiers who were sent out to help them, word was received at the mission to move one-half league north to a better location and a fresh start. The temporary mission Vieja was abandoned and work was begun on the present building of Mission San Gabriel.

Editor's Note: Of interest to all Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West is the letter below to Harold F. Parkhurst of Riverside Parlor No. 299, NSGW, from Headquarters Twelfth Air Force, March Field. It gives an interesting sidelight on the parade as others saw us.

September 18, 1947.

Mr. Harold F. Parkhurst,
5570 Magnolia Avenue,
Riverside, California.

Dear Mr. Parkhurst:

Here are some photographs of our joint efforts in connection with the Admission Day parade at Long Beach on September 9. I thought you might like to have them for record or as souvenirs.

We at March Field were as happy, I am sure, as the Native Sons of the Golden West, over the success of the float we entered jointly.

Sincerely yours,

H. G. REEDER II.

Lt. Col., A. C. Public Information Office.

Hon. Raymond V. Darby, Chairman,
Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County,
Los Angeles 12, California.

My Dear Mr. Chairman:

Californiana Parlor No. 247, Native Daughters of Golden West, notes with gratification the action of your honorable board in safeguarding the employees and institutions of Los Angeles County by instituting the loyalty pledge.

We are confident that all loyal Americans will welcome the opportunity to share the responsibilities implied in the oath of office which in substance all ranking government officials—including the President of the United States and members of Congress—take with pride: "To protect and defend the United States of America against all enemies, foreign and domestic."

Sincerely,

EMMA B. LAWSON, President,

against the doubts of even his associates, organized the Kansas Farmer Wheat Club.

Times were tough in 1913. The wheat country had seen a series of drought years. In fourteen of the northwest counties of Kansas the farmers were in such stricken straits that they could not buy seed.

It was Yetter who finally reached the ear of the governor of Kansas. A voluntary subscription of sixty thousand dollars was loaned by banks and business houses all over the state. Carloads of seed wheat pulled into the sidings of country towns. Farmers got their three peck per acre seed allotment. It took 80,000 bushels of wheat to plant 100,000 acres. The rest is history. Kansas had a super wheat crop and 1914 marked the beginning of World War I and $1.00 a bushel wheat. Yetter had hit a million dollar jack-pot.

Jack Klein, formerly an editor of the Rural World, came on the 'sheet' as Associate Editor. He was everywhere and covered everything. Since joining the Cultivator staff he has traveled over a half million miles interviewing thousands of farmers across the state in the interest of better farming. It was Jack who spark plugged the state's publicity campaign against foot and mouth disease. As a former livestock farmer of dairy cattle, hogs and poultry, Jack Klein knew his stuff. He is a graduate of Armour Institute of Technology and the University of Chicago. It was only natural that he should become a partner when William Wood passed away.

In the words of the congenial head of California's foremost agricultural periodical:

We are grateful to the pioneers who led the way, built the homes, endured the hardships, planted the first crops, showed the first productivity of the soil and carried the torch to the present day achievements of California. We owe a great debt of gratitude to the pioneers who crossed the plains in covered wagons, fought the Indians, came around the Horn in sailing ships, worked under adverse pioneering conditions and established this great agricultural empire. Therefore, we humbly dedicate this 70th Anniversary issue of the California Cultivator as a printed tribute to those never-to-be-forgotten pioneers."

Grand Trustee Appointed To High State Post

1837 he was appointed "Captain of the Port" by M. G. Vallejo.

In 1847 W. S. Clark built a structure extending over the rocks southeast of Telegraph Hill to serve as a landing place for ships. It was named Clark's Point, now Broadway and Battery Streets. A year later, in September, 1948, two short wharves were constructed at the foot of Broadway and Clay Streets.

Upon the discovery of gold, immigrants were crowding in from all over the world, which necessitated the expansion of the harbor, so wharves were hastily built to accommodate the fleets of shipping.

The first well-constructed wharf was built in 1849, known as Central Wharf and located where Commercial Street is at present. The North Point Dock, near Telegraph Hill, was a historic landmark. The construction started in June, 1853 and the owners were Adams and Company. Other wharves were built during this period; some were Pacific Street Wharf, Ryan's and Meiggs.

In 1867 W. J. Lewis was appointed engineer by the Board of State Harbor Commissioners for the construction of a sea wall. In 1868 the board was operating with only ten of the wharves, while the remainder were held by private owners at monthly rentals. As time went on, San Francisco continued to grow into a great metropolis. California was the land of gold and people came each year by the thousands.

Today, atop Telegraph Hill, one can look over the historic Bay of San Francisco and see a sea port to be well proud of.

San Francisco Parlor, NSGW, Organized on West Side of Telegraph Hill

In the year 1884 a small group of enthusiastic Native Sons, who were reared in North Beach, met at Gilberts Grocery, at the corner of Union and Dupont Streets (the latter street is now known as Grand Avenue) and decided to organize a Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Following this meeting, on December 11, 1884, San Francisco Parlor No. 49, so named in honor of the city in which it was founded, was officially instituted by Grand President John A. Steinback and Past Grand President Charles A. Decker. The institution occurred at Universal Hall on the north side of Pacific Avenue, between Powell and Stockton Streets. J. J. Grief was elected its first president; John Glover, secretary. Charter Member Frank Marini, the first treasurer, still holds the office of treasurer as he did sixty-two years ago. Universal Hall was destroyed in the fire of 1906.

The vicinity of Telegraph Hill was the beginning of the City of San Francisco.

Homeless Children Benefit Fiesta November 22

A colorful dance fiesta will be held Saturday night, November 22, at the Embassy Auditorium in Los Angeles for the benefit of the Homeless Children Committee. The program will be staged by Senora Trinidad Goni, one of California's foremost exponents of the Spanish dance. She will present a company of over 70 people in a brilliant program of Spanish, Mexican and Latin American dances. Also taking part will be the Los Fiesters de Los Angeles, well known dance group.

As Senora Goni and Company are donating their services all proceeds, over and above expenses, will go to the Homeless Children. A committee headed by Harry Davis and Ann Schiebusch are working hard on this affair and should have the support of every Native Son and Daughter. Tickets are $2.40, $1.80 and $1.20 and may be secured from Mrs. Florence Grass, Ticker Chairman, at 3452 West 59th Place, Los Angeles. Other committee members are Grace Norton, Edna Naikirk, Ella Steinbeck, Hortense Hill, Shirley Kinet, Helene Reed, Delmar Bagley and Frank Ruiz. Maxine Porter is in charge of the programs which should also net some profit.

Says Chairman Davis: "I am sure all who attend this show will be more than satisfied. You will do your bit for a most worthy cause as well as see two hours of some of the best Latin American entertainment available, so let's all work to pack the Embassy on Saturday night, November 22. The Homeless Children work is our Charity so let's support it."

A number of well known Native Sons and Daughters have already purchased tickets and plan to attend this gala affair. A group of our Grand officers will also be in attendance.

Portsmouth Plaza, just south of the historic hill, was the scene of the first settlement of the great city of the west. San Francisco, cradled at the tip of a charming peninsula, is a magnificent city overlooking the silvery waters of a bay surrounded by natural beauty.

CALIFORNIA FINANCE

By A. HAROLD NOON

The world's most powerful FM radio station is now under construction atop Mount Diablo in Contra Costa county, across the bay from San Francisco.

Call letters of the new station are KSBR.

With a transmitter power of 50,000 watts and an effective radiated power of 250,000, Radio Diablo broadcasts will cover most of California.

Financing of the new station, which is expected to be in operation before the end of the year, was handled by Wilson, Johnson and Higgins, San Francisco and Oakland underwriting and investment securities firm.

O. H. Brown, an official of Eitel-McCullough Company, vacuum tube manufacturers of San Bruno, is president of Radio Diablo. J. A. McCullough is vice-president and W. W. Eitel, treasurer.

Brown, Eitel and McCullough have long been identified with the development of radio and broadcasting.

Scores of nationally known manufacturers want to buy from California manufacturers products that they now have to buy in the East and ship here.

The Ford Motor Car Company reports it has placed orders with 115 California manufacturers. But, Ford, has millions yet to spend before reaching its ultimate goal of buying 90 million dollars worth of parts a year in California.

Firestone Tire and Rubber Company wants to buy 25 specific items, now purchased in the East, besides many other products for its chain of retail stores.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck are anxious to increase purchases of California-made merchandise.

Standard Oil Company of California declares that a majority of its business is placed with western industry. Standard, however, lists millions of dollars worth of purchases it would like to make on the West Coast.

The First California Company, underwriting and investment securities firm with branch offices throughout California and Nevada, has issued a beautifully illustrated brochure, "Two Busy Years for Kaiser-Frazer" for distribution to the public. K-F estimate 1947 profits at $10,000,000 or more. The K-F brochure may be had by writing to First California Company, 300 Montgomery street, San Francisco, or the company's Los Angeles office at 510 South Spring Street.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the board of General Motors Corporation, discounts the possibility of a serious depression in the United States. And Sloan, head of one of the largest and most efficient manufacturing companies in the world, should know what he is talking about. For many years Sloan has kept his fingers on the pulse of business trends and his record for accuracy as a prognosticator is close to 100 per cent.

"I haven't any feeling at all that we are going to have a serious recession in this country," said Mr. Sloan. "I have measured my point of view largely by the activities of our durable and perhaps our semi-durable goods especially the durable goods dealing with capital investments."

Mr. Sloan said the nation doesn't need to worry about anything but perhaps a minor recession involving certain adjustments in prices and production where they are out of line.

As for General Motors, he said, company executives have the greatest conviction that G.M.C. could sell all the cars and trucks it could make in the next two years and that other car producers are in the same shape.

All the capital goods industries are well booked up for a long time to come, he said. "You can't have a depression when the capital goods industries are busy."

Cabrillo Parlor No. 114 Celebrates 60th Birthday

With President Walter E. Schreiner as M. C., seventy-five members with their wives marked the sixtieth birthday of Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventura, with a dinner at Ted Russell Club House.

The Parlor orchestra; Bros. Morris Burdick, Geo. Pacheco Sr., John Warwick and Geo. Pacheco, Jr. furnished music during the evening. Miss Viola Daane contributed two dance groups which were greatly enjoyed.

While there was no set speaking program, President Schreiner called on Bros. Peters, Harwood, Grosom, C. Feraud, and Morrison for early day Parlor experiences.

A very fine dinner "a la Itallienne," was prepared and served by Mesdames J. G. Cardona, Asuna, Daane, and Maldonado, the diners showing their appreciation by eating everything "up," right down to the last meat ball.

FLASH!—According to Rep. Claire Engle the postoffice will issue a commemorative three-cent stamp to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the discovery of gold at Coloma. Engle said that the department hopes to have the stamp ready for issue by Jan. 24. The stamp will show a miner swinging a pick. First sale will be made at Coloma, El Dorado County.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

AS COMPILED FROM
THE FILES OF THE
GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

Christmas Day, 1872 had the usual observance throughout California. A heavy storm began December 22, and continued throughout Christmas Eve and Day. As rain was badly needed, it brought good cheer to both farmers and miners.

At Sacramento an innovation was introduced by a half-hundred lads who, equipped with tin horns, serenaded prominent citizens in their homes Christmas Eve, waiting to be rewarded before they would move along.

The Christmas poultry market in San Francisco was overstocked with shipments from Iowa and other middle west states, and tons of poultry were dumped into the bay after the birds became unsalable. At San Jose there was a scarcity, and dressed turkeys sold at 40c a pound.

The rainfall for the season at the end of the month was 8.15 inches. Another storm came in on the last day of the month and year, and prospects of a heavy rainfall were good.

Siskiyou County and Northern California citizens were greatly excited over a reported uprising of Indians near the Oregon boundary line. It was stated that eleven settlers had been killed, houses burned and stock appropriated. United States troops were being sent to the scene of disturbance.

December 12 the citizens of Yreka wired Governor Newton Booth for aid in arms and ammunition, to equip volunteers in suppressing the uprising Modocs. In a skirmish December 21 two soldiers were killed and five wounded. More troops were being sent.

A big sandstorm prevailed in San Diego County December 9, that obscured the sun and interfered with the working of the telegraph wires.

The Empire mine of Grass Valley, Nevada County, cleaned up $19,000 from a twelve-day run.

Samuel Brannan, in cleaning up his real estate holdings at Calistoga, Napa County, presented a town lot to each of seventy-seven citizens of that town.

Fifteen acres of land in Los Angeles, to be used for a Southern Pacific railroad depot, were bought for $75,000 by citizens of the city and donated to the company.

James Van Ness, State Senator from San Luis Obispo County, died December 28, aged 64 years. Judge Van Ness came to San Francisco in 1850 and took a leading part in the public affairs of the city during the '50s; he was mayor for two years, and gave his name to Van Ness avenue, a street that became famed because its width stopped the westward sweep of the great earthquake fire in 1906.

Nelson Underwood undertook during the '60s to manufacture diamonds. He used large iron globes for the purpose, and secretly worked in a factory established in Washington, Yolo County. The venture was not a success, and an iron glove three and one-half feet in diameter and weighing 4,700 pounds, taken for debt by A. Goodman of Sacramento, was this month broken up by blasting with powder and sold as scrap iron.

A number of married women of Vallejo, Solano County, held a meeting and resolved that they would in the future only dance in quadrilles. Their object in barring round dances was to set a good example for their husbands to follow.

Lupesina, a squaw, died in Monterey December 15, aged 116 years. She saw Junipero Serra landed at Monterey, and was baptized by him and helped to build the Carmelo church. She had shrunk until less than four feet high, and was shriveled like a mummy.

James Kenovan, a pedestrian of note, at Vallejo December 12 began the effort to walk and dance for thirty-six hours without rest, for the benefit of an orphans' home there. He succeeded.

John Sheppard, a cattleman on a range near Truckee, Nevada County, had killed since July 1, by trapping and shooting them, seventeen bears, most of them being grizzlies.

At Whiskeytown, Shasta County, two Chinamen went to the cabin of a Portuguese miner, shot him, and robbed the cabin of all the valuables they could find. This was one of the rare instances when Chinamen robbed a white man.

James McCrary, a desperado of some notoriety who had killed several men in Nevada, had a quarrel December 24 in Visalia with Charles Allen over a trivial matter and shot and killed him. The citizens organized a vigilance committee which, an hour after the affray, proceeded to the jail, overpowered the officers, and took McCrary to a bridge near the town and hung him from a stringer.

Conrad Beckman, a supervisor of Placer County and prominent citizen of the Forest Hill section, was going home the night of December 24. His lantern light was blown out, and in the darkness he walked off the bank of a hydraulic claim. He fell 100 feet and was killed.

A. Rector, living on Eagle Creek, Shasta County, heard a pig squealing and on going to ascertain the cause of the trouble, found a California lion making away with it. Rector's dogs caused the lion to climb a tree, and he then shot and killed it.

An old rancher applied at the ticket office at Niles, Alameda County for a ticket to Oakland for himself and his shepherd dog that he had with him. On being informed that the dog could not go in the coach with him, but must go to the baggage car, he indignantly declared: "I'll be damned if he does! My dog is as good as I am. You are nothing but a lot of stuck up aristocrats. I'll go to Oakland with my dog afoot." And he did.

One of the earliest photos known of the Los Banos May Day Celebrations, taken at Canal Farm, Los Banos, on May 1, 1902. Henry Miller of the famous Miller and Lux Ranch, started the May Day Celebrations in 1890 to give his new town of Los Banos a good send off. The celebrations were continued through the years until the death of Henry Miller in 1916. The Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion both tried to carry on the tradition. In 1938 the Native Sons tackled the job and today the Los Banos May Day Celebration ranks as one of the biggest events of the State, drawing as high as 30,000 people annually to the event honoring California's Cattle King.

Henry Miller's Monument

BY RALPH LEROY MILLIKEN

THE famous Los Banos May Day Celebrations given by the late "Cattle King," Henry Miller, had their origin May 1st, 1890. The railroad had just been finished as far as Canal Farm and the new town of Los Banos started. "Rawhide" Tanner thought there should be a "gathering of the people." Tanner was the head Superintendent for Miller & Lux. It was getting towards spring and Tanner felt that Henry Miller's new town needed a good send off. "What would be better," pondered the Superintendent, "than a big celebration on May Day?"

Tanner took the matter up with Henry Miller who promptly ordered his superintendent to go ahead and put on a real, first class cattleman's picnic,—free barbecue, free bread, free cheese and free coffee. The Superintendent was told to invite the whole countryside and to charge the expense to him. Thus began Henry Miller's May Day Celebrations, May 1st, 1890.

The largest crowd that had ever met on the West Side gathered at Canal Farm. There were five hundred people present. Henry Miller himself was there in person to superintend the barbecue and to meet his old friends. It was a great reunion. Henry Miller enjoyed the occasion so much and the people were so responsive that ever after, during the remainder of his life, Mr. Miller continued these May Day celebrations. Now they have become an event peculiar to Los Banos. No other town feeds its guests free of charge. Salinas has its Rodeo, San Juan Bautista its Pageant, Pasadena its Tournament of Roses, but Los Banos alone, with its May Day celebrations, provides—in keeping with the traditions of the old time cattle range—sizzling barbecue steaks free to all its visitors.

There had been other May Day celebrations in the community almost from the time the pioneers first settled on the West Side of Merced County. In 1874 the Grange at Badger Flat united with the Grange at Cottonwood in putting on the first public May Day gathering. Five years later in 1879 the two Good Templar Lodges combined to celebrate May Day. In 1880 and again in 1881 the proprietors of the old Butterfield Overland Stage hotel at the San Luis Gonzaga Ranch put on May Day celebrations that were the talk of the time.

In 1882 the people of Cottonwood stepped forward with a May Day celebration all their own. Again in 1887 the Good Templar lodge celebrated May Day at Central Point. In 1888 Henry Hoffman of the San Luis Ranch put on a celebration at his hotel that featured a balloon ascension. The Hollister string band furnished the music for the ball.

Dancing began in the hay loft as soon as the band arrived in the forenoon and continued until midnight. The immense square barn swayed and trembled so much with the rhythm of the dancing throng on the floor above that many on the ground floor feared that the building would go down.

With the inauguration of the Henry Miller picnics at Canal Farm all the other May Day celebrations faded out. No other organizations could compete with him with his free barbecue. And his entertainment of the crowds differed from the other pioneer celebrations. For excitement there was the greased pig that was always turned loose among the crowd. It was usually a rather thin animal that could run well. It was thoroughly soaked with grease and kept shut up in a box until the time came to let it out among the crowd. The boy who could catch the pig could claim the animal as his own.

It amused the young girls immensely to see the boys scampering through the crowd endeavoring to catch and hold the slippery pig. Just when a boy thought he had a sure hold on the porker the slippery hind leg would slide through his hand and away the pig would go again. Another stunt of Henry Miller was to place a five dollar gold piece on the top of a greased pole about sixteen feet high. The first boy to succeed in climbing the pole got the gold piece at the top. Henry Miller would stand with his hat in his hand shading his eyes and enjoy the contest with all the eagerness of a race track spectator watching his favorite horse nearing the winning post.

Much uncertainty in the minds of some as to the origin of Henry Miller's May Day picnics has resulted from confusing the date of the completion of the New Canal in 1897 with the date of the extension of the Old Canal which occurred nearly twenty years earlier in 1878.

When the New Canal was completed Henry Miller gave the grandest celebration at Canal Farm that this country had ever seen. The date was July 6, 1897. Henry Miller had all his big superintendents here as his guests. Wyble, Henry Miller's greatest superintendent, came up from Bakersfield. Other superintendents were James Ogle, who built the New Canal; D. M. Rouse, in charge of the Old Canal; and D. A. Leonard, of the Dos Palos Division. Torchiana, later the Consul General of the Netherlands in San Francisco, was the superintendent of the Los Banos Division of Miller & Lux at the time, and had charge of the celebration.

Speeches were made by Rev. W. E. Phillips and by W. J. Stockton, the life long friend of Henry Miller. At the conclusion of his remarks Billy Stockton proposed three cheers for Henry Miller and the crowd gave them with such a will that the heart of Henry Miller was visibly touched.

A generation later the completion of the New Canal had become so confused with the earlier extension of the Old Canal that some erroneously reported that this celebration in honor of the completion of the New Canal took place on the occasion of the extension of the Old Canal in 1878. The true fact is that Henry Miller gave this famous celebration July 6, 1897 and not on May Day, 1878.

After the death of Henry Miller in 1916 the Chamber of Commerce of Los Banos planned to continue the May Day celebrations. Later when they had given up the undertaking as beyond their means the American Legion, following World War I, thought to sponsor the celebrations. Henry Miller used to furnish as many as twenty-five beeves for the barbecue. The American Legion soon found itself also outclassed when it came to putting on such a celebration as the Los Banos May Day picnics demanded.

It was not until 1938 that the Native Sons Parlor at Los Banos went forth as a young David to conquer the difficulties of continuing the Henry Miller May Day picnics. To Louie Sarbo goes the credit for resurrecting the defunct celebrations. When none of the other thirty members of the Parlor would back him Mr. Sarbo, standing alone, declared: "I will deposit in the bank Five Hundred Dollars of my own money as a guarantee to the Parlor against any loss!" With this assurance the members of the Parlor picked up courage and with the aid of contributions from the people of Los Banos put on a May Day celebration in the old Henry Miller tradition. It was an unqualified success and Louie Sarbo's money remained untouched.

Under the sponsorship of the Native Sons the May Day celebrations that Henry Miller started May 1, 1890 to boom his new town—LOS BANOS—have gone forward until now as many as 30,000 people are attracted to Los Banos on May Day. Visitors come from all over the state. The parades are two hours long. And the cost is mounting—nearly Fifteen Thousand Dollars a year.

These Los Banos May Day celebrations, honoring California's Cattle King, have become Los Banos' monument to Henry Miller.

Big barbecue in the City Park at Los Banos May Day Celebration in 1911. Now put on each year under sponsorship of Los Banos Native Sons of the Golden West, it is Merced County's outstanding event of the year and should serve as an inspiration to Native Sons and Daughters everywhere, as an example of what can be done if there is a will. Near the center of the photo are Wallis, Clyne and Merrett, Miller & Lux superintendents at that time.

Housing Shortage In Berkeley, 1873

BY CLARA M. BARTON
Sequoia Parlor No. 272, NDGW

WHEN the University of California opened in early September, 1873, the business section of the town consisted of a French restaurant at the end of the street car line on Telegraph Avenue and Allston Way, and one lone, but very much over-crowded hotel which could accommodate not more than 20 persons. However, University students invaded the hostelry, numbering 30 in all, and found places to sleep in broom closets, rest rooms for the employees and secluded corners in the lobby. The hotel manager, a surly man, resented the intruders' actions, but did nothing. Although, the restaurant served a breakfast consisting of a cup of warm coffee, a slice of slightly scorched bread and a dish of very sour fruit, charging 50c for same, it was doing a huge business. The luncheons and dinners cost 60c and 75c according to what you ordered and they were far from being appetizing and substantial.

A week after the University had been officially opened, President Daniel Coit Gilman offered flattering inducements to any one who would open a coffee stand of some sorts, near the Campus and two young men with much ambition, but no cash, considered the inducements and opened up what they called "Student's Friend" and announced in bold black letters on an imposing sign, "A University Parlor and Coffee Saloon, We serve coffee at all hours up to 10 p. m." Needless to say, the place was literally mobbed the first day it was opened and Gilman was the first customer!

The arrival of students from all parts of the state made the housing problem a serious matter. Houses with rooms available were as scarce as hen's teeth and the houses which were opened for roomers were either too far from the Campus, or had a questionable reputation. Those living in the East Bay found transportation to and from the University by horseback, a surrey or on the good old bike.

A young chap by the name of Pat Coughlin, spent several days making numerous personal calls upon every housewife within walking distance of the Campus. After his second stop, he came to the conclusion that he had acquired the answer to the many refusals to students who had asked for a room during the school year.

One woman said in no uncertain terms, "Why should I rent my spare rooms I am a leader in Berkeley's society and my dear husband is very active in the business world. It would lower my reputation. Too, what would my friends say if I did such a thing? It's a horrible idea, my boy! A horrible idea! It simply isn't being done. I have a perfect house, and it is respectable, young man and why should I, of all people, lower my standards of living! Good day, my boy, good day!" And Pat saw the large oak door slowly close in his face.

Here was the so-called society leader of Berkeley's life utterly ignoring the pleas of the students for a place to live. There were many "spare rooms," plenty of "guest rooms" and several unused attics, but not one of these would be available for those who came to the University to get the foundation of becoming a leader in the American government. But Pat didn't give up. He had been a law student, and decided that now was the time

Beautiful patio of the famous Desert Inn, Palm Springs, mecca of travelers from all parts of the world during the winter season.

Christmas On The Desert . . .

Scarlet poinsettias against adobe walls,
Shining white in the sunlight, red roofs over all.

An old woman saying her beads one by one,
As olive skinned children play in the sun.

Golden fruit hanging low on the bough,
A Mexican singing as he follows the plow.

Feathery palm trees against a blue sky,
Mocking birds trilling, dates hanging high.

Purple veiled mountains crested with snow,
Roses are blooming, soft breezes blow.

Red waves at sunset on a strange inland sea,
Where mystery and magic ever will be.

Desert sands! Gleaming, gay colors unfurled.
There's no Christmas like ours, to the ends of the world.

—FRANCES M. GEORGE.

Probably in no place in all California is the Christmas spirit so prevalent as in the towns of the desert at this festive time of the year. From millionaire mansion to the lowliest shack in the lonely wasteland the birthday of the Prince of Peace is honored, each in his own way. We know, for we have lived there and shared in the joy of the occasion. We wouldn't say that the people are any more reverent, perhaps, in many cases less so, but somehow it is different.

To begin with, though the storm clouds may roll on the coast, on the desert side of the mountains it is nearly always bright and sunny, while early Christmas morning retains the snappy cold air with which we associate Yuletide season. Then the coloring of the landscape is different. Sharp blue etched, snow-capped mountains in the distance, with the softer blues, purple and grey of the desert hills blended in.

Too, the shrubs and trees are not of bright green, but tend to run from light green to almost white in appearance. There is the misty smoketree and the white leaves of the desert holly, the blue-green of the palms, and the weird ocotilla. Miles of shifting sand dunes and the broad, simmering expanse of the Salton Sea, add enchantment to Christmas time on the desert.

Thousands leave their homes on the coast to spend Christmas in the many towns on the eastern side of the mountains. The homes are gaily decorated and in some sections, elaborate outdoor displays are erected. Adding uniqueness to the occasion is the fact that for a large part, native desert shrubs, including the desert holly and smoketree, are used in the interior decorations.

Many places hold open house. Each year, at this season of the year, the famous Desert Inn at Palm Springs has a Christmas tree celebration for all the children of the community. Last year an estimated 4500 kiddies were in attendance.

Everyone observes Christmas in some manner, although he may dwell many miles from his nearest neighbor. The Christmas tree may be a cactus plant or a lowly desert shrub, decorated with home-made ornaments, but Peace and Goodwill Towards All Mankind prevails just the same.

Scenes such as this are often seen at Christmas time. Snow-capped Mount San Jacinto gleams in desert sunlight, framed by a pair of Washingtonia filifera, palms indigenous to this part of the California desert.

South San Francisco Celebrates Armistice Day

The 28th annual banquet in commemoration of Armistice Day was held at the meeting hall of South San Francisco Parlor on Wednesday evening, November 12, with approximately three hundred members and guests in attendance.

Each year since 1919 the Parlor has celebrated the anniversary of this day on the meeting night nearest Armistice Day and members who served in World War I and World War II are the honored guests.

Chairman of the evening was Daniel Sheehan, first vice president. Thirty-four members of the Parlor were presented with twenty-five year membership emblems by Harold J. Regan, recording secretary.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Grand President Walter H. Odemar, whose theme was "Americanism." Addresses were also made by Past President Vincent Lovett who spoke for the members who served in World War I and President James A. Bailey who spoke for the members who served in World War II. Judge Preston Devine and Thomas A. Maloney, Assemblyman. Entertainment was furnished by Frank McCormack of this Parlor and Richard F. McCarthy, Past Grand President.

Huntington Park Parlor No. 294, NSGW, reports November 1 as follows on their bowling team:

"Our Native Sons H. P. 294 Bowling Team has done surprisingly well thus far. After the completion of seven weeks of play (Oct. 20) the team is in a four way tie for fourth place in a 12 team league. Last week the boys were in undisputed fourth place but the anchor man (Nick Bolotin) couldn't carry the weight of the anchor and fell down on the job. John Bernard was trying to get up a head of steam but couldn't quite make it either and only one point out of a possible four was made. This was due to C. Hoppings second high game of the night—a whopping 222. The opposing team garnering the other three. The team members and their averages are: Fred Allday, 158; Lloyd Ashcraft, 162; John Bernard, 129; Chas. Hopping, 164; Nick Bolotin, 155. The team needs two more men. One to bowl in Fred Allday's place, Fred will sub, and another sub. See team Capt. C. Hopping. The time is 7:00 P. M. Monday nights at the Compton Bowl, 1112 So. Long Beach Blvd., Compton."

Modesto Native Sons Celebrate 66th Birthday

On November 5 Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, celebrated the 66th anniversary of the original institution of the Parlor with a turkey dinner prepared and served by Chuck Boring, Bud David, Carl Lewis, Walter Crow, Ray Peck Jr., Kennan Beard and Francis Ringer. At the meeting following three new members, Fred Kennedy, Charles Whitmore and George S. O'Connor, were inducted into the Order by a Past President's initiatory team. Grand Third Vice President Edward Wren and Grand Inside Sentinel Wesley Strong representing the Grand Parlor were in attendance and addressed the members in an interesting manner. Plans were made for holding the annual Christmas party in the American Legion Kitchen on Thursday evening, December 18, with Carl Lewis in charge as general chairman. Herbert Paul and Walter Crow were appointed to arrange for a program of entertainment at the next meeting on November 19.

San Diego Bowling Team Is Winning Honors For Parlor

Chairman George Walsh of the Athletic Committee of San Diego Parlor No. 108, Native Sons, has a bowling team representing the parlor in the winter league at Tower Bowl. The team is reported in second place.

Prospects for an indoor or soft ball team for the parlor are gaining momentum, with the assurance from 12 business members of the parlor to sponsor uniforms.

The good that a bowling team or kindred athletic team can do a parlor is attested to by the fact that five new members were added to San Diego Parlor through the efforts of the bowling team.

San Diego Parlor is planning a class initiation of at least 50 members for some time in December, when it is hoped that Grand President Walter H. Odemar and his corps of Grand Officers will be present for the ceremonies.

Compton First Vice President Is Doing a Good Job

Russ Copley of Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, is little, but, "O! Mi!" Russ is first vice president and recently staged a profitable smoker for No. 273. Wednesday evening, December 3, he was in charge of the annual birthday dinner. He will also have charge of the parlor's Christmas party this year.

Long Beach Parlor Returns To Masonic Temple For Meetings

Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW, will return to the New Masonic Temple, Ninth and Locust, for its meetings beginning with December 3, it is announced by Trail Dust, the parlor's official bulletin. The meetings will be held in the Red Room on the first and third Wednesdays.

For the past several months the parlor has been meeting at the Redman's Hall on East Anaheim.

At the parlor's meeting on November 19, Maxwell Stiles, executive sports editor of the Long Beach Press-Telegram, was featured speaker. A nationally known authority on football, Stiles spoke briefly on the subject and devoted the rest of his time to a question and answer period.

Palo Alto Native Son Is New Superior Court Judge

Brother Leonard R. Avilla of Palo Alto Parlor No. 216, NSGW, was recently elevated to the Superior Court bench by Governor Earl Warren as the fourth judicial official of Santa Clara County.

Judge Avilla, a Stanford graduate, established law practice in Palo Alto, served under District Attorney John Fitzgerald as a deputy, and succeeded him after his death. As District Attorney he gained statewide prominence in his conviction of a politically strong gambling ring.

Re-elected last year by a large majority, he has earned this high promotion by his honesty and courage.

Judge Avilla, past president of Palo Alto Parlor No. 216, is now District Deputy Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Recently a large silk Bear Flag was presented to him by Palo Alto Parlor No. 216, for his court room.

His wife, Lillian Avilla, is a past president of Palo Alto Parlor No. 229, NDGW. A beautiful orchid worn during the flag presentation ceremony, was a gift from the girls of her parlor.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor Holds Lobster Feed

On Tuesday evening, December 9, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, again held one of its famous Lobster Feeds. Temporarily halted during the war, this famous occasion will in the future be presented annually to all Native Son members. The dinner was held in the Native Sons Hall, 1334½ Fifth Street, Santa Monica.

On October 21 the parlor was host at a dinner for more than 30 guests on the occasion of the parlor's 21st birthday, the affair being held at the Santa Monica Ambassador Club. Grand President Walter H. Odemar and several members of his staff were honored guests. Also honored at the dinner were charter members of Santa Monica Bay.

At another recent program members of the parlor who are Veterans of World War II, were presented with the commemorative booklets issued by the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West. At that time colored movies of the September 9th Admission Day Parade at Long Beach were shown, along with a film of the operations of the United States Army in Pacific areas during peacetime.

On November 1 Santa Monica Bay initiated the first of a series of dances to aid its building fund. The affair was held in the American Legion Hall, Santa Monica.

Congressman Richard M. Nixon Addresses Whittier Parlor

Congressman Richard M. Nixon, member of Whittier Parlor No. 297, who has just returned from Europe, recently addressed members of the parlor on conditions as he saw them in his trip abroad. Those who heard him report that his talk was enlightening and straight to the point.

Whittier Parlor is also at work on raising funds for the Homeless Children Work.

Pacific Parlor Celebrates Its Sixty-sixth Birthday

Pacific Parlor No. 10, Native Sons of the Golden West, celebrated its 66th birthday Tuesday evening, November 4, with a celebration worthy of the event.

Quoting from the Pacific Bulletin, edited by Theodore Groezinger:

"On November 3, 1881, Pacific Parlor, the tenth subordinate Parlor of our Order, was organized. Only by reading something of the contemporary history of that period in San Francisco's history can a mental picture of the interest and enthusiasm of our charter members be gleaned. Last year the celebration of our sixty-fifth anniversary was denominated 'William Metzner Night' in honor of our only living charter member. Despite Bill Metzner's ninety years he held the entire assemblage enthralled with his vivid recollections of the early history of our Parlor, its humble beginnings and its struggles to get under way. His address was replete with facts and data that could only have been presented by one who was on the 'ground floor' at the time."

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of a fifty year life membership to Emil Schoenwald, who was initiated into Pacific Parlor April 6, 1897.

Twenty-five year pins were awarded to W. E. Dooling, W. J. Finck, Hon. Thos. M. Foley, G. P. Gardella, Hon. Jos. M. Golden, L. J. Molinari, Myles R. Murphy, P. E. Nielsen, A. L. O'Dea, J. A. Phelan, E. J. Soracco, J. Surgrove and E. C. Walheim.

Bert Paolinelli was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Bert has been chairmaning these events for a number of years, and this year's successful affair was no exception to the rule.

Sunset Parlor No. 26 Is Working on Youth Center

Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW, is taking the lead in establishing a Youth Center in Sacramento. This is in line with the decision of the 70th Grand Parlor that the Native Sons take an interest in providing healthful recreation for those who will run our State in the future.

The committee appointed to work out the details is composed of: Judge Peter J. Shields, chairman; Judge Malcolm C. Glenn, Judge Percy G. West, Judge Benjamin Franklin Van Dyke, Bartley W. Cavanaugh, C. W. Goethe, J. J. Monteverde, Sr., Fred J. Johns, Robert Breuner, Virgil Rominger, William Payton, Howard Bouque, Dewey Houghton and Darold DeCoe, Jr.

The groundwork has been laid. Details of financing and getting the machinery in motion are all that remain, according to the Sunset Parlor's bulletin.

Los Angeles No. 45 Celebrates Its Sixty-third Birthday

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, celebrated its 63rd birthday Thursday evening, November 13, with a gala dinner at the Los Angeles Athletic Club honoring Grand President Walter H. Odemar. This was one of the most successful occasions in many years put on by Los Angeles No. 45. Limited reservations for the event were sold out several weeks in advance, so that many, who had planned to attend, found themselves without the necessary ducats. Los Angeles No. 45 was instituted November 13, 1884.

University Parlor Bulletin Helps Build Membership

Bill Arlen's University Parlor Bulletin is one of the liveliest sheets that comes to this office. Two 8½x14 sheets mimeographed both sides, this monthly bulletin contains interesting accounts of past and future events at University Parlor, sidelights on what its members are doing, and, last, but not least, an editorial section. As far as we have been able to ascertain, this is the only parlor bulletin that has attempted editorially to do something to arouse interest in civic affairs. For months, Bill has consistently hammered at Los Angeles' downtown traffic situation and offering suggested remedies. He pulls no punches.

Written in a breezy, modern style, the University Parlor Bulletin, no doubt, has done much to build up the membership and attendance of University, until today, it is one of our larger parlors.

Arrowhead Initiates Large Class At Crestline

At a well attended meeting of the Parlor at Crestline Clubhouse on October 25, a class of 37 candidates were initiated by Grand President Walter H. Odemar and his corps of Grand Officers. The Grand Officers taking part in the initiation were: President, Judge Walter H. Odemar, Grand President of Ramona Parlor, No. 109; First Vice-President, John T. Regan, Grand Secretary of South San Francisco Parlor No. 157; Second Vice-President, Phillip C. Wilkins, Grand Trustee of Sacramento Parlor No. 157; Third Vice-President, David W. Stuart, Grand Trustee from our own Arrowhead Parlor No. 110; Marshal, Walter H. Hiskey, Grand Marshal of Santa Ana Parlor No. 265; Junior Past President, Louis E. Pellandini, Grand Trustee of Sonoma Parlor No. 111; Organist, Hugh Spaulding, Assistant Grand Organist of University Parlor No. 272. Brother Elmer Hoin (P.P. '41) of Arrowhead Parlor, acted as Senior Past President, Brother Judge Donald E. Van Luven (P.P. '29) of Arrowhead Parlor, took the part of Inside Sentinel.

Riverside Parlor brought over six of their own members to be initiated, so it swelled the total members initiated to 43, which made the Grand Officers happy. The candidates were welcomed into the Order by Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar.

A splendid dinner was served before the meeting under the direction of Jesse V. Kerr.

Fruitvale Parlor Honors Ex-service Members and Wives

Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW, held a ladies night Friday evening, November 14, special honored guests being the parlor's ex-service members and their ladies. Entertainment and refreshments were the order of the evening.

Regional Winners For Girl of Golden West Contest Are Chosen

Saturday night, November 15, the regional run-off in the "Girl of the Golden West" contest was held in the Aviation room of the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, Hollywood. This contest, General Chairman Ritchey reports, was to select four winners and a substitute winner.

Fresno Region No. 3, the San Joaquin Valley area, qualified and had their regional run-off. Region No. 1, from Los Angeles to San Diego, qualified and had their regional run-off. Regions 2, 4 and 5 were disqualified and therefore, it became the duty of the General Chairman to select by proxy a winner that would represent them.

Here is how the five winners appear from which will be chosen "The Girl of the Golden West," who will ride with her attendants on the Native Sons and Daughters float in the Tournament of Roses Parade at Pasadena New Year's Day:

Beverly Lake, Beverly Hills, to represent Northwest.

Barbara Forbush, Inglewood, to represent Northeast.

Eileen Sunderland, Inglewood, to represent Central West.

Charlotte Ricotta, Fresno, to represent Central East.

Glennice Belnap, Riverside, to represent Southern part.

Leatha Wilson, Pomona, won second place and is qualified to act in the event any one of the other candidates are not available New Year's Day.

Harvey Webster, president of Pasadena Parlor No. 296 and General Vice-chairman of the Tournament of Roses Float Committee of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, was in charge of the ceremonies at the Hollywood Roosevelt. The judges were that popular NBC commentator, Sam Hayes, Hal Walker, the well known and top motion picture director, and the beloved and famous character actor, John Gallavert.

Immediately following the contest the four winners selected at the Hollywood Roosevelt were taken to Pasadena by General Chairman Ritchey, where they made their first public appearance in their new role.

New Year's Festivities At Pasadena Announced

Plans for the New Year's festivities of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West at Pasadena have been completed, it is announced.

The Grand Banquet and Ball, combined with the "Girl of the Golden West" ceremonies, will be held New Year's Eve at the Altadena Country Club Estates. The committee is preparing reservation slips for mailing to the parlors. All reservations must be signed by those desiring to attend and returned, accompanied by the money. The price of the Grand Banquet and Ball will be $5.00 per plate.

Those who do not care to attend the banquet may make reservations to attend the Grand Ball. The price of these latter tickets will be $1.50 per person. This is made possible due to the facilities permitting twice as many dancers as diners. The General Chairman urges those Native Sons and Daughters who want to attend not to lose any time in getting in their reservations.

The festivities will not be confined only to Native Sons and Daughters and their friends. After December 15, if there are any unsold reservations, they will be available to a selected public.

The festivities, being a colorful affair, will attract people from a considerable distance. The occasion will be semi-formal.

The schedule for the affair is as follows: Grand Banquet, 6:30 sharp; "Girl of the Golden West" Proclamation ceremony, 8:30; Grand March, 9:30.

Music will be by Le Verne Boyer, one of the most popular dance orchestras in the southland.

Hollywood Parlor Having Big Membership Drive

Hollywood Parlor No. 196, NSGW, has a big membership campaign on with Bill Horton as chairman of the committee, supported by Forrest Prater and backed up by every member of the parlor. Art Green is an active member of the committee and M. U. "Rosie" Rosenthal, Native Son "Sparkplug," has agreed to personally start a contact campaign for his parlor. A list of 500 eligible Natives has been secured and the report of the Membership Committee will be the first order of business at every parlor meeting, it is announced.

Tournament of Roses History Interesting

By WM. F. HOLTZ

The first Tournament of Roses was held on January 1, 1890. This was called at that time "A Tourney of Roses." The floral parade was of flower trimmed carriages, horses, etc. (no floats) and was held in the forenoon, as it has been since that time.

In the afternoon there were sports, a baseball game, foot races, etc., and a tourney, with pony riders who caught rings on lances, from post arms, or did not, as they rode rapidly by. This was on a five acre tract on North Los Robles Avenue, just north of the Santa Fe railway tracks. Many flowers were in evidence at this afternoon gathering.

This first Tournament event and afternoon sports was arranged by the Valley Hunt Club, which had been organized on November 3, 1888. The idea was suggested by Prof. Frederick Holder, a member. The club's by-laws say its objects were "the hunting of the jack rabbit, fox, and other wild game, with horses and hound; the encouragement of horseback riding, etc." When Prof. Holder and Dr. Francis F. Rowland proposed the parade the members gave it instant approval, and sponsored the first event, and also managed eight consecutive ones—until 1898.

The second Tournament afternoon events were held at Devils Gate, where a sports park had been created, and a narrow-gauge railroad built to it.

The land which is now Tournament Park was first used in 1892, when the third Tournament afternoon was held there.

In 1898 the "Tournament Association" was organized and took over the event. Tournament Park was fenced, and a track laid out for racing.

In 1904 the Chariot Races were introduced by Charles D. Daggett, then President, and drew great crowds and brought in needed finances for the Association. D. M. Linnard, E. T. Off and Revel English were some of the charioteers.

In 1906 the first queen was chosen, this was Miss Elsie Armitage, and queens were an annual feature until 1913, after which date they were discontinued for some years, but are again a popular feature.

In 1902 the first football game was put on in lieu of the chariot races. This game was played by Michigan vs. Stanford, score 49 to 0 in favor of Michigan.

As the years have gone on the Tournament has grown in beauty, with more elaborate floats, always covered by only natural flowers, and the idea of each float symbolizing some historical event has grown until for some years past a theme has been chosen, the floats conforming to the subject chosen.

The Tournament has grown until it is no longer just a Pasadena event, but beautiful entries come from many other places, even from other countries. Moving pictures and other publicity have carried it even to the ends of the earth.

The Rost Bowl was opened in 1923, with the University of Southern California playing the first game against Ohio.

MOTHER

Tribute to Mamie-Pierce-Carmichael on her Golden Anniversary as a member of Vendome Parlor, NDGW, by her seven children.

Congratulations, Mother dear,
Upon completing fifty years
As daughter of the West.

We who with the Daughters share
Your loving kindness, guidance, care
Thank God we've been so blest.

Only you throughout the years
Could look through smiles at trials and tears
And fight the fight, and win.
With heart of gold, and nerve of steel,
On you go, and never wheel
Nor know the words "give in."

Mother, Teacher, Leader true,
Standing out among the few
Who guide us on our way,
Sure the world would poorer be,
If there were never such as thee
To brighten every day.

Little can we do or say
That would in any manner pay
For all you've done for us.
So we to God do humbly pray,
To spare you ever and a day,
That we may have you thus.

Signed by the Carmichaels,

This picture shows a display being worked out for the fancy work booth for the Country Fair. Pictured left to right are: Dorothy Grunberg, general chairman; Charlottee Larue, president of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168; and Una Hargrove, chairman of fancy work.

Annie K. Bidwell Parlor Holds County Fair

Members of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168 of Chico joined together and staged a big "County Fair" on Hallowe'en night, October 31. They opened the doors of their hall to the public and greeted them with a dance, dined them on hot dogs and kept them merry with a big lotto game chock full of lovely prizes. Attention was called to the various booths and announcements were made by ringing a big old fashioned cow bell.

The dance hall was decorated with corn stalks, pumpkins, old lanterns, and big silhouettes of cats, witches, and bats adorned the walls.

A fancy work booth done in an old fashioned setting with wagon wheels, hand pump complete with a bucket and bench was staffed with girls in crinolin. Next to it was the "Golden West Nursery" where a pioneer farmer and his bonneted mate met you under a trellis and offered plants, bulbs, seeds, and cut flowers.

The booth of the evening was "The Nut House" and took first honors for originality and display. Under a canopy of orange and black crepe paper, balloons and hallowe'en cats, packages of nuts done up candied, salted, shelled and mixed, vied for honors with huge home cured olives, baskets of persimmons and dried fruits.

The dining room was filled with good things to eat. Booths there were all decorated in the Hallowe'en theme and sold cakes, cookies, all kinds of delicious home cooked foods, canned fruits and jellies and generous bags of home made candies. Down the center of the room were tables with checkered cloths and dripping candles offering hot dogs, coffee, cake, and chili beans to a hungry public. The membership turned out most loyally and helped whether on a committee or not. The affair was under the direction of a general committee consisting of Dorothy Grunberg, chairman, Opal Meriam, Flora Detrick, and Charlotte Larue, President.

To Hold First Annual Yacht Race To Ensenada In 1948

The first in a series of annual yacht races from Newport Harbor to Ensenada, Lower California, will be held early in 1948, it was announced today by C. W. Chapman, Jr., of the Newport Ocean Sailing Association.

All cruising type yachts owned or chartered by a member of a recognized yacht club will be eligible to enter the international race.

Two perpetual trophies have been given for the event by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce in its desire to acquaint more yachtsmen as to the possibilities of their harbor and to its year-round sailing conditions. One trophy will signify winning the race by a yacht sailing under the Long Distance Racing Rule and the second will be raced for by yachts in a class sailing under a performance handicap type of rating.

United States and Mexican Customs officials are cooperating on arrangements for the race and Coast Guard officials have offered to help in any way possible.

A sponsoring yacht club in the Newport Harbor area will be named this month, Chapman said.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

The opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The Centennial Years are upon us. The Centennial of the discovery of gold in California, news of which echoed around the world bringing wealth and fame to California will be celebrated at Coloma, El Dorado County, January 24, 1948, on the north fork of the American river where James Marshall discovered the elusive golden metal. Elaborate plans are being made for this all important event, in which Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland plays a leading part.

Up to the present writing little has been heard of the part that Native Sons and Daughters will play in this celebration. Perhaps, we have all been too occupied with our own little parlor affairs to look ahead and plan. However, we should remember that upon us, as Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, has been laid the sacred trust of preserving and commemorating those things which are our heritage, and for which our two great Orders were founded.

It is up to us to take a lead in these things. If we do not take a leading part, others will step in, getting the credit and glory.

We do not mean to infer that Native Sons and Daughters are not working on the Celebration at Coloma, January 24, 1948. Many are, but as far as we can ascertain, there is no concentrated effort on the part of the two Orders as a whole.

We are told that transcriptions will be made of the festivities at Coloma. It is suggested that parlors plan celebrations in their own communities as close to the event as possible, and arrange to have one of these transcriptions to be played at the event.

At this time, information is not available as to just how these recordings will be distributed, but the Grizzly Bear hopes to be able to inform you in its January issue. Meanwhile, if you can attend the celebration at Coloma, begin to plan now.

While the eyes of California are focused on Coloma, we should not forget another Centennial, The Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, which will be celebrated February 2, 1948. More about it later.

The January issue of the Grizzly Bear will commemorate the Centennial Celebration at Coloma. The story of Marshall's discovery will be carried, as well as all details available at press time of the program in store for those lucky enough to be able to make the pilgrimage to that sacred spot on the American River.

As this is written, the Grizzly Bear's photographer and special representative, M. D. Bradshaw is on his way north through the Mother Lode Country and to Sacramento, gathering pictures and material for the January issue.

Because of the fact that we hope to make the Centennial Issue of the Grizzly Bear something worthy of this historical event, we want to caution all parlor correspondents to get their material in before the 15th of December deadline without fail.

All old-time firms in the state should see that they are represented in January issue by all means. Many are already in with their copy and space reservations. If you have not already done so, write us immediately and advertising rates will be gladly furnished.

It looks like a big time for Native Sons and Daughters at Pasadena New Year's Eve. And the following day at the world famous Tournament of Roses Parade. It all started a year ago when one of the youngest Native Son parlors, Pasadena, conceived the idea of holding a big New Year's Eve ball in Pasadena and invited Grand Officers to attend.

From all over the state the Grand Officers came. A good time was had by all and the affair was on its way to become an annual event.

Since last New Year's a parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West has been instituted at Pasadena, which will be in there pitching this year.

For the first time in many years the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will have a float in the Tournament of Roses Parade, graced by the "Girl of the Golden West" selected by the Native Sons and Daughters in a State-wide contest.

All of this, because the members of a new parlor of the Native Sons had an idea and the determination to carry it out.

When we presented our October cover of to use some of his knowledge. He disapproved of his classmates sleeping any place they could find to lay their weary heads. However, whatever arguments or tactics he used must have been very effective, as before many days had passed, several of the society matrons' homes were opened to the students and all were within walking distance to the Campus!

Soon after, more houses were in demand, with the arrival of the Professors and their families, and others whose business had brought them to Berkeley. Real estate firms were swamped with all kinds of requests, some were granted and some were not. One family pitched a tent at Telegraph and Bancroft and remained there until the rains drove them into an empty store building. Others started to purchase lots and construct homes, but by 1876, apartments began to show themselves, then came homes being turned into Fraternities and Sororities, later on came the rooming houses for both men and women.

Yes, history does repeat itself, if only given time.

Orchids This Month

The orchids this month go to Past Grand Trustee Charles D. Blaine, recording secretary of Modesto Parlor No. 11, Native Sons. Each month, well before the deadline, he sends in a short typewritten newsey account of the happenings in Modesto Parlor. Best of all, the news is right up to the minute and of vital interest to all. We wish more parlor secretaries were like "Charley" Blaine in this regard. We could use more real news of what both Orders are doing, but we want it before the deadline, while it is still news and not ancient history.

Many parlors are doing more than holding routine meetings. They are taking part in civic functions of many kinds that focus the attention of the public upon the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Let's hear about them, so that we can pass the word along to others that the accomplishments of your parlor may serve as an inspiration to those parlors who are doing little or nothing for the advancement of the Orders.

Also see that your parlor bulletin is sent each month to the Grizzly Bear.

We need more hard workers like "Charley" Blaine in the Orders. Of course, we should mention, that if we don't get his article in, we hear about it. Also, through the years, "Charley" has been one of our strongest critics. But his criticism is constructive, and while we can not follow all of it out, nevertheless, it is appreciated.

EDITORIAL

November 13, 1947

James M. Carter,
United States Attorney
Federal Building
Los Angeles, 12, California

Dear Mr. Carter:

Recent newspaper articles carried the stories of the possibility of the re-entry of Iva Toguri, known during World War II as, "Tokyo Rose," to the United States.

The Native Sons of the Golden West take this opportunity to advise you that our Fraternity is strenuously opposed to the return of any person, citizen, or alien, who has manifested disloyalty to the United States.

If it is true that the identity of Iva Toguri has been established as "Tokyo Rose," it is inconceivable to understand why this treasonous Japanese-American should be permitted to re-enter the United States. When she left this country, as early as 1941, she went ostensibly to care for a sick relative in Japan. From all reports, her mission was one of lower and vicious propaganda, aimed at creating a doubt in the minds of our American fighting men, and arousing suspicion in their hearts about their loved ones at home.

It is hard to reconcile how any traitorous character can depart and enter our country at will. If she is the traitor which she is reported to be, she should not again be permitted the privileges that are granted to law-abiding American citizens.

The evasion of our laws in this case, would be a dastardly slur upon the countless thousands of American women who stood faithfully by their men in service, who were defending the Flag in the Southwest Pacific, while Tokyo Rose was pouring forth her venomous propaganda from her chosen place—Japan.

We would be pleased to learn of the actual status of her case, and in the event your office is without this data, would you kindly advise whom to contact for this information?

Awaiting your reply, I am as ever,

Yours very truly,

ELDRED L. MEYER, Chairman,

Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, NSGW.

Editor's Note: Similar letters of protest were sent to the two United States Senators from California, the entire California delegation of the House of Representatives, heads of the State Department, Commissioner of Immigration, the United States Attorney General, Department of Justice, and to Brother H. J. McClatchy, Executive Secretary of the California Joint Immigration Committee.

MORE ABOUT COMMUNISM

The recent airing, both in Washington, D. C. and at Oakland, California, of the Communistic infiltration in the American way of life has been most enlightening. The citizens of the United States look to the motion picture industry to provide entertainment. The industry, in turn, should realize their responsibility in preventing subversive and communistic propaganda from being injected into their motion picture releases.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas, of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and Senator Jack B. Tenney, chairman of the committee on un-American Activities for the State of California, are to be commended for taking forthright and courageous stands in investigating any group which has ideologies that are inimical to the American way of life.

Since my last writing, the following suggestions have been received from Brother Frank P. Smith, Piedmont Parlor No. 120, a member of our Parlor Americanism Committee, which will supplement the previous suggestions listed in this column in the September issue:

"We should encourage the Parlors to organize groups to visit the Freedom Train when it comes to their communities.

"We should sponsor an annual essay contest for high school and Junior High School children. The subject to be, 'What It Means to be an American!'"

Past Grand President ELDRED L. MEYER,
Chairman, Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, NSGW.

the Night Blooming Cerus we knew that the photo by M. D. Bradshaw was something rare. Now comes the publication of a picture of three Night Blooming Cerus flowers by a large film manufacturer. The picture, we are told, was taken by three photographers working together, and it is claimed that this is the first time that three Night Blooming Cerus flowers have been photographed in one picture.

Count the flowers on the October cover. There are eight of them. The picture was taken by Photographer Bradshaw at about midnight, and he didn't have two other photographers to help him.

Speaking of covers, there seems to be a wide difference of opinion over the new cover design as inaugurated with the November issue. Many like it and some definitely do not. Still others want us to drop color entirely and to go back to plain black and white.

Well, to say the least, no cover in recent months has caused as much comment as that of the November issue.

Several people have written in to us regarding the beautiful Centennial stamps that each parlor secretary has received. This office has no information regarding same, other than that received by the editor as recording secretary of Mother Colony Parlor.

Armistice Day saw a top-notch Rodeo sponsored by the Riverside County Sheriff's Posse at Riverside. Our old friend Carlton Grimes of the 7-L Ranch was awarded for the second time in two years the C.A.A.'s 1947 World's Championship for Steer Roping and Team Tying. Ralph Camarillo and John Rose tied for first award in calf roping while three other contestants came within a fifth second of equalling their 14 second record.

Plans Announced For Celebration At Coloma

Editor's Note: As we went to press the following letter was received from Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West, and chairman of the Centennials Commission, relative to the big plans being made for the Centennial Celebration of the discovery of gold at Coloma, January 24, 1948. It will be noted that the Native Sons are going to play a prominent part in this great event in our State's history. More details will be given in the January issue of the Grizzly Bear, which will feature the Centennial.

"The California Centennials Commission on Friday, November 14, made preliminary arrangements for the celebration at Coloma. As you know, the town is rather small, with no hall capable of seating any sizable crowd. Recognizing the possibility of rain that time of year we have arranged for the erection of a large tent that will probably seat between 2500 and 3000 people. Within this tent will be held the ceremonies. We are also planning for a pageant depicting the chief events in the discovery of gold at Coloma by James W. Marshall. The Governor and other dignitaries will be present.

"The state is acquiring additional property across from the Gold Discovery Site, now a state park, and it is on this additional land the tent will be erected. On this land also there are two stone historic Chinese store buildings. These are immediately being re-roofed and will be used as museums for the exhibit of material appertaining to the gold discovery.

"The California Centennials Commission is working with the local El Dorado County Committee, and in conjunction with them is also arranging, on the opposite side of the highway on newly acquired state property, an exhibit of early gold mining, including the panning of gold, the use of the rocker, long tom, hydraulic mining and the operation of a quartz mill.

"On the morning of the twenty-fourth, about 11 a. m., there is planned a picturesque parade, which it is declared will be most colorful and the chief theme will be the gold discovery.

"On Saturday morning, the twenty-fourth, at 10 a. m., the grand officers of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West will dedicate a tablet, to be placed on the Sutter's Mill rock marker. It will contain the following inscription:

"This rock monument marks site of John A. Sutter's Mill in the tailrace of which James W. Marshall discovered gold on January 24, 1848, starting the great rush of Argonauts to California. The Society of California Pioneers definitely located and marked the mill site in 1924. Additional timbers and relics, including the original tailrace unearthed in 1947, were discovered after the property became a state park. The Marshall monument, overlooking this spot, was erected following a movement inaugurated by the Native Sons of the Golden West in 1886.

"Tablet placed by Historic Landmarks Committees Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West on centennial of gold discovery, January 24, 1948.

"The celebration takes place on Saturday and it is not unlikely that it will continue through Sunday.

"This program, of course, may be added to as the time approaches, but I think in general this will be the plan which the Commission has already approved."

The Story Behind Gold Discovery Souvenir.

If you had an opportunity to enter the governor's mansion in Sacramento these days you would see hanging on proud display in the governor's den a miner's gold pan fashioned of copper, commemorating the discovery of gold at Coloma a hundred years ago this very month. Upon its shining surface in repousse is an authentic scene of James Wilson Marshall, showing the golden flakes in his fellow workmen. In this historic moment California's famed Gold Rush was born. A tiny golden flame blazed so feverishly bright to in one brief year beckon gold crazed men from every corner of the world. This is the original "pan" as made by metal craftsman Herman D. Borden.

Though Borden has received national recognition for his metal art, this without doubt is a masterpiece. It took two years to design this seventeen inch replica, faithfully patterned after the gold pans of the California pioneers.

It was Stephen de Hospodar, rated one of California's outstanding water colorists and wood block artists, who conceived the authentic scene and faithfully reproduced it from a composite of early California paintings. Connoisseurs may recall that it was this Hungarian artist who illustrated a rare California, "Ring of the Nibelung" by Richard Wagner.

Herman Borden was long in transposing the work of Hospodar in bas relief. Gradually the picture was depicted in warm highlighted copper tones. The scene is that of the Indian village of "Cooloomah" beside the famous sawmill and millrace. The background shows the lofty grandeur of the Sierra Nevadas while in the foreground stands Marshall and two workmen.

OUR COVER

One hundred years ago this month Mount Shasta looked down on a far different California from the glorious State that we know today. There were tiny hamlets where now stand great cities. There were no broad paved highways, nor speeding automobiles. Man did not yet fly the skies. The iron horse, on twin ribbons of steel, born through the vision of great men, had not yet spanned the continent. Transportation was slow and primitive compared to this day of 1948. In 1848 the eastern seaboard was so far away that it seemed another world.

Away to the south, on the South Fork of the American river, a small party of men headed by James W. Marshall were at work building a saw-mill for Captain John A. Sutter. Here, on January 24, 1848, Marshall made the discovery that was to set the world on fire and to change the destiny of California. Gold! Gold! On the American river.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

Eighteen Seventy-three was given a wet welcome in California. The storm that began at the close of 1872 continued, and gave the valleys about three inches of rain.

New Year's calls were, accordingly, greatly interfered with, but the day was generally observed with the customs appropriate three-quarters of a century back.

What it termed a mammoth edition, was issued by the Sacramento "Union" January 1; it consisted of sixteen pages of 112 columns. It was looked upon as a newspaper "whale," and was the largest paper that had been printed in the state to date.

Ventura County came into existence January 1, making the state's fifty-first county. Milton Wasson was appointed county judge by Governor Newton Booth.

Ripe tomatoes from Los Gatos, Santa Clara County, were in the market this month.

The Modoc war in Northern California assumed important proportions this month. January 7 General Wheaton with about 400 soldiers, while skirmishing, was ambushed by about 200 Modoc warriors concealed in the lava beds. Fourteen soldiers were killed and about thirty wounded, some fatally. Reinforcements were ordered forward and volunteers from Oregon State and Siskiyou County were offering their services.

Don Juan Forster, owner of the Santa Margarita Rancho in San Diego County, anxious to have settlers on it, through an agent in Holland offered to give one hundred families eighty acres each, if they would migrate and settle on the property. Major Strobel was his agent and he was also endeavoring to sell, in Holland, a half-interest in Catalina Island.

The sailing vessel "Young America" arrived in San Francisco January 20 in ninety-nine days from Liverpool. This was the quickest trip then on record.

A proposition to build a narrow-gauge railroad from Stockton to Visalia and through the San Joaquin Valley was being agitated; $300,000 had been subscribed for stock by San Joaquin County citizens.

The first shipment of Los Angeles oranges to San Francisco was made by steamer January 7.

Sacramento did not have the good streets seventy-five years ago that it has now. Complaint was made that the crossing at Front and "L," which was made of boards one foot wide, laid lengthwise and joined one to the other, was impassable, because somebody had appropriated one of the boards.

P. D. Green cut down near Tehachapi, Kern County, a venerable oak tree and dug out its roots. Beneath was found an ancient mining shaft of not very great depth, and at the bottom was the skeleton of a man.

The Eureka mine at Grass Valley, Nevada County, from a five-day run of its mill, cleaned up $11,830 in gold.

The Santa Maria mine in Tuolumne County, from a six-day run of its mill, cleaned up $3000.

The Idaho mine at Grass Valley, from a six-day run, cleaned up $13,000.

A number of quail from Asia were imported by Liddle and Karding of San Francisco and liberated in Marin and Napa counties to improve the native flocks.

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

Wild pigeons, in large flocks, were in the woods around Aptos, Santa Cruz County, and were being killed by hundreds.

Prof. Knowlton, a well-known educator, delivered a lecture in San Francisco on "Our Girls." He said, in part: "Some of the girls are averse to using the good old Saxon word, 'legs'; they prefer to call them 'limbs,' which is very indefinite, but although they refrain from using what they consider a vulgar word, yet they were very careful to wear snow-white stockings, neat shoes and expensive garters for the sole purpose of showing these 'limbs,' when an excuse offered, at any street crossing." Times have changed since his day.

Gold Flakes and The Golden Flood

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

EXPLORERS and early trappers traversed the region of the foothills west of the Sierra Nevada many years before James Wilson Marshall discovered gold on the south fork of the American river January 24, 1848.

The Coloma Valley, about nine miles north of Placerville in El Dorado county, was the scene of Marshall's great discovery. The hills on the north are covered with chamise while on the south, oaks and pines grow thick, adding to the picturesque scene. On a high hill south of the valley, and surrounded by a park, is a statue of Marshall overlooking the historic American river. The land which surrounds the monument was purchased by the Native Sons of the Golden West and presented to the state. The monument of Marshall was dedicated on May 3, 1890 and is now cared for by the State Park Commission. The historic town of Coloma and the state of California will celebrate the centennial of January 24, 1848 when Marshall discovered the first flake of gold that started the most colorful gold rush in history. This celebration is to be held January 24, 1948.

James W. Marshall was a native of New Jersey and came west to Oregon and then to California. He was a farmer and carpenter and was considered a good man in all kinds of work allied with mechanics. He entered the employ of Captain John A. Sutter at New Helvetia in July, 1845. Subsequently he became engaged in farming and then left for a time during the Mexican war. Later he returned to New Helvetia and became engaged in a survey of a sawmill. Captain Sutter's demand for lumber grew steadily and the shortage pressed him. Marshall made several surveys in the spring of 1847. He finally discovered the Coloma Valley, named for the Indian tribes living in this area. Water power and timber were accessible. The two resources being close together made it ideal for his purpose. Marshall returned to Sutter's Fort (New Helvetia) where he and Sutter entered into a partnership to proceed with erecting a sawmill to produce the needed lumber.

James W. Marshall, after entering the agreement with Captain John A. Sutter, started for the Coloma Valley, taking with him tools and provisions. Among those hired to work at the mill was one family, Peter Wimmer and his wife and children. Others engaged in the work were Henry Bigler, Charles Bennett and James Brown. Among some of the men employed were Mormons and they worked earnestly and diligently.

Upon arriving at the selected site on the south fork of the American river Marshall and his men erected a large log cabin and upon its completion the men occupied one section and the Wimmer family the other. After a short while the men moved into another newly erected cabin.

The mill work progressed and by New Year's day the frame was completed and Knowland, chairman of the Historic Landmarks Committee, NSGW, chairman of the State Park Commission and chairman of the California Centennials Commission, announced February 16, to a group of interested Californians, that the tail race of the mill had been definitely located. a small dam was built in the river to divert the water. Then work on the tail race was started over a dry area of the river bed and the saw mill advanced rapidly. As a consequence much was accomplished by mid January.

Marshall's discovery is described by Hubert Howe Bancroft VI. History of California, page 33. It states "Early in the afternoon of Monday the 24th of January, 1848, while sauntering along the tail-race inspecting the work, Marshall noticed yellow particles mingled with the excavated earth which had been washed by the late rains. He gave it little heed at first; but presently seeing more, and some in scales, the thought occurred to him that possibly it might be gold. Sending an Indian to his cabin for a tin plate, he washed out some of the dirt, separating thereby as much of the dust as a ten-cent piece would hold; then he went about his business, stopping a while to ponder on the matter. During the evening he remarked once or twice quietly, somewhat doubtingly, "Boys, I believe I have found a gold mine." "I reckon not," was the response; "no such luck."

The next day Marshall found a larger specimen. He hammered the yellow metal with stones still thinking it might be gold, though he took the situation calmly. Upon looking around he found more of the precious metal. He thought the matter over and after several days left for Sutter's Fort to tell his partner of the discovery, carrying some specimens of the metal with him. On his arrival Captain Sutter, who was in his office, became somewhat alarmed at his sudden visit since it was raining, (this was supposed to have been on January 28th). Marshall then told of his discovery also his belief that the metal was gold. Sutter applied the aqua fortis and other tests, then read the article on gold from the American Encyclopedia. The latter information removed all doubt insofar that it was gold.

Marshall returned to Coloma Valley that evening after Sutter's efforts had failed to induce him to remain for the night. Captain Sutter became restless and did not know whether the discovery was a fortunate event for him or if it would result in misfortune as far as he was concerned since his mills and other buildings were in the process of being erected because he knew that if gold existed all along the south fork of the American river his men would leave with a short course of time to mine the precious metal. Sutter arrived at the mill the next day whereupon Marshall told him he believed that gold could possibly be in the surrounding hills. The two men realizing their situation and that the region might be rich held a meeting with the Indians of Coloma Valley. They made an agreement for a lease which included a tract of land about the mill hop-

Marshall picked up the gold on January 24, 1848, news of which was echoed around the world starting the stampede to California. ing that this area, included in the agreement, covered all that contained gold. They swore themselves to secrecy and advised their men likewise.

Sutter was not satisfied with his Indian agreement so he decided to send Charles Bennett on a mission to Monterey. His sole reason for this was for the purpose of contacting Colonel R. B. Mason, United States representative in California, to secure the land in the vicinity of the mill. Bennett was instructed not to reveal the news of the discovery.

Bennett left for Monterey carrying with him about six ounces of gold in a buckskin bag. When he reached Benicia he visited a well known establishment known as "Phister's Store." It was in an adobe building built for Captain E. H. Von Phister in 1847. (This adobe building is located on the south side of "D" street in Benicia). It was here that the men would gather to talk over the events of the day and Bennett became engaged in conversation with bystanders. They were discussing a coal discovery nearby when Bennett no longer could keep the secret of the gold discovery and produced his gold and passed it amongst them.

Bennett arrived in Monterey and after executing his mission Colonel Mason declined to make any definite promise respecting land titles. The mission proved a failure insofar as Sutter was concerned and he attempted to halt traffic to the mill except the hauling of provisions to the people residing there. He had selected a teamster for this work and when the teamster arrived one of the Wimmer boys told him that gold had been discovered. The teamster having obtained several pieces of gold and returning to Sutter's Fort stopped at Brannan's store for a drink and paid for it in gold. Smith, Brannan's partner, was on duty at the time and immediately sent word of the discovery to him (Sam Brannan). The news of the great gold discovery became general and as a result did not remain long within the limits of Sutter's Fort.

In March, 1848, the California Star, an early newspaper in California, mentioned that gold had been discovered in the hills east of Sutter's Fort. This publication of the discovery created much excitement. Businessmen left secretly for Sutter's Mill via Sonoma. The mystery of their absence was not revealed until some of them returned with different types of containers filled with gold. The people immediately realized the fabulous wealth of the foothills of the west-

Walter Knott's Ghost Town at Buena Park, Orange County, was born to frame a picture. It is a painting that depicts the great outdoors, the vast emptiness of a desolate desert. Down the mountain rimmed valley across barren sands, winds a covered wagon train California bound. Ghost Town is dedicated to Walter Knott's mother and grandmother, who crossed the plains from Virginia by way of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona back in 1868.

That's How Ghost Town Began

By HAR LAR

A CROSS our Golden State are the remnants of many ghost towns. In their boom days they were wild rollicking outposts of civilization inhabited for the most part by miners seeking a golden vision. There were Jimtown, Rough and Ready, Columbia, Brodie and Hangtown, to name but a few. Today most of them are dead. Here and there a shell of a building, decaying beneath the relentless march of years, still stands as a memento of the past.

Still there is one Ghost Town that just won't give up the ghost. Month by month this boom town of the past grows even bigger. Buildings, weather beaten by the winds and storms of time, miraculously appear on the village's crooked streets almost overnight. The characters that should have lived in such a town long ago again become alive under the whittling blade of a cowboy artist.

Walter Knott's Ghost Town was born to frame a picture—but what a picture! It is a painting that depicts the great outdoors, the vast emptiness of a desolate desert. Down the mountain rimmed valley across barren sands, winds a covered wagon train California bound. It is more than a painting, this diorama. To make the scene grippingly realistic a covered wagon stands in the foreground hitched to two span of gaunt horses.

There's a woman and a small child in that canvas covered wagon. They are the artist's conception of the story that Walter Knott's mother tells of how they crossed the plains from Virginia by way of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona back in 1868. The little girl is Walter Knott's mother. The lady holding the reins is his grandmother. Ghost Town is dedicated to them both.

The scene is set behind an old bar. The back wall has crumbled away. A bearded pioneer sits looking out toward the desert plains where the weary caravan makes its tortuous way. Gradually the light fades, the stars twinkle in the heavens. A mellow moon shines benevolently from the sky. The characters seem to be alive. They speak. It is astoundingly dramatic.

Ghost Town was built to house this diorama. For a time Knott toyed with the idea of building a mountain as a back drop for this epic scene. That he was capable of doing just that is conclusively proven by the rumbling volcano that erupts with fiery splendor just back of his daughter Virginia's gift shop. The lava came from Pisga volcano out near Ludlow.

There is good reason that Ghost Town is authentic for Walter Knott knows the desert as few men do. When a Pomona girl, Cordelia Hornaday, became his bride back in 1910 the young couple homesteaded 160 acres in the Mojave desert, 25 miles east of Barstow. Here they built their own adobe. Only a desert man can realize the hardships they went through. After three and a half years the Knott family left the desert. There is little wonder that Walter Knott has managed to transpose the "feel of the desert" into his own Ghost Town.

Refer to Ghost Town as a museum and Walter Knott will hit the ceiling. To most people a museum is a dull place where valuable relics are kept in specimen cases and safely under lock and key. These are select pieces classified as a group, unassociated with their former surroundings. The visitor views them quietly and mentally endeavors to picture them in use. Not so in Ghost Town.

Ghost Town breathes and lives. Relics of the past are again in their grandparents eighty, ninety and a hundred years ago. Here are the old fashioned commonplace articles that can be inspected and handled.

Watch the visitors climb up into the boot and seat themselves on the leather seat of the old Concord stagecoach. Early in the past century it often careened wildly down some treacherous mountain grade, pulled by three span of lunging half wild broncos. Picture the "whip" or driver sitting precariously on the box nonchalantly holding six reins in hand, with a twenty foot braided whip poised ready to flick out wickedly and snap with a bullet-like explosion behind the rump of a lagging "hoss." Momentarily these holiday seeking guests of Knott's feel that thrill that was their forefathers as they pose to be photographed by some member of their party.

Yet that old coach is truly a part of history. Built in Stockton in 1859 it made a regular run between Marysville and La Porte.

According to the record, Black Bart is reported to have hijacked its iron bound Wells Fargo box on at least one occasion. Knott's Berry Farm and the old coach is mentioned in Oscar Osburn Winter's "Via Western Express and Stagecoach," published by the Stanford University Press.

History relates how the laundry mark on a handkerchief tripped up this soft spoken rhyme writing highwayman. "Black Bart," born Charles E. Bolton, we are told in all his escapades never used a loaded gun. He served a six year sentence in San Quentin prison. After he was released the Wells Fargo Company, it was rumored, paid California's most notorious bandit a sum of money for his promise not to return to his former occupation. Such is the history of the Ghost Town Stage.

It took years to "gather up" Ghost Town. Boards, grained and grayed from years of weather are not to be found in lumber yards. Here and there a ramshackle building, untenanted, unwanted and falling apart from sheer age is found keeping a solitary vigil for the owners who never return. Walter Knott hunts up the owners and purchases those weather beaten walls.

From Goldfield to Tonapah trucks from "the farm" carried portions of buildings back to Ghost Town. Sometimes they were lucky enough to obtain an entire structure and sometimes only the facade. Many of these weather beaten clapboard buildings are exact copies of famous buildings of pioneer days which brings to mind the lady from Texas.

It is said that Judge Roy Bean was the only law west of the Pecos. In Langtry, Texas his Jersey Lilly Saloon, named in compliment to a beautiful actress, Lillian Langtry, still stands symbolic of the days when the west was young. Today it is a public museum.

The lady from Texas had visited Bean's historic monument. As all visitors in California coming from other states sooner or later invariably do, she visited Walter Knott's berry farm. It was in Ghost Town that she came across the replica of Judge Bean's "West of the Pecos" abode. Nonplussed, she sought out a Ghost Town official.

"It's simply miraculous," she exclaimed, "how fast you Californians get things done. Less than a week ago I stood in this very building in Texas. Now here it stands three thousand miles away as naturally as if it had always been here."

The architect, carpenters and all the other artisans in Ghost Town who reproduced the building are to be complimented for having confused a lady from Judge Bean's Lone Star State.

The old Wells Fargo and Co's Express office is seen at Ghost Town. Many of these weather beaten clapboard buildings are exact copies of famous buildings of pioneer days.

There's an old hand printing press that dates back just a century and one year ago. Walter Knott bought it a few years back from a printer and it was actually in use. Hand power produces the squeeze necessary to press the ink image of hand set type on paper. Known as a Washington Press, it carries the fact of George Washington and an eagle on its ornate front. Made by the Cincinnati Type Foundry, it looks as serviceable as it was in the days that it printed the news of the Civil War. It's standing in the middle of the Ghost Town Book Shop.

Ghost Town is a hilarious place for the thousands of folks who daily visit Knott's Berry Farm to enjoy the southern fried chicken dinners for which the place is internationally famous. Crowds of lighthearted fun seekers laugh uproariously as they peer through the window of the "Sheriff's" office and watch the "poker" game. Around the corner there's Goldie's place, a rooming house, so to speak. Back on a side street and next to the cemetery is the jail. A hoss thief, Sad Eye Joe, philosophizes behind the bars to the delight of the crowds that talk to him. The fact that Sad Eye Joe was whittled out of a chunk of bass wood by "Andy" Anderson and still is able to carry on animated conversations with the thousands of visitors that gaze through the window of his cell, is just another of Ghost Town's enjoyable mysteries.

It's here that one is most apt to run across the old sheriff. He's a friendly character and his yarns are fanciful and entertaining. He's addicted to some wild boasting pertaining to his prowess as a gun toting lawman. Just the same when he gets most light hearted and breaks into rollicking buck and wing, we believe him when he says he's been in vaudeville "nigh onto 65 years."

There's a "Pitchur Gallery" in Ghost Town. Here you can have your picture taken peering out the window of Goldie's place or the Ghost Town jail. There's a "tin type" setting where you stick your head over the life-sized paintings of dandies of yesteryear. There's a bucking broc to ride that is guaranteed to fool your friends. It was a real horse too, but now he's stationary and stuffed.

Outside there are a thousand shots to photograph. There's an old freight wagon from Death Valley that took a twenty mule team to pull. From Death Valley's borax mines there's a wood burning locomotive with two ore cars standing on a length of rusty track. You know the stage coach is an old timer. The shock absorbing springs that run the length of the old vehicle are made of leather.

In the foyer opening on Ghost Town's Grill (which incidentally serves delicious charcoal broiled steaks that are anything but ghost-like) is a painting done by a famous artist. It was a treasured art piece which belonged to E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin. It was purchased that it might hang publicly in Ghost Town where it would be enjoyed not by a few but by thousands.

It's a painting depicting how the Baldwin caravan in 1853 was attacked by Indians at what is now Beaver River, Nevada. The artist, H. H. Cross, was commissioned in 1898. He painted it according to the description of Lucky Baldwin himself.

John Selvidge was an early gunsmith. He had the uncanny ability of fashioning a "long rifle" that shot accurately. In the Ghost Town Gun Shop are the implements of his trade. It shows how those barrels were hand drilled to true. In back of his shop buckskin fringed trappers sight down their Selvidge rifles at a mark. On the walls are guns dating back to 1780.

The Little Chapel by the Lake contains a painting by a famed portrait artist, Paul V. Klieben, that is truly a masterpiece. It is a

Coloma Scene of Gold Discovery Centennial

While celebrations, sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, Historical Societies and various civic groups, will be held throughout the State on January 24 in observance of the Centennial of the discovery of gold at Coloma by James W. Marshall, the official State Celebration will be held at the discovery site on the South Fork of the American river.

The California Centennials Commission, headed by Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West, is working closely with the El Dorado County Centennial Committee on plans for the big California event. Included on the committee are many prominent Native Sons and Daughters.

Because of the possibility of rain and due to the fact that there is no large hall at Coloma, arrangements have been made for the erection of a big tent across from the discovery site.

The seating capacity of the tent will be between 2500 and 3000 people. Here the ceremonies, attended by Governor Warren and other dignitaries, will be held.

Plans are also being made for a pageant depicting the main events in the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill, Coloma, by James W. Marshall, January 24, 1848. A colorful and picturesque parade will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

On property being acquired by the State, where the tent will be erected, are two historic stone Chinese store buildings, which are being re-roofed and will be used as museums for the exhibition of relics relating to the gold discovery.

The California Centennials Commission, working with the El Dorado County Committee, and in conjunction with them, is also arranging on the opposite side of the highway on newly acquired state property, an exhibit of early gold mining, including the panning of gold, the use of the rocker, long tom, hydraulic mining and the operation of a quartz mill, according to Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning Grand Officers of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West will dedicate a tablet, to be placed on the Sutter's Mill rock marker. It will contain the following inscription:

"This rock monument marks site of John A. Sutter's Mill in the tailrace of which James W. Marshall discovered gold on January 24, 1848, starting the great rush of Argonauts to California. The Society of California Pioneers definitely located and marked the mill site in 1924. Additional timbers and relics, including the original tailrace unearthed in 1947, were discovered after the property became a state park. The Marshall monument, overlooking this spot, was erected following a movement inaugurated by the Native Sons of the Golden West in 1886,

"Tablet placed by Historic Landmarks Committees Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West on centennial of gold discovery, January 24, 1948.

Saturday evening at 6:30 El Dorado County Parlor, Native Sons and Daughters, are sponsoring a Gold Discovery Banquet at the Shakespeare Club House, Placerville, only a few miles from the gold discovery site. This dinner is open to members of both Orders, but reservations must be made by January 15 with Lyda Snodgrass, secretary of the joint committee, box 891, Placerville. The price is $3.50 per plate.

The Gold Discovery Banquet will be one of the highlights of the celebration with Governor Earl Warren, state officials, Grand President Walter H. Odemar, Native Sons of the Golden West and Grand President Doris Treat, Native Daughters of the Golden West, as special guests. A fine entertainment program is planned.

It is probable that the celebration will extend over through Sunday, although no details have been announced. However, according to word reaching the Grizzly Bear office, any attending and planning to stay overnight, should be sure in advance that they have accommodations, as we understand that they are limited.

Naturally, due to weather conditions, and the advanced date that this is written, the plans as outlined, are subject to some change. For more detailed information the Grizzly Bear suggests that its readers watch their newspapers.

Editor's Note: Besides the big celebration at Coloma, Saturday, January 24, smaller celebrations are planned all over the state. As we go to press there is hardly a county in California where the event will not be observed, with the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West playing a major role.

FLASH! El Dorado County Parlor joint sponsors Gold Discovery Banquet January 24, 1948, at the Shakespeare Club House, Placerville, 6:30 p.m. Price $3.50 per plate. Reservations open to members of both Orders. Deadline for reservations January 15. Governor Warren, principal speaker. Grand Presidents of both Orders special guests. Featured entertainment.

100 YEARS of PROGRESS in WATER POWER

SUTTER'S SAWMILL is the symbol of an epochal event in the history of California and the Nation—James W. Marshall's discovery of gold at Coloma on January 24, 1848. California's early growth and prosperity stemmed from this event. And here was one of the earliest developments of the water power which, applied to electric generators, turns the wheels of industry today.

At Sutter's sawmill a small, wooden flutterwheel was fed by a plank flume 10 feet wide by 50 feet long to drive an upright saw through sugar pine logs. Fascinated Indians watched the saw go up and down and said, "Bueno, bueno".

Today in the high Sierra above Coloma, along the Mokelumne, Feather and Yuba rivers, Pacific Gas and Electric Company is rushing construction of five great hydro-electric plants at a cost of 85 million dollars. Here batteries of giant steel water wheels will spin generators to produce 464,000 horsepower of electricity.

Here again is foresight and water power teamed up to make life and work better in California by producing an abundance of electricity at low cost and delivering it to the people by a service that we hope will always merit a sincere "bueno".

One of six 33,300 pound water wheels now being installed in the Electra Powerhouse on the Mokelumne River. 43,000 feet of 12 by 15½ foot tunnel will bring water to the new powerhouse. This new plant with a capacity of 133,000 horsepower is scheduled to be in operation this summer.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

The year 1947 has been a most important one for our Order, as well as for the world at large, and I am happy to report, even now before the final figures are in, that our Order has continued to make the gains in the last 12 months that it made in the previous three or four years.

Young men throughout the State are exemplifying a desire to affiliate with patriotic organizations more than they did before the war, and since our stand on Americanism seems to be becoming better known throughout the State, our Order has become the recipient of many applications from men interested in those matters.

Close to the end of November I sent a letter to each member of the Order, requesting that he make a donation to the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., so that the charity work of those two organizations might be continued. The cost of that, as well as everything else, has increased greatly and so it is incumbent upon every member of the Native Sons to make a donation so that it might be carried on.

If there are any of you who have not given what you consider you can afford for this worthy charity, please do so at once. Send it in the envelope you received with my letter, and if that envelope is lost, send it to John T. Regan, 414 Mason Street, or to me at 166 North Poinsettia Place, Los Angeles 36, California, with a statement that it is given for that work, and we will see that it gets to the corporation offices.

The year 1948 is full of promises, both good and bad. That our Order should continue to grow must be self evident to anyone interested therein, and it will if we all continue with the enthusiasm exemplified over the last few years.

In May, a worthy and hard-working brother will be elected to the Grand Presidency, the greatest honor, I feel, that any one in California, can receive, and it is my urgent request that all of my deputies, Grand Parlor Committeemen, and those interested in the Order, work diligently so that the Order's and Grand First Vice President Walter N. Bailey's year is a huge success. Let us show Walter that all in the Order are behind him.

If the various subordinate parlors engage in local activities and especially in the celebration of the Centennials which will occur next year, his term will inevitably be one of the best in the history of our Order. Let us show Walter Bailey and the world that we are sold on the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

It is my sincere wish that each member of our Order has a very happy and prosperous year ahead of him.

WALTER H. ODEMAR,
Grand President
Native Sons of the Golden West.

Athletic Events Hold Spotlight In San Diego

Chairman George Walsh of San Diego Parlor's athletic committee, has his bowling team up in first place in the Winter League, according to "San Diego Sunshine," official bulletin of that parlor, Dan E. Shaffer, editor.

San Diego is also working on plans for a softball team. Twelve members have indicated that each will sponsor the cost of a uniform. At the present time, more members are needed on the team.

After witnessing some of the colorful bugle and drill teams in the Admission Day parade at Long Beach, members of the parlor are discussing the possibility of a drill team to participate in local parades as well as in other cities.

In cooperation with San Diego Parlor No. 208, Native Daughters, the five Native Son parlors in San Diego County are working out details for a marker to be placed in the new Public Park at Julian and commemorating the site of Fort Pio Pico on North Island.

Napa Native Sons Active In Many Activities

One of the most active parlors in the state is Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW. According to "The Growl," official parlor publication, members of the parlor recently put on initiations at St. Helena and Benecia.

Napa's Drum and Bugle Corps is holding regular practices and is out to win the state championship in 1948. Plans for the coming year were laid at a recent dinner.

The parlor will enlarge its athletic activities during the next term. To carry out this part of the program Napa's Athletic Association was recently reorganized. The Association will be a self supporting unit on the order of the Drum and Bugle Corps. It intends to sponsor a team for the peanut league and another for the proposed junior hard ball league as well as the "Has Beens" team.

Work for the benefit of the Homeless Children is already under way, according to co-chairman, Harold Walsh and John York. Last year the committee presented the Central Committee with a check for $2,000.

On Saturday afternoon, December 20, the parlor had its annual Kiddies Christmas party. There were movie cartoons presented by Al Green, Christmas Carols, a program by the children of the Gibson Dance Studio, "The Story of St. Nickolas." The program was under the direction of Jack Schmidt and Bert Thompson, co-chairmen, assisted by Al Green, John Boggiali, Don West, Ed Glos, Howard Pare, Ed. Tallman, Jim MacLellan, and Topsy Tallman.

Grand Trustee Louis Pellandini of Sonoma made his official visit to Napa Monday evening, December 29, and an initiation was scheduled in his honor.

One of Napa Parlor's proudest possessions is the great lighted stained glass seal that adorns its hall, said to be one of the largest and prettiest in the State of California. Its name of beauty and greatness has been spread over the entire State by visiting brothers from many parlors.

Modesto Native Sons Hold Annual Christmas Party

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW inducted seven new members into the Order at the regular meeting held on December 3, making a total of seventeen new members admitted since July 1. Officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows: Melvin David, president; Ernest Curry, 1st vice president; Chas. Boring, 2nd vice president; Kennan Beard, 3rd vice president; Volney Willson, marshal; Frank Linton, inside sentinel; Ray Peck, Jr., outside sentinel.

Mark V. Wilson, for many years the financial secretary of the parlor and well known by members throughout the state, submitted his resignation, a distinct loss to the organization. The offices of financial secretary and recording secretary will be consolidated as soon as amendments to the local by-laws are approved by the Grand Parlor Committee on Laws of Subordinate Parlors.

The annual Christmas Party, a stag affair, was held on Thursday evening, December 18, at the American Legion Kitchen. Turkey with all of the trimmings was served. Presents were exchanged. Music was furnished by the Parlor's eight-piece orchestra under the leadership of Dwayne Lilly. Carl Lewis, Frank Linton and Walter Crow are in charge of the affair.

Represented by Harold F. Parkhurst, District Deputy Grand President of The Native Sons of the Golden West, and Dr. E. M. Johnston, president of the Riverside Parlor, the Native Sons of the Golden West, honored the Tactical Air Command's Twelfth Air Force California installation, March Field, with ceremonies in the office of Col. Carl J. Crane, First Fighter Wing commander, Saturday morning, December sixth. Fruitvale Parlor Honors Grand President Odemar

In the recent weeks, Fruitvale Parlor, NS-GW, has been busy with its winter social activities. A ladies night was a huge success; then a well attended turkey whist; and now on Friday evening, December 12, the topper of them all was Grand President's night. Extra chairs were necessary to accommodate the crowd in attendance, the majority being members of the Parlor. Twelve candidates were initiated in honor of the Grand President who was in attendance, with quite a retinue of his cabinet.

Regular chair officers conducted the ritual in letter perfect manner and were highly commended by the Grand Officers. The meeting was topped off by a midnight luncheon in which the motif was a liberal serving of fresh crab salad Louis, hot garlic Italian bread, and plenty of side fixins, all prepared by the wives of the committee members. The Parlor presented Grand President Odemar with a solid silver cigar lighter, embellished with the American and Bear flags and suitably inscribed. Past Grand President Edward T. Schnarr of Fruitvale was Master of Ceremonies and made the presentation. Many of the early timers of the Parlor were present and enjoyed what was said to be the best Native Son meeting in Alameda county during this year.

Grand Officers present, were, Grand President Walter Odemar, Grand First Vice President, Walter N. Bailey, Grand Second Vice President, Peter T. Conmy, Grand Secretary, John T. Regan, Grand Historian Emmett P. Joy, Past Grand Presidents Charles A. Koenig, Richard McCarthy, Edward T. Schnarr, Grand Trustee J. Following a brief illness, Mrs. W. H. (Olive Waite) Lopez passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. LeBlanc, 2814 Wigtown Road, Culver City, Thursday afternoon, December 18, 1947.

Mrs. Olive Lopez was born at 9th and Broadway, Los Angeles, February 24, 1872. Her father, Mr. James A. Waite, crossed the plains a century ago and became one of the early owners of the old "Los Angeles Star." He later started the first newspaper in Santa Ana, which was known at the Santa Ana Herald. Her mother, Mrs. Louise Fox Waite, crossed the Isthmus of Panama as a child with her parents, coming from Columbia, Georgia, and arrived in California during the Gold Rush days, also.

Following the death of her husband, Mr. W. H. Lopez, in 1904, Mrs. Lopez served as Society Editor of the Santa Ana Register for many years, and later as Treasurer of the City of Santa Ana for 12 years. She was then prominent in Business and Professional Women's circles there. For many years she devoted much time to teaching Mexican children and assisted in their welfare work. Following her retirement, she resided in Los Angeles for the past 20 years, and has been active in the Catholic Woman's Club, and Californiana Parlor 247, NDGW, of which Parlor she was a charter member and secretary during her daughter's term as president. Her interest in the preservation of California's landmarks, and her historical research is well known throughout the state.

In addition to Mrs. J. D. LeBlanc, who taught for 17 years at Rosewood school in Hollywood and more recently at Sherman Oaks, Mrs. Olive Lopez is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Alphonse B. Fages who prior to her marriage was also engaged in the field of journalism and later was Editor of "The Grizzly Bear" for two years; and Mrs. Lopez' two grand-daughters, Mrs. Betty LeBlanc Stokes and Nancy Elisa Fages. A son, Mr. Alonzo Lopez, was chief entomologist for the Philippine Sugar Association and was recognized as one of the leading five in the world in his field at the time of his death in 1932.

Rosary was on December 19. Following the Rosary and rendition of "Ave Maria," members of Californiana 247, recited the Native Daughter memorial ceremony in loving tribute to Mrs. Olive Lopez. PGP Mary B. Noerenberg, President Emma B. Lawson, Past Presidents Susan Lange and Beatrice Wahrenmund, and State Radio Chairman, Margaret A. Kerr, took part.

The numbers on the girl's dresses were for the judge's use and not for the region that they represent.

Beverly Lake Is Named "Girl Of Golden West"

By JAMES T. RITCHEY

Editor's Note: As we went to press the New Year's Festivities had not yet been held at Pasadena, hence we will have to wait until the February issue for pictures and story about the float entered in the Tournament of Roses Parade by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. This much we can say, the finals of the contest were held at the Belmont Theatre in Los Angeles, Friday evening, December 12, and Beverly Lake was chosen "Girl of the Golden West." Chairman Ritchey reports that 8x10 glossy prints of the pictures appearing on these pages, or of the float, may be obtained at $1.00 each from the Native Sons and Daughters Tournament of Roses Float Committee, 5009 Alhambra Avenue, Los Angeles 32.

The interest that this contest has created, has been growing, particularly in areas that really entered into the contest wholeheartedly. This is born out by the tremendous flood of congratulatory messages that are pouring into the home of the winning contestant, Beverly Lake, our Girl of the Golden West for 1948.

One of the highlights of the contest was the list of judges that made the selection of the "Girl of the Golden West" final. Barbara Britton, that beautiful and as well loved Native Daughter from Long Beach presided as chairman of the judging committee. Barbara is always to be remembered for her graciousness in the giving of her time to the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to help us in our activities. Barbara has just finished a picture with Paramount co-starring with Randolph Scott, named Albuquerque.

The other judges were: Mary Mead Mad-dick, internationally known commercial photographer, who makes such covers as those on the Ladies Home Journal, Womens Home Companion and Coronet and etc.; A. B. Shore, vice-president of Max Factor and who is a beauty expert; Mr. Leslie O'Pace, Paramount talent scout and drama coach.

We also have just learned that Barbara Britton has just completed an album of nine bible stories, King James version. An album of records that every home should possess. Recorded with that lovely voice that only Barbara has, should make every Native Son and Daughter want to hear them. The entire proceeds that are made from the sale of these albums are donated strictly to charitable organizations.

This is how the final contest winds up:

Beverly Lake, Beverly Hills, "Girl of the Golden West," who has been designated to represent the Great North West, which takes in the Salinas Valley, San Francisco Bay area on north to the Oregon border. Region No. 4.

Charlotte Ricotta, Fresno, to represent Central East, San Joaquin Valley, Region No. 3.

Glennice Belnap, Riverside, to represent Southern California, Los Angeles to San Diego, Region No. 1.

Eileen Sunderland, Inglewood, to represent Central West, San Luis Obispo to Ventura, Region No. 2.

Barbara Forbush, Pasadena, to represent North East Oroville north to the Oregon border, Region No. 4.

These girls will ride upon the Native Sons and Daughters floral float the theme "Our Golden State." The theme of the Tournament of Roses parade this year is "The Golden West." Our float contractors Hannaford & Hawkins, though they have not as much money as other entrants are spending to compete for sweepstakes, nevertheless are going to try to make it one of the winners.

In behalf of all the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, the Tournament of Roses Float Committee for our Order wants to thank publicly Fox West Coast Theatres, Inc., and their representative Bruce Fowler who provided us with a theatre during show-time to hold our contest. Also our thanks to the Belmont Theatre manager, Mr. Carnige for his real friendly cooperation and help. We hope Mr. Fowler and Mr. Carnige don't hold too much against us for imposing on their generous hospitality.

To all of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of Bakersfield Parlors. It is the personal wish of the Executive Committee to express their thanks for their 100 percent cooperation in carrying forward in their contest for the "Girl of the Golden West" in Brother Stein's district. The district not having other districts to compete. Bakersfield qualified, but the region did not. Therefore, it became necessary to bring the district winner from Bakersfield to Los Angeles to combine with other district run-offs.

General Chairman Ritchey gets a "buss" from the winner. Jim seems to enjoy it.

life size painting called the "Transfiguration of Christ." So wonderfully have the colored pigments been applied to canvas that under Klieben's brush strokes our Savior seems real and alive. It brings comfort and inspiration to the many thousands who visit the little shrine. Incidentally the proceeds realized from the sale of folders go directly to the American Red Cross and total some $4,000 annually.

The story of Walter Knott, his berry farm and restaurant, has been told in the leading magazines and newspapers across our nation. The Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Reader's Digest, Farm Journal, Family Circle and Christian Science Monitor are just a few of the publications to carry articles about the man who just twenty-five years ago leased ten acres near Buena Park, Orange County, and planted them to berries.

Suffice to say that a million hungry folks enjoy his famous chicken dinners in a year. However, this is a story of how Ghost Town was born. That it entertains the guests who must of necessity wait for a table in the Knott dining room is acknowledged. In fact, it is the only place that we ever heard of where most restaurant goers look happily forward to that wait.

Anyway, our hat is off to Native Son Walter Knott, his wife Cordelia, his son Russell and three daughters Virginia, Toni and Marion. It goes to show the concerted power of family endeavor.

To Walter Knott Ghost Town is a hobby. Often he unobtrusively joins the crowds of sightseers to be entertained in his own Ghost Town. Within twenty miles of Los Angeles he has lifted the curtain of the past and erected a pioneer town. It belongs to the public and there is no admission charge.

"The ghost towns of California are fast crumbling away," Walter Knott reminds us. "Only a few remain and most of these are located miles away in the middle of nowhere. Where a few people may make a trip to these forgotten towns of our pioneers, thousands come to Ghost Town weekly. The visitor enjoys the same thrill but we at Ghost Town can preserve the picture as well as make it."

Mother Colony Plans For Centennial Celebration

Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, Native Sons, Anaheim, is joining forces with the Anaheim Junior Chamber of Commerce, for a Gold Centennial Celebration and dance Saturday evening, January 24, at the Anaheim Elks Club. Loren Wagner heads the committee from Mother Colony in charge.

Main street of Ghost Town, when the crowds are not milling around, is a splendid spot to obtain pictures of early day atmosphere. Notice the old windmill in the background.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY PLANS GOLD CENTENNIAL EVENT JANUARY 24th

Enthusiastic representatives from Native Sons and Native Daughter parlors in Los Angeles County met Monday evening, December 15, at the Mayfair Hotel in Los Angeles to lay plans for the Gold Discovery Centennial luncheon. Gold nuggets (candy wrapped in gold foil); a bulletin board full of clippings and pictures of James Marshall, Coloma and the discovery of gold stories; and books and pamphlets telling in picture and story the Gold Rush era were on hand to put parlor representatives in the mood for a peppy meeting. They served as a reminder that our first great Centennial is here and that Natives everywhere should be on hand to tell the story of the day that was to effect the entire world.

President Dan Kruckeberg of the Interparlor Committee opened the meeting, turning the gavel over to Chairman Ella Steinbeck.

Plans decided include a 1 p. m. luncheon in the Blue Room, Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles. County officials will be guests of honor. Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish will be chairman for the day. An elaborate program with fine speakers is anticipated.

Table decorations will feature all phases of the gold era with Native Sons, Native Daughters and outside organizations competing for prizes. Parlors will sponsor their own tables which will seat 10 people. Civic officials and honored guest and the press of the various communities will be seated at the table of the parlors offering the invitation. Rosemary Connor, Frank Collins and Albert Mound will head a committee to set up decoration rules, theme suggestions and to invite judges. They will be in charge of decorations at the speakers table.

Prominent clubs and civic groups within the county will be invited to participate.

Los Angeles city newspapers will be represented at the press table.

Mrs. Steinbeck has announced the following committee: Rosemary Connor, Margaret Kerr, Florence Irish, Mary Miller, Edna Neikirk, Mary Noerenberg, Ann Schiebusch and Grace Stoermer; Eugene Biscailuz, Frank Collins, Milton Eisenhart, Harry Davis, Albert Mount, Eldred Meyer, Ward McConnell, Dan Kruckeberg, Albert Peracca and Harvey Webster.

Christmas Party Given For Veterans At Sawtelle

The Veteran's party scheduled for December 14 at Sawtelle and planned for from 200 to 400 men turned into a Bingo party for 600 men. It was reported that this was one of the largest ever given at the Veteran's Administration. Chairman Margarethe Bohannon of the Interparlor Committee said parlors in Riverside, Orange and Los Angeles counties were most generous in making it possible to give cash prizes and to serve cookies, nuts and candy.

ern slopes of the Sierra Nevada. Among some of those who returned was Sam Brannan who held up a bottle of gold dust in his hands as he passed along the streets of San Francisco shouting "Gold! Gold! Gold! on the American river." It was during the month of May and San Francisco soon became a scene of utter confusion. Men of all professions, business and trades left immediately. Some going by boat up the Sacramento and the San Joaquin rivers, others by land. The well known land routes were via Sonoma then across the Sacramento Valley while some followed a more southern route by going around the bay up to Mission San Jose and through the Livermore hills thence across the San Joaquin valley.

Henry Bigler sent word to his comrades who were once members of the Mormon Battalion and as a consequence, "Mormon Island" on the American river was founded. Some of the members of the Mormon Battalion disbanded in Los Angeles after the Mexican war and were on their way back to Salt Lake City but stopped to work for a while at Sutter's Fort and it was this group who were employed to work in the building of the mill that were present when Marshall discovered gold.

During the summer of 1848, Monterey, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and other large settlements became almost depopulated. Sailors left their ships which were anchored in San Francisco bay. Farmers in the valleys left their farms and it was not long before most of the male population were in the hills mining for gold.

John Bidwell and P. B. Reading arrived at Sutter's Fort and seeing what was happening returned to the north. Reading discovered gold on the Trinity river in northeastern California. This was the most northerly point reached during the year of 1848.

Sutter and Marshall with their crew of Indians worked along the American river for a while. During the summer Colonel Mason visited the area of activity and reported that there were about 4,000 men at work in the hills east of Sutter's Fort. The gold fields gradually enlarged. Gold was being found on the Feather and Yuba rivers. It was discovered on Bear river and on Weber creek, south of Placerville. During the late autumn discoveries were made on the Mokelumne river, Dry Creek and Wood's Crossing on Wood's Creek in Tuolumne county. Gold was discovered as far south as Mariposa county.

Thus, the great gold discovery was consummated which changed the whole course of history on the Pacific coast as well as the eastern states and as the news sounded around the world, people came from foreign lands to seek a fortune. During the year 1849 that followed, the great trek to the west had taken place. Thousands of Argonauts crossed the plains and mountains from Missouri and other points to mine gold shortly after its discovery. This was one of the greatest human migrations in the history of mankind.

THE MAILBOX

San Francisco, November 24, 1947.

I have been away from San Francisco for the past ten days and therefore did not get to see the November issue of your Grizzly Bear until my return to the office this morning.

Please accept my sincere congratulations on the really magnificent job you and your associates are doing.

The Grizzly Bear Magazine is excellent. I mean that.

Sincerely,

A. HAROLD NOON.

Los Banos, December 9, 1947.

Permit me to thank you for the admirable way you got out the Henry Miller story. I hope the people of Los Banos will like it. And the clear way the pictures turned out is wonderful. I never supposed they could be copied so well.

Would it be possible for me to have the cuts and let the Los Banos Enterprise publish the article.

Also, I hope to write a history of Los Banos and would like to have the cuts to use in the book.

Would you be interested later on to have articles on Firebaugh, on Dos Palos and on Mission San Juan Bautista, giving brief outlines of the unknown history of these places?

RALPH L. MILLIKEN.

Our thanks to you Ralph Milliken for the Henry Miller story. Most certainly you may have the use of the cuts in question. We will be happy to consider at any time stories of the sections that you mention. We wish others like you, would send us historical sketches of their part of the State.

EDITORIAL

Representatives of the Americanism Committee of the Native Sons of The Golden West, subsequent to a recent newspaper article on the proposed re-entry of Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) to the United States, visited the offices of United States Attorney James M. Carter. The records of the United States Attorney's office were discussed by Mr. Carter with Eldred L. Meyer, State Chairman of the Committee, Frank J. Collins and Bernard G. Hiss, members of the delegation.

It was disclosed that Iva Toguri admitted to interrogators that she participated as a paid employee of a Japanese broadcasting station, in radio programs prepared and beamed to our fighting forces in the mid-Pacific. With all the harm done by the Japanese broadcasters, Mr. Carter, because of legal technicalities restricting him, was doubtful that he could prosecute Tokyo Rose in the local courts.

United States Senators Knowland and Downey, and all of the California Congressmen who have replied to Meyer, have expressed their complete support to prevent the return of Tokyo Rose. The consensus of all, was that any disloyal person lending aid and comfort to the enemy, should not enjoy the same privileges under the Stars and Stripes as those who willingly fought for our Nation's survival.

H. J. McClatchey, Executive Secretary of the California Joint Immigration Committee at Sacramento, is supporting this movement with this statewide group. Patriotic groups and the public can best aid in this protest by stating their position directly to their Congressmen and to Ugo Carusi, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization at Philadelphia.

The other members of the Native Sons' Americanism Committee are: Honorable Thomas P. White of Los Angeles, Honorable Richard Nixon of Whittier, Jesse H. Miller of San Francisco, Newell Maddock of Santa Cruz, Frank P. Smith of Oakland, and Honorable Benjamin C. Jones of Lake County.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

The opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

Grand President Walter H. Odemar, Native Sons of the Golden West, in his bulletin of November 24 calls attention to the need for protection of historic buildings and records, a matter that should interest every Native Son and Daughter.

He says

"The two recent fires in Downieville where in the St. Charles Hotel and the Court House were destroyed brings to mind the importance of adequate fire protection of the few remaining old historic structures found in several parts of the State of California and the essentialness of the preservation of old Court records and recordings of many years ago. Investigation has disclosed that in most of the county seats in California the Clerk's records and the official recorded documents are not being given sufficient care or protection. In many of the county seats these old documents are stored away with very little thought given to their preservation. It is suggested that the Parlors in various county seats appoint committees to investigate the care given by the County Clerks and the Recorders of the official records which have not become very old and if it is found by the committee that not sufficient protection against fire and the ravages of age are being taken, that the Parlor request those responsible for the care of these documents, including the Board of Supervisors, to rectify the matter. This certainly is a project in which any Parlor should take pride in investigating and following through. From all reports this project is as essential in the larger communities as in the smaller ones."

According to "The Growl," ably edited and printed bulletin of Napa Parlor, Native Sons, the parlor's Homeless Children committee presented a check for $2,000 to the Central Committee last year to help carry on this important work of the two Orders. The parlor is out to better this during the coming year. We wonder if any other parlor of either the Native Sons or Native Daughters can top this record.

Thank you, Desert Sun, Palm Springs, for your story about our December issue. We also understand that some of the Natives down your way are interested in starting a parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

CALIFORNIA FINANCE

By A. HAROLD NOON

E. J. Evans, of Los Angeles, chairman of the board of the First California Company, leading western underwriting and investment securities firm, is optimistic over general business conditions throughout the country.

Evans, nationally known investment banker, has just returned from a business trip which took him to New York and other eastern cities. He declared that the material well-being of the farmer is perhaps the greatest single factor supporting the continued stability of our national economy.

Evans said:

"American farmers have good cause to be happy. Since 1940, total farm assets have more than doubled. Physical assets—real estate, crops, livestock, machinery—increased from $48.8 billion in January, 1940, to $89.1 billion in January, 1947.

"Farmers finances—deposits, currency, government bonds, investment in cooperatives—expanded during the period from 1940 to 1947 from $4.9 billion to $22.1 billion. Holdings of U. S. Savings Bonds alone grew from $24 billion to $5.3 billion."

Evans predicted that farm income for 1947 will jump ahead of the 1946 peak. Farm cash income, up to a new high for the first eight months of this year of $17.4 billion, promises to hit $30 billion, as against $25 billion in 1946 and the 1929 pre-war high of only $12 billion.

"Farmers today," declared Evans, "face the job of feeding 10 per cent more people in the United States than before the war, to say nothing of meeting the tremendous demands of Europe. And the average American, more prosperous than ever before, is eating more.

"The farmers are prosperous and the outlook is for continued high earnings."

The First California Company, by the way, has just opened its twenty-fourth branch in California.

A Redwood Empire division office has been established at Napa with Malcolm A. Rogers in charge. All of which indicates that business is booming with First Cal. not only in this state but in Nevada where the company maintains branches in Las Vegas and in Reno.

Because of the fast growing shortage of natural gas in northern and central California, considerable interest has been aroused over the announcement that drilling operations are scheduled to start soon in the big Hooker Dome structure near Red Bluff, in Tehama county.

A syndicate of California business and professional men headed by Edward H. Clark and William D. Dickey, both of San Francisco, now has under lease 22,610 acres, comprising the entire Hooker Dome structure.

Clark, former investment banker, is treasurer and director of the Pacific Vegetable Oil Corporation. He is a son of the late Edward H. Clark, president of the famous Homestake Mine.

Clark said that he and Dickey became interested in the Hooker Dome Project after reading a report prepared by Ralph Arnold, of Los Angeles. Arnold, world famous geologist and engineer, has discovered more oil and gas fields than any other man.

Financing of planned drilling operations was done by private subscription, according to Clark, who said that there would be no public stock offering.

California's Centennial Years

GRAND PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Commencing the Centennial Celebrations so significant to Californians, on January 24th, we fittingly observed the discovery of gold one hundred years ago by James Marshall at Coloma, and continue with a three years' series of festivities, commemorating California's coming into Statehood.

What a golden opportunity for us, as natives of this happily favored State and members of an organization pledged to perpetuate the glorious deeds of the Pioneers; to re-dedicate ourselves for the preservation of our precious heritage, fostering good will and expanding our membership, through active participation in the Centennial program.

Let each Parlor be identified with those historic observances, and see to it that your History and Landmarks Committee is functioning and cooperating, particularly in regard to the registration of landmarks, with your county officials and State Centennial Commission.

Plan historical programs, including the old songs and square dances, and pursue the study of our Golden State, in prose and poetry, pictures and fiction—you will find the most fascinating stories and be thrilled, enthused and imbued with renewed gratitude.

And let us work and pray for the continuance of God's Blessings, peace and plenty and progress for all in California.

Sincerely and fraternally,

DORIS TREAT,
Grand President, NDGW.

NOTICE

The Parlor directory of presidents and secretaries for the new term for both Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will be published in the March issue of the Grizzly Bear. If your directory changes have not yet been sent to the Grand Secretary's office, please do so at once, as we want the directory to be as complete and up-to-date as possible.

Again, may we caution all parlor secretaries that the absolute copy deadline for stories is the 15th of the month preceding date of publication. All material received in the Grizzly Bear office after this date must be held over until the following issue, when it will be published, if, in the opinion of the editors, the story would still be of interest to other parlors.

The 15th of the month at this office is also the absolute deadline for mailing list changes, as we must prepare them and turn in to the mailer not later than the 20th of the month. Mailing list changes received after the 15th of the month preceding date of publication, must be held over until the following month. We are sorry that we must be so stringent about this regulation, but our failure to abide by it means that we lose our turn in the mailing of the magazine, and, consequently, the Grizzly Bear is late in reaching our subscribers.

You can be of great assistance to the staff if you will get your communications and mailing list changes in well in advance of the 15th deadline. Stories received well in advance are apt to get better handling than if they get tangled up in the last minute rush to close up the pages and go to press.

OUR COVER

The beautiful float of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena New Year's Day. A prize-winner, this entry was seen by an estimated million and a half spectators along the line of the parade. Pictures of it ran in the metropolitan press throughout the United States bringing fame and honor to both great Orders.

The Pasadena Tournament of Roses Pictorial said:

"Symbolizing the natural colors and terrain of the Golden State, the foreground of this fine float represents the warm colors of the desert, rust, gold and yellow chrysanthemums. Rising gradually are the foothills which blend into the darker hues of the snowcapped Sierras. Enthroned between the highest peaks sits the "Girl of the Golden West." On the left of the float is the National ensign and on the right is the famous California bear flag in minute detail."

Every Native Son and Native Daughter of the Golden West may well be proud of their entry at Pasadena New Year's Day. We should all resolve now that we will be represented next year with another outstanding float.

AS COMPILED FROM
THE FILES OF THE
GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

A heavy, cold storm prevailed throughout California the first week of February, 1873. Twenty inches of snow fell in Nevada City, Nevada County.

Another cold storm swept over the state for several days beginning February 17. Three inches of snow fell in Marysville, Butte County, and the Buttes near there were mantled with white. Hail and snow squalls prevailed in the valleys, and sixteen feet of snow fell on the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

February 28 the surviving passengers of the steamer "California" celebrated the anniversary of their arrival in San Francisco in 1849 with a banquet in that city. Of the 440 passengers arriving on the steamer 25 were believed to be all that remained to celebrate the twenty-fourth anniversary.

F. M. Pixley created some excitement in San Francisco by making an anti-Chinese speech February 18. He claimed it to be the duty of the citizens there, if the Pacific Mail Steamship Company did not stop bringing Chinamen to California, to burn its steamships at the wharves. He declared he would carry a torch and lead the mayor and other citizens to stop the coming, if necessary.

Matters at the Modoc war in Northern California were quiet. The United States Government appointed General Canby, Dr. Thomas and A. B. Meacham, peace commissioners, and on February 25 they were arranging to meet Captain Jack and talk over a peace proposition.

The California Fish Commission received a consignment of 250,000 whitefish eggs from the United States Government commission in the East. They were planted in Clear Lake, Lake County.

A. Schussler, a civil engineer, submitted a proposition to the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco to build a tunnel from Rincon Point to Goat Island, beneath the bay, for traffic purposes.

A. M. Simpson, mining in Wyman's Ravine, Butte County, found a nugget weighing two and a half pounds and worth $540. It was found in a pile of tailings washed by a former miner and thrown out of the sluice with a mining fork.

Cucumbers from Vaca Valley were on the San Francisco market February 24 and sold at $4 a dozen.

The town of Point Arena, Mendocino County, was burned February 5 with a $30,000 loss.

Don McLaughlin, on his ranch in Santa Cruz County January 16, discovered a California lion in the pig-pen killing a hog. He shot and killed it. It measured seven feet and three inches long.

A California lion killed near San Andreas, Calaveras County, by two young men when out hunting, was nine feet long from tip to tip.

A sturgeon weighing 380 pounds was caught in a net by fishermen near Benicia, Solano County.

Four horses were stolen from a farmer named Doherty near Grayson. This was the fifth time horses had been stolen from him. He offered a large reward and two men started in pursuit of a suspected party. He was overtaken driving two of the horses hitched to a wagon and leading the other two. After telling his pursuers to shoot him, as he would not be taken back alive, he jumped from the wagon and started to run. They fired at, and killed him.

A Dutchman got in the coach of a train at Redding, Shasta County, bound for Sacramento. After the train started he pulled out and filled a meerschaum pipe, but before lighting it noticed a woman passenger near by, one of the few occupants of the car. He politely asked her if she objected to his smoking his pipe. She emphatically replied that she did. Then he coolly said, "Vell, you bedder go into the next car as I vill smoke anyway."

The ship "Patrician," loaded with wheat, left San Francisco February 27 for Cork. Crossing the bar at the entrance of the Golden Gate it was struck by a heavy swell and foundered. The crew took to small boats and were saved. The wreck was sold afterwards for $350.

Dr. E. S. Holden of Stockton was elected president of a company incorporated to build a narrow-gauge railroad from Stockton to Ione City, Amador County.

Tournament of Roses Entry is Outstanding

Beautiful Float of Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West at Pasadena New Year's Day is acclaimed by close to two million people.

By WALTER H. ODEMAR
Grand President, NSGW

ALL of the members of the Native Sons of the Golden West and Native Daughters of the Golden West owe a debt of gratitude to Pasadena Parlor No. 296, Native Sons of the Golden West, and all who worked with the members of that Parlor for the entry in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena on January 1, 1948, under the banner of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. All who had an opportunity to see that outstanding float and the five native daughters thereon could not help but feel their hearts swell in pride of their membership in either of our two great Orders. More feet of motion picture film were taken, according to my information, of our float than of any other float in the Tournament of Roses parade. It is my understanding that a photograph of this float, without color, will be found on the cover of this issue of the Grizzly Bear, and I urge each of you who read this column to examine that photograph and to imagine how it looked in color, made up of over 125,000 freshly cut flowers.

The Tournament of Roses is annually viewed by close to two million people, and the last parade was no exception. Photographs of the outstanding floats are taken and sent throughout the world and the parade is always a good subject for the news reels. Those of you who have had the occasion to go to a theatre during the month of January undoubtedly saw views of that parade, which included our float entitled "Our Golden State." What medium of publicity exists which equals that received by those entering a creditable entry in that parade?

For those who do not know, the girls on the float were selected from various portions of the State of California, and those portions of the State which did not choose a representative were represented by one chosen by the local committee to represent that area. From the five girls representing five geographical areas in California, one was selected as the Girl of the Golden West. This year she was a girl chosen locally who represented the Great Northwestern portion of California. The publicity surrounding the selection of the "Girl of the Golden West" should also be mentioned, for it was state-wide in scope and was of such a nature that it brought creditable recognition to our two Orders. The girls themselves, all native daughters, were a credit to our Order, as well as the float, and have assisted in bringing much favorable comment regarding the float and our Orders.

In viewing the parade, I was impressed by the entries of other fraternal organizations, those entered by the Lions Club, the American Legion, etc., and take pride in the fact that our float won first prize in Class C, which is a segregation classifying fraternal, patriotic, educational and musical organizations' entries.

It is sincerely hoped that, for the interest of our two great Orders as a whole from Arcata to Chula Vista, a similar entry is made in future Tournament of Roses parades, and that such an entry will become one of the annual features of our Orders as well as of that parade.

The local Committee is also to be congratulated upon its financing program. It did a splendid job. However, I am informed that it has a small deficit which can very easily be made up by a donation of $5.00 or $10.00 from the Parlors who did not heretofore assist, or from individuals who desire to make their personal contribution towards this very worthwhile publicity medium. All parlors, or individuals, who wish may send their donations direct to Pasadena Parlor NSGW, or to me, stating the purpose thereof, and the receipts will be credited to the deficit remaining. I wish all Native Sons could have seen the float. It was beautiful.

National Orange Show To Follow Centennial Theme

By EARL E. BUIE

San Bernardino's National Orange Show will be more significantly than ever California's spectacle of gold. The show is scheduled March 11 through March 21.

The theme for the exposition, annually one of the West's most beautiful agricultural exhibits, is "Fiesta de Oro (festival of gold)." It was adopted at the suggestion of Governor Earl Warren that California's expositions and public events of all character observe in some form the centennial of the discovery of gold.

And the show's feature exhibits will reflect all the romanticism of the days when the cry of gold spread across the country to another era—the era of another gold, citrus fruits. The displays, many designed by noted artists and all fashioned of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, will occupy an exhibit area bordered by racks of California's choicest fruits entered in competition for Orange Show awards. In 1947 the fruit awards totaled $16,000 in cash. It was installed as a service by the exposition to demonstrate the superiority of California's citrus fruit juices.

A new department at the 1948 show will be a farm machinery and equipment section, housed in tents and served with a demonstration area in which dealers may operate their tractors, cultivators and rigs. Complementing this exhibit will be a transportation unit which, like the farm and equipment section, will be housed in tents. So rapidly has been the growth of the show that permanent structures could not be thrown up in time for the 1948 exposition.

Extensive exhibits by federal and state agricultural agencies, displays by 4-H clubs and the Future Farmers of America will be included in one section of the main show building. An adjoining structure will be devoted to the junior citrus fruit judging events, the agricultural extension service and the Citrus Institute, to be held March 1. Invited by the Orange Show to address California's citrus growers is Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, who indicated he would accept. Other speakers will include University of California scientists in citrus culture, growers and executives of marketing organizations.

The show itself will be the biggest in its 33 years of splendor. Under construction and to be completed in time for the 1948 exposition are two units of the National Orange Show's postwar development program. One unit is the new commercial and industrial department building, 354 feet in length and 154 feet in width—one of the west's largest fair structures; the other is a $110,000 administration building.

The commercial and industrial department, formerly housed in the main exhibits building, will be shifted to the new structure, occupying a site along the main east-west axis of the exposition grounds. This will permit the expansion of the fruit and feature displays to be arranged around the flower exhibits, enlarged rack displays and the development of an entertainment area in which will be presented the stage shows, twice daily with big-name stars of the screen, stage and radio, vaudeville and famed bands.

Introduced at the 1947 show which set an all-time attendance record of 287,000, the orange juice bar will again occupy a section of the main building. The juicer, manufactured by the Food Machinery Corp., and with a capacity of 484 oranges a minute, produced nearly half a million glasses of orange juice at last year's show.

Presiding at the daily programs will be the 1948 Orange Show queen to be selected from contestants representing virtually every community of San Bernardino county. The show's queen will be selected March 5.

Typical throng at the National Orange Show, the thirty-third edition of which will be held at San Bernardino March 11 through March 21. The show annually is one of California's great agricultural expositions.—Photo Randolph Studio.

100 Years of Golden Opportunities

By ED. AINSWORTH
(From the Los Angeles Times)

High on a hill at Coloma stands this monument to James Wilson Marshall, who discovered gold at Sutter's Mill on January 24, 1848. The monument is 41 feet in height, and is of admirable proportion. The statue is of heroic size, being 11 feet in height, and represents Marshall dressed in miner's garb. In the open palm of his right hand lies a nugget of gold, while the index finger of his left hand points to the spot where the discovery was made. On the north side of the monument is the Great Seal of the State of California; on the south, a view of Sutter's Mill; on the east the names of the commissioners with the legend, "The site of this monument is a gift to the State of California from Placerville Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West."

The dedication plaque reads as follows:

Erected by the State of California
In Memory of
James W. Marshall
1810—1885

Whose discovery of Gold,
January 24, 1848,

In the Tailrace of Sutter's Mill at Coloma
Started the great rush of Argonauts.
Monument unveiled May 3, 1890.

Commissioners for the State at the time of the erection of the monument were A. Caminetti, John H. Miller, George Hofmeister and H. C. Gesford. George Hofmeister, a Native Son and member of the Order, is believed to be the only one of this group now living.—Photo by George M. Spears.

NATURE played a golden joke upon History when California was born. The United States was the winner, Mexico the loser in the fantastic trick of fate.

Just a few days before the United States formally acquired California from Mexico by the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, an obscure workman named James W. Marshall discovered gold in a millrace on the American River at Coloma, January 24. The news, of course, was not known when the treaty was signed.

Mexico thought it was ceding, and the United States thought it was acquiring, a stretch of rocky coast, some sandy wastes and a lot of relatively worthless mountains and forests in the region known as Upper California, even though there had been a small gold discovery by Francisco Lopez in Placerita Canyon in Southern California in 1842. Nobody suspected it was Golconda, a land gorged with gold, richer than all the fabled fortunes of the Incas and the Aztecs, bursting with treasure, yellow with a magnificent madness.

Not for months, indeed, did an astonished world awake to the staggering truth.

Gold free for all!

Gold to be scooped up in the bare hands. Gold to be gathered in frying pans. Gold in chunks, gold in nuggets, gold in dust. Gold interwoven in quartz. Gold in long yellow festoons. Red gold. Pale gold. Dark gold. Gold everywhere.

Crazily, incredulously then came the lustful hordes—men driven by visions of golden wealth. They chartered ships and came racing around the Horn amid icebergs and blizzards. They made their way to Panama and braved crocodiles and sullen savages to cross the Isthmus to await passage up from Panama City. They walked, drove, ran across the endless plains and climbed the Rockies and the Sierra to slake their golden thirst, and many left their whitening bones for headstones across a 3000-mile graveyard.

Yet many found what they sought.

Cabin of James W. Marshall at Coloma. Marshall never profited by his find. In the lawless period which followed his discovery his property was stolen, and on more than one occasion he was driven from mining claims which he had located. He, like many other pioneers, did not seem to know how to take advantage of the opportunity surrounding him, and after each unsuccessful venture he returned to the little cabin which he called home. Thirty years or more after his discovery, Marshall was found dead in his dark little cabin "in his boots," lying fully dressed on his barren bunk, his hat drawn over his eyes. Thus alone and in poverty died the man whose discovery had filled the coffers of the world. He was buried on the ridge above the cabin, in accordance with a wish expressed by him many times during his life. Placerville Parlor No. 9, NSGW, purchased the property on which the old cabin stands and presented it to the State of California. Later an appropriation of $5000 was made by the California Legislature for the erection of a suitable monument.—Photo by George M. Spears.

Although he celebrated the Gold Centennial at Coloma, the Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Judge Walter H. Odegar, pitched in to help the Los Angeles County Centennial committee, Native Sons and Daughters "make" gold nuggets as part of the table decorations for the civic luncheon at the Biltmore on January 24. Left to right: Grand President Walter H. Odegar, Ramona No. 109; Leonard Schwacofer, managing editor of the Grizzly Bear; Russell B. Seymour, president of the Native Sons Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club; John B. Schmolle, Ramona No. 109, NSGW.—Watson Photo Service.

Single pockets in the hills yielded riches. Gold dust rained, as common as sand, upon the bars and into the hands of painted women in the mushrooming gold camps and in the golden city of fantasy, San Francisco, by the Golden Gate.

Dreams came true amid the nightmares of failure. Shouts of delirious success mingled with the somber sound of the pistol shots of suicides.

And amid the frenzy, a State was being born. No suppliant territory was this burgeoning California, fat with golden coins, hilarious with success, swaggering with a mighty confidence and a catapulting population. She did not ask Congress humbly for admission to the Sisterhood of States, as had all her predecessor Territories. Instead she went boldly to Congress and said, "We are full grown. We demand entry as a State equal with all the other States, with no probation period, no Territorial status."

Congress hesitated. Volcanic reactions were inevitable from California's admission to the Union under any circumstances. For a delicate balance existed in the United States Senate on the deadly issue of slavery. Fifteen free States were arrayed on one side, 15 slave states on the other. California's entrance was bound to break the balance one way or the other. Two more Senators would be added to the slavery or anti-slavery side, and that would decide the tendency forever. Disunion was in the air. Civil war hovered horribly on the near horizon. Congress delayed.

California impatiently swept aside the fainthearted. She arranged her own constitutional convention, approved a no-slavery clause, adopted a Constitution, elected Senators and a Representative and knocked boldly upon Congress' door.

Finally, on September 9, 1850, she was accepted as the 31st State in the Union, a free State—and the War Between the States became a certainty as the slave-owning South saw its cherished institution doomed forever.

California's gold, then, later helped win the very war her entrance into the Union had helped precipitate.

Now, across 100 years, the golden nuggets of James W. Marshall glimmer brightly to illuminate the fantastic story of the rise of California. Mankind, it is true, reached here the uttermost western geographical limit of the nation. But in the realm of the spirit, of liberty, of progress, of an example for the world, California the Golden has reached no western shore, is inhibited by no horizons.

Her second century as a part of the United States beckons forward. Her golden future recognizes no limit.

Long Beach Native Sons Announce Term Program

Long Beach Parlor No. 278, Native Sons, has done something that few, if any, parlors of the Order have done. Contained in a neat mimeographed booklet received at the Grizzly Bear office are the programs for each meeting for the next six months term under the presidency of James R. Ray. Every meeting is planned for during the entire term, the speakers selected and their acceptance of the date verified. A brief resume of the speaker and his qualifications is also contained, thus enabling every member of the parlor to know well in advance as to what is in store for him.

Arrowhead Holds First Annual Athletic Night

First Annual Athletic Night of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, was held December 17 with all parlor teams well represented. Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Industrial Nightball Trophy by Russell Olsen of Olsen's Jewelry to Arrowhead Parlor. Shirley Myers, president-elect, accepted the trophy and later presented the same to Mark Watterson, president.

The Olsen Trophy is a perpetual award given by Russell Olsen to the Industrial League. The Olsen Jewelry also awards a trophy for each of the other leagues in the Nightball Association.

The surprise of the evening affair was the permanent presentation of the above trophy to the parlor, since Arrowhead Parlor ball clubs have won the trophy twice.

Roy Finkle, Arrowhead Parlor's senior trustee, was in charge of presentation of events and did a fine job. Every ball player present at the meeting was introduced by Roy.

Members of the ball club are: Soares, Jack and Bob Vautherot, Wilbur Veale, Claude Olsen, Reed, Cunningham, Dan and Eligio Zanone, Higbee, Strano, Anthony Martins, Sorenson and Lauterborn. Howard Hubbard, scorekeeper; Shirley Myers, announcer; Freitas, manager.

Although the meeting was highlighted by the ball club's trophy, the bowling and basketball members were introduced. Carl Evans introduced his casaba tossers and Dwight Williams took care of his king-pins.

Modesto Native Sons Active In Centennial Celebrations

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, is very actively cooperating with the Stanislaus County Centennials Committee in arranging for the various celebrations to be held throughout the county during the next three years. Several members are holding key positions on the committee: Leo Hammett as chairman and Bud David as first vice chairman of the General Committee, as well as of the Executive Board of Directors, with Ed Whitmore as chairman of the Finance Committee and treasurer of the General Committee and Board of Directors. Chas. Blaine is also on the Board of Directors as Grand Parlor County Committeeman on Centennials and chairman of Modesto Parlor's Centennials Committee. Others from the Parlor serving on various committees are Kennan Beard, Wayne Baldrige, Charles Whitmore, Roscoe Service and Oren Elmore. Starting the celebrations was a "Kick-Off Dinner" on Friday evening, January 23, at Turlock, to be followed later by other events in various locations in the county.

The Parlor held its first class initiation for 1948 on January 21 and joint installation of officers with Morada Parlor No. 199, NDGW, was held on January 28th. Ed Craig, William Phoenix and George O'Connor were appointed as a committee to co-operate with the Native Daughters on this latter affair. During the past six months term 18 new members were admitted. While two were lost by death, there were no suspensions. A soft ball team of boys from the local grammar schools was sponsored during the summer and an All-Native-Sons Bowling Team is now engaged in playing in a local tournament, being in 4th place in the first division.

Buena Vista Parlor Has Live-Wire Bulletin

Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, San Francisco, has a newsy little parlor bulletin put out each month under the title "Buena Vista Broadcaster." An 8½x14 sheet, mimeographed on both sides, its makeup is attractive and shows a great deal of work on the part of its editor, who evidently is a modest person, as we don't find her name on the January issue reaching the Grizzly Bear office. While quite a task to get out each month, such a bulletin is worthwhile and helps a great deal to keep up interest in parlor affairs.

Gold of Ophir Parlor Has Gay Spanish Fiesta

A gay Spanish Fiesta with entertainers in costume and music with plenty of Spanish flavor, was put on recently by Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190, NDGW, Oroville, at their regular meeting.

The refreshment tables were decorated with colorful cloths, hats and baskets of brightly colored fruits for the serving of tamale pie made by Mrs. Frances Wright. Ada Saunders and Laura Von Bargen assisted Mrs. Wright.

Californiana Parlor Makes Study of Los Angeles

Under the able direction of Hazel B. Steckel, program chairman, Californiana Parlor No. 247, NDGW, is becoming better informed concerning the various departments of government in the city and county of Los Angeles.

At a recent meeting William Neeley, Los Angeles County Public Defender, told parlor members of the little publicized but necessary functions of the office under his charge. Justice for everyone was the keynote of his talk, as he illustrated from case histories the need of a public defender for the poor and out-of-luck.

In December, Ernest Roll, Chief Deputy District Attorney, continued the story of the protection of the citizenry. He said that most of the cases which come into the District Attorney's office, are those of crimes committed by people who have been in California a comparatively short time, at the most five years. The stable California population of long standing and the natives of California rarely come under the scrutiny of the District Attorney.

On January 13, Frederick W. Rowekamp, head of the Forestry Division of Los Angeles, which is part of the Parks and Recreation Department of the city, spoke on the various problems confronting Los Angeles in its beautification program. There are 5000 miles of streets which means 10,000 miles of parkway planting, he pointed out. Smaller communities, adjacent to the city, are spending more on their tree planting programs than Los Angeles itself. He also said that trees should not be planted by the city unless money is appropriated at the same time for their maintenance.

President Emma Lawson, membership chairman, Hazel B. Steckel, and hospitality chairman, Marcella Palethorpe arranged an outstanding tea for the last meeting in January to greet new friends and prospective members of Californiana Parlor.

Menlo Junior Daughters Take Part in Program

Junior Native Daughters of Menlo Park were participants in the Community Christmas party and program at the recreation hall of the former N. S. Dibble Hospital. Eleven members as a choral group, sang three Christmas carols and were applauded tremendously by the hundreds of people in attendance.

The group, a few days before Christmas, through their junior president, Margaret Paccioretti, presented a set of desk flags, American and California Bear Flags, mounted on a red-wood stand, to O. Olsen, who was formerly superintendent of the Menlo Park School District. Mr. Olsen was recently named director of recreation and child guidance of the San Mateo County Schools.

It was he, who, at the time of the Menlo Juniors institution six years ago, recessed many of the lower grade classes so that they might be addressed on the merits of a Junior Native Daughters group.

Through his cooperation the nucleus for the Menlo Junior group was formed.

The Menlo Juniors held a public installation of officers Friday evening, February 6, at the Central School in Menlo Park.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Mrs. George (Edna T.) Neikirk, supervising deputy grand president of District No. 35, NDGW, Los Angeles County, directed arrangements for banquet and meeting in Elks Temple, Los Angeles, February 5 to honor Grand President Doris M. Treat. Nine parlors participated in the tribute, which was a feature of the Grand President's official visit to Southern California. Mrs. Neikirk is a member of Los Angeles Parlor.

Reina del Mar Past Presidents Hold Seventeenth Annual Meet

Past-Presidents Association of Reina del Mar Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, recently held their seventeenth annual meeting and recommended that the parlor co-operate fully in observances in connection with California Centennial as outlined by the state committee headed by Joseph Knowland of Oakland.

Reina del Mar parlor was instituted in April, 1901, and its association of past presidents was formed in 1931. Thirty-three past presidents are now identified with the parlor. Life Member Anna E. McCaughey pointed out that the association had been responsible over the years for sustaining a continuity of program in support of the objectives of the Order. The group had furthered cooperation, she said, with like forces of the Santa Barbara community in the fields of history, preservation of landmarks, veneration of pioneers, social welfare and education through scholarships.

The annual meeting was held at the Goleta Valley home of Miss Elise Bottiani, chairman, who was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Nini Bottiani, with Mrs. F. L. Birabent and Dr. Anna E. McCaughey pouring. Other past presidents attending were Mrs. Harry Myers, Miss Julia Haynes, Mrs. Mary Dardi, Mrs. Flora Miles, Mrs. Mary Marton, Mrs. Dora Mitchell, Mrs. George McCrea, Mrs. William Wegener, Mrs. Mary Gondolfo and Mrs. Albert Ames.

Present Bear Flags

Here is something for other parlors, both Native Sons and Native Daughters, to think about. On December 11, members of Fresno Parlor No. 187, Native Daughters, attended the "Welcome New Citizen" party of Fresno County and presented each new citizen with a miniature California Bear Flag.

Copa de Oro Parlor Has Busy Holiday Season

Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105, NDGW Hollister, complemented three brides at delightful miscellaneous showers at a recent meeting of November 19.

On December 3, the membership was increased by three, one each by initiation, deposit of withdrawal card and re-instatement. Refreshment tables prettily decorated with a holiday theme, lighted red tapers and long sprays of shining berries and greenery, were arranged in a huge hollow square, surrounding smaller tables where were seated the candidates and their escorts. A table quiz featured the holiday season with awards received by PGP Bertha Briggs and PP Gladys Jones. During the business session, contributions were voted to the Community Chest and the Tuberculosis Seal drive.

A Yuletide atmosphere prevailed at the annual Christmas party on December 17. The meeting hall was bright with wreaths, potted poinsettias and masses of berries and greenery. Santa arrived via a bright red wheelbarrow and, at once proceeded to distribute the many attractively wrapped gifts heaped beneath the tree. A long table was laden with gifts for Secret Pals.

Assembly singing of carols added to the holiday spirit. Candle-lighted refreshment tables were beautiful with tall green tapers adorned with perky red satin bows and amid long sprays of greenery twinkled tiny Christmas lights. The planning group served delicious hot persimmon puddings, popcorn-cakes and coffee.

Past Presidents Association No. 13 enjoyed the usual Yuletide dinner on December 22 with tables gay with holiday theme. Gifts were exchanged and an entertaining program rendered by PGP Bertha Briggs, Edna Butterfield and Justina Lewis.

EDITORIAL

Meeting in Sacramento, January 23, the Americanism Committee of the Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, reviewed its work and expressed appreciation for the cooperation of United States Senators and Congressmen from California in their assistance to have the case against Tokio Rose re-opened, with the possibility of her prosecution for treason.

The Committee pledged itself to continue a relentless fight on Communism and to work for the enactment of Universal Military Training and expressed itself as opposed to further tampering with the immigration and naturalization laws as related to persons now ineligible to citizenship.

A resolution was adopted, and copies ordered sent to the Congress and the Director of Immigration and Naturalization Service in Philadelphia, protesting against both the Stratton and Judd Bills, either of which, if enacted into law, would nullify our present 1924 Immigration Act and permit untold thousands of aliens, ineligible to citizenship, to leave the Orient and overrun California and the United States. The Judd Bill would permit these aliens to become naturalized citizens.

H. J. McClatchy, Executive Secretary of the California Joint Immigration Committee, was commended for his committee's stand against these measures.

Those that attended the meeting included: Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, chairman, of Santa Monica; Judge Benjamin C. Jones, Lakeport; Bernard G. Hiss and Frank J. Collins, Sr., Los Angeles; Frank P. Smith, Oakland.

Other members of the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee are: Judge Thomas P. White of Los Angeles, Congressman Richard Nixon of Whittier, Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller of San Francisco and Newell Maddock of Santa Cruz.

Governor Earl Warren Watches Rose Parade From Curbside

Along with thousands of others at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena New Year's Day, there sat California's headman, Governor Earl Warren and its second in command, Lieut. Governor Goodwin J. Knight and their prominent guest, Governor Lester Hunt of Wyoming.

On the curb, with their feet in the gutter, they watched the queen go past, and apparently enjoyed it. Discovered, the officials were singled out for special attention. An N. B. C. technician and announcer scrambled out of the broadcast tower beside the flagpole and requested the Governor to "please say a few words this morning."

Native Son Governor Warren obliged.

A red-faced official, wearing a Tournament of Roses Committee ribbon, rushed to the curbside "capital" and on behalf of the city of Pasadena tendered apologies.

He was introduced as Joe Engholm to Governor Hunt by the Lieutenant Governor, and then the watch-party on the curb in the sunshine was broken up, and the watchers became official guests, to be escorted across Orange Grove Ave. to the great grandstand.

They saw the rest of the parade of flowers and music from that dignified elevation.

Edward P. Walsh Receives San Francisco Appointment

Albert J. Sullivan, Chief of the San Francisco Fire Department for many years and a member of South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, NSGW, tendered his resignation to Mayor Elmer E. Robinson with the statement that due to illness he cannot carry on as efficiently as he did heretofore.

Accepting this resignation Mayor Robinson paid a fine tribute to Chief Sullivan for the efficient manner in which he carried on the duties of his office.

Mayor Robinson then appointed Edward P. Walsh, one of San Francisco's outstanding firefighters and also a member of South San Francisco Parlor No. 157, NSGW, as Chief Engineer to fill this vacancy. Congratulatory Chief Walsh! We know you will uphold the traditions of the San Francisco Fire Department and the galaxy of Chief Engineers who have preceded you.

WINTER VACATIONLANDS

Prayers of the Southland all through January plead fervently for rain. Down from Oregon came an Indian rainmaker and though he tried his best, the only tangible evidence was a few whispering sprinkles that hardly wet the pavements. Up among the scudding billows of white, rainminded pilots chased about the skies sprinkling dry ice on tails of flitting rain clouds much like small boys pouring salt on wild bird tails without success.

And then of its own volition rain came. To the valleys below the heavens unlimbered the welcome drenching. High in the mountains far above the fog and city smog a drifting blanket of snow silently transfigured the wooded hills into a winter wonderland of ermine white. The prayers of the mountain dwellers had been answered, too.

Hardly had the skies cleared than hundreds of valley folks packed their skis, sleds, toboggans, skates and snow equipment and motorized into the mountains. Traffic along the San Bernardino Mountain Rim of the World Highway looked like Wilshire Boulevard the first Saturday after snowfall.

Your Grizzly Bear reporter made the trip in mid-week. Headed for Big Bear lake we found the high gear pavement perfectly cleared. Chains weren't necessary though we carried them just in case. Only on a few places including the Arctic Circle was snow encountered on the highway. But the snowplows had piled snow six and eight feet high along the roadside.

Up on top, at Big Bear lake we stopped at Phil's place to talk to Phil Wirth. Phil runs the town's leading sport shop. Between customers he told us that all three of the valley's ski tows were in operation. He hurried off to assist a couple of cash customers demanding skis.

Over at Pine Knoll we talked to Bob and Elizabeth Evans. They manage Pine Knoll lodge. Wisps of smoke curled lazily from fireplace cottages making a pretty picture. Elizabeth Evans showed us her winter photo album. The Evans are top-notch photographers.

We were over to see Stacy and Laura Carr at Andrews lodge. For a quarter of a century this has been one of the popular lake resorts, for the Carrs have kept the camp as comfortably modern as a city apartment without losing a single iota of their rustic mountain charm.

How do people get into the resort business? We asked that question of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Walters of Virginia lodge. "That's easy," they declared, "we've been vacationing at Big Bear lake for years and eventually the idea occurred to us that we could mix business with pleasure and here we are."

At Apache lodge we met the new owners, Bob Owens and Mabel Jackson. Bob rides the border with the U. S. Immigration patrol. Mabel formerly ran the Royal Palms hotel in Palm Springs. Her guests were enjoying a roaring fire in the lobby hearth. It looked homey. A young lady in ski clothes was coaxing a bit of boogie woogie out of a grand piano.

Lake Shore Camp looked pleasantly snow-bound but roads had been shoveled to each cabin. "Dad" Haygood was lazily watching a pet monkey play with the cat. Gazing out the window toward the lake and some three feet of snow that covered the ground, he philosophically observed, "For a spot that gets down to zero weather nights these sunny days feel just like summer weather."—And they did!

We dropped into see Cleo and John Berglund. They had just been out enjoying a little skiing. For a time we watched the tame squirrels scampering down the great pines to their feed box. Mountain Grove Lodge looked snug and inviting.

At the sign of the Bear we stopped to talk to Knoch and Whiting of Big Bear lodge. They're a couple of nice fellows and run a first rate camp.

But it was up on Mill Creek pond that we saw the "weasels" at work. A "weasel" is sort of an army jeep built like a caterpillar tractor. It was carrying skiers to the ski tow. The ride, we were told, cost 50 cents up and 25 cents back. It took the hills like one of those "chute the chutes" in the fun zone at Long Beach.

Across the way Wayne and Clara Klein own and manage the Oak Knoll lodge. The ski crowd were there in force. Clara Klein explained that they had cabins that could accommodate extra large parties. Their banquet hall will seat sixty and they invite various organizations to use their kitchens. Our young daughter made note of another fact. They have horses to rent during the summer.

Napa Sponsors Contest

Napa Parlor No. 62 has instituted a Baby Contest for the benefit of the Native Sons and Daughters Adoption Agency. Entries opened on February 16 and will close March 22. The contest at large starts on March 22 and ends April 18. John York and Harold Walsh head the committee in charge.

Napa Parlor also put on a dinner dance January 24 in commemoration of the Gold Discovery Centennial, which was well attended.

This is Mount Diablo (the devil) Contra Costa County, who peeks across the San Francisco Bay at Mt. Tamalpais (the sleeping lady).

Only a few miles from the city, yet deer from this peak raid surrounding orchards and fields.

Shasta and Lassen are reported to have been photographed from the top of Mt. Diablo.

Around the foot of the mountain are softly dimpled hills and sheep which have been bred to have no dimples.

Over on the other side of Diablo is the soil empire, over which the famous Dr. John Marsh ruled in pioneer days. His stone house—a sort of fortress—still stands. Through the area now winds the beautiful Marsh Creek Highway, a link in the interesting journey between the Bay Area and Stockton.

AS COMPILED FROM
THE FILES OF THE
GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

The Grass Valley, Nevada County, mines continued their phenomenal yields during March, 1875. The Idaho cleaned up $19,000 and the Eureka $10,000 a week.

The Green Mountain mine in the same district, with a five-stamp mill, cleaned up $2,500 after a six-day run.

A Mexican miner in Mariposa County found a nugget weighing ten ounces.

Sammy Davidson, a lad in Mokelumne Hill, Calaveras County, picked up a chispa weighing one-half ounce on the main street after a shower of rain.

The San Gabriel mines in Los Angeles County were attracting much attention, due to the reports of big clean ups.

The stock market was dormant this month, and prices of all stocks declined. Crown Point went down to $85 and Belcher dropped to $65 a share.

San Francisco claimed a population of 138,000, based upon the figures of a new directory.

Strawberries made their appearance on the San Francisco market March 20 from Santa Clara Valley and sold for $1.25 a box.

An extensive borax deposit was located near Desert Springs Station in Kern County. It was nine miles long and three miles wide. It was several miles from the Owens River road. It was estimated that the deposit contained a million tons. The locators were named Lent, Ball and Chapman.

Black crickets were damaging the grain fields about Visalia, Tulare County.

A salmon captured in Santa Cruz bay weighed fifty-one pounds.

March 16 a water spout near Bakersfield, Kern County, tore a chasm out of a field fifteen feet deep and sixty feet in diameter for several hundred feet.

In the bed of Oak Creek, Yolo County, fifteen feet below the surface, was found on the ranch of Gable Bros. the lower jaw of a mastodon. It was two and a half feet long and weighed ninety-two pounds.

The Chinatown of Georgetown, El Dorado County, was burned March 25 and about thirty houses were destroyed. The citizens held a mass meeting and decided not to permit it to be rebuilt.

It was reported that there were more than twenty grizzly bears in Santa Cruz County mountains preying on calves and doing other depredations. Ranchers there were organizing to make a systematic raid on the grizzlies.

In the Modoc Indian war in Northern California the peace commissioners were still negotiating with Captain Jack and failed to accomplish anything of a permanent character. It was reported that General Canby was preparing to attack the Modocs in the lava beds.

The stage from San Diego to Julian mired near Coleman Creek during a storm March 1. The driver unhitched the horses to go for assistance and took with him a passenger who was ill, telling the others to remain with the stage until he returned. Two women passengers named Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Milne, after his departure, got out, went to the creek, attempted to wade across and go to a house on the opposite side. The current swept them off their feet and they were drowned.

Creator of Gold Centennial Souvenir Dies Suddenly

Herman D. Borden of the House of Borden died suddenly of a heart attack January 26. He was without doubt one of California's truly great metal craftsmen. Perhaps his finest work was the seventeen inch replica of the pioneer's gold pan made of solid copper with a pictorial bas relief of James Marshall at Sutter's Mill.

Both Herman Borden and his work received public recognition and acclaim at Coloma. He was honored by being initiated into one of California's oldest fraternal orders, E Clampus Vitas. He rode in the Centennial parade. Two days later at his Monrovia home he passed away.

Though people may forget Herman Borden, his gold pan commemorating the discovery of gold in California one hundred years gone by will become a treasure piece in the years to come. One hangs today in Governor Warren's mansion, another in Grand President of the Native Sons, Walter Odemar's home. Still another belongs to Doris Treat, Grand President of the Native Daughters.

That the beauty of his work will not be forgotten, Mrs. Borden will continue the "House of Borden."

Editor's Note: All parlor secretaries please check and see if the Grizzly Bear Magazine is on your mailing list to receive your parlor bulletins and other literature. It will help us to keep track of what your parlor is doing and will mean added publicity for you. Let's have more accounts of what the Natives are doing for the Orders and for their State.

NOTICE!

Beginning with the April issue the Grizzly Bear hopes to begin a column devoted to the activities of the various drum, bugle and drill teams throughout the state, as well as to various athletic activities of the Orders. These are important features of our Orders, keeping them before the eyes of the public, and should receive far more recognition from the Orders as a whole than they do. Let us know what you are doing. We can not run long stories, so keep them brief and to the point.—The Editor.

California's Future

This is the centennial which the people of California have long looked forward to—the centennial of the discovery of gold. The discovery of gold was not the first important event in the history of this state. Our roots go much deeper than that. But this Centennial recognizes the finding of gold here in Coloma by James Marshall on January 24, 1848, because the discovery set in motion a chain of events that had nationwide significance and started the phenomenal growth of California that has continued to this day.

The Centennial also emphasizes the transition from a sleepy pastoral age on a lonely and isolated frontier to the dynamic and populous California of today. Thus was this western country changed from a wilderness with only a few little settlements to a great American state of ten million people in the short period of one hundred years. Just how short a period that is can be judged from a simple story the newspapers carried a few days ago. This story reported the death of a pioneer woman, a native of Clarksville in this county. She was born during the gold rush years almost a century ago. Everything you see in California came into being during her lifetime. This is indeed a miraculously short time for the accomplishments which are so apparent to everyone who knows our State today.

Long before the discovery of gold here, California acted as a magnet for treasure seekers. Out of the dim past came legends of fabulous wealth here known to the explorers and adventurers the world over. It attracted them in some strange way from all the maritime countries of the world. The Portuguese, Cabrillo, as early as 1542 discovered the Bay of San Diego and explored our coast. His body is said to be buried on one of our channel islands. The Englishman, Drake, in 1579 explored our coast within a hundred miles of this spot. Vizcaino, the Spaniard, followed in 1602. Then in 1769, after a century and a half of complete darkness, came the rugged Portola and the kindly Father Junipero Serra to found San Diego, Monterey, and the twenty-one missions which brought western civilization and the Christian religion as far north as Sonoma.

In January, 1848, there were here, exclusive of the native Indians, probably fifteen thousand people from many countries—about six thousand of them were Americans. The American Flag had already been raised in Monterey and other settlements in 1846, but there was no American government in California. Those who came here fashioned their own government. They were a sturdy lot. Among them was John Sutter, an intrepid Swiss who had visions, not of gold, but of a pastoral empire in the Sacramento Valley, and with him was his partner for some purposes—James Marshall, an American. In the course of their operations they built here in Coloma the little lumber mill where Marshall accidentally discovered gold—the gold that changed life so greatly in the West and in a very short time brought not only California but the other western states into the Union as dynamic units of a nation destined to do great things for humanity. It is an event worthy of commemoration. It thrills every Californian and furnishes the background for the colorful years that followed in such rapid succession. It has left a permanent imprint upon the life and character of our state.

It has long been the custom of mankind to commemorate those dates in history which record the achievements of great men or the great accomplishments of groups of men. It is man's way of giving recognition to those qualities of personal leadership, courageous achievements and group sacrifices which occur in the development of our civilization and in the growth of the nations of the world. It is man's way of re-experiencing the aspirations, the hardships, the sorrows, sentiments, and happiness of his fellow countrymen of an earlier age, that he might better understand his fellowmen of this age. And what is equally important for the welfare of humanity is that it is man's way of pausing in the frantic rush of daily affairs to look forward as well as backward upon the better world he is ever seeking to build.

As we look into the future there is much for us to learn from the adventurous lives of our pioneers. These men and women had

Discovery Celebration Attracts Thousands

One hundred years ago on January 24, 1848, James W. Marshall found a flake of gold in the American River at Coloma, El Dorado county, California. The news of this event spread over the world and thousands of people from nearly every land left their homes hoping to find a fortune in this new land. History tells us that many reached their destination while many more died on the way. Many found gold and became rich while others suffered privation and perished at an early age.

One hundred years later a much larger crowd of people journeyed to Coloma where gold was first discovered to help celebrate the 100th anniversary of this great event. The newspapers estimate that between 50,000 and 60,000 people reached this historic spot while many thousands were unable to do so due to insufficient road space on the highway leading into this area.

The weather was ideal. It was like a mid-summer day, which caused many people within 200 miles to make the trip.

Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar and Past Grand President Henry S. Lyon, chairman of the dedicatory ceremonies, left Placerville one hour before the ceremonies started but had to park their car on the way and walk over one mile to reach the place where the ceremonies were scheduled to take place. This ceremony was the dedication of Memorial Plaque on Sutters Mill Monument. The following participated: Chairman Henry S. Lyon; Earl Warren, Governor of California; Judge Walter H. Odemar, Grand President NSGW; Doris Treat, Grand President NDGW; Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President and General Chairman of the State Centennial Commission; E. C. Keil, Vice-President of Society of California Pioneers; Leo Carrillo, Member of State Park Commission.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies an historic parade was held and was led by Moving Picture Actor Roy Rogers with his steed Trigger. The conveyances and costumes used in this parade were like those used in 1848 when gold was discovered at this spot.

In the afternoon a splendid entertainment was held and participated in by some of the outstanding actors and actresses from Hollywood.

Discovery of Gold Banquet Held at San Francisco

Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West of San Francisco celebrated the 100th anniversary of the Discovery of Gold at Coloma, with a banquet in NSGW Building, San Francisco. Three hundred members of both Orders gathered to commemorate this historic event and to keep alive the memories and traditions of the days of old and the days of gold which actually started California on the road to fame and eventually to the great commonwealth it is today.

A splendid program of speaking and music was rendered. The Master of Ceremonies was Chas. A. Koenig, Past Grand President. Musical numbers were by Mardelle May, Dolores Parlor NDGW and a Musical Trio. The speakers of the evening were Past Grand

Part of the crowd at the dedication by the Native Sons and Daughters of the tablet on the rock monument marking the site of Sutter's famous mill at Coloma, January 24. The inscription on the tablet reads as follows:

"This rock monument marks site of John A. Sutter's Mill in the tailrace of which James W. Marshall discovered gold on January 24, 1848, starting the greatest rush of Argonauts to California. The Society of California Pioneers definitely located and marked the mill site in 1924. Additional timbers and relics, including the original tailrace unearthed in 1947, were discovered after the property became a state park. The Marshall monument, overlooking this spot, was erected following a movement inaugurated by the Native Sons of the Golden West in 1886.

Tablet placed by Historic Landmarks Committees Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West on centennial of gold discovery, January 24, 1948."

Grand President Odemar, Native Sons, and Grand President Doris Treat of the Native Daughters both officiated. Past Grand President Henry Lyon of Placerville, was chairman at the ceremonies and he was introduced by Joseph R. Knowland, Centennials Commission Chairman, also a Past Grand President. For years there has been an idea that the rock monument was part of the old mill which, of course, it was not. It was simply a rock monument marking the site. This tablet will be very informative to the thousands who will visit Coloma during the next few years.—Courtesy Oakland Tribune.

President Koenig who welcomed the assemblage and outlined the reason for gathering here tonight; Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand President NSGW, subject, "The Pioneer Mother;" Peter T. Conmy, Grand Second Vice President NSGW, subject, "The Pioneer Father;" Walter McGovern, Stanford Parlor No. 76, the principal address entitled "The 100th Anniversary of the Discovery of Gold at Coloma." This address was outstanding and one of the finest ever delivered on this subject, and one for which Brother McGovern was paid a fine tribute by the assemblage.

Grand Officers NSGW present were: Grand Vice Presidents Peter T. Conmy and Edward J. Wren; Grand Secretary John T. Regan; Grand Trustees Lewis A. Giegerich and Webster K. Nolan; Past Grand Presidents, William P. Caubu, Edward J. Lynch, C. L. Dodge, Chas. A. Koenig, Harmon D. Skillin, Jesse H. Miller, Lloyd J. Cosgrove, Raymond D. Williamson.

Southern Parlors Meet At Biltmore For Program

A future more brilliant than its colorful past was forecast for California Saturday, January 24, in a luncheon observance of the Centennial Anniversary of the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill in 1848.

Sponsored by the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, the noontime banquet in the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, brought out more than 700 members of California pioneer families, representing 39 parlors of the two societies.

Thomas P. White, associate justice of the District Court of Appeal, reminded his audience that Los Angeles County, scene of a gold discovery which predated the Sutter's Mill event by six years, still is a mecca for thousands of latter-day argonauts.

Recalling the virtues of the early settlers as epitomizing "daring, service, sacrifice and courage, coupled with an unabating love of liberty," he called on Californians today to display similar traits.

Lieut. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, a one-time hard-rock miner himself, and later owner of the Elephant-Eagle mine in Mojave, spoke briefly on the historic national importance of the California gold strike.

Pointing out that the gold taken from California fields following the mad rush of 1849 bolstered the faltering finances of the Lincoln administration during and after the Civil War,

Gold Rush Days

BY EMMETT P. JOY, GRAND HISTORIAN, NSGW.

AFTER the discovery of gold by James Wilson Marshall on January 24, 1848 thousands of people rushed to the Coloma valley situated on the south fork of the American river.

The first domiciles occupied by the miners consisted of tents and brush houses as they did not spend any time in the erection of log cabins. However in a few months Coloma became a large settlement and was the destination of the early miners who left the coastal cities for the gold fields. Hotels, saloons, stores and other types of business were established thus making it the first large settlement in the mines. Much activity prevailed in this vicinity as gold seekers continuously arrived and it was from this point that they founded other mining camps as time progressed.

Among one of the first was Placerville originally known as "Old Dry Diggins" and then as "Hangtown." This settlement was established soon after Marshall's discovery when William Daylor discovered gold on "Hangtown Creek." The locality of the discovery took place about eight miles south of Coloma and was first called "Dry Diggins" because during the dry season the water in the creek ran low and halted the mining activity until the heavy rains of the following autumn. Later, ditches and flumes were built bringing water from the higher levels after which mining became permanent and the miners worked the rich ravine during 1849-50. The first buildings of the town were built along the creek which filled in the wide ravine and when the question of changing the name from "Hangtown" was under discussion some inhabitants wished it to be called "Ravine City." It was so named as it was the first scene of a mob tribunal in the diggings and as a consequence several law violators were hanged to a tree in the new mining town. After this incident "Placerville" was selected in its stead so named because of the extensive placer mining that was carried on.

During the days of the rush Placerville was visited by many distinguished personages among whom was Horace Greely and among its early residents were John Studebaker of automobile fame also Mark Hopkins one of the founders of the Central Pacific Railroad.

Other mining communities which soon came into being in this vicinity were Kelsey, Gold Hill, Georgetown, Lotus, Cool and Pilot Hill all in El Dorado county as well as Mormon Island on the American river which was one of the first mining towns.

Foremost in the history of Placer county is the city which is now known as Auburn. The fact that it is just twenty miles north of Coloma was responsible for its rapid progress.

Auburn was founded in May, 1848 by a French pioneer, Claude Chana, who organized a group of miners to work in the dry diggings near Coloma. While Chana and his miners were returning to the vicinity of Coloma they camped overnight in a ravine about two miles from the north fork of the American river. Gold was found and the mining camp soon began to grow whereupon they called this camp "Rich Dry Diggins" as the ravine proved prosperous thus the camp developed into a large settlement. It was in the fall of 1849 when Mr. H. M. House decided to change the name from "Rich Dry Diggins" to the name of his birthplace which was Auburn, New York. In the year 1856 Auburn had advanced so fast that it became necessary for the Wells Fargo Express Company to establish an office. There were several business houses and a theatre that was host to many of the prominent actors of the day.

Some of the ghost towns in the area of Auburn in Placer county are Elizabethtown, Sarahsville, Last Chance, Yankee Jim's, Michigan Bluff, Dutch Flat, Shirt Tail Canyon, and Slug Gulch. These towns at one time boasted of a population from 300 to 500 or more miners.

After a town was permanently established wooden buildings were erected eventually superseded by stone and adobe buildings. In towns and camps which have been deserted some of these adobe and stone buildings still remain. These towns are known to us today as "Ghost Towns," for example "Poverty Bar" on the Calaveras river and "Lancha Plana" in Amador county. Many of the settlements which originated from Placer mining only,

Huge Crowd Attends Placerville Banquet

Native Sons and Daughters and guests crowded into the El Dorado County High School Auditorium, Placerville, Saturday night, January 24 for the Centennial Gold Discovery Banquet, with a capacity crowd of 500 seated at the long tables in the auditorium. Some of the tables were cleared, and the balance of the crowd of more than 600 were seated and served before the program was well under way. The balconies served as "waiting room" for the dinner guests. Honored guests at the affair were Miss Doris Treat, grand president of the N.D.G.W., Judge Walter H. Odemar, grand president of the N.S.G.W., and Earl Warren, governor of California.

The banquet, arranged by Ellsworth Williard and his committee, was served by members of the local Rainbow assembly. In charge of the meal itself was Bill Zerme. Decorations followed an early California theme, with covered wagons, pioneer trails and relics adorning the tables. Celebrants attended dressed in Centennial costume.

A special dinner, peculiar to this area and recalling the 1850 mining days was served to the group. "Fruit Ridge Special—with Trimmings opened the dinner, followed by appetizers consisting of "Coon Hollow Pickles" and "High Grade Olives." Native Sons and Daughters were served "Coloma Valley Ham—Hangtown Dressed" with "Texas Hill Yams—Fancy" for the main course, garnished with "Slug Gulch Beans" and "Spanish Dry Diggins Corn." "Miners' Lettuce with Sutter Mill Tailings" comprised the Salad and "Sour Dough Biscuits with Drippings" completed the course. "Quartz Rock" and "Marshall's Delight" were served in the place of ice cream and cake, and the meal was finished off with "Mud Springs Java."

Mary and Jim Merryman at the piano and violin, assisted by Lester Atkins, opened the program on a gay plane with old fashioned music. Charles Marshall and His Gang went on the air at 7:30 p.m. with the KFBK Barn Dance. Playing until 8 p.m., the group featured such appropriate numbers as "Hangtown Girl" and others, they were followed by about twenty Brownie Girl Scouts performing intricate quadrilles and then by the Young Eldorans, a grammar school choral group directed by Mrs. Ted D. Ford, singing "Hills of

Grand Parlor To Be Held At Hobergs

With members of Lower Lake Parlor hard at work plans are progressing for the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons to be held at Hobergs, Lake County, the third week in May. No definite information will be available until after the meeting of the Board of Grand Officers on March 6, consequently, the Grizzly Bear will have to wait for the April issue to publish the details.

Santa Barbara Natives Plan California History Library

Members of the Santa Barbara Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, headed by the new president, Joseph M. Reidy, are discussing plans for gathering together a collection of the best books on early California history for the use of its members and friends.

One member donated $100 as a start for the purchase of the library to be installed at the Native Sons Beach Club. The move is keyed in with the three-year celebration of California centennials. Paul G. Sweetser is acting as chairman of the committee in charge of the activity, aided by Raymond B. Romero and J. P. McCaughey.

Plans are also under way for the Santa Barbara Parlor to join the Parlors of San Luis Obispo, Santa Maria, Ventura, Bakersfield and Taft for a joint meeting at the grave of Nancy Kelsey, the first American woman to come overland to California and the "Betsy Ross" of the Bear Flag, in the Cuyama.

Gene M. Harris will act as chairman of the committee in charge, assisted by Frank C. Snyder and Fred Harris. The committee is also studying the suggestion of Judge L. C. Drapeau of the Ventura County Superior Court, Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventura, that a special plaque be placed at the Kelsey Grave, telling of the history of the Bear Flag. Judge Drapeau in a letter to the local Parlor said that the Native Sons and Daughters of four counties, San Luis Obispo, Ventura, Kern and Santa Barbara, should place the plaque since those counties all converge on the Cuyama. A plaque merely identifying Nancy Kelly was placed on the grave on November 1, 1937, by Miocene Parlor No. 228, NDGW, Taft.

The newly elected officers of both the Santa Barbara and Ventura Parlors were installed at a recent meeting, with 75 members of both groups attending. Colored movies of Argentina were shown.

It was announced that the University Parlor of Los Angeles will send a delegation to a meeting of the Santa Barbara Parlor sometime in March.

Modesto Native Sons Take Prominent Part In Celebration

Members of Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW participated to great extent in making the Stanislaus County Centennials Committee "Kick-Off Dinner" at Turlock a huge success on the evening of January 23. Over 1000 persons were served a delicious dinner, starting at seven o'clock, which was followed by delightful entertainment. Outstanding of the latter was the personal appearance, at considerable inconvenience to himself, of Leo Carrillo, popular Native Son and movie star, who regaled the large crowd for over 30 minutes. To Ed Whitmore of Modesto Parlor full credit may be given for having Leo Carrillo present. A special table seating 94 had been reserved for the Native Sons and Native Daughters which overflowed by about 20 members.

A joint installation of officers was held on January 28 with Morada Parlor No. 199, NDGW, with Walter Crow, District Deputy Grand President of the NS, and Leola Kaufman, Deputy Grand President of the ND, in charge. A short program of entertainment followed the installation ceremonies and then dancing was enjoyed, music for which was furnished by the Modesto Parlor Native Sons Orchestra. Refreshments were served.

At the regular meeting of the Parlor on February 4, President Bud David outlined a very excellent program for the coming months. An early business meeting was held on February 18 followed by a class initiation to be concluded by nine o'clock, then, again, the Native Sons' orchestra furnished the music for dancing to which the families and friends of both the Native Sons and Native Daughters had been invited. On March 3 Kennan Beard and Frank Linton will furnish a program of entertainment and on March 17 there will be another initiation with the Past Presidents in charge of the meeting and furnishing the entertainment.

El Dorado." The presentation was composed by Anna Hare Gordon, a pioneer and native of the county.

Remarks of the honored guests, were also broadcast over the ABC network, through station KFBK in Sacramento. Miss Treat and Odemar, introduced by master of ceremonies Williard, spoke briefly, complimenting their two groups on the service work done during the past year and on the assistance rendered in the successful celebration of the Gold Discovery Centennial.

Gov. Warren, next on the speaker's program, was greeted by those present with loud applause. He touched on the importance to California of the influx of population in recent years and that which is expected to come in the next few years, comparing the twentieth century immigration with the gold seekers of the 1850s.

The governor emphasized the importance of maintaining a high type of government and placing the right people in public office to uphold this government in order that the many new residents of the state may be properly assimilated and receive the privileges and opportunities to which they are entitled.

He concluded with the statement that he is proud to be a Californian and a native of a state with the past and present history which it possesses.

Following Gov. Warren's address, Leo Carrillo, movie actor and a member of the state park commission was introduced. He led the assembled group in community singing and introduced a song composed by Jack Kenny and himself.

Assisting Williard with the preparations were Ann Boyer, co-chairman; Lida Snodgrass, secretary; Betty Rossi, Maybelle Timm, Claire Freeman, Gertrude Boom, Ruth Thomas, Herbert Scheuner, Roy Boom, Harold Duden, John Kitchen, Drew Rossi, Ernest Scheiber and William H. Breedlove.

Mrs. Minnie Noyes, 50 year member NDGW of Oakland, and queen of the Golden Jubilee Celebration in San Francisco in 1898, was in attendance at the banquet—and so introduced.

James F. Stanley Called

James F. Stanley, age 75 years, a member of Stanford Parlor, No. 76, Secretary of Assembly No. 1 of Past Presidents Association, NSGW, Director General and Past Governor General of the Grand Assembly of Past Presidents, NSGW., and chairman of the Ritual Committee of the Grand Parlor, died in San Francisco January 24, 1948, 100 years after the discovery of gold in California. He was buried by his Parlor with impressive ceremonies.

It is fitting and proper that "Jim" Stanley's passing should be noted by all Native Sons of the Golden West. Here was a true Native Son! I have been a member of the Order for 35 years, and during all that time I never knew anyone who was more loyal to the great State of California or truer to the teachings of our Order and of our ritual than "Jim" Stanley. He personified, and was a living example of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity. He was a stalwart in our midst. His devotion to the Order was so great it was inspirational.

The outpouring of the high and the lowly, the rich and the poor, the old and the young, both men and women, at his funeral service was truly a great tribute, a far greater tribute than any words of mine could possibly be. The hush and the quiet could almost be heard. The reverence and respect could be felt. The silent grief in the loss was eloquent. Truly, we who were there witnessed the passing of a great Native Son. That he died in the Centennial Years is not without significance. Let us hold his memory dear and emulate his example.—WALDO F. POSTEL, Stanford No. 76

Grand President Pays Visit To District 37

Miss Doris Treat, Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, made her official visit to Lugonia Parlor No. 241, San Bernardino; Ontario Parlor, No. 251; Santa Ana Parlor, No. 235; Grace Parlor No. 242, Fullerton; Silver Sands Parlor, No. 286, Huntington Beach, and Conchita Parlor, No. 294, Newport, at the Elk's Club in Anaheim on February 6. Mrs. Rena Churchill, Past President of Lugonia Parlor, and Supervising District Deputy, was in charge of arrangements for the evening. A Valentine motif was carried throughout with Conchita Parlor forming the escort to the Grand President. A total of 42 candidates were initiated during the evening.

An informal tea was held February 8 at the Woman's Clubhouse in Riverside in connection with a parlor to be formed there. Sylvia Gregory, President of Lugonia and her corps of officers presided with the past presidents of the parlor acting as hostesses. Miss Ann Schiebusch, State Chairman, spoke during the afternoon concerning the requirements for the institution of a parlor. Mrs. Mildred Meyers of Lugonia, as coordinator for the group, was in charge of arrangements for the afternoon. A valentine motif was carried out.

Vallejo Parlor Observes Past Presidents' Night

Past President's night was observed by Vallejo Parlor 195 on Wednesday evening, January 21 at the Vallejo Women's Club.

The theme of the evening program was the "California Gold Centennial." Mrs. Julia McAllister was chairman for the evening. The history of John Sutter and the events leading up to the building of the saw mill at Coloma and discovery of gold by James Marshall was related by Miss Ellen O'Brien. This was followed by musical and dancing numbers and the program concluded with the singing of "I Love You California."

Three charter members were present: Mrs. Cornelia Beretta, Mrs. Ellanor French and Mrs. Julia McAllister.

Mrs. Gertrude Briggs, supervising district deputy grand president, presided at the meeting.

Dolores Parlor Plans Party

Dolores Parlor No. 169, NDGW, invites you to attend their Public Whist Party on March 31, 1948, at 8:30 P.M., at the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker Street, San Francisco. In addition to a door prize, there will be many lovely prizes for the holders of high-est scores.

Native Daughters To Take Part In Centennials

"Native Daughters have a great work before them in the Centennial Years," stated Grand President Doris Treat in a recent address before 400 Southland members assembled in the Elks Club, Los Angeles. All had gathered to pay her honors on her visit to District 35, Los Angeles county.

"The discovery of gold," she continued, "heralded the American way of life in California. It introduced the Argonauts, whose industry and enterprise brought new vigor to the rancheros. We owe much to them, and the courageous pioneer mothers and homemakers, who also contributed to the building of the commonwealth."

Miss Treat pointed out that a later generation of patriotic women founded the order of NDGW. From the beginning these women, she said, were determined to perpetuate the memory of the pioneers and promote the best interests of California.

Virtually all of the 30 NDGW parlors in Southern California were represented at the meeting, which was preceded by a banquet.

Record Check To Be Presented To Homeless Children

Presentation of a $1600 check by the Homeless Children Committee of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, NDGW, to the Southern Counties Committee, Native Sons, Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., will highlight a party to be held by the parlor March 17 in Los Angeles. The presentation will be made by Mrs. George (Edna) Neikirk, chairman of the parlor's Homeless Children committee. Mrs. Donald (Betty) Searcy was praised for her efforts as co-chairman.

The money was raised through sale of household articles, Christmas cards, Christmas wrapping paper, and the holding of an Italian dinner, operation of a booth in a bazaar, coin and birthday marches, and donations from parlor members.

Dance Review Presented

The dance review, "Lively Lads and Lassies," which was presented in the high school auditorium at Huntington Beach, January 23, was produced and directed by Mrs. Lenoir Richards-Martin, whose school of dancing is located at 719 North Los Angeles Street, Anaheim, California. Proceeds of the review were for the philanthropies of the Silver Sands NDGW parlor, and were sufficient that upon the occasion of the Grand President's official visit, a baby was adopted, to be named Martha H. Pickering, in honor of our charter president.

The costumes worn by the dancers were an outstanding feature of the program. They were designed by Mrs. Richards-Martin, and made by the children's parents. The materials from which many of the costumes were made were painted with a chemical preparation which, when auditorium lights were extinguished, glowed under "black light," giving a wierd and eerie effect.

The Richards-Martin dance group will appear in other Southern California cities thru-out the Spring season. The studio does not profit from the shows; it is customary that all proceeds go to whatever charities are supported by the groups sponsoring the dance reviews.

Golden Gate Parlor Celebrates 40th Anniversary With Banquet

Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, held a banquet at the Hotel Whitcomb on Tuesday evening, January 20, at which time they celebrated both their 40th anniversary and the Gold Discovery in California. The following charter members were present at this special event: Margaret Ramm, Frieda Bode, Clara Strohmeier and Lillian Bockman. Chairman of the evening was Bea Nishkian.

Installations Hold The Spotlight

Installation of officers at a joint ceremonial of Sea Point Parlors of Native Sons and Daughters in Sausalito, proved to be a "big family affair." At the time Mrs. Lillian Azevedo was installed president of the Daughters, her son, Ralph Azevedo was inducted president of the Native Sons. Mrs. Marie Ashoff is a new vice-president of the "sister" group and her son, Fred Ashoff was installed in a similar position for the "sons." A number of brothers and sisters also took office at the same time.

Two charter members, Kate Jewett and Alice Garcia were honored as was a distinguished visitor, Eldora Clinton of Tamalpa Parlor, supervising district deputy grand president.

Keith Parlor No. 137 NDGW, San Francisco, recently held a candlelight ceremony at the Native Daughters Home, San Francisco, at which time Ruth Scheifler was installed as president.

The installation was most outstanding, particularly for the beautiful flower decorations, and entertainment, and the excellent work performed by Keith Parlor's charming president, Ruth Scheifler, her corps of officers, the escort team, and the excellent speakers. A most impressive moment of this affair took place when the president's mother, Mrs. Frank Scheifler, escorted her daughter to her chair.

More than 300 persons gathered to witness the joint installation of Las Juntas Parlor No. 221, NDGW, and Mt. Diablo Parlor No. 101, NSGW.

Lester Ashworth of San Leandro and Eileen de Fremery of Byron served as installing officers for the Sons and Daughters respectively.

The officers of Las Juntas Parlor who were installed wore pastel colored formals and carried red and white carnations which were later presented to the newly installed president, Josephine Heruth. C. A. "Cappy" Ricks was installed as the new president of Mt. Diablo Parlor.

After the ceremonies the newly elected president of each organization spoke and the Native Daughters drill team, all gowned in red brocaded satin performed.

El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, NDGW, and El Carmelo Parlor No. 256, NSGW, installed their officers before a group of 115 where Dorothy Lineham became president of the Daughters and Frank Donofrio was handed the gavel for the Native Sons.

"Winter Wonderland" was the theme of the evening at the installation of Califa Parlor, Sacramento, when Catherine Kelly was seated as newly elected president.

The drill team was dressed in white and wore white cotton hats trimmed with silver glittering leaves, and carried muffs to match the hats, singing "Winter Wonderland" previous to escorting the president to her station. Decorations in the hall were a huge snow man near a snow covered tree, and at each altar

Pasadena Parlor No. 290, Native Daughters, held a joint installation of officers with Pasadena Parlor No. 296, Native Sons, at the Altadena Masonic Temple January 16, at which Katherine Weaver was installed as the new president of the parlor. DGP Mabel Bach of San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281, acted as installing officer, assisted by Esther Winsor of San Gabriel Valley Parlor. Other officers taking office were: Frances Vail, 1st vice-pres.; Hope Ritchey, 2nd vice-pres.; Muriel Fabrick, 3rd vice-pres.; Edna Heartt, past president; Wilma Larkey, junior past president; Lilly Westover, recording secretary; Gail Skellenger, financial secretary; Lucille Irwin, treasurer; Laurayne Selby, marshal; Neva Hartfiel, organist; Lucy Blatz, Hazel Bailey, Clela McCord, trustees; Mary Gibbs, inside sentinel; Marion Royston, outside sentinel.—Marc Drake Photo.

a miniature snow man and tree. The refreshment tables each had a snow girl and snow man with snow laden trees, blue candles and place cards.

The Menlo Juniors Unit No. 10 of Menlo Park publicly installed their officers at a recent meeting with over 150 people witnessing the ceremonies. Nancy Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Marie Rogers of Menlo Parlor, NDGW, became the Junior President. Motif for the affair was Valentines Day, with huge red hearts and baskets of spring blossoms placed in prominent positions on the stage. Fourteen Juniors from the San Francisco unit were guests, as were their advisors.

Many distinguished guests were present, being among them GT Dorothy Donofrio, GIS Ruth Trousdale, PGP Emily Ryan and Evelyn I. Carlson, SDDGP of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

An impressive installation ceremony was held at Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112, NDGW, with Mrs. Eunice Pitman being seated as president. The installation was conducted by GDP Atlanta Adams assisted by Grand Marshal Bernice Smith.

A combined initiation and patriotic program was presented to Buena Vista Parlor NDGW with a class of ten candidates joining the order. Chairman for the evening was Jessie Collins.

A joint installation of Vendome Parlor, NDGW, and Observatory No. 177 NSGW was held with Dr. E. Pearl Hannah, of Palo Alto, and Bob Wallace, of Redwood City conducting the rites.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served and a program was presented by Secretary Herman Mager, consisting of the famous quartette from the Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Singing in America.

Newly elected president to Vendome Parlor is Mrs. Compton, and to Observatory Parlor, Ernie Lazetera.

Congratulations

Congratulations to Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW. Just a year old March 7, its Homeless Children Report for 1947 shows a total of $610.30 raised for this important work. It was dispersed as follows: $50 to Grand Parlor, NDGW, in June; adoption of baby June 20, named Edna Mary in honor of charter president, Edna Heartt and organizer, Mary Miller, $37.50; turned over to the Southern Counties Committee through Hazel Hansen, $522.80. Few of the older parlors can equal this record. Chairman of the committee for the year was Ida M. Rice.

San Gabriel Daughters Schedule Benefit Dance

The Homeless Children and Ways and Means Committee of San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281, NDGW, is sponsoring an informal Spring Dance to be held at Story Park, 210 No. Chapel Avenue, in Alhambra, Saturday evening, March 20th. The fun will start at eight o'clock and we are looking forward to a lot of fun for all. Everyone is invited, so don't forget this date. The committees have secured the "Rhythmatics" who are very popular here in the Valley. Admission will be $1.00, and reservations may be made by calling Lila Tompkins, chairman of the Homeless Children Committee, at BU 8-3632.

Editor's Note: We were swamped this month with news from the parlors and could easily have run eight more pages if the magazine could have afforded it. We are pleased about it for it shows increasing interest, however, we were forced to boil most of our parlor stories down in order to take care of everybody in the best way possible. Many stories merit more space than we could afford to give them. In fact, this month, there is hardly a story in the Grizzly Bear that was not specifically requested by either Native Sons or Daughters. So, if your story does not go into detail as fully as you might have wished, we hope that you understand. Keep up the good work, and above all, don't forget to give these stories to your local paper as well as the Grizzly Bear.

have vanished. In later years when the quartz belt of the Mother Lode was discovered, quartz mining became a permanent industry and as a consequence surviving towns and cities still exist.

Some of the old towns such as "Rough and Ready" in Nevada county had three or four built-in streets with a population of about 6,000 inhabitants. The first disaster which occurred was the fire of 1853 which destroyed the original aspect of the town. Today, several houses remain of what was at one time a large community.

It is interesting to note that the people of the mines consisted of various nationalities. Sonorans from Sonora, Mexico, Chinese, Chileans, Americans, Kanakas, Indians, Europeans and others. These people used various methods of mining.

The first method of mining was the pan. This was used to collect the gold from crevices of the rocks along the sandy river bars. The "Rocker" was the next being constructed in the principle of a baby rocker with two handles on one end. The top was square and made of wood and a metal plate punched with holes was placed inside the square; gravel was put in the square where the fine particles were washed through the holes and the gold then collected by a canvas which was laid underneath. While one man rocked the other poured in the gravel.

Nevada county claims the credit for first using the Long Tom or Sluice Box. The sluice was an ancient method of mining and was used formerly in South America.

Quartz was discovered on "Gold Hill" in Grass Valley in 1850 by a man named Knight. It was also discovered in Mariposa county during the same year although Grass Valley is accredited for having the first quartz mill in the mines.

Bancroft's History of California states that a Frenchman named Chabot in 1852 used a hose without a nozzle on his claim in Nevada county. This was the introduction of hydraulic mining. A year later a man named Mattison improved on this method by making a wooden nozzle which reduced the water to pressure and was used successfully on the gravel hills of the northern mines. Hydraulic mining was the procedure used in areas where the gravel was low in value. This required much water. A heavy volume of water was carried through a large pipe and forced through a narrow opening and as the water pushed forth with great force it swept the gravel banks. Later a larger nozzle about six feet long was used, this was known as the "Monitor." Ditches, flumes and dams had to be built to accommodate hydraulic mining. One of the long flumes constructed at "Dutch Flat" took four years to build.

One of the first methods used in quartz mining was the "Arastra" to grind the quartz deposits. In 1851 a man named Davidson discovered quartz near Amador City located in Amador county. He used the "Arastra." This was an ancient method used in Mexico and South America. A donkey pulled the grinding wheels as he kept moving around in a circle. This action crushed the quartz. It was later replaced by stamp mills.

The largest gold nugget found in the gold fields of California was on Carson Hill in Calaveras county. It was discovered in November, 1854, and had a value of over $30,000. Large nuggets were found throughout the gold region especially in the vicinity of Sonora and Columbia in Tuolumne county. Nuggets of high value were also found in the vicinity of Downieville in Sierra county. The area of the North Yuba River west of the Sierra Buttes was exceedingly rich.

HOLIDAYS AT THE NATIVE DAUGHTERS HOME

BY MAE B. WILKIN, GRAND HISTORIAN, NDGW.
PAST GRAND PRESIDENT, NDGW.

During the recent Holiday season, one delightful surprise followed another at the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker street, San Francisco.

With the approach of Thanksgiving there arrived from Ursula Parlor No. 1, boxes containing more than a hundred packages of groceries, jams, jellies, canned fruit, box of apples, and an abundance of Toyon berries to glamorize the attractive rooms.

Oro Fino Parlor No. 9 and Darina Parlor No. 114 followed with colorful baskets of fruit, and from Past Presidents Association No. 1 came their annual check for $10, as a helpful assurance the turkey would be on hand.

Each guest in the Home was reminded of the season, in receiving Thanksgiving greeting cards from Compton Parlor No. 258. Encinal Parlor No. 156 sent more than three dozen jars of jams and jellies, while Toyon berries came from Mrs. Alyce Munz of Fairfax Parlor No. 225. A half gallon jar of honey from Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288 arrived in time for Thanksgiving.

Buena Vista Parlor No. 68 started the Christmas season with a gift giving party, centered about the attractively decorated Christmas tree in the lounge of the Home, where were tables laden with such gifts for the Home store closet as, nine jars jams, jellies and home canned fruit, from Marguerite Church of Junipero Parlor No. 141. Phoebe Hearst Parlor No. 214 contributed ten jars of the same very delectable products.

Mary Bell Parlor No. 287 sent nuts, apples, oranges, candies, canned cranberries and fruit cake, and from Mrs. Ann Webster, of the same Parlor came a check for $2.50, while another member, Mary Miller added a half dozen dishtowels, a most acceptable gift. Mrs. Emelietta Conmy of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 added candies and cookies, Alice Lane of Castro Parlor No. 178 sent a box of oranges and from Stockton Parlor No. 256 came 18 jars of jams, jellies and fruit.

Gussie Guidotti of Coachella remembered the Home with her so welcome annual ten pound box of California dates. From Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288 there came a box of cookies, and box of apples and walnuts from home ranch of Ruth Munz Etz. Alturas Parlor No. 159 sent 40 cans fruits and vegetables, San Andreas Parlor No. 113, twelve jars jams and jellies, with red berries from C. E. Moores of same place. From Dorothy Halley and her mother Mrs. Audrey Brown of San Diego Parlor No. 208 came a lovely five pound fruit cake.

Santa Maria Parlor No. 276 sent a half dozen dishtowels, Aleli Parlor No. 102 48 jars jams and jellies beautifully packed by Mrs. J. L. Clark. Box of apples presented by Alice Oldham of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181 and a box of oranges from Florence Dodson Schoneman of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230. From Mrs. Lorraine Smith of Fresno Parlor No. 187 came six table cloths and 54 napkins.

The individual guests in the Home were remembered with gifts from Santa Maria Parlor No. 276, Mary Bell Parlor No. 287, Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, Compton Parlor No. 258, Junipero Parlor No. 141, and Long Beach Parlor No. 154, those from the last three Parlors mentioned being individually addressed.

A decorative vase from Helen Heineman and an electric iron from Norma Abel, both of Orinda Parlor No. 56 and residents of the Home. From the members of the Home Committee, a metal illuminated Christmas tree holder for the tree which was contributed by Brice Bros. and from Past President Orinda Giannini, fifty lights for same.

To gladden the New Year came a subscription to Life from Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288 and twenty-one jars of jams and jellies from San Jose Parlor No. 81, Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks brought a ten pound box of raisins, and Grand Vice President Margaret Farnsworth sent two cartons containing a bountiful supply of various green garden vegetables fresh from the garden.

On the walls of the lounge of the Home there has been recently hung a beautiful framed oil painting of Vernal Falls, Yosemite, by that eminent California artist Thomas Hill, the gift of Mrs. Lida Hahn of Orinda Parlor No. 56, and a Home guest, from the collection of her late husband, James Hahn.

As each season emphasizes the appreciation of the opportunities offered the members of the Native Daughters by their Home, and the increasing demands for its services, it would indicate the building of a new wing on the adjoining property, now owned by the Home, cannot be longer delayed.

vision. They had an appreciation of what this great western country held for people who desired to achieve. They had the indomitable courage to face the rugged elements of nature. Above all, they had the courage to face the great unknown.

And the reason they had this courage was because they had faith—faith in God; faith in mankind, and faith in themselves. It was by this faith that they lived during the trying years in which they established an orderly society out here on the Pacific Coast.

Today, we face a future that is as uncertain as that of our pioneers. The world is chaotic. In many countries, greed and hatred and aggression are superimposed on the destruction of war, hunger and disease. Nations are striving to maintain their independence and people are crying out for freedom. If they are to succeed; if we are to be able to help them succeed, we all need as never before, the fundamental qualities of the pioneer. We must have a vision of world peace. We must have the will to achieve it, and the faith to meet the uncertainties of the future with confidence and courage.

Of all the people on earth, Californians should have an abundance of this faith and courage. We have been blessed beyond comparison during this first century of our existence. We have taken impossibly from our forests, our streams, and our valleys. Yet our natural resources, greater in value many times over than the gold which was taken from these mountains, still await further development. The water of this American River when stored at Folsom and other dam sites, will develop everlasting wealth in the fertile valleys below. It will light our cities, turn the wheels of industry, irrigate our fields, and preserve our wild life for those who love these mountains. Floods will be prevented. This wealth will not diminish through the years as did the gold deposits discovered by James Marshall one hundred years ago today. It will continue to enrich our State as long as the winter snows fall on the high Sierras and melt in the spring.

Because this Gold Discovery Centennial Day gives us an opportunity to honor those who pioneered our State and the inspiration to look forward to another century of progress, it is an important day in the history of California. I am happy to share it with you.

Southern Parlors Meet

Knight closed with the reminder that historical organizations such as his host groups were faced with the task of acquainting the army of newly arrived Californians with the traditions and history of their adopted state.

Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish presided during the afternoon. She introduced Rev. Joseph Thompson, O.F.M., first California-born member of the Franciscan order, who gave the benediction; Mayor Bowron, who spoke briefly; Ernst H. Katz, conductor of the California All-Youth Symphony Orchestra which played during luncheon; Raymond V. Darby, chairman, Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors; Don Blanding, Southland poet, and Richard Beavers, film actor and vocalist.

Later Mrs. Irish announced winners of a table-decorating competition. Guest group winners included the Pioneer Society and Las Hijas de California. Winners among Native Daughters of the Golden West groups included Toluca, Placerita and Los Angeles parlors. Native Sons of Golden West winners included the Ramona, Pasadena and Long Beach groups.

The afternoon concluded with an hour-long presentation of the State Centennial gold discovery program at Coloma, transmitted to the Biltmore Ballroom by direct wire.

The program was under the auspices of the Inter-Parlor Committee, Dan Kruckeberg, president. General chairman in charge of arrangements was Mrs. Ella Steinbeck, secretary of the Inter-Parlor Committee.

WE ORGANIZED A DRILL TEAM

By AILEEN LECAIR

A half dozen girls with lots of ambition, fortitude, patience and time is what it took to organize the Napa Native Daughters' Drill Team of Eshcol Parlor. We decided to write this article hoping maybe it would be an incentive to some other parlor to start a drill team or maybe some already organized team could put a few of our ideas to work.

Our activities are more or less divided into three sections. First and most important in our first year was Financial Activities. Second but still important was practices and parades, and third was Social Activities. Maybe Practices and Parades should have been first but we were determined to get uniforms our first year so therefore money raising was given a lot of thought and work.

Our team was organized on November 26, 1946, under the able leadership of Dee Gon-solin, chairman of Young Woman's Activities for Eshcol Parlor. Dee, a little, red haired French girl deserves much credit for the organization of this team. She was also elected president when our first officers were elected at our first meeting, and has just been re-elected to that office for the coming year.

Our Financial Activities started with a Card Party in December and another good project which put over $100.00 in our treasury before the end of 1946. This gave us a good start as both our first undertakings were successful. Now we were all full of pep and ready to make more money. 1947 began with all kinds of plans, some of which weren't so good which we won't mention. Some of them were exceptionally good. We profited by our errors and hope not to make many this year. Our first plans for '47 were for a Valentine Dance, which was held in the Native Son's Hall. We had a first class orchestra and the girls spent several nights making elaborate decorations. We didn't get rich from this event but didn't have to dig into our small treasury either. We didn't expect too much of this dance financially but did feel that it was a good chance to get our name in front of the public as we were sure they would hear more about us as the year progressed. We had determination. This dance was also a chance for everyone to get acquainted socially.

Our next money making venture was a Food Sale on April 5, 1947, Easter Saturday. We got up enough courage to ask the parlor for food donations and they cooperated nicely. This added $30.00 more to our treasury.

Our biggest undertaking in the financial world was the running of a booth at the Napa Fair in August. This was considerable work and a large undertaking for 16 girls that all work for a living or are raising families, but these girls were ready to try anything that looked like money making. This booth was run for four days and nights. This was a hectic four days but we came out on top with over $100.00 jingling in our jeans. At about this time the Parlor donated us $155.20 in War Bonds that had been accumulated by a former Drum Corps. We had also propositioned the Native Sons to let us wait on tables when they have any banquets. This has been lots of fun but we also clean up all the dishes. From this source we have acquired over $100 more. We have managed to pick up small amounts here, there, and everywhere whenever possible and have succeeded in raising over $800.00 in one year of being organized so we feel our Financial Activities have been very successful. If these activities help anyone else raise money we're glad we passed them on.

Practice and Parade Activities got underway on January 15, 1947 under the able direction of Buff Cherici, Brother Native Son of Napa Parlor, who has coached many Drill Teams and Drum Corps including the Napa Native Sons' Drum and Bugle Corps. After this first practice we could foresee many hard practices before we could even anticipate an appearance before the public. Have you ever felt that you had three feet, two left hands and a head that just wouldn't look anywhere except at your feet? Well that's just the feeling that Buff gave us that first night which was spent mostly in just trying to learn to walk and not waddle. Elise Humphrey was elected Captain and has been a big contributing factor to our year's success. The girls have been very faithful in coming out every Tuesday evening for hall practice, which is given to smoothing off the rough edges and then again for Wednesday evening practices of actual outdoor marching. This has meant Monday night for Parlor meeting, Tuesday and Wednesday nights for drill team. This has been very trying at times but the girls made the big effort and deserve credit for putting over this team.

Of course we just couldn't wait until we were ready to make our first parade. But first we had to have some uniforms. The first of May we had our measurements taken for uniforms by the Serbin Uniform Company. They said they would try to have the uniforms by July 4th. We made plans to participate in the Calistoga Fair Parade. Planning means telling all your friends and your Parlor. Fourth of July everybody watched for our debut but we had to disappoint them. We then decided to participate in our home town parade, uniforms or no. This was to be Aug. 22. On August 21 we still had only our shoes and blouses but this bunch just don't give up hope. About eight o'clock that night our skirts, hats and neckties arrived, via Greyhound bus. Then the mad scramble started, what with running a fair booth and trying to assemble uniforms. Came Sunday morning and we were out bright and early for an hour's practice before the parade with our Captain Elise in command. This takes ambition but we weren't sure of ourselves. All along the parade route, we got a big hand and maybe we weren't the best outfit in the parade but we were the proudest because we had actually reached our goal and felt we were over the hump and ready for the summer, minus jackets. The skirts we received were white with black side strip, hats white with orange plume. With this we wore white blouses and orange satin ties with white shoes. When we get our jackets they will be orange with lots of brass and braid. Not having jackets has its advantages though, when you march in the heat of summer.

After this first parade we were ready for any parade that came along. Our next entrance was the Mt. Diablo Trail Riders' Parade in Concord on September 1. We brought home the first prize. It was only a ribbon but it was our first prize. The Parade Committee were very congenial and gave us a nice dinner with all the trimmings when we finished parading.

On September 14 we took a journey to the Lodi Grape Festival in Lodi. We made a good showing in the parade and we were confident of a prize but when the judging was done they selected the men's and boys' drill teams and together. We had a good time nevertheless.

On September 31 came our big day again, Contra Costa County Fair Parade in Antioch. Of course there is considerable trouble trying to get 16 girls to all decide at one time where they are going and how but so far we have managed to accomplish this without too much trouble. This means transportation, uniforms in order, picnic lunch for us and the Napa NSGW Drum and Bugle Corps. We were thrilled in Antioch when they announced, "The best drill team, Eshcol Parlor Team of Napa." The girls just jumped up and down and couldn't wait to collect our first real trophy. Before this parade we had our pictures in the Antioch Ledger and the Napa Register. After our first major win amongst stiff competition we began to know we had succeeded in organizing this team. This first trophy we had all the girls' names engraved on.

October 5 found us in Pittsburg along with eighteen other drill teams and a good stiff north wind for competition. We didn't expect to show here but ended up with second place for NDGW Drill Teams and another large trophy. The parade wasn't long enough so after both we and the Native Sons from Napa received our trophies we serpentine and created excitement all over town for two hours. Each parade makes us feel more like a full fledged drill team and enthusiasm is running high by now and more girls are asking to join us.

We appeared at the Columbus Day parade in Santa Clara on October 12 and placed third in the parade. Then we decided to enter competition and this was another big moment as we had never done this before. We placed fourth in this competition and feel we would have done better but it got dark before the competition was completed. We finished the season at San Rafael on October 19. Following this parade we had a big Pot Luck Turkey Dinner and everyone agreed it had been a swell parade season.

Just a word about our Drill Team laws. We run a separate organization from our Parlor except for reporting our activities although all team members have to join the Parlor. We have an initiation fee of $1.00 per member and pay 10c dues every week. This seemingly small amount of dues takes care of all of our incidental expenses. We do not carry any deadheads in our organization, after a girl has missed four practices she is suspended. This seemed a bit harsh but we realized that if a girl missed four practices the rest of us lost one practice trying to help her catch up with what she missed. Our unwritten law is WORK, don't be afraid to ask for what you want and never admit defeat.

Our Social Activities have been numerous. The most important was our birthday party and Eshcol Parlor's Christmas party which the Drill Team volunteered to put on. The team furnished the entertainment including Santa Claus, lovely decorations and refreshments.

This Drill Team has filled a big need in our Parlor to keep the young ladies active and interested. In the past year we have been responsible for approximately 20 new members being brought into the NDGW. After our year of hard work is over we would still recommend that other parlors start now organizing their own drill team. It is a lot of satisfaction to see your own members parading as well as a lot of publicity for your parlor. We are now looking forward with renewed vigor to the many Centennial Parades in the next couple of years and sincerely hope some day to be State Champions.

OUR COVER

The Grizzly Bear is indebted to Native Son Earl Coffman of the Desert Inn, Palm Springs, for the cut of the beautiful photo by Stephen Willard of wild flowers on the desert. Strange as it may seem, the drought that plagues all California, affects the desert country this year as well. It takes winter rain in these arid lands to bring out the lavish display of spring flowers for which California is famous. Reports indicate that the wild flowers will be scarce this year due to insufficient moisture. However, the seeds remain dormant in the desert sands for another winter's rain and looking at the cover photo we can dream about what is in store for us next year.

ADOPTION AGENCY'S 1948 SPRING FUND APPEAL TO PUBLIC GETS UNDER WAY

By CHAS. A. KOENIG

President, Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., and Chairman, 1948 Spring Fund Drive.

Success of the third general appeal to the public for funds to finance work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., hinges to a large degree upon cooperation of parlors and individual members of the two organizations.

The drive is programmed for this month—April. Letters urging contributions will go into the mail at San Francisco and Los Angeles on April 7. As the appeal is being made to the public, strong and enthusiastic backing by Native Sons and Native Daughters will help tremendously in achieving the desired financial return.

Already scores of parlors and hundreds of individual members have pledged they will support the solicitation by contacting men, women, business concerns and various organizations of a philanthropic nature.

But the number of parlors and members already pledged to cooperate is small compared with the total of parlors and the thousands of members who urgently are needed to support this worthy purpose with active field work.

Here is how I hope everyone will help.

First—Miss no opportunity in April and May to explain the importance of the NSGW-NDGW project for homeless children. This explanation certainly may be followed with a statement that an emergency exists. The State Social Welfare Department has certain requirements which must be met at considerable cost to the Agency. Thousands of dollars must be raised to maintain a competent staff and provide for the care and supervision of babies pending adoption.

Second—Organize the best speakers in every parlor to present the appeal to women's clubs, social groups, men's service organizations and business institutions. A simple, sincere talk before such groups will impress hearers and produce results.

We of the Agency are confident that Native Sons and Native Daughters will take pride in performing this work. It is well enough for us to send our usual letters of appeal, which bring a response from many philanthropically inclined persons. But it is an established fact that the most effective appeal is the verbal one, made by men and women who are known in their communities.

Further, the recipients of our letters in many instances will look to Native Sons and Native Daughters, whom they know, for further explanation. When residents of a locality put their personal influence behind a drive, the campaign stands an excellent chance of going over the top.

In carrying on this work, parlors and members will find themselves publicizing one of the many highly meritorious objectives of NSGW and NDGW. By telling of our basic purpose to give homeless American youngsters a better break in life, our organizations will command increased respect. Assuredly, parlors will add members by boosting the homeless children's project.

The drive this spring particularly needs action by those within the Native Sons' and Native Daughters' organizations. Many fund solicitations are being conducted by other groups. This year the competition is more formidable than ever before. If we are to gain the desired returns, we must take off our coats and go to work.

With Gov. Earl Warren as honorary chairman, the sponsoring committee includes such prominent Californians as

Dr. Frank F. Barham, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Eugene W. Biscailuz, Frank M. Buckley, Judge Georgia P. Bullock, Judge Eugene Daney, jr., Martin J. Dinkelspiel, Mrs. Henry Dippel, Mrs. Paul Eliel, Dr. E. C. Farnham, Judge Thomas M. Foley, A. P. Giannini, C. J. Haggerty.

Hon. Frederick F. Houser, Mrs. Leiland A. Irish, Parker S. Maddox, Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Mrs. Edgar F. Magnin, Walter McGovern, Jesse H. Miller, Ruth Comfort Mitchell, Most Rev. J. J. Mitty, Dr. Myrl Morris, Daniel Murphy.

Rt. Rev. Edward Lambe Parsons, John T. Regan, Mayor Elmer Robinson, Mrs. Henry P. Russell, Judge George W. Schonfeld, Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, Mrs. Earl Warren, Rabbi Saul E. White, Hon. Sanborn Young.

In making contacts for the fund drive, all Native Sons and Native Daughters can take pride in announcing that since the homeless children's program was begun in 1910, 7547 babies have been placed in adoptive homes.

That's an average of almost 200 a year. Recently the number has been more than an annual 200, for at the beginning the work was conducted on a comparatively small scale.

While 7547 children have been placed in adoptive homes, many times that number have been helped by the Agency. For every child actually adopted, five other children have received assistance. Because of help that the Agency's trained workers are qualified to bestow, countless mothers were enabled to keep and raise their own offspring.

In every adoption these same trained social workers match the background of the baby to the racial, social, religious and intellectual status of foster parents. They also keep children and adoptive homes under observation until assured the youngster has been placed in a suitable environment.

All babies are given care pending placement for adoption or return to their mothers. Some must be boarded for months, until a mother is ready to make her final decision. Some babies must have prolonged medical care before they are ready for adoptive placement. The present costs of boarding homes, food, medicine and other necessities are higher than ever in our lifetimes—another reason why dollars are needed urgently.

As a final suggestion to those who undertake to help, checks should be made payable to Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc. Contributions may be sent to the Agency at Room 305, 1095 Market Street, San Francisco 3; or to the Agency's southern office, 3924 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27.

I look with confidence to all Native Sons and all Native Daughters for support in this important funding effort. Other organizations put thousands of workers into the field. So let's swing the combined strength of our parlors and individual members behind this great humanitarian undertaking. And let's gear quickly for the job. The time to hit is NOW, and into early May.

Canals of Los Banos

Background of Famous May Day Celebration sponsored each year by Native Sons and Native Daughters of Los Banos. Festivities this year are April 29 to May 2.

By RALPH LEROY MILLIKEN

HENRY MILLER was not the father,—the originator,—of the canals that make Los Banos so wealthy. Beginning in 1863 when he purchased the first land in the San Joaquin Valley Henry Miller devoted every effort the next few years to acquiring all the range land that he could get the money with which to purchase. By 1866 he had obtained title to all of the Santa Rita Grant, a tract of eleven square leagues, about 50,000 acres. Then began his race with the settlers to corral as much of the surrounding government land as possible.

A person at that time could buy up for cash all the government land they cared to acquire at $1.25 in greenbacks an acre. Paper money after the Civil War was circulating at about seventy-one cents on the dollar. A person could exchange gold coin at any bank for paper money and then go to the Land Office with it where paper money was accepted at full face value in the purchase of land. In that way people were able to buy up land for about ninety-three cents an acre.

Dave Wood who had a sheep camp about where Dos Palos is now located beat Henry Miller to the land office on one occasion and succeeded in getting title to seven thousand acres of government land right in the heart of Henry Miller's proposed cattle empire. The people of Las Juntas, the notorious Mexican settlement on the site of an old Indian rancharie near the present Firebaugh, discovered to their surprise one morning that they were living on land that now belonged to Henry Miller. When they moved off they found a refuge at Firebaugh's Ferry.

Settlers were pouring into the region now known as Cottonwood, the section around Pine and Newman. They came not for purpose of raising cattle, but to plow up range and grow wheat for the European market. Henry Miller's cattle were increasing at an alarming rate and were overrunning the whole West Side. These cattle paid no attention as to whether they were on Henry Miller's land or not. They roamed wherever the feed was best. It soon came about that the settlers began shooting Miller's cattle, telling him in this way in plain words to keep his cattle off of their grain fields. The final result was that Henry Miller had to decide whether to move with his herds to Nevada like other cattlemen in the San Joaquin Valley were doing, or find some way to keep his cattle on his own land. He chose the latter. Beginning near Hill's Ferry he built a wooden fence three boards high with posts every eight feet apart and running as far as Firebaugh, a distance of 68 miles. This brought him peace for the time being with his encroaching neighbors.

There used to be a reward of 50 dollars for the capture and return to the officers of any insane person found at large in California. Among the new settlers in 1868 was a new family by the name of Samuel A. Smith who settled on land a mile south of the present Los Banos. Smith raised a little grain and used to haul it to Hill's Ferry where it was shipped by river steamer to San Francisco. But the seasons became so dry that he, like many of the other settlers, was forced to take his team and go down around Stockton and work for the summer in order to support his family whom he had left behind to hold down his claim.

On the Smith ranch was a fine well of water and it was here that many of the travelers going through the country would stop and water their horses. One hot summer's day when Mr. Smith was away in Stockton and his family were living all alone a stranger in a high two wheeled sulky came riding through the country. He stopped to water his horse and Oscar, the oldest of the Smith children, pumped the water for him. The stranger was very talkative and the Smith family were only too eager to listen. He also visited others of the Smith relatives and neighbors. The traveler was spreading the report that there was a great canal going to be dug through this part of the country with which to irrigate the land. Settlers would no longer then have to go away any more to look for work.

This was "Old Man Simmonds" who owned a tract of land at the point where the Fresno Slough and the San Joaquin River come together. This was the logical place where a dam could be built to take out water and send it rolling down a canal. A few days after Simmonds was gone young Oscar Smith was riding over the Kreyenhagen's store at Old Los Banos in a lumber wagon with his uncle, Bill Dollarhide, and the Reynolds boys, Amos and Wes. All felt that they had lost an opportunity to make fifty dollars. They were now certain that the man was crazy and their great regret was that they had not taken him into custody.

But Simmonds was right. A canal was coming. In the spring of 1871 work actually began. Simmonds had gotten hold of a promoter in San Francisco by the name of Bensley. Together they began a canal. Their equipment was very crude and they did not bother even to survey out where their canal was going to go. They kept their surveyor working only a little ways ahead of the actual digging of the canal, giving the canal a grade of a foot to the mile and letting it go wherever the grade took them.

Isaac Friedlander, a wealthy San Franciscan, had discovered that California wheat brought a big price in the Liverpool market and was exporting grain on a large scale to Europe. He was familiar with the San Joaquin Valley and could see that the level floor of the valley needed only water and these lands could be made into one vast grain field. His export business would boom. He sent to England for an engineer who could lay out canals on a gigantic scale. At that time there were no engineers in California who knew anything about building such canals. From England they sent him an engineer by the name of Brereton, a member of the Institute of Civil Engineers, London, who had had fourteen years experience in building the great government canals of India that were banishing age old famine from that over populated land.

Brereton came. He went down the San Joaquin Valley looking over the situation. He visited the tiny efforts of Old Man Simmonds and Bensley. Brereton could see at once the great possibility of irrigating the almost level lands of the vast San Joaquin Valley. He went as far as Tulare Lake where there was at that time an immense body of water from which he felt would be ample to supply a canal running 180 miles to tide water on the Bay of San Francisco. He envisioned a great canal, like the Erie Canal in New York State, on which canal boats would run to San Francisco Bay carrying the grain that would be raised earlier in the season from the irrigation waters supplied by the same canal. He proposed a ten million dollar set up and the result was the incorporation of what was known as the San Joaquin and Kings River Canal and Irrigation Company. The first move of the new company was to buy up the Simmonds and Bensley Canal as a feeder for their proposed Main Canal.

Rare photo of Henry Miller taken by the late Dr. J. L. McClelland of Los Banos, May 1, 1905, the last year that the May Day Celebrations were held at Canal Farm before being moved to the City Park in Los Banos. Mr. Miller was sitting at ease on the wide veranda of the Superintendent's residence at Canal Farm, when Dr. McClelland approached him and asked to take his picture.

Henry Miller,—first, last and all the time a cattleman,—was not so hot for the program of transforming the San Joaquin Valley from a cattle range into a grain field. However, when he was offered the chance to take an interest in the new company he did not fail to come in. He took at first a small interest. His policy was that of the proverbial camel that first stuck its nose inside the tent and finally wriggled its whole body inside.

Rebates were the accepted order of big business in those days and Henry Miller drove a sharp bargain with the Canal Company. He was to have water for his lands at half the price charged other customers and his cattle were to have free water to drink along the banks of the canal itself. This latter made it possible for his cattle to range farther out on the plains during dry weather.

The Canal Company went ahead with the little canal and in the fall of 1871 got as far as the Los Banos Creek. The first water that came down the canal was from the Panoche Creek. That stream poured a big flood of waters that winter out on to the Plains which, sweeping right over the banks of the canal, came racing down the new water way. The unexpected water poured out all over where the present town of Los Banos now stands and a band of sheep belonging to Z. G. Jameson were marooned. Before they could Hi-light of the De Anza festivities is the "Jamaica" (pronounced Ha-mika), and a fiesta spectacle never to be forgotten.—Field Studio Photo.

De Anza Revisits Riverside

By KENT FOSTER

PAGEANT, pomp and ceremony, combined with true California hospitality, fiesta inspired attractions and solid entertainment for one and all, is what the citizenry of Riverside (city and county), have planned for this year's "De Anza Days," which takes place on May 6th, 7th, and 8th.

Each year, since its conception eight years ago, Riverside has done its utmost to ensure a constant improvement in the re-enactment of De Anza's first visit in 1774. This year's program promises to be the most attractive one yet presented. In addition to three full days of fiesta held in true early Spanish California style, the men responsible for the "De Anza Days" activities have added an international "flavor" to the affair. Invitations have been issued to President Truman and many other leading dignitaries, including President Aleman of Mexico and Governor Warren. As a further gesture of International goodwill, arrangements have just been completed whereby a sizable group of average private Mexican citizens, will be the guests of Riverside for the entire program, together with transportation to and from Mexico, besides several sight seeing trips through Southern California.

Don Juan Bautista de Anza is credited by historians as having made two trips through what is now Riverside. However it was his second trip that started from Tubac in October 1775 with a group of Spanish colonists, comprised of 240 men, women and children that seems to have impressed our historians as being most important. Much hardship and suffering was encountered, yet not a person perished during the entire journey and, ironically enough, a baby was born enroute, which was hailed as a good omen by De Anza and his followers. On New Year's Day 1776 they arrived at the Santa Ana river, and even though the river had overflowed its banks with a heavy flood, they forded and crossed at a point close to Mt. Rubidoux and encamped on the other side. Following a short rest there, the party started once again on De Anza's famous march to San Francisco.

Following De Anza and his intrepid group of colonists came the Spanish Dons, armed with land grants from the King of Spain, and even though their tenure of stay was not a long one, they established a reputation for hospitality that has never diminished, and their effect on California history will be felt for many, many generations to come.

In keeping with the hospitality handed down through the years from the Spanish Dons, the people of Riverside outdo themselves in order to uphold the spirit of true California hospitality, and this thought is more than evident during the De Anza Days festivities. Proof of this hospitality is that, each year, more and more people journey from all over the North American continent to enjoy the De Anza fiesta program, and to hear that ever welcome phrase "buenas dias, amigo."

The festivities commence on Thursday morning with a chuck wagon breakfast served to everyone in costume. Next comes the Art Mart which is held on the Courthouse lawn, where a replica of an old Spanish market place will be built to house the works of our local artists. Following this, between the hours of two and four p.m., local señoritas will pass out "Gits of Gold," which to the unenlightened, are luscious, golden, naval oranges! As an added touch, the oranges will be in wrappers marked "Centennial Celebration, Riverside, Home of the Parent Naval Orange Tree."

Another outstanding feature that takes place on Thursday, is the contest held to determine who will be the "Centennial Queen." Each participant will be the "Queen" from her home community in Riverside county. The choosing and crowning of the Centennial Queen will take place as early as possible, so that the "Queen" may reign through all of the "De Anza Days" pageant. All of the other beauty contest participants will act as ladies in waiting to the "Queen" at all the functions she attends.

Thursday night there is street dancing for one and all, and one can very easily recapture the colorful spirit of the past, by watching the seniors and their señoritas dance to the old time Spanish music, which with the clicking of castanets, all tend to create a pattern of romance and gaiety traditional with the true, old time fiesta. As an added feature for evening enjoyment is the Jamaica (pronounced Ha-mika), which is an authentic Mexican fiesta that our visitor cannot afford to miss, and is held for three nights (Thursday, Friday, and Saturday). Delicious Mexican food is served with a delightful program of background music and native, folk style dancing.

Friday the ever prevalent spirit of the fiesta holds sway stronger than ever, parties, dancing, strolling musicians, everyone doing their utmost to relive the historical heritage handed down from those dispensers of true hospitality, the Spanish Dons.

Saturday's festivities include a children's party, followed by the spectacular De Anza Days parade wherein one sees pages of the past unfolded via the use of floats and costumed participants to such a degree of authenticity, that our visitor is hard pressed to determine if he is not "living in the past." Besides the parade, many other events are scheduled during the day, that are guaranteed to hold everyone's interest from dawn to dusk! Then at night comes the two big dancing events that no one can afford to miss, the De Anza Days Dinner-Dance at the Mission Inn, and the Grand Costume Ball at the Memorial Auditorium. These two events will more than prove to be a fitting climax to three full days of enjoyable entertainment as furnished by the city of Riverside and the communities in Riverside county for the perpetuation of the "De Anza Days Spirit" . . . May it never die!

The skillful planning and arduous effort required to stage the De Anza Days pageant, each and every year, is the direct responsibility of the Riverside Junior Chamber of Commerce, this group of determined and energetic young men are untiring in their efforts to provide colorful entertainment, combined with gracious hospitality in order to preserve and enhance the re-enactment of Don Juan Bautista de Anza's visit to Riverside as the years go by. The satisfaction of providing enjoyment for the thousands who attend the spectacle is payment enough for these young men, and when you return again next year to partake in the De Anza Days festivities, they know, that their's was a job well done!

GOLD RUSH DAYS

By EMMETT P. JOY

One of the first forms of entertainment in the mines was the bull and bear fights. Grizzly bears were valued at several thousand dollars because of the hazards and difficulties in obtaining them. Bulls were also difficult to procure. In Mokelumne Hill in the early 50's this form of entertainment predominated. An open arena was built and the fights took place only on Sundays. Thousands of miners surrounded the arena to watch the spectacle.

After the towns became organized community theatres were erected and players of fame toured the mining towns and camps. Among them were "Lola Montez," who for a time made her residence in Grass Valley. Lotta Crabtree of national fame resided at La Porte during her childhood days. Elisa Biscaccianti, the famous soprano, made appearances in the mining towns also. Edwin Booth played in the old Stickle's Theatre in Angel's Camp, the building is now gone, though the stone foundations still remain. Horse racing was another popular form of entertainment.

Roads did not exist during the earliest days of the mining activity. Supplies and provisions were brought in by pack mules and horses; burros were also used for this purpose. As many as 30 or 40 pack animals made up one pack train. The main supply depots were Sacramento for the Central and Northern mines and Stockton for the Southern mines.

In 1850 roads were being built to accommodate the large shipments of gold that were being carried out by the Express companies. By 1852 stages were operating in and out of the foothills. The drivers who were usually guarded by an express messenger, had a dangerous task. Bandits, high water in the creeks and rivers during the winter months, narrow grades, were the main reasons that many of them lost their lives in the performance of their duties. Millions in gold bullion was carried over the lone road in Amador county from the northern mines. Records show that $6,000,000 was shipped from Shaw's Flat in Tuolumne county.

During the winter months "Snow Shoe Thompson" carried mail over the snow barriers of the Sierra Nevada Mountains to the miners. His daring and unusual feat will forever remain as an important chapter in the annals of early California history.

Sunday in the mines was an eventful day for the miners. Some would go to town to buy provisions for the following week, others would become engaged in gaming and would lose his "find" for the week. Others remained at their tent or cabin where, with the music, would find pleasure. Some being homesick would be busy writing letters to their relatives who resided many thousand miles away. Some of the early miners were in their teens and became lonesome in the cold rough canyons of the mining region.

The historic Mother Lode possesses a history all its own; a colorful and romantic history of a gold rush which has not been equalled in the history of man. Its green, rolling hills are scarred as a result of the pick and shovel of the miners, but the days of gold left a monument to the miners of '49, mainly the vast upheaval of soil of the placer gold fields.

Pasadena Playhouse Scene Of Homeless Children Benefit

The Homeless Children committee, Pasadena Parlor No. 290, NDGW is sponsoring the Pasadena Community Playhouse on Thursday evening, April 29, 1948. The committee was exceedingly fortunate in securing one of George Bernard Shaw's most successful plays, "The Millionairess." Homemade candy will be sold in the lobby before the curtain and during the intermission. The committee is expending every effort that this project will be a complete success and one of the outstanding events of the year. All proceeds of the evening will go to the Homeless Children fund. Reservations should be made to the ticket chairman—Muriel Fabrick, 2182 Oakwood Ave., Pasadena 7, money should accompany reservation, price of tickets are 76 cents, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00.

On this same evening at 7:30 p. m. the combined History and Landmarks committees of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, Pasadena Parlors will present a suitable plaque as a historical landmark to the Playhouse.

The Playhouse was designated "State Theater of California" by the California State Legislature, Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 17, in March, 1937. This resolution was unanimously adopted by the Assembly and the Senate because the Playhouse has "exemplified the highest standards of dramatic art—brought National and International renown to the State of California—encouraged development of playwriting in dramatic art—encouraged talents of native born California actors." The Playhouse also holds the distinction of being the only non-profit school of collegiate grade who devotes itself entirely to the theater that is accepting students under the G. I. bill of rights.

Gilmore Brown, Supervising Director, brought his small troupe of actors to Pasadena in 1916. They opened to a meager house one evening in October, 1916. Not discouraged, Mr. Brown returned the following year and on November 20, 1917 opened in the Shakespeare Club. Shortly thereafter the "Old Savoy" theater was rented, scrubbed and painted, and rechristened the "Community Playhouse."

The Playhouse threatened for several years to die aborning, however it managed to pull through and grow amazingly. On May 18, 1925, with paint still wet and concrete not completely set, the curtain rose at the new Playhouse at 39 South El Molino Ave. From the patio to the stage, the Playhouse is architecturally a lovely reminder of California's heritage from the days of the dons and the Mission padres.

The reputation of the Playhouse has spread over the world and has become a mecca for those who love good drama. The school has trained students from every state in the Union and eleven foreign countries. Schooling is rigid and rules are strict, for students are not only taught drama but dancing, fencing and music as well.

Great strides have been made by the Playhouse. In recent years many radio programs have been broadcast from their studio, and on Saturday, March 6th, they held their television premier.

The Playhouse management, realizing the importance of the Centennial celebrations, is devoting their summer festival to featuring early California drama. Grace Stoermer, Past President of the Native Daughters is a familiar speaker during the summer series, and heartily endorses the Playhouse activities.

The combined committees for this outstanding event have extended personal invitations to Governor and Mrs. Warren, the California Centennial committee, Grand Officers of the Native Sons and Daughters and many other dignitaries to be their guests.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

During the month of April, letters will be sent by the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., to 200,000 citizens in the State of California requesting their assistance by donations of money to the homeless children work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters. Many Native Sons who received a letter from me requesting donations in November or December, will undoubtedly receive a copy of this general request. All who received such a letter and who did not make a donation, and all who feel able to make a further contribution are urgently requested so to do, for this worthy charity is in need of all the assistance possible. It must be realized that in sending 200,000 letters, many of our members who have donated to the extent of their ability will receive such a letter and the fact of the sending of this request to them should not be misinterpreted. It is impossible and impractical to go through such a mailing list and eliminate the names of our members who have donated. All members of our Order, however, are urged to do everything they can to see to it that the general public is made acquainted with our work and that wherever and whenever possible, donations should be solicited.

The Annual Police Show in Los Angeles this year should be of particular interest to the Native Sons and Native Daughters in and around Los Angeles County. The theme of the pageant will be California Centennials, and a review of the synopsis thereof as planned when this column is written, indicates that the writer thereof has spent considerable time in research and planning, and it is sincerely recommended that all who have an opportunity, see that show this year. Those in charge of the Annual Police Show this year should be complimented upon their willingness to carry on the Centennial theme, which is and has been of such interest to our two Orders for some time in the past.

The month of April and the first two weeks in May will be known as "reinstatement period." All Parlors should immediately review their records with a special emphasis upon their suspensions during the last ten years. A special committee should be appointed whose duty should be to attempt to rekindle an interest in our Order of our former brothers who were suspended for one reason or another. It is my firm belief that many, who for one reason or another found it convenient to leave us, would welcome an opportunity to re-enter our Order. Specific note will be made of the number of reinstatements during that period and suitable recognition to deserving Parlors will be made at the end of the term indicated.

The committee in charge of the Grand Parlor which will be held at Hoberg's, in Lake County, commencing on the 17th of May is making elaborate plans for the entertainment of the delegates and their wives and friends. From all appearances, this will be one of the most outstanding Grand Parlor sessions. Many important matters for the future of our Order will be debated and de-

Ritualistic Trophy Contest Is Announced At Arrowhead Assembly

Rules for the ritual cup contest between parlors of San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Riverside, Orange and San Diego counties were announced at the meeting of Arrowhead Assembly No. 14, Past Presidents' Association, held Sunday, February 15, at Indio.

The contest will be held under Grand Parlor rules for ritual contests, with only chair officers of the current term permitted to compete. Two or more parlors may join for an evening to be judged.

The cup will be presented each term. Winning it three times will make it the permanent property of the parlor. Winning teams will have name engraved each term.

Those competing should notify the chairman of the contest, Dr. John A. Schwamm, 649 So. Olive St., Los Angeles 14, by May 1, 1948, closing date for entry into this term's contest, which will be completed by June 30, 1948. Assignment of judges and date for judging will be given the parlor as soon as the chairman receives notice of entry from the parlor.

At least two parlors must compete for the awarding of the prize, according to Chairman Schwamm. Entries for the last term of this year will close November 1, 1948 with the contest ending December 31, 1948.

Earl W. Magee, Ramona No. 109, Los Angeles, was installed as Governor of Arrowhead Assembly by John Haas, district deputy general. Recording secretary is Robert W. Brazelton of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, while Judge Donald E. VanLuvan, Arrowhead No. 110, is financial secretary.

Nine new members were initiated by Arrowhead Assembly, four from Coachella Valley Parlor No. 288, host to the Assembly.

A dinner for the members and their ladies preceded the afternoon meeting, following which the women attended the Indio Date Festival.

Arrowhead Assembly again met Sunday, March 14, in San Bernardino, the affair being Ladies Day. Entertainment during the dinner hour was provided by the National Orange Show. Following a short business session all adjourned to visit the 33rd National Orange Show. Mark Watterson of Arrowhead No. 110 was chairman of arrangements, assisted by H. Norman Johnson and Donald M. Cochran, also of the host parlor.

cided upon, and all interested, even though they not be delegates, are invited to attend. The committee suggested that the session might last five days this year rather than four; however, the Board of Grand Officers decided that the regular session shall be four days as has been our custom for some time. The session will commence promptly at 10 o'clock on Monday, May 17, and all delegates are requested to be in attendance at the opening of the session.

Grand President, NSGW.

It is emphasized that all planning to go to Hobergs should make their reservations as soon as possible as the management has advised that the first reservations will be taken care of first and those last will receive what is left.

Details of entertainment events planned, etc., had not been received by the Grizzly Bear at press time. However, the magazine hopes to be able to advise its readers further in the May issue. Absolute deadline for all ads and news for the May issue will be April 15.

Sea Scouts Are Sponsored By Napa Native Sons

Napa Parlor is now the sponsor of Ship No. 90 Sea Scouts. This troop consists of boys 15 to 18 years of age. At present there are 23 boys in the group.

President Art Lecair appointed the following committee to direct the activities of the ship Don West, Chairman; Ed Glos, Institutional Representative; Guido Boggiali, Henry Behrens, Harold Walsh, Bev Tallman, Ken Frost and Bert Thompson.

The ship will be operated more or less as a self-supporting group, with the committee outlining and instigating various activities.

Ship 90 has a whale boat, and has just received the papers for a 50-foot cutter donated by the Navy. The Navy is very much in back of Sea Scouting and has assigned regular officers to full time duty instructing skippers of the many established ships throughout the United States.

The skipper of the ship is Pete Lande, First Mate, Fred Brown, and Second Mate, Clarence Haynes.

The ship has a building, also donated by the Navy, which is to be erected near the river where they also have a barge moored.

The boys meet every Friday night at the Methodist church and are instructed in the fundamentals of seamanship. They also go on a cruise once or twice a year.

The sponsoring of Ship 90 by this parlor is in cognizance with the promotion of activities for teen-agers by the Grand Parlor.

More than 100 members of the parlor and visiting Native Sons were present.

Also planned for early participation are various "Frolic Nights," usually held on the parlor's second meeting night of the month. On these nights business is held to a minimum, with fun and entertainment predominating.

Commander Scott To Be Featured Speaker At Birthday Party

San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281, NDGW, will celebrate its third birthday Tuesday evening, April 20, at 9 o'clock, at 23 No. Stoneman St., Alhambra, with a program open to all Native Sons, Native Daughters and their friends.

Featured speaker of the evening will be Commander A. W. Scott of Mutual Broadcasting Company's "Romance of the Highways" fame, who will give a talk on the Mother Lode Country, illustrated with colored slides.

San Gabriel Valley Parlor was instituted on April 23, 1945. This date also happens to be Commander Scott's birthday, and one of the reasons for the parlor being able to obtain this famous lecturer for the occasion.

Commander Scott is in great demand throughout the southwest as a lecturer. He is well-known to Native Sons and Daughters, having been a featured speaker at the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters at Hobergs in 1946, and guest announcer for the 1947 Admission Day Parade in Long Beach. His talk at the San Gabriel Valley Parlor's third birthday celebration promises to be of unusual interest. All Native Sons, Native Daughters and their friends should plan to attend.

Sacramento Parlors Join For Grand President's Visit

Miss Doris Treat of San Andreas, Grand President of the NDGW, recently made her official visit in Sacramento to Rio Rito Parlor No. 253 and La Bandera Parlor No. 110, at a joint assembly in the Native Sons Building.

A dinner at the Elks Club preceded the meeting, where the appointments at the tables, as well as in the meeting hall, stressed a gold theme featuring the California Poppy and the bear. Individual favors at the tables for the honored guests were ceramic poppies made by Mrs. Gertrude Bradbrook of Rio Rito Parlor.

A gift to Miss Treat was presented by La Bandera's president, Mrs. Mildred Lee, assisted by her officers carrying bouquets of poppies, and a gift was also presented by Mrs. Mary Ehlers, president of Rio Rito Parlor, accompanied by their escort team carrying nosegays of yellow marigolds tied with gold streamers. Mrs. Mavis Brown, Secretary of Rio Rito Parlor and Miss Barbara Bancroft, First Vice President of La Bandera Parlor each read a report of the activities for her respective parlor during the past year.

Grand officers present were Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, grand secretary, Oakland; Miss Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland, grand marshal; Misses Jewell McSweeney, Leslie Hicks, both of San Francisco, Marian Brian, Napa; Betty Reid, Jackson, all grand trustees. Miss Ruth Truesdale, San Francisco, grand inside sentinel; Miss Doris Gerrish, Sacramento, grand outside sentinel. Mrs. Mary Huston, Califa Parlor No. 22, Sacramento, supervising district deputy grand president; Mesdames Josephine Dorsa, Califa Parlor, deputy grand president to La Bandera Parlor and Mary Waterman, Liberty Parlor, Elk Grove, deputy grand president to Rio Rito Parlor. Mrs. Sadie Brainard, organizer of Rio Rito Parlor, Concord, California. Past grand presidents Mesdames Loretta Cameron, San Francisco; Ann Thusen, San Francisco and Edna B. Briggs, of La Bandera Parlor.

Correction

The name of Past Grand President Mrs. Gladys E. Noce is misspelled in the March Native Daughter Directory. The listing under the heading of Past Grand Presidents should read: Mrs. Gladys E. Noce, Symns Camp, Crescent City, California.

San Francisco County Plans Class Initiation

Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County under the direction of Pearl Weisig, SDDGP of the County, Las Lomas Parlor No. 271 and Vera Thompson, DGP, Keith Parlor No. 151, Chairman, plan a large class of initiation, honoring Grand President Doris Treat, to be held in San Francisco County the latter part of April. The group has set a goal of 100 initiates, commemorating our Gold Centennial Discovery Year. They have worked with earnest purpose in achieving a large group. Grand Officers and Past Grand Officers of the San Francisco District have been invited to join with the Deputy Group in preparation for the event. Presidents of each Parlor will act as an escort for the Grand President.

Parlors throughout the entire State are finding California born women most receptive to membership in our Order, having been attracted by plans for our coming three years of eventful Centennials. Believing it is the duty of every member to present invitations to the many California born women in our State to become affiliated with our Order, and coupled with the fact that we are the first patriotic group of women to be formed in the State of California, we have a double duty to perform in the building of a large membership in our Order.

State Chairman of the Extension of the Order, Anna Schiebush of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, looks forward to an overwhelming gain in membership during the year, matching the goal of our Grand President Treat of a gain of five thousand new members.

Especially is the attention called to the members of San Francisco County to join in making our Gold Centennial Class Initiation in April, one of outstanding achievement.

Angelita Parlor Loses Charter Member

Sister Annie McDonald, oldest Native Daughter in point of years in Alameda County and charter member of Angelita Parlor No. 32, oldest parlor in Alameda County, passed away on February 22, after suffering a fall several months ago. Sister McDonald was long active in Angelita Parlor and served as financial secretary for many years. She is mourned not only by the entire membership of her own parlor, but by members of many other parlors. She was a delegate to Grand Parlor on many occasions.

In 1946 she was honored as the oldest member by point of years in Alameda County by raising the Bear Flag at the California Spring Garden Show in Oakland. She was born in Dublin in March, 1866, and spent her entire life in the Livermore Valley. She was the widow of David McDonald and is survived by two daughters and a son.

THE CANALS OF LOS BANOS

be gotten out that Sunday morning nearly a hundred of them were drowned.

The people of Badger Flat had been expecting to irrigate their grain fields the spring of 1872 but when the canal got only about as far as the present Trent Oil Station and then stopped they saw their dreams begin to fade. However, they went to work themselves. They dug a ditch from the end of the canal and built a flume. They then went to the river and hauled willow brush with which to construct a dam in the canal where it flowed into the Los Banos Creek. The result was that in 1872 they raised a bumper crop of grain.

By the time the Canal Company had built its canal as far as the Los Banos Creek in the fall of 1871 it had spent its force. Assessments after assessments were levied on the stockholders. An attempt was made to extend the canal farther and in 1874 work was actually started on bringing water down to the Cottonwood section. The feeble Canal Company, however, was unable to finance any more advance. Henry Miller, like the camel, was getting himself farther and farther inside the tent. Whenever a stockholder became disgusted with these constant assessments and no dividends he would buy up their shares for a song. In a few years he had a controlling interest. Immediately he called a meeting of the Board of Directors and voted all the old Canal crowd out of office and himself and his dummies into control.

Meanwhile the people of Cottonwood and Hill's Ferry were clamoring for water. Simon Newman and Henry Miller were the bitterest of enemies. Simon Newman was a Jew and the "big man" of the Hill's Ferry country. Henry Miller was a German and could brook no interference from anybody. The result was a feud, traces of which still faintly exist between the people of Newman and the towns of Los Banos and Gustine, Miller's creations.

The far seeing German, Henry Miller, knew that sooner or later that "tamn Yew" would be attempting to put a dam in the San Joaquin River and build a canal of his own to the Newman territory. Now firmly seated in his control of the Canal Company Henry Miller proceeded to map out his plans for the control of the whole water supply of the San Joaquin River. He would extend the canal to Cottonwood and the Orestimba Creek. This extension he would keep the control of himself. He would thus prevent the building of a separate canal and dam which would mess up his river.

The terribly dry year of 1877 Henry Miller set his canal surveyors to work surveying out an extension from the Los Banos Creek to the Orestimba Creek. That fall he put his men to work building the weir across the Los Banos Creek. At 9 o'clock in the morning of September 6, 1878, the excavation of the canal was completed and soon after water was running into the Orestimba Creek.

A generation later there was still water running to waste in the San Joaquin River and in 1896 Henry Miller began the construction of an Outside Canal to make use of this surplus water and keep anyone else from getting it. Water is everything in the San Joaquin Valley. By the summer of 1897 his New Canal was completed as far, this time again, as the Los Banos Creek. A rancher had opposed the canal crossing his land and the canal had come to a temporary halt at the Los Banos Creek.

Henry Miller had begun May 1, 1890, giving May Day celebrations at Canal Farm in the eucalyptus grove that he had planted several years before as a public picnic ground. Los Banos had just been started and it was desired to give the new town a splendid start. The people responded so generally to Henry Miller's generosity that each succeeding year he continued to give this free barbecue and picnic on May Day. The celebration was growing in popularity each year. By the spring of 1897 the idea was put forward of combining the May Day Celebration with a grand celebration in honor of the completion of the New Canal. The people were beginning to look on Henry Miller as their benefactor rather than as a "water hog," a "land grabber" and a "cattle thief." Henry Miller was coming into his own with the people of the West Side.

On Tuesday, the sixth of July, 1897, the big celebration was held. The eucalyptus grove at Canal Farm was filled to overflowing. It turned out to be an ovation. Speeches were made and cheers given for Henry Miller.

These Henry Miller May Day Celebrations were eventually brought in from the eucalyptus grove at Canal Farm to the city park in Los Banos. They are now in their 59th year—an institution more than half as old as the State of California itself.

Lodi Parlors Plan Events For Centennial Years

Ivy Parlor No. 88, NDGW, Lodi, on March 3 started the first of a series of reports on California History which have been prepared by one of our members, Eleze Butler. Miss Butler opened the forum with the topic "Pre-Spanish Period or the Indians of California." Merle Richter of Woodland Parlor No. 90 told of the volcanos, mountains and valleys of California. Edith Stoops told of the Indian tribes in California, their characteristics, food and ways of travel. Gwendolyn Fisher presented a topic concerning Indian basketry and explained how clever the tribes were in weaving.

A fine display of Indian baskets and relics was loaned by Miss Richter. The first meeting in each month will be devoted to a program on California History. Miss Eleze Butler has spent much time and effort in arranging these reports.

Lodi Parlor No. 18, NSGW, and Ivy Parlor have planned a series of card parties to be held March 10 and 31 and April 14. The proceeds will be used for a Centennial fund for programs, etc., during the Centennial years.

Walter Salomon is chairman for the Native Sons and assisting him are Earl Hoff, president, and Charles Wise, Harley Urtke, Herbert Handel, Burton Pope and Frank Grafigna. Amelia Salomon is chairman for the Native Daughters and she is assisted by Edith Stoops, president, and Lulu Mae Greer, Tresa Eaton, Harriet Salomon, Grace Brierly, Florence Masters, Eleze Butler and Alice Felton. This committee is working hard to make these parties a success and hope to have a neat sum realized to carry on activities during these Centennial years.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

City Editor, Los Angeles Times
1st and Spring Sts.,
Los Angeles, California
Dear Sir:

I hasten to reply to J. J. Keller in his recent letter to the TIMES of January 30, 1948, in which the writer complains that the recent broadcast regarding James Marshall's gold discovery at Coloma on January 24, 1848, messed up our California history.

Mr. Keller is both right and wrong,—right in his statements that Francisco Lopez made the initial discovery of gold in Placerita Canyon, now Los Angeles County, seven years before Marshall's discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill on the South fork of the American river; and so wrong when he complains that the radio broadcast failed to give due credit to this all-important gold discovery.

Before the reenactment of James Marshall's gold discovery, one hundred years later, some thirty minutes were broadcast by two members of the California Centennials Commission, Chairman Joseph R. Knowland and Vice Chairman Willard Keith, in which they, and Eugene W. Biscailuz, Chairman of the Advisory Committee, and the Honorable Earl Warren, Governor, carefully related that glorious era. Sheriff Biscailuz, in a very well prepared talk, told in great detail of how Lopez was actually the first to discover gold of any sizeable amount in California, and how Don Abel Sterns shipped the first gold to the Philadelphia Mint in 1843.

However, the Sheriff's modesty prevented his telling that Francisco Lopez was his Great-Great Uncle, which many of the readers of the TIMES will be glad to learn. I might say further, that Mr. Joseph R. Knowland is a recognized authority on California History, and all data used was carefully reviewed by Mr. Knowland and approved before being used.

The American Broadcasting Corporation is to be highly complimented for broadcasting the pageant of the Centennial Gold Discovery, under a great handicap, for the broadcast originated in a large circus tent, and all participants worked against time, with small opportunity for rehearsing. Unfortunately, the first part of the speaking program was not heard in this part of the State, but was released elsewhere.

The Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West are anxious that all Californians, both native and adopted, learn of our State's romantic history, and hence this reply.

Very truly yours,
ELDRED L. MYER,
Past Grand President
Native Sons of the Golden West.

It is surprising the number of comments that have come to this office regarding the recent fires at Downieville which destroyed the St. Charles Hotel and the Court House. It shows that Native Sons and Daughters, as well as the general public, is interested in preserving these old historic buildings of California. What we need is a strong leadership and a plan for this work.

James Ritchey of Pasadena Parlor NSGW announces that a letter has been sent to Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors asking support in the 1948-49 Girl of the Golden West festivities and float in the 1949 Tournament of Roses.

OUR COVER

"Doves of Peace" is what Photographer M. D. Bradshaw has titled our cover. Taken at old San Gabriel Mission, it symbolizes the peace that we all earnestly pray for today in a strife-torn world, filled with rumors of war more horrible than the mind of man can contemplate. Let us be ready to defend our way of life and to champion the cause of free peoples on the one hand, while with the other, point to the dove of peace.

Copies of this beautiful photo, hand-tinted by Mrs. Bradshaw, wife of the photographer, are to be found in the homes of many Californians.

ADOPTION AGENCY FUND DRIVE CONTINUES IN HIGH GEAR

By HAZEL B. HANSEN

Past Grand President, NDGW

Secretary and Member of the Board of Directors

ALTHOUGH for one month the 1948 Spring Fund Drive of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency has been in progress, the effort is far from finished.

A vast amount of work remains to be done. But it is work that appeals to every member of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. It appeals, for there is nothing more pathetic than a homeless child, and the Adoption Agency is the project dear to all our hearts.

Already countless numbers of Native Sons and Native Daughters throughout the state have taken steps to draw attention of the public to the prevailing effort.

In doing this, they have complied with the request of Mr. Chas. A. Koenig, president of the board and chairman of the Fund Drive. He has asked all members of Native Sons and Daughters to call on neighbors, friends and acquaintances for contributions. And he also has urged members to appear on programs of luncheon clubs, women's clubs and employee associations to voice the same appeal.

Similar suggestions have been put forth by Grand President Walter H. Odemar, of the Native Sons, and Grand President Doris Treat, of the Native Daughters.

Grand President Treat has issued a bulletin to all Parlor Presidents, in which she says:

"We must do everything possible to cause this worthy humanitarian effort to achieve the desired result. All Native Daughters and all Parlors should make special efforts in alerting the public to the appeal.

"By uniting our forces behind the drive, we stand an excellent opportunity of making it the most successful undertaken by our organization."

Miss Treat's bulletin shows how necessary it is that all of us buckle down to the task for a few more weeks. She suggests that members, who contact individuals or speak before meetings, obtain the necessary information on our homeless children's work from the homeless children chairman of our parlor.

In every case we have been asked to urge that contributions be mailed to offices of the Agency, addresses of which are 1095 Market Street, San Francisco 3, and 3924 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27.

For those who may not have access to homeless children chairman and whose memories need to be refreshed, I will cite a few points culled from the drive's "fact sheet."

Every contributed dollar will be used to care for California's homeless babies, to place them in thoroughly investigated foster homes for adoption or to assist mothers to keep their own children.

The drive is designed solely to benefit California's own. Every contributed dollar will be applied in aiding homeless children or emotionally disturbed mothers in our own state. Always it is well to remember that the Adoption Agency is a California institution, designed to aid California people.

In its 38 years of activity, the Agency (and its predecessor, the Central Committee on Homeless Children) has placed 7547 California children in foster homes. It also has given more than five times that many natural mothers friendly advice and material aid which enabled them to retain and raise their own babies.

Only on three of those 38 years have the Native Sons and Native Daughters asked the public to help in carrying the financial burden. Once during the war, again two years ago and now, it has been necessary to ask for contributions. On all other years, the Native Sons and Native Daughters have underwritten the Agency's work, themselves.

It is necessary to seek contributions from the public because of California's increased population and because prevailing high prices have raised the expenditures. The Agency must have more trained social workers. As there are more people in California, the Agency is offered more cases than it can handle with the present personnel.

The Agency is licensed by the State Department of Social Welfare to conduct adoptions in California. It does not receive benefits from any community chest. Instead, it must rely on contributions from Native Sons and Daughters, and on gifts of money from a philanthropic public.

One of the Agency's great purposes is to inhibit juvenile delinquency. It places children in good homes, where they are reared in highly moral atmosphere. It gives children an opportunity to grow into men and women, who become assets to the state.

Contributions to this splendid cause not only will help in building good citizens, but will relieve human misery and will go far in eradicating mental and physical distress. Every baby is given thorough medical and physical examinations before being placed for adoption. The Agency's social workers pay repeated visits to foster homes for one year. These visits make certain that the Agency's babies are accorded proper treatment.

If during that year, it is found that a baby is mistreated or is in an unsuitable environment, the child is retaken by the Agency for placement elsewhere. Papers of adoption are not filed until the foster parents have been "on probation" with the Agency for twelve months.

Governor Earl Warren, honorary chairman of the Fund Drive, has expressed deep interest in the Agency's work. He issued a statement saying:

"Through the services of this Agency, thousands of homeless youngsters have been given the opportunity to enjoy a childhood enriched by the love, warmth and security of family life.

"At the same time many Californians have been given the satisfaction of providing parental protection for little ones who otherwise would have gone without. By means of adoption these men and women have experienced the joy which children bring into a home.

"The story of the work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency is one of the most inspiring I ever have heard. It is a story of devotion to an extremely worthy cause—a cause which, I am sure, everyone will want to support."

Words of this deep import, coming from the state's chief executive are of great significance. They inspire us, as individuals, to see that the Agency receives from the public deserved financial support.

The words of childhood's melodious lullaby, "If the bough breaks, the cradle will fall," should be constantly in our minds. We cannot let the bough break. We must keep the bough intact by our own efforts—by disseminating the message of the Fund Drive far and wide.

Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, NSGW

THIS is a footnote to the story of Nancy Kelsey, and to tell you how her last two wishes were fulfilled.

Nancy Kelsey, the first American woman to come overland to California, the Betsy Ross of California, who provided the cloth for the first Bear Flag and who helped to make it. Nancy Kelsey, the embodiment of the courage of California's pioneer women, who made the long journey from Missouri to California with her husband, Ben Kelsey, and their six months old baby, who participated in the stirring events of California's passing from Mexican to American rule, who followed her husband through all the vicissitudes of life, during good fortune and bad, until he passed away in Los Angeles in 1888.

Some say that Ben Kelsey had the wanderlust, but the truth is that in his later years he was a traveling preacher and brought the gospel to lonely men and women all over the Pacific Coast. He made a million dollars once in the gold fields, and lost it. But, through it all, Nancy never left her husband's side. On her first trip to California, coming down the steep cliffs of the Sierra Nevada mountains, when he was unable to go on because of illness and the party proposed leaving him there, she said she would stay with him no matter what happened.

After Ben Kelsey died Nancy Kelsey had to get along some way. What would be more natural for a pioneer woman to do than to try a homestead. At least the government provided the land and there would be a cabin to live in, a garden to grow things, and chickens. So she and her daughter took up a homestead in what is still a little-known part of California—the Cuyama.

The Cuyama is the name for a region of mountain ranges and a series of great valleys along the Cuyama River, where the counties of Kern, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura converge.

Old-timers call the whole area "The Cuyama." Right here I should define the word "Cuyama." I thought this would be easy, but when I began to check the word I found its definition more difficult than I had expected.

All authorities are agreed that it is an Indian word, not Spanish. Curiously enough, the word apparently came down the west coast of America with the Incas for we find it occasionally designating place names clear down into Mexico.

"Why," one of my informants said on my first trip to the Cuyama, "it means clam shells, big ones. There are clam shells in the Cuyama so large that one standing on edge will reach half-way up a good sized man." Ever since then I have been looking for one of those big clam shells, but have never found one, and my friends, Jacinto Reyes of the Cuyama, and Owen O'Neill, born and raised in Santa Barbara, tell me there are no such enormous clam shells anywhere in the Cuyama. And I am inclined to believe that they are right, because looking back through the years I am certain that it was the same son of Belial who told me about the clam shells, who put burrs under the saddle blanket of a most confounded bucking horse he gave me to ride. But all through the Cuyama there are places where there are millions of clam shells, thrust up in stratas from pre-historic oceans. And it is my opinion that it was these old beds of clam shells observed by the Indians which caused them to call that country "Cuyama."

The soil is as rich as any in the state, but the climate has always been semi-arid. Therefore, the Cuyama has been a trap for unwary homesteaders, because years of good rainfall have been followed by dry years, and then the poor homesteader lost everything. It is only within the last few years that our people have begun to conquer the Cuyama with deep wells and power for irrigation. And now oil has been discovered there.

I first went to the Cuyama about the time of the great fire in San Francisco in 1906, to look over some property there—a Spanish grant of thousands of acres—Cuyama Rancho No. 2. To get to the Cuyama, we had to go to Santa Maria. There we rented two horses and a buckboard and started out.

I will never forget that journey in the early spring time of California. We went up a most discouraging long grade over adobe lands. Every time the wheels turned great pieces of adobe came with them, until it looked like we were riding in a vehicle with wheels of a juggernaut. Then we came down to the Santa Maria river. There it was more pleasant. There were deer in the great meadows along the river. The road went first on one side of the river and then on the other. For the first time, I saw our California lupines in their full glory. Fields—acres upon acres of el lupino—blue, cerulean blue, rippling with color as vagrant winds kissed the faces of each sturdy flower. And everywhere along the banks of the river the blue fields of lupine were pointed with solid masses of our golden California poppies. What a soul-stirring sight that was, meadow after meadow of beautiful, fragrant, heavenly bloom!

We traveled for two days to reach our destination. Before we got there, the name of the river changed and it became the Cuyama River; the only river in California with two names. And before we got there that road really became ambitious. It climbed out of the river valley, up and over a succession of mountains, each one higher and steeper than the last one until it came back to the river again.

If I had known at the time, along in the afternoon of the second day, we could have driven up Cottonwood Canyon to the grave of Nancy Kelsey, for she died in 1896 and was buried not far from her homestead.

It was not until this year of 1948 that I heard for the first time that Nancy Kelsey's last resting place was in the Cuyama. I undertook to locate it. This time, going to the Cuyama, I had the help of our pioneer ranger, known to every old-timer who has ever been in the Cuyama—Jacinto Reyes. We followed good automobile roads from Ventura past Reyes Peak to the upper Cuyama Valley, thence down the valley to Schoolhouse Creek, and thence up Schoolhouse Creek to the ranch of Mrs. Grace E. Forbes and Mr. Forbes. Mrs. Forbes is a member of Miocene Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at Taft, California. She took us to the grave, which is on Cottonwood Creek, near the old Kelsey homestead. There we found the historical marker erected by Miocene Parlor in 1937.

"In honor of 1823 1896
Nancy Kelsey
First white woman to cross
The plains to California
Dedicated by
Miocene Parlor No. 228
Native Daughters of the Golden West
November 21, 1937"

And there I learned that there was still living a member of Miocene Parlor who knew Nancy Kelsey in her last days in the Cuyama. So I went to Bakersfield and found Minnie Beatrice Heath, who is living with her sister, Georgia Sanders, also a member of Miocene Parlor.

Minnie Beatrice Heath wrote a most interesting article about Nancy Kelsey, published in the February, 1937, issue of "The Grizzly Bear." Mrs. Heath was well acquainted with Nancy. After school hours several times every week she would read to Nancy from newspapers and stories, and from the Bible, "but always the Bible came first."

"Certainly I remember Grandmother Kelsey," said Minnie. "As a young girl, I taught school in Schoolhouse Canyon, which is close to Grandmother's homestead. She and her daughter and son-in-law lived on the homestead. I can still see her riding her pinto pony to help her neighbors in sickness and

Americanism Committee Of Native Sons Busy

During the Fraternal year, now drawing to a close, your Grand Parlor Americanism Committee has been most active and this is a brief report of their leading activities. The Committee was in accord that the threat of Communism is the Nation's number one problem. The G.P.A.C. supplied written articles to the Grizzly Bear Magazine and to the newspapers throughout California striving to alert our membership and citizenry to the Red menace in America. On September 15, 1947, your Committee wired Secretary of State Marshall prior to his addressing the opening session of the United States Delegates to the General Assembly of the United Nations, appealing to advise them that all members of our Fraternity look to them to assist in making world peace permanent, but without forfeiture of any of the principles upon which this country was founded, and under which it has been prospering to a greater extent than any other Country having a different philosophy of government and interpretation of freedom.

On November 13, 1947 your Committee protested to James M. Carter, United States Attorney, regarding the proposed reentry of Iva Toguri, better known during the world war two, as Tokyo Rose. Copies of this protest were also sent to the California members of Congress, Secretary of State, the Attorney General, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization Service in Baltimore, and to the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington. The results of this appeal were most gratifying. United States Senators Knowland and Downey and the majority of our Congressmen communicated with the Washington officials expressing their concern in permitting disloyal citizens to reenter the United States and demanded further investigation made of Tokyo Rose, not only as to her request for reentry, but to explore the possibility of reopening treason charges.

On November 26, 1947, at the invitation of United States Attorney Carter, Los Angeles, a committee of the G.P.A.C., composed of Frank Collins, Sr., Bernard G. Hiss and your Chairman, conferred with him. Mr. Carter was most co-operative; gave the committee much data. He indicated the Government was still attempting to locate witnesses. The Department of Justice soon after this conference again sought to learn of any persons who could furnish the F. B. I. with evidence to sustain Iva Toguri's prosecution for treason.

December 3, 1947 the G.P.A.C. released to two hundred and fifty-six California newspapers an article relating our Order's fight to prevent Tokyo Rose and other disloyal persons from entering the United States. On December 16, 1947 Mr. R. B. Shipley, Chief, Passport Division, Department of State, advised the committee no passport would be issued to Iva Toguri D'Aquino, (Tokyo Rose). While this report is in preparation, nothing further has developed and the file of the Native Sons will be turned over to the Grand Secretary for future reference.

January 23, 1948, a meeting of the G.P.A.C. was held in Sacramento; those in attendance were Grand President Judge Walter H. Odegar, Judge Benjamin C. Jones, Frank J. Collins, Bernard G. Hiss, H. J. McClatchy, Executive Secretary of the California Joint Immigration Committee, and your committee chairman. The following resolutions were adopted and forwarded to the appropriate committees in Washington. Recommending the adoption of Universal Military Training (the Board of Grand Officers on June 14, 1947, had previously taken similar action).

Resolutions were adopted ad copies ordered sent to the Congress and the Director of Immigration and Naturalization Service in Philadelphia, protesting against both the Stratton and Judd Bills, either of which if enacted into law, would cripple our present 1924 Immigration Act and permit untold thousands of Aliens ineligible to citizenship, to leave the Orient and overrun California and the United States. The Judd Bill would permit these aliens to become naturalized citizens.

A resolution was passed commending to the citizenry our philosophy of government and a progressive and enlightened growth thereof, urging all public officials, teachers and other people generally to be ever on the alert and to combat all activities seeking to destroy our form of government and to substitute therefore Communism, Fascism or other alien forms of government.

Judge Jones speaking on the Immigration Question, suggested a new approach be made by the various groups who are fighting further easing of the 1924 Immigration Act as related to persons now ineligible to citizenship. Posing a hypothetical question—Judge Jones asked: "What would 100,000 Orientals immigrating annually to the United States for a period of five years do to our standard of living here in California? The answer is apparent; our American standard of living would soon disappear."

H. J. McClatchy, Executive Secretary of the California Joint Immigration Committee reported of an ever increasing number of organizations and friends attempting on the part of Japan to secure for her an immigration quota. These groups consisting of certain church, peace, commercial and industrial organizations—which for ends of their own, selfish or otherwise, are eager to aid Japan's cause, notwithstanding the fact Japan saw fit to make war upon us.

January 27, 1948, Jack B. Tenney, Chairman, Senate Fact-finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California, notified

Jessie H. Miller, Bernard G. Hiss and your chairman of the G.P.A.C., that they had been appointed to the Citizenry Advisory Committee to the Tenney Committee and that the first joint meeting would be held in the State Building at Los Angeles February 15, 1948. Jesse H. Miller, at his own expense, covered the opening day session. The meeting was called to organize civic, patriotic, fraternal and labor groups to advise with the Tenney Committee on Un-American Activities. Dr. John R. Lechner, Los Angeles, was elected chairman of the Advisory Committee. Dr. Lechner has gained a reputation as one of the best informed Californians on Communism and has vigorously opposed this menace at every opportunity.

February 25, 1948, the State Senate Investigating Committee on Education gave the controversial 30 school text books in a series called "Building America" a thorough overhauling, revealing further that these text books intended for 7th and 8th grade school pupils contained much insidious propaganda against American Institutions. It will be remembered this is the same series of text books that the 1917 State Legislature refused to appropriate funds for, claiming at that time they were loaded with Red propaganda. The 1948 Budget Legislature again refused to O. K. funds for the "Building America" school books, declaring the series still unfit for use in our schools, notwithstanding extensive revision by the State Department of Education. The committee's chief investigator, Col. Louis Philipp, a retired Army Intelligence officer, said the books should be titled "Selling America Short."

The G.P.A.C. has commended State Senator Nelson Dillworth and the Senate Investigation Committee on Education on their stand of exposing the unmistakable bias and distortion

Sunset Parlor Striving To Attain 300 Membership Goal

Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento is in the midst of an enthusiastic membership campaign which started January 1, 1948 and will end on June 30 of this year.

First prize of a Philco Portable Radio will be awarded to the member bringing in the most candidates with a minimum of five being necessary to qualify. Second prize will be a Parker Pen and Pencil Set, with a minimum of three candidates to qualify, while third prize will be an $18.00 pair of shoes with only one candidate necessary to qualify.

Sunset Parlor now has a membership of 265 and Chairman Virgil Rominger is striving to reach the "charmed circle" of 300 members by June 30. With at least four initiations planned before the end of the contest the goal is definitely in sight.

Santa Cruz Parlor Holds Public Speaking Contest

Nine contestants competed in the public speaking contest sponsored by Santa Cruz Parlor No. 90, NSGW, Wednesday evening, March 17, at the Native Sons Hall, with Miss La Brae Thomasson being named the winner. All were coached by Prof. C. L. Oakley of the Santa Cruz High School.

Judges were members of Santa Cruz Parlor, Superior Judge James Atteridge, attorneys, Frank Murphy, Loyd Miller and Louis Rittenhouse. Nearly 60 Native Sons and Daughters were in attendance at the contest and local papers gave ample publicity to the affair, the pictorial weekly running a picture of Miss Thomasson.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

The Seventy-first annual session of the Grand Parlor will convene at Hobergs on the 17th of this month, more details of which will be found elsewhere in this issue. There will be many who might read this column who will not attend that session of the Grand Parlor, although I hope and urge all who possibly can to attend, for when one has once attended a session of the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, he finds it hard to stay away in the future.

To those who cannot attend this year and who accepted an appointment from me as Deputy Grand President, or to serve upon some committee, let me take this opportunity sincerely to thank you, not only for what you did for me, but what you did for the Order that we all love so much. No Grand President can do it all alone, but can only act through those appointed by him and those others who voluntarily perform services for the Order. In those districts where the brothers really took an interest in the work during this last year our Order gained both in membership and in stature and in those where the gain was negligible, or just wasn't, we find that those appointed did not function according to expectations. I sincerely hope that all those appointed this next year in every area in California will put their shoulders to the wheel and assist our new Grand President, Walter N. Bailey of Elk Grove Parlor No. 41, to have a term never before equalled in the history of our Order. Walter is a good boy and deserves the support of everyone and, above all, the Order is deserving of the undivided assistance of all of its members.

I have just received word that one of the last official acts of the Grand Officers for this fiscal year will be the dedication of a school building at Antioch in Contra Costa County. Your Grand Officers are looking forward to that dedication. Many new structures will be completed within the next year or two and it is hoped that the local Parlor in the area will arrange to have other new structures dedicated by the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Our ceremony, dedicating the public structure to "truth, liberty and tolerance," is a beautiful one and should be used in the dedication of every public structure in the State of California. Arrangements are made by those in the locale and the Grand Officers, whenever requested, are happy to attend.

It has been a great pleasure as well as a distinction to have been Grand President during this last year. Thanks again to all my Brothers, for giving me that pleasure and distinction.

WALTER H. ODEMAR.

Arrowhead Parlor Now Holds Top Spot In Membership

As the Grizzly Bear went to press Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, announced that it was in top spot with 992 members as against South San Francisco Parlor's 986, and is determined to hold its position.

A class initiation was scheduled for Wednesday evening, April 21, at the parlor's regular meeting place in the IOOF Temple. Grand President Walter H. Odemar and his corps of Grand Officers were to put on the initiation. Results of that class initiation were too late to be announced in this month's Grizzly Bear.

Dr. John A. Schwamm of Ramona No. 109, Los Angeles, has been appointed Trustee General of the Past Presidents' Association by Governor General Lewis A. Giegerich to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Past President Seth Millington.

Hobergs Ready For Big Grand Parlor

Native Sons of the Golden West have a full calendar before them when the Seventy-first Grand Parlor, presided over by Grand President Walter H. Odemar, convenes at 10 o'clock, Monday, May 17, at Hobergs, Lake County, closing Thursday, May 20.

Walter N. Bailey, Grand First Vice-President, of Wilton, is slated to become Grand President for the coming year; Peter T. Conmy of Oakland, Grand Second Vice-President, will move up to the office vacated by Walter Bailey, while Edward J. Wren of San Francisco, Grand Third Vice-President, will become Grand Second Vice-President.

As to who the other officers for the coming year will be, that will be determined in the elections, there being many candidates in the field this year. The campaign promises to be an interesting one.

Monday and Tuesday will be work days at Grand Parlor. Play-day, when the delegates, their ladies and guests, take time out from the affairs of Grand Parlor to get acquainted with spots of interest around Hobergs and Lake County, will be Wednesday, May 19. Final wind-up of Grand Parlor will be Thursday, May 20.

The public speaking contest finals for the State will be conducted at Grand Parlor. At this time, the winner of the Northern California finals and the winner from Southern California, will vie for the coveted title. The State-wide contest is sponsored each year by the Native Sons of the Golden West with this year's contests drawing wider interest than ever before.

At Hobergs the Native Sons will vote on where the 1948 Admission Day celebration will be held. While the Native Daughters of the Golden West take a leading role in what is always one of the biggest celebrations sponsored by the two Orders, it is expected that whatever decision is reached by the Native Sons will be agreeable to the sister organization.

San Jose has definitely invited the Orders to their friendly city for this outstanding affair, publicity to this having been mailed to the secretaries of all parlors.

Hobergs, managed by George Hoberg and family, is an ideal place for the Grand Parlor, as attested by the several Grand Parlors held there. Native Son George Hoberg goes out of his way to assure his fellow Natives and their guests a good time.

Situated high in the pine-clad hills of Lake County, above Clear Lake, with its companion resorts of Forest Lake and Siegler Hot Springs, it is a spot long remembered by all who attend.

George Fuller of United Airlines spoke to members of the Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club April 16, on the "Current Aspects of Commercial Aviation." Five-minute thumb nail sketch of California history was given by Dr. John A. Schwamm. Otho G. Lord is president of the club, Joe Phelps of Pasadena Parlor, vice-president and program director. C. Wesley Freeman of Glendale Parlor is secretary-treasurer. The club meets every Friday noon at the Hotel Clark.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor designated April 27 as "Jack Williams Night" in honor of its capable deputy from University Parlor, who has been helping to spark-plug events in the parlor this past year. Jack, who is financial secretary of University Parlor, Los Angeles, has the distinction of never having missed a meeting of the parlor to which he was assigned by Grand President Walter H. Ode-mar.

El Rancho is the newest parlor bulletin to reach the desk of the Grizzly Bear. It is the official publication of Glendale Parlor No. 264, NSGW. It mirrors the news of the parlor. A feature is a monthly chapter of "California Under Twelve Flags." The bulletin head, with adds down the sides to help pay its cost, follows the style now popular with a number of parlors. News of the parlor is mimeographed into the space provided and on the back side of the 8 1/2 x 14 sheet of green paper.

San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW, Wednesday evening, April 21, heard E. J. P. One of California's most famous Native Sons, Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, will be honored with a class initiation by University Parlor No. 272, NSGW, Wednesday evening, June 9, at the Foresters Building, 1329 South Hope Street.

The popular Sheriff of Los Angeles County, a member of the Order for 34 years, known to thousands as "Gene," is a charter member of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. Heading the University Parlor, according to President Lucien A. Griffin, plans to make this one of the largest meetings in Native Son history. All Los Angeles County parlors are being contacted by President Griffin and urged to initiate their candidates in this gala "Biscailuz Night Class."

Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor, Movie Star Leo Carrillo of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles and other well known Native Sons have been sent invitations to participate in the evening's festivities. Sponsored by Los Banos Parlor No. 206 NSGW and assisted by Lomitos Parlor No. 255 NDGW another great historical festival was held at Los Banos April 29 to May 2 inclusive. This year many added features were presented but the highlight of the celebration was the mammoth civic, historical, and floral parade that was held on Sunday morning, May 2. This parade is one of the most outstanding in the State and for color and diversity exceeds anything in this line. Other features were the kiddies pet and hobby parade, an old fashioned torchlight Horribles parade, baseball, dancing, picnic and barbecue, western show and rodeo, boxing, Queen's Banquet and Ball.

BIG CLASS OF NATIVE SONS IS INITIATED FOR MONTEREY PARLOR

Thirty-two Native Sons were initiated for Monterey Parlor No. 5 NSGW by Grand President Walter H. Odemar and his corps of grand officers on March 20 in the Pacific Grove Masonic Temple.

This was in the nature of a reactivation meeting, since it has been a number of years since that parlor has had a class initiation. Grand Trustee Webster K. Nolan and Assistant Grand Secretary Harold J. Regan had been actively engaged in preparing for the above event for several months. They were assisted in Monterey by Nelson Wm. Hyler, newly affiliated member of Monterey Parlor and a son of Mrs. Elmarie H. Dyke, chairman of the Board of Grand Trustees, NDGW.

Judge Odemar was assisted in the ritualistic work by Jr. P. G. President R. G. Power of Colusa; grand first vice-president, Walter H. Bailey of Wilton; grand second vice-president, Peter T. Conmy of Oakland; grand third vice-president, Edward J. Wren of San Francisco; grand trustees, Louis Pellandini of Sonoma and Philip C. Wilkins, Sacramento and assistant grand secretary, Harold J. Regan. Candidates were also initiated for El Gabilan Parlor, Castroville, and Santa Lucia Parlor, Salinas.

Following the initiation an open installation was held, with William Hawley, DDGP of San Francisco, conducting the ceremonies, assisted by chairman of the Board of Grand lucci treasurer. The board of directors consists of Sam Spina, John Castellucci, W. H. Sloan, J. L. Toscano, Sidney Smith, Gene Pappani, and John Erreca of Los Banos, Walter Borradori of Gustine and Edward Fraser of Dos Palos.

Trustees, Louis Pellandini, who acted as grand marshal.

President Mary Dorney, Junipero Parlor No. 141, Monterey, presented the parlor with a set of flags and Grand Trustee Elmarie Dyke presented an altar flag.

Officers installed were Monte Hellam, Jr., president, Jack Laughlin, first vice president, John F. Martin, second vice-president, Jack Dougherty, third vice-president, Nelson Wm. Hyler, recording secretary, Carmel Martin and Herbert Bispo, trustees, John F. Hentzell and Herbert L. Bispo, sentinels; James W. Millington, past president and Dr. J. P. Sandholdt, senior past president.

Following the installation Native Sons and their wives were guests of Junipero Parlor NDGW at a banquet, held in the adjoining banquet room.

Native Daughters

1948 Grand Parlor Is Scheduled For Sacramento

Native Daughters of the Golden West are busy with plans for the Sixty-second Grand Parlor to be held June 20 to 24 at Sacramento, with parlors of Sacramento County as hostesses to the big yearly meeting. Past Grand President Mrs. Edna B. Briggs is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Assisting are: Mrs. Bessie Leitch, vice-chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Keehner, secretary; and Mrs. Etta Hook, treasurer. Mrs. Flora A. Schmitzen is publicity chairman.

Reina del Mar Observes Forty-seventh Birthday

Reina del Mar Parlor, Santa Barbara, was honored with an official visit from Grand President Doris Treat on March 30, the Centennial theme being used throughout the dinner and meeting program. The occasion marked the forty-seventh birthday of the parlor.

Present as guests at the dinner which preceded the special meeting were Mayor and Mrs. Norris Montgomery representing the city administration, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Stewart representing the county administration; Miss Pearl Chase, member of Native Daughter Grand Parlor Honor Roll; Judge and Mrs. Louis Drapeau, of Ventura, and others invited to welcome our Grand President.

The dinner meeting was highlighted with the presentation by Past Grand President Cora B. Sifford, who instituted Reina del Mar Parlor on April 20, 1901, of Life Memberships to the following charter members of the parlor: Miss Julia Haynes, Mrs. J. A. Callis, Mrs. Catherine Woods and Mrs. A. W. Conover. The four other remaining charter members now holding Life Memberships are: Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Mrs. Nell Kinevan Ream, Mrs. Harry Myers and Mrs. F. L. Birabent.

Judge Drapeau, as guest speaker, and himself a member of Cabrillo Parlor, Native Sons, Ventura, in his message cited the halcyon days of early California, and intermixed a few personal reminiscences colored with his own amiable humor. Nancy Kelsey, California's Betsy Ross, was so sympathetically and simply portrayed by Judge Drapeau that his audience was moved to tears at the conclusion of his talk.

Reports of officers at the meeting which followed the dinner included that of Mrs. John Pomatto, Chairman of the Homeless Children Committee for Reina del Mar Parlor, reporting that $1102.00 had been raised during the year for the Homeless Children Fund. Reports were submitted on Civic participation, History and Landmarks and Publicity. Mrs. Ben Dismuke, member of the Grand Parlor Public Speaking Contest Committee, reported the participation of Santa Barbara County in that contest with a speaker, Donald Soule, of Santa Maria Junior College. Mr. Soule will vie with other contestants from the southland at the Southern District meeting to be held in Los Angeles in April, and if successful will go to Grand Parlor as representative from the southland in the contest there.

During her visit to Santa Barbara, Grand President Doris Treat was taken on a sight-seeing tour of Santa Barbara's famed County Court House and other places of interest, and she was entertained at luncheon by President Jeanne Romero of Reina del Mar Parlor. Grand President Treat also participated, with President Jeanne Romero, on a local radio program in which, ironically enough, the history of Nancy Kelsey's journey to California and her trials and tribulations after arrival were told to the radio audience by the sponsor of the program, and the Grand President in her interview on the program told of the aims and objects of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, including that of honoring and keeping alive the deeds of our early pioneers.

Long Beach Daughters To Present Dance Program

Featured in a dance program sponsored by the Veterans Welfare Committee, Long Beach Parlor No. 154, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be dancers from the Frances Bowling Studio of the Dance. These dancers range from tiny beginners to professionals. The program will be presented at Polytechnic High School Auditorium, May 14 at 8:00 P.M.; admission will be 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for children.

Already this year the committee has presented 10 record carrying cases and 2 record albums to the Long Beach Naval Hospital and plans to do more welfare work with proceeds of this program.

Tickets are available at the studio, 3434 E. Broadway, or by telephoning 876-16.

Grand President Visits Castro And James Lick Native Daughters

On March 17, Grand President Doris Treat made her official visit to Castro Parlor No. 178 and James Lick Parlor No. 220, Native Daughters, San Francisco.

The meeting was called to order with a "Shepherd's Horn" by Georgie Nelson of Castro Parlor. The four leaf clover theme was carried throughout with Castro Parlor forming the escort for the Grand President.

James Lick Parlor presented the Grand President with a beautiful layette for the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, made by one of their members. Irish music and songs were the order of the day. Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Corrections

In the April Directory under the list of Past Grand Presidents the address of Past Grand President Loretta Cameron is incorrect. The correct address is 3969 Army Street, San Francisco 14.

In the Parlor Directory Conchita Parlor No. 294 is listed as meeting in the American Legion Hall, Newport Beach. This is not correct, as Conchita Parlor meets at the American Legion Hall, Costa Mesa. Please make these changes in your April Directory as published in the Grizzly Bear.

Modesto Native Daughters To Mark Empire City Site

The Centennial Committee of Morado Parlor No. 199, NDGW, Gertrude Schroeder, chairman, is working out a program in connection with the placing of a marker on a site near Empire, formerly known as Empire City, when founded in 1850 by John C. Marvin, who later became California's first state superintendent of schools. The second county seat of Stanislaus County was housed here, a location four miles east of Modesto, on the banks of the Tuolumne river, then noted for its navigation.

The matter of saving the south grove of the Calaveras Big Trees from destruction by a lumbering concern this spring, has been discussed by Morada Parlor and is under investigation. A letter was sent to Assemblyman Ralph Brown. Pictures taken by interested parties are being shown to numerous organizations in an effort to save these living memorials, truly magnificent landmarks of California.

The board of directors of the Stanislaus County Centennial Committee have become interested in the campaign and see the possibility of acquiring the grove for a state park.

Morada Parlor No. 199, NDGW, Modesto, received Grand President Doris Treat, March 24. A class of candidates was initiated, bringing the membership close to 175 for this Parlor. Agnes Frost, general chairman for the official visit, planned a Spring theme for the affair. Refreshments were in charge of Rae Gada and the March social committee.

Donations were made to the Red Cross, the Crippled Childrens Fund, and at the March 10 meeting $25.00 was voted for the P.T.A. Milk Fund. Chairman Helen Condit makes regular reports on her findings in local and county welfare needs, obtaining first hand information from working with and attending the various meetings.

Civic chairman Pearl Gordon has her committee busily at work completing plans for the annual Pioneer dinner, honoring early settlers of the county, which is scheduled for early in May.

Keith Parlor No. 137 Holds Prospective Members' Night

As a prelude to the GOLD CENTENNIAL CLASS INITIATION sponsored by the San Francisco County Deputy Grand Presidents under the leadership of Deputy Grand President Vera Thompson, on Friday evening, April 30, at Foresters Auditorium, Keith Parlor No. 137 held a "Prospective Members' Night" Monday evening, April 12 at the Native Daughters home. When the many guests entered the portals amidst congenial surroundings, they were entertained in the lounge with piano selections by LaVerne Mungo.

Grand Trustees Dorothy Donofrio, Jewel McSweeney and Leslye Hicks, and Grand Inside Sentinel Ruth Trousdale, were present and spoke of the many fine projects sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West. Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks gave a most inspiring talk on the founding of the Order and the Native Daughters Home; Grand Trustee McSweeney gave a brief synopsis of the mandatory activities and commendable work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency; Grand Trustee Donofrio spoke of retaining the interest of the young women in our organization by physical and creative activities, as well as service and social. Grand Inside Sentinel Ruth Trousdale stressed the importance of the Scholarship Funds in stimulating interest in higher education, and gave a resume of the Public Speaking Contests sponsored throughout the State of California, stating that the final contest will be held at Sacramento when Grand Parlor convenes.

Deputy Grand President Dorothy Knight of Castro Parlor No. 178 told the many guests present of the duties of Deputy Grand Presidents, and asked all eligible California-born women to give serious consideration in affiliating with the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at the Gold Centennial Class Initiation on April 30.

Parlors Honor Grand President On Visit

"In the Pathway of the Padres" was the theme chosen for the official visit of Grand President Doris Treat to Copa de Oro, Hollister, and San Juan Bautista Parlors in the cosy NDGW Adobe in San Juan Bautista on April 7.

In the opening march, officers of San Juan Bautista Parlor pinned on corsages of golden hue, while officers of Copa de Oro carried white prayer books with markers of white flowers and ribbon.

Presentation of gifts to the honored guest was made by a Franciscan padre accompanied by two Indian neophytes with a choir singing "The Serenade of the Bells" as the Mission bells chimed. Other Grand Officers and Charter members of the two Parlors were the recipients of sketches of California Missions.

Buffet refreshments were served from beautifully appointed tables with a decor of snowy blossoms flanked by tall candelabra holding white lighted tapers. Presidents Fay Frusetta and Mildred Hodges presided at the urns.

Grand President Treat gave an inspiring address on California history, stressing the responsibilities of Native Daughters to cherish the memories of the Pioneers, to aid in State progress and to cultivate State pride. Other speakers were Grand Trustee Elmarie Dyke, Supervising District Deputy Marie Brayton, Deputy Grand President Erma Pivetti and Dora Prsho, Past Grand Marshal Rose Rhyner and P.G.P. Bertha Briggs. Guests were present from Monterey, Santa Cruz, Watsonville and Salinas.

Proceeding the ceremonies of the evening, a 6:30 o'clock dinner complimented the Grand Officers.

San Luis Obispo Mission Marker Among Survivors

Only 250 of the original 450 El Camino Real bells remain which were placed along the early Mission trail several years ago by Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, county supervisors, individuals and other historic patriotic organizations.

One of them is in San Luis Obispo, before the Old Mission, and recently received a fresh coat of gleaming green paint.

The bell was first installed Nov. 25, 1909 by San Luisita parlor No. 108, NDGW, according to the inscription on its post.

This was only a little more than three years after the first bell in the state was placed at the Plaza in Los Angeles on Aug. 6, 1906.

Since their original installation some of the bells have been put to unexpected usages. If, like the local bell they have no tongues, they could make no objections.

The bell at Los Alamos has a water hose hooked up to it; Monterey's sign has a mail box wired onto it; San Jose's is nothing but a jagged pipe with the bell gone. At Santa Cruz the bell was knocked down by a car and was hauled off to the city yards. At San Carlos the bell was painted silver because the adjoining service station wanted it to match their silver pumps.

The California Mission Trails association is sponsoring a plan for obtaining state funds to purchase 200 bells, at $100 each, to replace the ones lost.

Legal ownership of the bells is vested in county supervisors, whom they hope will release them to the state highway department for maintenance, or for maintenance by city governments within city limits.

Some of the bells now stand in open fields and they hope to have them all relocated along El Camino Real.

It was along the old El Camino Real that the bell and the cross together were the guidons that flanked the army of civilization as it marched along the king's highway. The bell, first, because it was rung to call the Indians from their wanderings to a place in the wilderness where a mission would be built. And then the cross, to become a symbol of devotion, education, enterprise and inspiration.

SLANG NAMES

By CLARA M. BARTON
Sequoia Parlor No. 272, NDGW

One of the most regrettable facts known to us, whether we are native born or adopted Californians, is the misuse and corruption of the names of our cities, towns and hamlets, which have, for many years past been used slangingly.

If ideas of romance, of pleasant sounding words and of fidelity to history, make no appeal to our fellow-Californians, let them read the quotation from Robert Louis Stevenson and learn that a romantic nomenclature may sometimes be a valuable asset.

"There are few poems with a nobler music for the ear; a songful, tuneful land; and if the new Homer should rise from the West, contribute his part, his verse will be enriched; his ages will sing spontaneously with complete names of the states and cities that would strike the fancy in a business circular."

Slang names for our communities should be discarded as no city has stooped so far as to have her name corrupted. Even the deserted ghost towns still cling to their names.

When the cities—as examples—of San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Bernardino were founded by our forefathers, they did not have in their thoughts that the future generations would be calling "Frisco," "Los" or "L. A.," "San Berdoo" or "Berdoo." The once sweetly flowing words—all proper names—have become soured! It may be a short cut to the pronouncing the names mentioned, but what horrible short-cuts with much abuse! Why not also write out California in full instead of Cal., Calif. It is much easier on the mail distributors. Many communications have gone to other states because of the abbreviation.

You will notice that every business circular sent out by a firm or the Chamber of Commerce, contains both the name of the City and State written out in full, a splendid example to those who may be ignorant or just careless. Why not speak it the same way? The name of every city in the State is a beautiful one and when one calls it other than its rightful name, a shudder goes through the body of every listener and a chord of discontent is struck at the heartstrings.

I am expressing my opinion to every Native Son and Native Daughter and am urging every reader to discard all slang expressions used in the California names and give back to the cities that which they are rightfully named. I am sure too, that Padre Junipero Serra would commit mayhem upon those who refused to refrain from the corruption of the beloved names bestowed upon our communities.

Star-studded Program Calls Attention To Fund Drive

It was a star-studded program that Native Sons and Daughters of Los Angeles County gave the people of Los Angeles Saturday, April 17, on the steps of the State Building to arouse interest in the drive for funds for the Native Sons and Daughters Adoption Agency.

Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton of Dagwood and Blondie radio fame, gave a skit in behalf of the work. To the delight of the hundreds of children present Dagwood told how to make his famous sandwich. They closed their part of the program by making Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, his men and the members of the Los Angeles Police Department, uncles of the kiddies of Los Angeles city and county, calling on the children to contact these men in case they have any trouble.

Shirley Temple and Guy Madison were on the program; Juan Rolando at the piano captivated the crowd, which went wild when Jimmie and Mildred Mulcay, harmonica stars, presented "When Veronica Plays the Harmonica Down on the Pier at Santa Monica." Clarence Nash, voice of Donald Duck, and Donald Duck were present to do their part, Donald having to have police protection from the children in the crowd who wanted to pinch him to see if he was real.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Boys' Band, led by Tommy Walker, USC football star and drum major of the SC Band, played, while clowns, Mark Anthony, Lawrence Crosse and Bobbie Kay from Clyde Beatty's Circus produced many a laugh with their capers.

The Downtown Youth Chorus of 75 girls from St. Josephs Catholic Church, directed by Mynatt Breidenthal, was a highlight of the program.

Speaker of the day was Judge Robert H. Scott, who has been on the Superior Bench since 1927. During that time he has handled thousands of adoption cases.

Judge Scott said: "The Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency is doing a splendid job.

"A child suitable for adoption can be placed through this agency with complete assurance that a careful study will be made of the child and the home in which he is to be placed.

"This adjustment of the child to his adoptive parents means happiness and success for the child, and immense satisfaction to the adoptive parents.

"There is no place where a dollar can be contributed with greater assurance that it means a child's happiness and success."

Assisting in the information booth were Superior Judge Frederick F. Houser, and Municipal Judges, Clark Stephens, Harold Schweitzer, and Jesse Frampton.

Boy Scouts of Troop 701, Los Angeles, Joe Bauer, Scoutmaster, presented the colors. Frank H. Connor of the Sheriff's office, was master of ceremonies. The affair was sponsored by the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency's Southern Counties Committee. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Ella Steinbeck.

EDITORIAL

FORTY-ONE YEARS—A CHALLENGE

With this issue the Grizzly Bear celebrates its forty-first birthday. In May, 1907, the first issue of the Grizzly Bear came off the presses and hasn't missed an issue since that time, which was more than two years before the present editor first saw the light of day.

The Grizzly Bear today is one of the oldest magazines in the State in years of continuous publication, a record that the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West may well be proud of.

During those years a mighty empire, whose power is felt throughout our great nation and to the far corners of the earth, has been built here on the western shore; California, a mighty commonwealth, whose great strength would even astound her founding fathers, were they alive today.

Even as she celebrates her centennials, California's golden years lie ahead of her. In spite of earthquake, fire, flood and drought, the best is yet to be.

Let every Native Son and Native Daughter strive to the utmost, as did those before us, to further build and safeguard our glorious heritage for our children and our children's children. Make California and America an even better place in which to live during the years to come.

And as the clock of time ticks on, may the Grizzly Bear, as the official publication of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, grow and prosper with the two great Orders, until it is second to none. A dream perhaps, but one which could become a reality if all put their shoulders to the wheel with the determination to achieve this goal.

Your present editor has been at the wheel only a brief span in the history of the Grizzly Bear. The trials have been many and the burden of responsibility has been heavy, but if we have rendered some small service to the Orders and our State in our humble way, then we believe that we can rightfully be proud.

In short, we would rather serve as editor of the Grizzly Bear, come what may, than in any other editorial capacity that California has to offer. And it is our earnest prayer that we may live to see the day when every Native Son and Native Daughter may point with pride to their publication. Pulling together, in the spirit of true fraternity, we can accomplish this. Dis-united, we can not.

LEONARD SCHWACOFER, Managing Editor.

Nancy Kelsey's Two Last Wishes

distress, for she had a wonderful knowledge of the medicinal value of herbs and simples. She would ride across the mountains to help bring a baby into this world, bind splints on a broken leg, or minister to a fever-ridden child."

"Finally she became ill herself with a dreadful cancer. She told me that she got it while riding in a stage when she was thrown against the side of the coach. She was taken out to Santa Maria and operated on by two pioneer doctors of the community—Doctors Lucas and Bagby; but it had gone too far, and Nancy was taken home to die.

"Nancy had two last wishes: One was to be buried in a coffin, not in something scraped up with old boards. The other was to be buried with her husband.

"Her first wish came true, because one of the neighbors drove clear out to Santa Maria and got the coffin. Those were tough days in the Cuyama. He had but one horse, but he was able to borrow another horse from another neighbor to make the trip. No one had any money. We all put a little money into a collection and this was added to in Santa Maria, and the friend brought the coffin back and left it at my house. I told Nancy we had it, and I know she was pleased because she just 'squeezed my hand.'

And so Nancy Kelsey was buried there on Cottonwood Creek in the Cuyama in her store coffin.

"But," you ask, "what about her second wish to be with her husband? How could that come true when he was buried in Los Angeles?"

Why bless you, everyone knows that wish likewise came true. Because Ben Kelsey was right there at the homestead waiting for Nancy. True, her body was buried in a lonely grave in Cottonwood Canyon. But can't you see her and her beloved Ben walking through the lupines of the Cuyama, beautiful as Milton's vision of fields of pale asphodel; walking into the refulgent rays of California's golden sunset; Nancy Kelsey, hand in hand with her beloved partner through life, on their way to that haven Ben had preached about so often, to that house of many mansions, eternal in the heavens?

The People's Choice

There are many differences of opinion on how this great country of ours should be run—and as to the men who should run it. But here in Southern California there is one "people's choice"—election year or no election year. More people drink Eastside in Southern California than any other beer.

OUR COVER

What true and loyal Native Son or Native Daughter does not thrill at the first sight of our beautiful capitol building at Sacramento with its spacious, well-kept grounds. It is fitting in this Centennial Year of 1948 that the Sixty-second Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will be held in Sacramento, June 20 to 24. Sacramento, where in 1839 Capt. John A. Sutter secured a grant of 99 square miles of any land he might select not already occupied. Here was built Sutter's Fort, famous in the annals of history as the mecca of the weary and travel-worn pioneer. From Sutter's Fort at Sacramento James Marshall went out to discover gold at Coloma on the south fork of the American River and to change the course of the empire.

Letters To The Editor

Tropical Vacationland

A soft rain falls on the flowers and trees, nowhere can it rain so easily as in the Tropics. The clean, fresh air is invigorating and warm.

Sitting on the open patio drinking strong black coffee, I am thinking with content of the advantages of life here. It is the pleasant custom here to have servants do all of the work and assist with the shopping and other details of living.

The climate is always pleasant and uniform. It is never cold nor unpleasantly warm. And no fog. There is generally a gentle breeze and rain very often. Always the rain is soft and gentle.

We are in the Delta region in southeast Venezuela on the Manamo River.

Instead of bus service to our camp, we have launch service on the river. It is always a beautiful trip because the river bank is thick with bamboo, coconut and banana trees, with a profusion of shrubs and flowers. And to make it more picturesque, there are at all times women washing clothes along the bank. This is a primitive method and looks easy—for them. It is effective, though a bit hard on clothes. They stand in the water, dip the garments, lay it on the bank, generally on a board or piece of cement, soap it, pound it a little with a round, smooth stick about eighteen inches long and squeeze it a bit, dip it in the water to rinse it and if it is not clean repeat the process. When they get warm they swim awhile or pour water over their heads and bodies. (They are completely dressed). When they finish they put the pan or basket of clothes on their heads and walk away.

Nature is lavish in the Tropics. The trees are evergreen and hundreds of kinds. Some are fruit trees and have several crops a year. The fruit provides nearly the entire living for many who have huts along the river bank, far from any town. Coffee, breadfruit, coconut, mangoes, cacao (for chocolate) trees all grow wild and plentiful. The palm fronds are used for roofs on the houses. The houses are made of bamboo (also very plentiful) tied together with a local vine and plastered with mud and straw.

We use some native vegetables and coconut, pineapple and mangoes. Most of our food is imported from the U. S. or other countries.

The people are friendly and kind to us. They enjoy and appreciate our use of their customs. They are patient with us when we use poor Spanish. Of course practically none of them know any English. Spanish is a pretty language and not difficult to learn. It is necessary to speak Spanish to get the most enjoyment out of life here. And, too, they like to have us adopt their customs. We never eat any food not cooked in American kitchens, because we are susceptible to tropical germs to which they are immune. We use rain water exclusively but boil all of it.

Small wild animals are plentiful and easily domesticated. We have some very unusual pets. Sloths, anteaters, baby alligators, and monkeys. I prefer monkeys. We have, also, unusual birds. These birds are very pretty. I put bananas out in the yard and they flock in to eat them. They don't seem a bit afraid.

Rightly this is the land of "manana." Mainly because to hurry here is exhausting, and as they know and we learn, there is no reason to hurry, anyway.

This life of quiet ease is peaceful and satisfying.

My husband and I are proud of being a Native Son and Native Daughter. I am a Past President of El Tejon Parlor No. 239, Bakersfield, and formerly was a member of Long Beach Parlor. My affiliation with the Native Daughters has brought me untold joy and many wonderful friends. And I am anticipating my home coming in November.

Wishing you success and prosperity, I remain,

ELLA BOZEMAN.

CONSTITUTION DAY

By WALDO F. POSTEL

Past President
Stanford No. 76, NSGW

January 1st marks the birth of a new year; February 12th the birth of Abraham Lincoln; February 22nd the birth of George Washington; July 4th the birth of our nation, and December 25th the birth of Christ. We commemorate these events by having had the dates declared holidays. The events themselves are history and, of course, cannot be changed.

September 17th, Constitution Day, marks the birth of our form of government. This form of government is subject to constant attack from within and from without, particularly by Communists. Our form of government is always in danger.

The attention of the American people should be focused on the importance of the Constitution as the last barrier between the American way of life and Communism, or even Anarchy. One of the best means of attracting the attention of the entire nation to the importance of the Constitution would be to have Constitution Day, September 17th, declared a national holiday.

Here is something for all patriotic bodies and groups to consider.

SAN FRANCISCO ESTABLISHED 1852

A Gold Rush Suspension Bridge

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

THE historic Mokelumne river unfolds new sights of natural grandeur at each turn as it winds its way west through the mother lode. Wide open canyons seem to be poised still in the clear mountain air as the clear river moves slowly toward the sea. There is one wide open canyon along its course that is of great historical significance. This particular spot is the location of an old Suspension Bridge which was erected in 1856, replacing a wooden bridge which had been erected several years before.

Both sides of the Mokelumne at this point were occupied by a large number of miners engaged in mining along the river bars during the fifties. On the Amador county side of the river there was the thriving town of Lancha Plana, in Spanish meaning "Flat Boat," this type of boat was the first method used in crossing it. Bordering the town of Lancha Plana was Chaparral Hill and together had a population of several thousand people while nearby Townerville, Camp Opera, French Camp and Copper Center.

On the Calaveras side there were Poverty Bar and Campo Seco, two large communities, also other settlements known as Oregon Bar, Putt's Bar, Chile Camp and Comanche.

Judge Palmer's bridge erected in 1852 was the first bridge built in this vicinity and known as a bridge without heavy construction as it was set on posts in the river which was washed away during the high waters of 1852. After this incident the only method of crossing it was by Westmoreland's ferry which necessitated the building of a new bridge high above the water which was accomplished in 1856. The need of a well constructed bridge inspired the pioneer engineers to a great undertaking which ultimately developed into what is now known as the Westmoreland Suspense bridge. Its main purpose was to link the populated area of Amador county to that of Calaveras county.

As related to the writer by inhabitants of the vicinity, Mr. Westmoreland was accredited for the outstanding engineering feat of 1856. This pioneer came to the Mokelumne river mining region during the gold rush. He planned and built a suspension bridge which was one of the first and largest in California. The cables used in its construction were brought around the Horn and hauled by mule back to this location. The bridge swings its span across the Mokelumne river canyon a distance of approximately 300 feet. The anchorages are securely fastened into the earth one in Amador county and one in Calaveras county. The towers are constructed of heavy timbers bolted together with wooded spikes instead of metal and the large frame sets on blocks of stone. These towers remain the same as when they were first erected and the construction has lost but little of its original appearance in recent years. Through the long years the only change caused by the elements is that of the wooden desk has fallen into decay making the bridge impassable. The span consists of three main cables on both sides from which additional cables were suspended to hold the deck. The main supporting cables are about three inches in diameter made up of individual strands clamped together.

The structure was a toll bridge only wide enough to admit one vehicle at a time which consisted of buggies, carts and surreys. But as the years passed and the enormous placer diggings of the area became exhausted of surface gold the toll travel on the historic bridge started on the decline. One by one the boards of the wooden deck must have fallen into the swift currents of the Mokelumne and as they struck echoes sounded through the quiet canyon to interrupt the solitude of where once mining activity reigned. Where the sound of the pick and sluice mingled with the rough coarse voices of the bearded miners. The scene has changed completely. Lancha Plana with its population of several thousand people has vanished as well as Camp Opera, French Camp, Copper Center, Chaparral Hill and Poverty Bar. However, the Westmoreland Suspension bridge is the only remaining object on the river in memory of those pioneers. It still stands today as it did in the fifties with the exception of its deck. It is truly a California landmark and remarkable for its example of early day engineering in California.

There it stands unused and forgotten in a wide open canyon where the waters of the Mokelumne river have flowed beneath it for ninety-two years slowly toward the sea.

Frogs To You We'll Keep Bear

(From "The Observer," official publication Observatory Parlor No. 177, NSGW, San Jose)

Already some Senator in Sacramento has gone on record as advocating the replacing of the Bear on the State Flag with a jumping frog. His arguments are based on the fact that the likeness of the bear on the California flag was declared to be "not truly indicative of the State as the bear is a destructive animal whose chief employment is disturbing prospectors, sacking hen-roosts, raiding garbage cans, and frightening women and children."

Further argument on the proposed resolution asserted, "the bear emblem is sometimes used as emblematic of a foreign power whose tenets of government are distasteful to all Californians." This Senator also contends that California's bear population is becoming rapidly depleted while the frog census shows a steady growth.

Because of the prolonged drought the State has been experiencing the resolution was referred to the committee on water resources to determine its feasibility.

"We wouldn't want to adopt the frog as our emblem only to find them extinct due to lack of water," one Senator said.

This resolution was presented by Senator Jesse Mayo, of Angel's Camp, who represents the county made famous by Mark Twain's story of the jumping frog.

DO YOU JUST BELONG?

Are you an active member
The kind that would be missed,
Or are you just contented
That your name is on the list?

Do you attend the meetings,
And mingle with the crowd,
Or do you stay at home
And crab both long and loud?

Do you take an active part
To help the group along,
Or are you satisfied to be
The kind to "just belong?"

Do you ever go to visit
A member who is sick,
Or leave the work for just a few
And talk about the clique?

There's quite a program scheduled
That means success, if done,
And it can be accomplished
With the help of everyone.

So attend the meetings regularly
And help with hand and heart,
Don't be just a member
But take an active part.

Think this over Native Daughter
Are we right or wrong?
Are you an active member
Or do you just belong?

SACRAMENTO— Heart of California

By FLORA A. SCHMITTGEN

SACRAMENTO! The city of beautiful trees, the heart of California. CALIFORNIA! "The one word known to every tongue on the globe, internationalized through that magic talisman, the gold nugget" and that gold nugget found in one of Sacramento's neighboring towns, Coloma. It is the land made famous by Mark Twain, Brete Harte, Joaquin Miller and Dana.

SACRAMENTO! Celebrating her golden centennial year, her surrounding country has an abundance of natural resources and beauty, with palms, eucalyptus and elm-arched boulevards, fields of asparagus, rice and the ever golden wheat and barley, more gold in her orchards of peaches and her groves of golden oranges.

SACRAMENTO! In 1839 Capt. John A. Sutter secured a grant of "ninety-nine square miles of any land he might select not already occupied" and he chose Sacramento, and with his white companions and a few Kanakas erected an adobe house and thus Sutter's adobe became Sutter's Fort. The Fort is completely surrounded with many beautiful trees planted by the Native Daughters of the Golden West almost fifty years ago. Sacramento is justly proud in having Sutter's Fort located in her city as it is one of California's outstanding historical monuments.

SACRAMENTO! The permanent capital of the State of California, since March 1, 1855. Trees from all parts of the world thrive in the many acres of a beautifully landscaped park, with an abundance of seasonable flowers always in bloom.

SACRAMENTO! Has many historical spots and many have been marked with

California's gold centennial year, commemorating the eventful discovery of 1848, engages our contemplation of past glorious history, realization of present responsibilities and promise of future progress.

Members of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West in a practical way are proving their pledge to perpetuate the memory of the pioneers, and mindful of the courage and achievements of their predecessors, accept their present responsibilities, working in unison for continued well-being and advancement of California, actively supporting constructive legislation, conservation of natural resources and welfare of the citizenry.

Growth of membership and enthusiasm affords greater opportunity for service and influence upon the destiny of our State. Faithful fulfillment of the guiding principles of our Order can be achieved by moving ever forward so that future Californians will receive a greater heritage.

When the Sixty-second Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West convenes in the capitol city of Sacramento on June 21st, I look forward to greeting and personally thanking the members who have built so well during the past year.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"California Here We Come" presents us with an opportunity and a challenge.

"The Days of Old, the Days of Gold, the Days of Forty-nine." How many times have we heard this old familiar phrase during the last few years, and how many times have the more adventurous of us wished that we could have either been there during those turbulent times or could have them re-enacted.

This year marks the first of the State-wide Centennials depicting the 100th anniversary of the Discovery of Gold and the subsequent Centennials to follow. As usual the Native Sons of the Golden West, with the help of our Sister Order, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, were ahead of time, for it was through our insistence, that the Centennial of the raising of the Bear Flag, and the Centennial of the United States taking possession of this glorious State, by the placing on California soil, at Monterey, on July 7, 1846 of that resplendent banner, the Stars and Stripes, were re-enacted.

It is fitting and proper that the Native Sons and Native Daughters should take their rightful place as leaders in these Centennials to come, for we are deep rooted in the love of yesteryear. We have marked for posterity, with a suitable plaque or marker, nearly every important place and event in our early state's history. This work has gone on little known to the general public, but bearing continual evidence of the love and devotion of our Orders for this, our beloved State. This might sound like a repetition of history, but because of the Centennials to come, and the part that we can play in the observation of them, I sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be proper to re-dedicate ourselves to our precepts, and shout to the world of what we have accomplished down through the years; namely, our work in the complete restoration of the 21 old Franciscan Missions, those landmarks of an earlier civilization, around which most of our early state's history is entwined; our work in marking the trails over which adventurous youth came to this state; our work in marking those places of battle, fought between the Spanish, Indians and Americans for the possession of this state, and our marking of those spots where our pioneer mothers and fathers suffered and died.

With 100 years of glorious history and tradition upon which to build, California stands on the threshold of a new era with greater things to come, for the cry, "California here we come" is again echoing around the world. That same spirit that actuated those mighty men and women of 1848 is carrying us on to greater heights today. That same pioneer spirit has made California the leader in agriculture; has built the world's largest banking system; our expansive hi-ways and in fact this spirit has made California what it is today, the wonder of the world. We are told that the population of California is in excess of 10 million people today, with the possibility of some 30 million in the next few decades.

This new era presents not only the Native Sons and the Native Daughters, but all the people of California with both a "Challenge and an Opportunity." A challenge to our industry and natural resources and an opportunity to make California the greatest state in the Union. California is coming to the end of its Golden Century. We should say, its first Golden Century, for when one ends another will begin. The second will not be as raw and rugged as was the first in earlier days, but it promises to be even richer than the fabulously rich 100 years since Marshall caught the glint of gold flakes in the water at Sutter's mill.

The untold thousands who will come here for celebrations to be held in the next three years will become acquainted with California's new Gold. Our hats are off to the century that is past; our coats are off for the century ahead.

Although I intend to concentrate on the Centennials during this coming year, I realize that the other projects of our Order should not be put aside. Being a patriotic organization, it is fitting and proper that we should take an active interest in the affairs of our government. Suffice to say that during my incumbency as Grand President every effort will be made to carry on the work we have undertaken and to spread the doctrines to which we are dedicated, so that they will be known to not only the people of California, but to the citizenry of the whole nation.

We all realize that as citizens of these great United States, we are privileged and blessed with a Constitution and a system of government which guarantees to each and every one of us freedom of speech, press and religious belief. In America, we are indeed a free people. Unfortunately certain groups of individuals who, although they are citizens of this great United States, have undertaken to undermine of our real democratic system of government. These groups advocate "isms" which are fundamentally opposed to our constitutional form of democratic government, and we as Native Sons of the Golden West, have never hesitated to denounce the advocates of all these isms other than the one we so firmly believe in, that of Americanism. If we could impart just a portion of our precepts and the story behind the two Flags, the Flag of the United States of America, and our State Flag under which our Order was founded, to the general public, there is much doubt in my mind that these subversive groups would ever gain any foothold in our country. Through one precepts of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity we have a channel to further the advancement of humanity itself, and to create a better feeling between men.

I am ever mindful of the obligation that the Native Sons and Native Daughters have in our project of the Homeless Children. We are indeed proud of our record in the past, but we must face the fact that this work is year by year becoming more costly. I urge each and every one of you to do everything within your power to make this project a continued success.

In accepting this challenge to California and to our Order, we could do nothing better than interest the Native born Californians in the projects of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Membership is an essential factor to any fraternal society, and in approaching our centennials, I know that thousands of our fellow Californians would be both proud and happy to affiliate themselves with us. We must not hesitate to solicit membership of any candidate who we feel will help us in making California a better place in which to live.

In my years of affiliation with the Native Sons of the Golden West, and as a representative Grand Officer, some of which we have used and others I fully intend to impart during this next year. There is a job for all of us. We must get over the idea of letting Peter and Paul do it. A general in the Army is only as good as the men serving under him. So I repeat in order to carry on our functions, to accept the challenge, we must revitalize ourselves as a protective measure. Let us work and advance as a statewide unit, remembering that activity is the key to success and that a united effort is to attain our goal. A spirit of progress and initiative is the great secret of success and to be a success, we must not lose our enthusiasm of the projects so dear to us. Individual effort is to be commended, but unity, cooperation and confidence will accomplish greater things for our Order.

I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to the members of the Native Sons, for elevating me to this exalted position, which is comparable to any position to which a man can aspire.

It is with a true feeling of signal honor that I accept my responsibility as Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. I am particularly happy that my term comes in the Centennial years and during this Golden Opportunity for California. May our organization always continue to serve the cause of Americanism, having faith in its principles and high ideals.

Respectfully submitted,
WALTER N. BAILEY.

Editor's Note

Because the June issue of the Grizzly Bear went to press before the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons at Hobergs, Grand President Walter N. Bailey was kind enough to give us his message in advance. Detailed reports of the Grand Parlor will be published in the July issue.

Parlors Have Dinner In New Banquet Room

On Monday evening, May 3, a dinner was enjoyed in the new banquet room of the Native Sons Hall on Court street. The members of Ursula Parlor No. 1, Native Daughters of the Golden West, were the guests of the members of Excelsior Parlor No. 31, Native Sons of the Golden West, Jackson.

Past President Paul DeValle acted as toastmaster for the evening and presented the speakers and guests. The Presidents of the respective parlors were presented, Lenore Lorenson and Albert Victors, each expressing their pleasure at the success of the gathering and the presence of almost seventy members of the organizations.

Special introductions were made of Mrs. Annie Angove, who has been a member for over sixty years, and Sam Avise who has been a member of Excelsior Parlor for almost sixty years.

The banquet was prepared by President Lenore Lorenson and her committee, with the assistance of Past President Jess Lorenson. Only words of praise have been heard for those in charge of the affair and it is hoped that it will become an annual event.

Starting in June, Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, will hold their regular business meetings on the 1st Thursday and the 3rd Thursday in June will see the beginning of the Feature Nights, where business will be suspended and joy and entertainment will reign.

South San Francisco Nears 58th Birthday

South San Francisco Parlor was instituted on June 18, 1890 by Grand President Wm. H. Miller with 49 charter members. Three of the charter group are still members of the Parlor. The first president was J. W. Barry and the first secretary was Daniel Harrington.

The Parlor moved along slowly the first ten years. Then in 1902 during the term of Grand President Lewis F. Byington as Grand President the first large membership increase was recorded, showing a new gain of 76. From that time on it was a march of progress. In 1910 the Parlor had 278 members with assets of $10,099.13. The year 1920 shows membership 536 and assets $17,385.26. The year 1930 shows a membership of 828 with assets in the amount of $44,958.33. The year 1940 shows a membership of 837 and assets in the amount of $56,626.24. At this writing the Parlor has a membership of 1,000 members with assets of $57,070.50. South San Francisco Parlor has been a beneficial Parlor from its inception and has paid out in benefits the amount of $224,125.50 to date.

South San Francisco Parlor has always stressed the ritual of the Order. To be an officer of the Parlor, becoming proficient in the ritualistic work is a must. Many fine teams have been developed including the State Championship Team of 1940. The Parlor has also been blessed with hardworking and proficient committeemen. The Annual St. Patrick's Party and the Annual Armistice Day Parties have become outstanding events, in Northern California.

It is interesting to note that South San Francisco Parlor has had but three Recording Secretaries, the first and charter Secretary Daniel Harrington served seventeen years, the second, John T. Regan, served for forty and the present secretary was installed one year ago.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 has advanced their annual dinner one week so as to be present on this memorable occasion. Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 of San Bernardino has planned a Greyhound Bus trip of 45 strong according to Secretary R. W. Brazelton.

The visiting parlors have all promised at least one new candidate for initiation so it looks like an all-around natural for the popular Los Angeles County Sheriff for the big night of June 9.

Manual "Mike" Perez, the genial outside sentinel has plans for the feeding of the estimated 250 members in attendance and Charley DuVernet the serving of refreshments.

Most all of the business will be dispensed with and an evening of fun and entertainment is in store for everyone.

ATHLETICS

Fresno Parlor No. 25, Fresno, reports that their ball team is getting off to a good start. $75 has been allotted to get them started. 15 turned out for the first spring practice. Del Gilstrap is going to level off three acres on the back of his place for a practice field. Their bowling team, consisting of Fike, Ramm, Cartwright, Hawthorne and Loeb should be congratulated. They recently defeated the Fresno Bowling Palace team twice and lost the third match by only two pins. Their team tied for 4th place in the league.

At Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, Brother Ray Trathen, Sr. and his Pacific Parlor keggers have just completed the local bowling season. At an early period in the league play, Pacific was leading contender, but the adversities of ten pin play best them, the league termination finding them in fifth place.

April 30 they tangled with the Ringside Club, May 3, Compton Merchants; May 8, Artesia Merchants; May 21, American Avenue Business Men; May 28, Verne Morrill Realtors and June 4, Jimmie Quick Neon. The Campo store was built in 1868 by L. H. and S. E. Gaskell and was the scene of a famous bandit raid December 5, 1875. The ancient structure was restored by the supervisors between 1943-47. During the war it was used as a clubhouse by personnel of Camp Lockett.

A bronze plaque commemorating the founding of the historic mining town of Julian by Drury F. Bealey in February, 1870, will be unveiled June 13. The plaque will be mounted on a large boulder in the center of the County park in Julian by the first blacksmith shop. Pioneer Julian residents will participate in the ceremonies.

Lower Lake Native Sons Have Dinner Dance

Lower Lake's Brick hall was transformed on a recent Saturday night, by the addition of palm fronds, ferns, green crepe paper streamers and other decorations into the "Kona Club," for a special dinner dance and entertainment program put on by the local parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West. Candlelight and Hawaiian music served to heighten the illusion, as did the smooth service of members acting as waiters, menus with island foods, and the linen-covered tables with their flower decorations.

A large crowd was present for the dinner and dance, and program following. Several members of the parlor put on a hula dance in grass skirts. Native Sons from all over the county were present with their guests.

Santa Monica Bay Soon To Have New Meeting Hall

Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, Santa Monica is moving right along with plans for their new home. At present, the foundation walls have been poured and forms are being stripped, in preparation for lowering the building into position. After this has been accomplished, Jack O'Shea will do the roughing in for the plumbing so that the floor slab can be poured. The committee has already sketched a floor plan for the partitions and cupboards, so that materials will be ready when the time comes to go ahead. Ed Rance is lining up the materials for the painting to be done, and it will not be long before the building will be ready to move into.

To the Officers and Members of Morada Parlor, No. 199, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your Committee on Resolutions of Respect for our departed sister, Vivian McKinley, submit the following:

Whereas, our Heavenly Father, in his infinite wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our loving sister, Vivian McKinley; and

Whereas, we are deeply grieved by her loss; therefore, be it

Resolved, that our deepest sympathy be extended to her family.

There are stars that go out in the darkness,

Whose silvery light shineth on.

There are roses whose perfume linigens still,

When roses are faded and gone.

There are hearts full of love and sweetness,

When no longer their life-current flows.

Still their goodness lives on with the living,

Like the soul of the star and the rose,

Sweet be thy rest, and peaceful thy sleeping,

God's way is best, thou art in His Keeping.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of the Parlor, a copy sent to her family and to the Grizzly Bear Magazine.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRIETTA MASCIORINI.

ALICE M. PHOENIX.

ELIZABETH HARRIETT BALDWIN

Veteran Member Called

Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, suffered loss of one of its most valued members, Benn Austin Chilson, who was called to the Grand Parlor on High April 19. Born in Sacramento April 17, 1862, Brother Chilson was believed to be one of the oldest members of the Order in the State.

Prominent Native Son Called To Grand Parlor On High

The Native Sons of the Golden West lost one of their most ardent and devoted members with the passing to the Grand Parlor on High last month of A. V. Mayrhofer, member of San Diego Parlor No. 108. A Native of San Diego, he and his wife were the first couple in the United States to be invested, at the same time, with the titles of Knight and Lady of the Holy Sepulcher, the ceremonies being held in 1935. He was the first Native of San Diego to receive the title, the late Pope Pius XI conferring the titles in recognition of the couple's leadership in the restoration of the Old Mission of San Diego de Alcalá.

In 1922 he originated a program, under auspices of the Native Sons of the Golden West, to honor each of the four flags that have flown over San Diego—Spanish, Mexican, independent California and United States. He was the Native Sons' state chairman for the 1942 Admission Day and Cabrillo celebrations and, although ill at Mercy Hospital at the time, saw his Admission Day plans successfully materialize.

As California State Historical Society president, Brother Mayrhofer officiated at San Diego's 338th birthday observance in 1942.

He was a deputy grand president of the Native Sons of the Golden West since 1923.

Gracious Gestures For Native Daughters Home

By MAE B. WILKIN

Grand Historian, NDGW

Past Grand President, NDGW

The Valentine and Easter seasons found the Native Daughters Home again being showered with gifts.

For the wellbeing of its guests, came a case of tomato soup and an abundant supply of garden produce, fresh from the garden of Grand Vice President Margaret Farnsworth.

Compton Parlor No. 258 never overlooks an occasion, Valentine and Easter cards personally addressed, were received by the guests, while the Valentine from Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288 was a delicious box of candy, a potted Easter Lily and birthday gifts for those whose natal day occurred during that period.

Grand President Doris Treat added her bit with a check to provide the Easter dinner ham, a case of solid pack tomatoes from Mrs. Frances Durate, of Vendome Parlor No. 100. Twelve very useful and attractive potholders from Mrs. Esther Ragon of Fruitvale Parlor No. 177 and Mrs. Nellie Lombardi of Ruby Parlor No. 46, a frequent visitor at the Home, sent a silence cloth for the large dinner table.

From Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 came a dozen table cloths, a box of apples and a half gallon jar of pears. The Easter gifts from Wilmington Parlor No. 278 were boxes of Toilettiers sufficient for all the guests, and packages of Bubble Bath, handkerchiefs, bath oil and Kleenex.

Joaquine Parlor No. 5 contributed five table cloths from Mrs. F. W. Nunes of San Luisita Parlor No. 108 came two dozen large table napkins, and El Carmelo Parlor No. 181 sent two cartons of fruits and jellies, while San Bruno Parlor No. 246 contributed two fine bed pads. Castro Parlor No. 17 and Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 each remembered the Home with ten dollar checks.

Grace Pattison of Joaquine Parlor No. 5, purchased from the estate of the late Laura May Roesch, seventy-five jars of jams, jellies and fruits and presented them to the Home.

Editor's Note: The above is a copy sent in type of a "Proclamashun" issued by the chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Tuolumne County in connection with the Golde Discovery Week Celebration held in Tuolumne County week ending January 24, 1948.

A copy of the "Proclamashun" was mailed to us by Native Son R. W. Muller of Sonora, chairman of the Tuolumne County Gold Centennial Celebration Committee. Attractively printed on good white paper with red and black ink, the document bears the gold seal of Tuolumne County and is illustrated with drawings of the gold rush days. We would have liked to give you a photographic reproduction of it, but because of the colors involved are unable to do so. However, anyone lucky enough to have obtained one of the "Proclamashuns" will treasure it as a souvenir of January 24, 1948 for many years to come.

The Tuolumne County Celebration was a compliment to and to create interest in the Gold Discovery Celebration at Coloma. The parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West started the celebration in Tuolumne County with a two day affair at Columbia, January 17, 18. The Native Sons and Daughters are credited with the idea of starting the Gold Discovery Week Celebration in the county and the Centennial Committee was expanded into a county-wide affair. Store windows all over the county were full of '49 relics and heirlooms. Two parades were also held.

Credit Given For Success Of Los Angeles Rally

Teamwork made a success of the rally April 17 on steps of the State Building, Los Angeles, given to boost the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency Drive. Mrs. William Steinbeck, arrangements chairman, has revealed names of those who helped.

Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz was responsible for presence of most of the film stars. He and his aides, including Frank Connor, lined up an impressive array of celebrities.

Mrs. Steinbeck's committee consisted of John Schmoller, Rosemary Connor, Anna T. Schiebusch, Frank Collins and Howard Stokes. Pensick and Gordon, Inc., contributed 2000 toy balloons. The public address system was donated by Francis Sullivan, of Pacific Network — Music by Muzak. William H. Richardson, of Birkel-Richardson, provided a grand piano.

Florence Grass was in charge of information. On her committee were Bernice Setterberg, Bette Searcy, Emma Lawson, Lila Stevenson and Louise Crawford. Coordinators included Shirley Kinet, Mary Miller, Edna Neikirk, Castenia Cripe, Frank Kerns, Harry Davis, Carlos Druet, Al Soldin, Lou Giese, F. Barbour and Carl Martin.

James T. Ritchey entertained clowns from Clyde Beatty's Circus, with assistance from Al Marra of the Figger-8 Cafe. Bill and Evelyn Arlen provided transportation for film notables. Evelyn Spaulding, of the Department of Social Service, advised the committee on solicitations. Garnier Engraving Company donated a cut. Dan McAllister, custodian of the State Building, provided facilities, and Milton Offner, secretary, Board of Public Works, issued a booth construction permit in record breaking time.

LET'S GO FISHING

By HAR LAR

It goes without saying that it was Richard Henry Dana back in 1834 who first drew the attention of the world to that rugged bluff that rises abruptly out of the blue Pacific near San Juan Capistrano that today bears his name. Since then Dana Point has been discovered by several thousands of fishermen for that ocean weed patch off shore teems with fish.

In fact there are some of the world's finest fishing spots along the Southern California shore. From Coronado to Malibu the sport-fishing boats follow the fish and any red blooded American man or woman who can qualify for a California fishing license may enjoy the thrill of ocean fishing.

Anybody can partake of this kingly sport. It's not necessary to even own your own fishing equipment. Tackle may be rented if desired aboard the boat. In fact a phone call will secure your reservations for tomorrow's fishing. The only physical exertion that must be made beforehand is getting up in the morning to catch that five, six or seven o'clock Sportfisher.

What's it like to go ocean fishing?

First of all, for pure unadulterated joy nothing can compare to a boat ride. Scudding white clouds ride the blue heavens that are only a shade lighter than the blue ocean waters of the vast Pacific. The rolling drive of the boat brings a contentment long to be remembered as you laze on deck on that short run down the beach to the old "fishing hole."

These modern sportfishing boats are skippered by old fishermen who know their ocean. It is their business to follow the fish that their passengers may catch them. Seldom it is that they don't raise a school of barracuda or albacore. With warm weather they are all bringing in record catches and even the rawest novices are catching a sackful.

For those who can't "take it" on the deep sea fishing boats or haven't the time, there are always the fishing barges. We know of two located on the famous Huntington Beach flats. Fishing is always good as this spot is a natural feeding ground for the bottom fish such as halibut and bass. We saw a 47 pound "barn door" halibut brought in.

Furthermore, the shore boats leave to and from the barges approximately every hour. The barges are big and roomy with every accommodation. They even schedule parties for all night fishing.

Live bait is always obtained before heading out for the fishing waters. Off Orange and Los Angeles Counties it's anchovies that are netted into the bait tanks. Down San Diego way they use the race horse sardine. When the skipper circles the kelp bed and the deck hand starts "chumming" (throwing live bait overboard to attract the fish) then it's high time to bait up.

Anchovies won't take rough treatment. To preserve all their vigor hook anchovies under the finny gill rakers. Don't dig too deep or it will kill your bait. Sardines are hooked sideways through the top part of the nose.

For the most-part yellowtail, tuna, barracuda and albacore are surface feeders. Little or no weight should be used. If a cast can't be made any other way, a float may be threaded on the line. Halibut and black sea bass feed on the bottom and it takes a weight to get your live bait down where they may be tempted.

Different species of fish take the hook differently. It will take practice to distinguish their signals. The "berries" strike fast and hard. When they do it's necessary to set the hook instantly. Other fish run with the bait and the strike should be momentarily delayed.

Laguna Beach, Orange County, nestled on the hills above the blue Pacific, bathed in the rosy glow of the setting sun, its beauty enhanced beyond expression, a more restful place would be hard to find.

Often called the "Cape Cod of the West" Laguna Beach, with its unique shops, is known the world over by artist and writer alike. It is the summer home of many of the nation's notables. The Laguna Art Festival, which presents living pictures, is famous.

From the cliffs of Laguna on a clear day one can see the white line of the surf far down the coast toward San Diego, or off to sea, the towering bulk of Santa Catalina Island. On such days, dim on the horizon is San Clemente Island, another famed Channel Island, now a United States Military Reservation.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

July 4, 1873, the Ninety-seventh anniversary of the Independence of the United States was celebrated in the cities and principal towns of California in the usual patriotic manner. Salutes, parades, literary exercises with an oration and a poem, fireworks and grand balls made up the programs generally carried out. No serious fires and but few distressing accidents occurred to mar the Independence Day festivities.

A new court house at Modesto, Stanislaus County, was dedicated on the Fourth.

Miss Minnie Allen of Lower Lake, Lake County, a 12-year-old lassie, made a great reputation as a rifle shot on the Fourth. In a contest, she hit the bulls-eye of a target the size of a silver dollar at a distance of eighty yards, ten times in succession.

Three men were found in the wine cellar of C. Nelson near Woodland, Yolo County, so drunk they had to be carried out and hauled in a dray to the jail, where they remained a week before they were sober enough to go into court. They were filled to their capacities with wine.

A baby show opened in San Francisco July 14, and lasted three days. There were over 200 entries, and the largest prize was for the baby that could yell the loudest. It was said some mothers resorted to pinching and sticking with pins their offspring, in efforts to win the prize.

The stock market was dull and featureless until July 14, when reports of a bad showing in the Savage mine drift caused a panic that lasted three days and made California street, San Francisco, look like a disturbed anthill. Savage broke from $110 to $65 a share, and other stocks were deflated in proportion. Belcher raised its monthly dividend to $8 a share, but this action did not restore confidence.

On the other hand, the grain market was firm; with indications of a rise. Wheat was $1.70, barley $1.20 and spuds $1 a cental; hay was $12 a ton, butter 30c a pound, and eggs 30c a dozen. Eighty-five ships were reported enroute on the ocean to San Francisco, to load with wheat for Europe.

The work of building the Southern Pacific northward from Los Angeles was announced to begin at once by President C. P. Huntington, who was there to start it.

A steamboat sixty feet long was being built to ply the waters of Lake Tulare.

A silver trout weighing thirty pounds was caught in Lake Tahoe July 14 by James Stanton, a sportsman from San Francisco.

John Williamson, agent of the California Acclimatization Society, brought 700 small live trout from Lake Tahoe and planted them in Lake Merced, near San Francisco. The lake was also stocked with several thousand trout eggs.

Frank Ochoa, at San Andreas, Calaveras County, found a rich quartz vein. From fifteen pounds of rock he pounded $800 worth of gold.

The Saint John quicksilver mine in Solano County, near Vallejo, made a shipment this month of 150 flasks.

Milton Cain, hunting deer in Butte County, was taken by surprise when a grizzly bear came suddenly upon him through the brush. He quickly fired and shot it dead through the heart. It weighed over 800 pounds dressed.

A citizen of Santa Barbara complained that while that city was a locality sought by invalids and consumptives for restoration of health and was advertised as such by its citizens, the first and most conspicuous business signs that newcomers would read on their arrival were those of the two leading undertakers. They stated, "Metallic Burial Cases for Sale."

July 28 the stage from Colfax, Placer County, to Grass Valley and Nevada City, in Nevada County, was stopped about dusk by four masked men a few miles from Grass Valley. The driver and passengers were made to vacate the stage while the robbers proceeded to blast open the Wells Fargo & Co., treasure safe. Among the passengers were Senator A. A. Sargent, Judge T. B. McFarland, E. Black Ryan and General Charles Cadwalader. Ryan demurred to being made to sit on the ground tailor fashion; he claimed his legs were too short, and after an argument had his own way. The passengers were not robbed. After blowing the treasure box open with giant powder and obtaining about $8000 in coin, the highwaymen departed. A saloonkeeper in Grass Valley, who planned but did not participate in the robbery, was discovered to be the head of the gang, and the men, all arrested, had made their rendezvous at his saloon. The money was recovered.

Murphys

By COKE WOOD

IN this Centennial year everyone's attention is directed toward the gold mining region of California where dramatic events occurred just a hundred years ago. Few towns can take the visitor back to the scenes of the gold days as quickly as the quiet little village of Murphys, Calaveras County. The hum of activity stirred up by the five thousand miners who worked the area in the 'fifties has ceased, but dramatic evidence of their energy remains in the great piles of rock; in the gaunt and naked limestone, washed clean of its golden treasure; in the old stone buildings with their iron shutters; and in the old Sperry Hotel that dates back to 1856 and which played host to such notables as General Grant, Mark Twain, and Black Bart.

In the summer of 1848 John and Daniel Murphy were mining and running a trading post on Weber Creek near Placerville. John had been partners with Captain Weber in a store at San Jose, but with the news that Marshall had discovered gold at Coloma they had moved part of the supplies to the "diggings." John set up a trading post in a brush shack and mined on the side. By July gold was not so easily obtainable and the diggings at Weber Creek were being deserted by the miners. At the same time rumors were spread of rich diggings to the south. The Murphys brothers, James Carson, George Angel, Dr. Isabel, and several others formed a party and started prospecting towards the south. They found gold in every stream where they mined, but apparently not of sufficient quantity to hold them.

It was not until August, 1848, that they reached the creek now known as Angel's Creek where George Angel set up a trading post. Carson went on south and in ten days washed out 180 ounces of gold on what is now Carson Creek. The Murphys party went east and mined in the vicinity of what is now Vallecito. It was originally called Murphy's Old Diggings. In a short time Staudenberg, a member of the Murphys party, exploring to the north, came upon a Mexican and his wife mining in the little valley now known as Murphys. It was estimated the Mexicans had taken out about $18,000 in gold. Staudenberg mined the area successfully and set up a store on the south side of the flat. The camp was at first called Stoutenberg, a corruption of Staudenberg. However, the Murphys soon came in, mined, and set up a store. They hired an Indian tribe to mine the gold for them, and, it is claimed, the two brothers took out a million and a half dollars worth of gold before the rainy season of 1848. Dan Murphy, however, had no fondness for mining and returned to San Jose in the fall of 1848. John Murphy did not leave the mines until December, 1849, when, it is claimed, he had as much gold as six mules could carry—seventeen bags of it. He probably had more gold in his possession than any other man on the Pacific Coast.

The name Stoutenberg had been changed to Murphy's Rich Diggings by 1850, and the mines were probably the richest in the county. An ounce to the pan was no unusual prospect, and many of the claims yielded sixteen ounces to the pan. At first regulations were passed limiting claims to eight feet square. One miner realized $80,000 from his work the first winter. Four million dollars was taken from a four-acre placer area. Panning was the only method of mining used until the fall of 1849 when rockers and cradles were brought in from Jamestown, Tuolumne County.

In the summer of 1849 there were four trading posts in Murphys but the news soon spread of the richness of the mines and great crowds of miners rushed into the region. By 1850 Murphys was no longer a camp but a town. A number of wooden buildings were constructed to house the stores and trading posts. An alcalde and sheriff were elected to maintain order. Naturally, there would be included a lawless element with such an influx of gold seekers, but the miners themselves soon set up methods of handling this criminal class. Probably the first miner's court ever held in California was at Murphys in the early spring of 1849. A culprit who was caught robbing tents was tried by a miner's jury, convicted, and banished from the camp.

The Foreign Miner's Tax of May, 1850, stirred up so much opposition that large protest meetings were held by the foreign miners at Sonora, Tuolumne County. When a message arrived in Murphys asking the French miners to come to the aid of their besieged countrymen in Sonora, great excitement prevailed. The French armed themselves and marched defiantly off to war. Upon arrival in Sonora, they found all was peaceful and the letter a hoax. The warriors returned to Murphys singly and at night, very much ashamed of themselves. This event was known as the "French Revolution."

It is claimed that Joaquin Murieta started his career of crime from Murphys. In 1850 he operated a Monte game in a sky blue tent in the west end of town. One day he visited a friend at Los Muertos near Angels and rode the friend's horse back to Murphys. One of the white miners claimed the horse had been stolen from him and demanded that Murieta be lynched. But the Mexican succeeded in convincing the crowd of miners that the horse belonged to his friend. The friend was brought in, convicted of horsetealing, and promptly hanged. Murieta was whipped, but during the whipping he swore eternal vengeance on his tormentors. Not long afterwards he met one of the men on a lonely trail near Murphys, and in a frenzy of hate stabbed him to death. It is claimed he eventually killed all the twenty men that took part in the whipping.

The need for an adequate supply of water for washing the gravel was a problem which the miners of Murphys solved by organizing the Union Water Company in 1851 for the purpose of constructing a fifteen-mile aqueduct to bring water from the Stanislaus river. With the introduction of this water into Murphys in January, 1853, the camp took on new life. The next ten years was the period during which the camp reached its greatest productivity and largest population.

However, the miners in the flat now faced a new problem—too much water. The limestone bedrock at the lower end of the little valley was higher than at any other place and acted as a dam. Many of the claims were becoming flooded and could not be worked down to bedrock. Again the resourceful miners organized and formed the Murphys Flat Fluming Company for the purpose of cutting a flume forty feet deep and six feet wide through the limestone in order to drain the flat. This "Deep Cut" was almost a mile long and took two years to complete at a cost of $200,000.

An engineering feat that gained fame for Murphys throughout the state was the suspension flume, built in 1857. It crossed the canyon at the lower end of the valley. The Central Hill Mining Company constructed the suspension flume for the purpose of carrying water from the Union Water Company ditch to their claims, located on a hill south of Murphys. The flume, carrying fifty inches of water, was suspended on cables 1800 feet long and crossed the canyon at a height of 290 feet. When the wind blew down the flume a few years later, it was replaced by a siphon that dipped down to the bottom of the canyon.

Murphys, like so many mining camps, was visited by several disastrous fires. The town was completely burned in 1859, but was immediately rebuilt. Many of the old stone buildings were constructed following this fire. The whole west end of town was burned again in 1874, and in 1893, the center of town was again burned out. This last fire was started from an explosion of several cases of dynamite which had been stored in the warehouse of the Manuel and Garland store.

Quartz mining has never been of very great importance in Murphys. However, there are several mines located in this region on the East Belt of the Mother Lode that have been good producers. The Sheepbranch Mine, seven miles to the north, has been a rich producer for many years. It was there that George Hearst made his start in mining. The Oro Plata Mine, formerly called the Blue Wing, located a half mile north of Murphys, was first worked in the 'fifties and has been worked intermittently since that time.

The total gold production of Murphys has been estimated at various amounts for $20,000,000 to $300,000,000. In a period of ten years, during the height of placer mining activity, $15,000,000 in gold dust was shipped through the Wells, Fargo Company office. However, this would only be a portion of the total gold produced as eight stores were buying gold and many of the miners carried their gold out in their personal pouches.

The Calaveras Grove of Big Trees (sequoia gigantea) has brought as much fame to Murphys as has the rich gold deposits. A. T. Dowd, a hunter for one of the Union Water Company construction camps, discovered the grove in 1852 while trailing a wounded grizzly bear. When the incredulous news of these gigantic trees was spread abroad, famous people from all parts of the world came through Murphys on their way to visit them. The register of the old Sperry's Hotel records the visits of such famous men as Horatio Alger, Jr., Henry Ward Beecher, George Hearst, John Billings, the Rothschilds, Mark Twain, General Grant, Charles Bolten (Black Bart), and many others.

Another natural wonder that made Murphys the mecca for many tourists was the beautiful limestone cave discovered in September, 1885, by Walter Mercer and located one mile north of Murphys. These two natural wonders—the Big Trees and the cave—are still attracting people to Murphys while its glorious past as a mining camp has long been forgotten. But in this Centennial year when everyone is looking back to 1848, the people of Murphys are reenacting for the world their historic one hundred years of events by holding a two-day celebration on July 24-25, called "Murphys Wingdam." The name Wingdam is taken from the story, "A Night in Wingdam," written by Bret Harte from an experience he had while visiting Murphys in the middle 'fifties. The town will be restored as far as possible to the atmosphere of the 'fifties and a gigantic historical pageant will re-

Izaak Walton Devotees

It took the Native Sons and Daughters to garner opening day fishing honors up on the southland's favorite mile-high Big Bear Lake. Just in order that there will be no mistake, we have printed piscatorial evidence proving that the Pasadena Shirks and party are no jerks when it comes to bass fishing. We were told that opening season blustered in with sleet and cold. That there were few limits caught. By the looks of the mackinaws and overcoats pictured above we believe all reports.

There's no need for devotees of Izaak Walton to motor up to Coeur de Alene Lake in Idaho just to catch big trout. They have a few "whoppers" up at Big Bear Lake large enough to satisfy almost anybody. To prove it Harvey Phillips, local lake resident trolling a "flat-fish", hooked a three-foot streaking "Rainbow" and boated the mammoth trout after a rugged battle. The fish was weighed in at exactly 15 pounds and is reputed to be the biggest fish caught since early 1917.

Good fishing was slow in getting underway. For the first week or two our friend Everett Smith, proprietor of Boulder Bay Camp, was credited with the biggest fish, a mere four pounder. Then old man sun began to warm things up literally and figuratively. From the boat landings, Boulder Bay to Lakeshore we got the same reply. Fishing is excellent.

It ought to be. According to Judge C. R. Lynn, Big Bear sportsman, some 62,000 trout have been planted in the lake since last year's closing date. It may be interesting to note that these fish came up from the desert side of the mountain from that new hatchery on the Mojave river near Victorville.

Still boasting about Big Bear Lake fishing, Paul K. Martin of Azusa says the trout jump right into your boat. Anyway that's the way the Carrs over at Andrews Lodge tell the

DICTIONARY FOR ANGLERS

FISHING: A disease for which there is no cure. In extreme cases, the fever can be reduced by placing the patient in the hot sun for several hours.

FISHING CAMP: A place to eat half-cooked food, fight insects and play poker. Liveliest hours are from midnight to dawn. Camping trips are often spoiled by "screwballs" who insist on going fishing.

BAIT: The cases of top quality beer and ale cooling in the lake.

GUIDE: A conservationist whose job it is to protect the fish by taking you where they "air't."

PLUGS: Imitations of bugs, birds or bees guaranteed to fool any fisherman and lure a dollar or more from his pocket.

ROD: A sporty name for a fish pole costing over $5.00. Rods are sold by weight. The lighter the rod, the heavier the tax.

REEL: A coffee grinder invented by Satan and designed to snarl at critical moments—thus inducing lurid and profuse profanity.

FISH LINE: An expensive piece of string guaranteed to snag and break at the right time so that the fisherman can boast about the "whopper" that got away.

WHOPPER: A term used to describe any fish—however small—that got away.

CREEL: A fragile wicker basket in which a trout fisherman hides his worm can and carries his lunch, raincoat, etc.

BOOTS OR WADERS: Effective for carrying large quantities of water to the place where you sit down to take them off. Waders hold more water than boots and are preferred for putting out campfires.

BOAT: A leaky, smelly tub with an old tomato can to be used to bail it out. Daily rental is equal to the outright purchase price. But who wants to buy it.

Thanks for the above goes to "Charley" Tayles of Boulder Bay Boat Landing.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

Grand President Walter N. Bailey has been ill and recently underwent an emergency operation. He is well on the road to recovery. Let us hope that he doesn't try to do too much all at once and overdo it.

The Grand President writes that he has a definite plan to cut down delinquents, the cancerous sore that has been eating into our Order for many years. Also, that he has a method for increasing attendance at our individual meetings, thereby increasing the interest in the Order and resulting in an increase in membership. The plans are not complete as we go to press, but we will eagerly look forward to them in next month's Grizzly Bear and in the Grand President's Corner, which will be mailed to all parlor secretaries and deputies. The list of deputies for the coming year was not received in time for this issue, much as we would have liked to include it. However, we will have it next month.

Grand President Walter asked me to convey this message to you and to assure the members that, while temporarily handicapped, he will soon be back in the harness working for one of the best years that the Native Sons of the Golden West have ever seen.—Leonard Schwacofer, Editor.

The seventy-second Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be held in 1949 on the Mother Lode at Sonora, the delegates to the recent Grand Parlor at Hoberg's having accepted the invitation of that city. R. W. Muller and a delegation from Tuolumne Parlor actively campaigned for the meeting and all Native Sons are looking forward to next year's Grand Parlor.

Bailey appointed Emmet C. Joy as Grand Historian and C. George Cuthbertson as Grand Organist.

The report of the Finance Committee, which included the budget for the ensuing year, was adopted with only one change, which was made by including five cents per capita towards the Admission Day Celebration at Sacramento. The per capita tax for the year was fixed at $1.70, divided into four quarterly payments.

There was plenty of entertainment for all those in attendance. Reception and cocktail party by the host Parlor on Sunday and Monday evenings. On Tuesday evening, the Grand Ball was held, which was very well attended. On Wednesday, which was play day, the delegates and ladies were taken on a tour of Lake County, which was followed by a fish fry at Austins on the lake.

Wednesday evening was the Grand Parlor banquet. Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor was to be the speaker of the evening, but last minute weather changes made it impossible for a landing at Hoberg's Air Field, so his visit was cancelled. He was represented on the program by Past Grand President Seth Millington of Colusa Parlor. Frank McCormack, South San Francisco Parlor, entertained with several songs. His singing brought down the house. All during the session varied entertainment was furnished for the visiting ladies. All in all it was a very fine Grand Parlor session and our thanks are extended to all who assisted in the arrangements, with the exception of the weather man.

Conmy, grand second vice-president; Webster K. Nolan, grand trustee; Mrs. C. W. Chapman of Nevada City and Mrs. Walter N. Bailey of Wilton.

Grand Parlor High-Lights

By HAROLD J. REGAN

The Seventy-First Session of the Grand Parlor convened at Hoberg's, Lake County, on Monday, May 7th at 10:30 o'clock. The host Parlor, Lower Lake No. 159, assisted by the Hoberg Brothers and their staff, went all out in making the members of the Grand Parlor comfortable. In fact everything was perfect, except the weather, which was cold and rainy during the entire session.

Some of the most important resolutions adopted will be mentioned in this paragraph: Resolution No. 1 was adopted, naming Sonora in Tuolumne County as the seat of the 1949 Grand Parlor. Admission Day 1948 will be celebrated in Sacramento; 1949 in San Jose and 1950 in San Francisco.

The Grand Parlor approved Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 16, which calls upon the State Board of Education "to consider the introduction of a course in the history and government of California in connection with the social studies of the seventh and eighth grades." Also approved was a resolution calling on Governor Warren and the State Assembly to raise the time of residence in the State of California to those participating in State Benefits, such as the old age pension, from five to fifteen years.

Approved a resolution calling for a committee to revise the Grand Parlor Constitution and for a committee to prepare a manual of instruction for the officers of Subordinate Parlors. Approved a resolution calling for a committee of five to be appointed to select a hat or cap of distinctive design and report to the Board of Grand Officers for approval, and if approved be adopted for all Native Sons. Approved a resolution calling on the Legislature to instruct the Department of Motor Vehicles to have included on all license plates a design distinctive of California, such as a grizzly bear, a poppy or a redwood tree. Unanimously approved a resolution of appreciation and thanks to John Corotto, retiring Grand Treasurer, for his eighteen years of faithful service.

Many other resolutions were presented, some adopted and some rejected by the Grand Parlor. Full text of all the resolutions will be available on or about July 1st, when the Parlor's copy of the Grand Parlor's Proceedings will be delivered.

Those officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: Grand President, Walter N. Bailey; Grand 1st Vice Pres., Peter T. Conmy; Grand 2nd Vice Pres., Edward J. Wren; Grand 3rd Vice Pres., J. Walter Kamb; Grand Secretary, John T. Regan; Grand Treasurer, Almon J. Walcott; Grand Marshal, Wesley A. Strong; Grand Inside Sentinel, Eugene F. Cerqui; Grand Outside Sentinel, Phil Malloy; Grand Trustees, David W. Stuart, Lewis A. Giegerich, Philip C. Wilkins, Louis E. Pellandini, Robert E. Halsing, Del H. Gilstrap, and Armen A. Nishkian. Large Crowd of Natives Honors Sheriff Biscailuz

With University Parlor No. 272 as host more than 250 Native Sons from Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Orange counties honored Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz with a class of 24 candidates headed by the famous motion picture producer, Jesse L. Lasky, Wednesday evening, June 9, at the Forester's Hall, Los Angeles.

Well planned and handled by President Lucien Griffin and his committee of University Parlor, the affair was one of the largest held in recent months by Native Sons in Southern California and is believed by many present to be the forerunner of others to follow.

Past President Oliver Kent of University Parlor headed the initiation team. Kent, long active in University Parlor, plans to leave soon to accept a new position at Portland, Oregon. In appreciation of his hard work and interest in the Order, his parlor presented him with a fine token of remembrance.

Presentations were also made to Walter Brandt, deputy to University from Santa Monica Bay Parlor; Recording Secretary Blaine Driscoe, for his fine service and to William Arlen, who is retiring as editor of the University Parlor Bulletin.

Grand Trustee David W. Stuart of Arrowhead No. 110, present with a large delegation, paid high tribute to Sheriff Biscailuz as one of California's most famous Native Sons.

Sheriff Biscailuz, a past president of Los Angeles No. 45, and charter member of Santa Monica Bay, spoke on his 44 years as a member of the Order, bringing many early-day happenings to the mind of old-timers present. He closed his remarks by saying that there is a need for respect for constituted authority today. The youth of the land should learn to regard officers of the law as friends, he said. Native Sons of the Golden West in their youth program can do much along this line.

Presentation of a beautiful copper gold pan, suitably engraved for the occasion, commemorating the Gold Centennial, was presented to Sheriff Biscailuz by University Parlor.

Entertainment was furnished by Joe Marsalisi, well-known and popular member of University Parlor. Stanley Freeberg, newly initiated member of the parlor, of radio and motion picture fame, brought down the house with his voice impersonations and songs.

Among those present were Grand Trustee David W. Stuart, Junior Past Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar, Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, Past Grand Trustees, Walter C. Richards, Donald E. Van Luven, Bernard G. Hiss and Past Grand Marshal Walter Hiskey.

The committee is known as the Historical Markers and Centennial Celebration Committee.

Parlor Names Changed

By action of the delegates to the 71st Grand Parlor at Hobergs, the name of Valley Parlor, Los Angeles County, was changed to San Fernando Valley Parlor at the request of a resolution introduced by members of Valley Parlor.

In a similar resolution the name of Central Parlor, Santa Maria, was changed to Santa Maria Parlor.

On The Athletic Field . . .

Arrowhead Parlor's entry in the San Bernardino Nightball Association is now running into winning form. Last year's runner-up champs should again make a remarkable showing. At this writing the club has played two league games, losing one and winning the other. Last year's entry also lost their first game and went on to give the San Bernardino Nightball Association champs a good scare. The games this year are scheduled to be played at Lincoln, 14th and Mt. Vernon, and possibly some at Perris Hill. All games will start at 8:00 o'clock and the brothers are asked to come early for a good seat as seating facilities are limited.

Cunningham has been moved from the infield to the mound, where he will be doing quite a bit of twirling. Francis is a heady athlete and has pitched some mighty good games for the Parlor in the past. Too much pitching in the early games has caused him to have a heavy arm, but he will be ready in the near future. Ollson, last year's pitching "Ace," during the first half, is back on the mound and should give a good account of himself. Too much pitching during the first half last year is what caused hitters to get to him in the second half. Wilbur Veale, the team's speed-ball twirler and heavy sticker, is now working out regular. He will again be ready for mound work. With three good pitchers and a little hitting, the opposition will soon find that this year's team again means business.

Jack Vautherot and Charlie Strano have been dividing the catching. In the second league game, Jack turned his ankle, but says that he is now ready to receive the fast ones. Strano holds down a regular berth at second base. When he is used for relief work behind the plate, one of the pitchers or Vautherot fills in.

Emmett Reed, Danny Zanone and Higbee are the other infielders. All three have played with the club last year. Their hitting this year seems to have improved and should continue so.

In the outfield we have Martins, "Nip" Zanone, Hubbs, Pettingil, Lauterborn and Sorenson. "Baldy" has failed to show up as yet, but expects to soon.

The team has lost one of the most efficient score-keepers in the Nightball Association since "Mother" Howard Hubbard has taken up deep sea fishing at Newport. His scoring of hits, runs and all that involves the duties of an efficient scorer has often been commended upon by league officials. His duties have been taken over by Joe DeSoto, who is doing a mighty fine job.

The softball team of Huntington Park Parlor is off to a good start. In the first game of the season they defeated the Southeast Merchants 14 to 8. In the second they whipped the SWECO team 15 to 2. The boys have natty new blue and gold uniforms and make a nice showing on the field.

In a successful basketball season just finished Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento, was the runner-up for the championship. Sunset's bowling team recently challenged and defeated Sacramento Parlor No. 3, and is ready to compete with other parlors in Sacramento County. The parlor's baseball team began its season by playing a double header with the Folsom Prison team as a practice game, and is entered in the fraternal division of the City Recreation League.

The San Francisco Native Sons of the Golden West Bowling League, consisting of 24 teams of five men each, and split into three division of three teams each, has just finished the 1947-1948 season after 28 weeks of interesting play.

Final standing of divisions is as follows: Division A—Guadalupe Indians, Mission Padres, Castro Cubs, Stanford No. 1, California Grizzlies, Pacific, Rincon, Utopia. Division B—Castro Bears, Guadalupe Broncos, Mission Monks, Guadalupe Dons, South San Francisco, Twin Peaks, California Cubs, Stanford No. 2. Division C—Guadalupe Bears, Mission Dons, Guadalupe Vacqueros, Presidio, El Carmelo, Utopia, Mission Bells, California Bears.

An interesting feature of the league was that each division winner finished with the same amount of games won and lost, 57 won and 25 lost. At the finish of the regular league, the three winning teams held a nine game roll-off for the Henry Lyons Perpetual Trophy, the Guadalupe Indians coming out the winner and gaining possession of this wonderful trophy.

On Saturday night, May 1, the league held their annual banquet and election of officers for the next league play-off, at which time 24 fine trophies and over $1500 was given out as point monies. Ninety-five bowlers turned out for the banquet and all are looking forward to the next league which will start right after the Ninth of September.

Stephen M. White Parlor No. 263, NSGW, held a big dance sponsored by all the bowling teams of the parlor on Saturday evening, June 26, at Redmen's Hall, San Pedro. On June 14 the parlor presented a Bear Flag to Boys Camp Archie Shields. The committee in charge was composed of Bill Reuter, John Gower and Dell Hudson.

South San Francisco's second scheduled married vs. single men's baseball turned out to be almost strictly a married men's game, due to lack of single men. Two teams under the leadership of the Hawley Brothers took the field and the Art Hawleys team was victorious 15 to 14. It was a free hitting game which was enjoyed by all. The following brothers took part: Jerry Brady, Ernie Sansot, Phil Torres, Garfield Torres, Dan Sheehan, Art Hawley, Wm. Hawley, Dan Collins, Jack Reid, Jim Bailey, Jim McCarthy, Al Maffei, Nello Stefani, John Flower, Ted Portello, Art Brooks, Harold Regan, Angelo Parodi, Wm. Pratt, Fred and Bob Morris, Bob Halsing and Frank Brown. After the game Jim Bailey of the Good of the Order Committee served refreshments in the grounds of Bro. Al Giorado's warehouse near the Bay View Playgrounds.

Long Beach Parlor's baseball team is off to a good start. On June 4 they played against the Jimmie Quick Neon team at the Recreation Park diamond. New golf chairman of Long Beach is Manuel Cabral.

Native Daughters

Margaret Farnsworth Is New Grand President

Margaret Farnsworth of Vendome Parlor No. 100, San Jose, became the new Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at the Sixty-second Grand Parlor, June 20-21-22-23-24, held in Sacramento. As the Grizzly Bear went to press on June 15, further details of the Grand Parlor will be given in the August issue.

Margaret Farnsworth has been a faithful member of Vendome Parlor and has given unlimited time to her many duties since going through the Grand Parlor chairs. As a member of the Home Committee, she has been successful in creating a love for the Home in San Francisco, by the members of Vendome and other Parlors in the Bay area, and only recently, on the evening of April 20, with the assistance of Miss Tillie Brohaska, founder of Vendome Parlor, who acted as chairman, Margaret assumed the role of the "Bride" and Sister Ada Fox Carabel, the groom, in a mock wedding, which was largely attended by members and also members of the Native Sons of Observatory Parlor.

Much hilarity was created as Margaret's tall, graceful figure, and Ada's short stocky build gave a "Mutt and Jeff" appearance to all of the guests. Each guest brought a "wedding gift," something appropriate for the Home in San Francisco, and it was necessary for Grand Vice-President Farnsworth to make two trips with the many useful gifts bestowed. In the excitement of the wedding the "groom" forgot to pay the minister, Sister Alice Roll, and a collection was taken from all present, which was a very welcome sum for the "Bride" to bring to the Home. During Easter week, Mrs. Julia Compton, president, conducted a Novelty hat parade and rewards were made to the most original creation, and Sister Frances Duarte was credited with the prize as her hat was made with a map of California and a crown of California poppies.

A bus was chartered to send the members to Grand Parlor the evening of Installation, and it was hoped that Vendome Parlor would escort Sister Farnsworth one hundred per cent. An invitation to all Native Daughter Parlors in Santa Clara County was extended to accompany Margaret on the eventful evening.

The old promise of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Man" will be Margaret's constant prayer and aim as leader of the Native Daughters. Over a period of 50 years, Santa Clara County can only boast of ONE Grand President, Past Grand President Mamie Pierce Carmichael, who is in California again, and has done much to promote the Native Daughter spirit throughout Santa Clara County.

Miss Lillian Moore, Captain of the newly organized drill team and her members also accompanied Grand Vice President Farnsworth. Ways and means to raise money for the drill team have been accomplished with dinners at the Yacht Club, and parties at the homes of many of the members.

East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, Montebello, staged a surprise party Tuesday evening, June 1, honoring their Deputy Jennie Raymond. They also had a handkerchief shower for SDDGP Mary Miller.

Regan, Grand Secretary of the NSGW, as judges.

The contestants were then introduced: Miss Marilyn Knight of the Sacramento Junior College, and John Mix of the City College of San Francisco. Miss Knight chose as her subject "The Bear Flag" and Mr. Mix "Father Junipero Serra." Both students made remarkable presentations of their respective subjects and at the conclusion there of each received a hearty round of applause from the large number of members and friends in attendance.

John Mix was announced as the winner of the first prize, and will represent the Northern California District at the Grand Parlor in Sacramento June 21.

Copa de Oro Parlor Holds Enjoyable Mexican Fiesta

Copa de Oro Parlor, NDGW, Hollister, celebrated the annual Pal Revealing Party with a delightful Mexican Fiesta on May 19. A 6:30 o'clock dinner featured a menu of tamales, ensalada verde, frijoles, tortillas, adobados en vinagre, postro, torta de Copa de Oro, cafe, with table decorations in red and yellow.

The meeting hall was transformed into a garden with Mexican rugs, serapes, baskets, pottery and bright flowers. A grand march opened the social session with members attired in Spanish, Mexican, cowboy and various types of early California garb. Awards were made for outstanding costumes.

An enjoyable program of Mexican and Spanish songs were rendered by artists appropriately costumed.

Blindfolded Pal Mothers of previous years were provided with wands with which to break the typical pinata suspended in the center of the hall, and which contained the names of Secret Pals.

A happy period was spent opening the myriads of attractive packages and in extending thanks to donors of mysterious cards and gifts received during the year.

Morada Parlor Dedicates Memorial To Pioneers

In memory of the Pioneers of Empire City and vicinity, a memorial landmark of California black granite was dedicated the evening of May 26 by the Morada Parlor No. 199, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Modesto.

Placed in the old part of the Hughson cemetery, it points out the original site one-half mile west on the south bank of the Tuolumne River. The second county seat of Stanislaus County, the records remained here from October 1854 to December 1855, until moved to "French Bar" for about six years (1855-61), which is known today as La Grange.

A river ferry boat scene is depicted on the marker, the original sketch the work of Bess Elmore.

A project of the Centennial and California History and Landmarks committees, the Native Daughter Grand Parlor ceremony was used in dedication with President Bess Gray, 1st Vice-President Edith Lilly and Past President Lottie Peck participating.

Chairman Gertrude Schroeder introduced Ed Whitmore, Modesto Parlor No. 11 Native Sons, and an active member of the Stanislaus County Centennial Committee, as guest speaker.

The honor of unveiling the memorial was given to Mae Reeves, who was instrumental in obtaining the granite and supervised the engraving, donating her time and the work required to place the landmark for her Parlor.

Fifteen Pioneer men and women who were born in the State or came to California before 1870, were guests of the Morada Parlor May 20 on the occasion of the annual dinner in their honor. Over 100 were in attendance to help celebrate, including the parents of the 1948 Gold Nugget baby, Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers.

Keith Parlor Takes Part In Grove of Memory Exercises

Keith Parlor No. 137 Native Daughters of the Golden West is proud to announce the participation of its members in the Grove of Memory Memorial Services held in Golden Gate Park on June 6. They were notably, the organizer of this beautiful living monument, Bertha Mauser, who thought of the idea shortly after the First World War, and Miriam Mayerhofer who took part in the stirring program which included the roll call of Native Daughters who have passed away during the past year. Many prominent members of the Native Daughters and Native Sons of the Golden West took part in the ceremony including our own Mayor Elmer Robinson.

One of the Parlor's outstanding projects is the Welfare Committee headed by Evelyn Martin. This committee in conjunction with that of Buena Vista Parlor visits the Veterans Administration Hospital once a month bringing happiness and sunshine with gifts and entertainment donated by its members into the lives of our brave boys who sacrificed so much for the freedom which our glorious country symbolizes.

Glendale Parlor Bulletin Has Reader Interest

Glendale Parlor 264, NSGW, started 1948 out right by introducing its new Bulletin "El Rancho." Just to prove that Bulletins are read and bring about closer relations between parlors, Glendale has had the question put to the parlor by several new visiting brothers, "How are we supposed to find our way to Hahn's Hall where No. 264 meets?"

Although our address, 103A North Brand, appears on "El Rancho," Hahn's Hall still seems to be a hard place to find. For those visiting brothers who requested better directions we offer the following:

Glendale Parlor No. 264, NSGW, meets the 2nd and 4th Thursday of each month at 8 o'clock in the evening in Hahn's Hall (2nd floor) at 103A North Brand Blvd., in Glendale. This is the 3rd door on the west side of Brand Blvd., just north of the main intersection in Glendale at Broadway at Brand.

A cordial invitation is extended to all members to attend our meetings.

Santa Monica Bay's New Home Nearing Completion

Floor slab for Santa Monica Bay Parlor's new home was poured and finished on Saturday, May 29. The rough plumbing has been completed and the building is now ready for the inside walls and partitions. Carpenters, electrician, plumber and painter members of the parlor are working on the project which promises to be one of the finest Native Son homes in Southern California. Full details of how the project was handled, together with pictures of the finished hall will be published in a future issue of the Grizzly Bear to give other parlors ideas on how to solve their meeting place problems and provide a suitable headquarters.

In order to help finance the new building Santa Monica Bay sponsored a successful bazaar Saturday night, June 12. Dancing, refreshments and loads of fun were reported by all who attended the affair.

In Memoriam

ALBERT VINCENT MAYRHOFFER
1889 - 1948

A noble son on whom has shone the material glory of a task well done has departed this earthly realm to gain the rest eternal.

Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the kingdom of thy Lord.

Native son, born of foreign birth on Golden Shores; on whom the mantle of humility and service to his fellowman so gently rested; Knight of his Church in recognition of faithful service on earth to his God; leader in civic affairs and active in exemplifying the best traditions of his birthright and in adding his part to guard the freedom of our land.

Assembled here his brothers of Native birth to do his memory honor do jointly speak as one

Whereas the life of Brother Albert Vincent Myrhofer did truly represent the virtues of friendship, loyalty and charity and

Whereas his passing brings sorrow to the hearts of all who loved him and

Whereas the Nation, the State and his Community will long remember and cherish those things the accomplishment of which are associated with his name and the doing thereof was by his deeds

So therefore be it resolved by the Native Sons of the Golden West in memory of our departed Brother that an expression of sympathy be forwarded to Mrs. Mayrhofer on behalf of Parlor 108 and be it

Resolved that this Parlor here and now observe one minute of silent reflection on the memory of his having been among us and be it further

Resolved that a copy of this resolution suitably encribed shall be forwarded to Mrs. Mayrhofer.

Done by the Members of Parlor 108 Native Sons of the Golden West in meeting assembled this 5th day of May in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred forty-eight and in the year of the Native Sons of the Golden West the seventy-second.

THRONG ATTENDS PLAYHOUSE PLAQUE DEDICATION PROGRAM

Marking of the Pasadena Community Playhouse by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West as an official California landmark Thursday evening, April 29, attracted a capacity audience in the patio of the playhouse on South El Molino Avenue.

A bronze plaque, which had been installed on the north side of the entrance, was unveiled by Grace Stoermer, past grand president of the Native Daughters, who officially presented the marker to Ernest A. Batchelder, president of the Community Playhouse Association.

"We who love California," said Miss Stoermer, "cherish the heritage that is ours. We are proud of the pioneers who founded this state and this city, and we are proud of the Community Playhouse, which pioneered in establishing here a center of culture which is now world famous. The Sons and Daughters feel honored in being allowed to mark this official California landmark." In accepting the marker, President Batchelder expressed grateful thanks and hoped that the Playhouse would "continue to prove worthy."

Hazel Miller, chairman of the history and landmarks committee of Pasadena Parlor 290, of the Native Daughters, presided; the pledge of allegiance was led by Mary Miller, supervising district deputy grand president, and invocation was pronounced by Rev. George A. Warmer, Jr., pastor of Holliston Avenue Methodist Church, Joseph V. Phelps, chairman of the history and landmarks committee of Pasadena Parlor No. 296, introduced the other speakers.

Albert I. Stewart, member of the California Assembly and of the Pasadena Board of City Directors, brought felicitations from both state and city. Mr. Phelps also introduced Katherine Weaver, president of the local parlor, Native Daughters, and William F. Holtz, president of the local parlor, Native Sons; Janio Mieczkowski of the Karol Studios, the artist who made the plaque; Charles F. Prickett, manager of the Playhouse, and others.

Lloyd Mitchell, Southern California manager of the California Centennial Commission, brought greetings from that organization. Eldred M. Meyer of Santa Monica, past grand president of the Native Sons, spoke briefly on the importance of state landmarks.

Suitable early California music was supplied by Frank and Anita Santo and Mrs. Santo's mother, Senora Ascencion Rocha de Simon of San Gabriel.

GOLD AT SUTTER'S MILL

"There's gold at Sutter's Hill!"
A whisper soft and still;
It grew into a shout,
"There's gold at Sutter's Mill!"

The news like wildfire spread,
And through the streets the tread
Of tramping feet was heard
As from all lands men spread.

Barkeeps came, and sailors,
Bakers, farmers, whalers,
Horsethieves, doctors, lawyers,
Gamblers, brokers, tailors.

The "Onward!" cry was shrill;
It echoed from each hill;
And thus the people came
For gold at Sutter's Mill!

Flag Day Presentation Made By Los Angeles County Parlors

Miss Ann T. Schiebusch, past president, Los Angeles Parlor, NDGW, presented the American Flag to the County of Los Angeles. Raymond V. Darby, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, accepted the Flag on behalf of that organization.

Presentation of the Bear Flag to Star Post American Legion was made by Alfred P. Peracca, president of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW. Acceptance was by Vice Commander Ira Young.

Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, sheriff of Los Angeles County, as custodian of the buildings, accepted both flags, which will be displayed on the two flag poles on front of the Hall of Justice.

enact the important events of the past hundred years. Ruby Parlor, Number 46, of the Native Daughters, is taking an active part in this celebration by establishing a museum and placing identifying placards on all the historic buildings.

Again the streets of Murphys will echo with the din from a throng of five thousand, but this modern rush of 'forty-eight will be by those seeking, not gold, but adventure. The adventure of reliving those romantic and historic gold days of 1848.

Santa Rosa Stages Successful Dance for Homeless Children

Native Sons and Daughters of Santa Rosa staged a successful Pioneer Night—dinner, card party and dance Wednesday night, May 5, at the Native Sons hall which cleared about $300 for the benefit of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency. The affair was well organized and advertised. The newspapers gave their wholehearted support, resulting in many inches of valuable publicity, cleverly written, and pictures. The hall was converted into a reasonable facsimile of the surroundings in which the '49ers cavorted. Guests came in pioneer costume, prizes being awarded for the best get-up. As an added feature to advertise the event, the Natives rigged up a large covered wagon and displayed it around town.

Historic Los Angeles Stronghold Yields Territory For Freeway

(Los Angeles Examiner)

Los Angeles traffic is capturing the Fort Moore Hill, once the city's military stronghold.

Overlooking Civic center, the hill was first cut away for Sunset boulevard, then bored for the Broadway Tunnel and finally sliced off to make room for the Hall of Justice.

Now, 40 per cent of the southern side is being whittled away to bring it down to the Spring street level for the Hollywood Freeway.

For more than a century, Fort Moore Hill has figured in Los Angeles history.

In 1846 the Californians revolted against American rule, and Captain Gillespie with 50 Americans made their stand on the hill.

They were finally overwhelmed because of lack of supplies, but when reinforcements arrived from San Francisco they recaptured the hill and Fort Moore, with six guns, was built there in 1847.

The hill became the center of the city's elegance and aristocracy for the rest of the 19th century. General Phineas Banning, who owned Santa Catalina island, built a 21-room mansion there.

story. To be explicit, Martin hooked a fourteen inch trout and didn't know it until the fish jumped. Three jumps later and it landed amidships. Which goes to prove that anybody can catch fish in Big Bear Lake.

To further prove the point Chandler Robinson, Wilmington, though he had tried elsewhere, had never caught a trout. With a little coaching from Al Shinton, new owner of Mountain Grove Lodge, he hooked and landed his first "Rainbow" which incidentally weighed four pounds and an ounce.

LET'S GO FISHING

BY THE FISHING EDITOR

In the old days tackle was cumbersome, the reels clumsy while the lines were doubtful: A leather thumb break substituted for today's "Star Drag." A big fish literally burned up a cuttyhunk line. To slow down a fish doing forty to sixty miles an hour by pressing a leather thumb drag against the flying reel spool left the line hot and smoking. They poured water on the reels to cool them off and if those early day photographs prove anything, most anglers went fishing in a business suit including a vest.

Sportfishing on the Pacific Coast found its first enthusiastic booster when C. F. Holder, visiting Santa Catalina Island back in 1886, watched the natives using throwlines catch fish from the beach that would weigh twenty-five to forty pounds. Two years later Holder landed a tuna that balanced the Tuna Club scales at 183 pounds. Holder incidentally had founded the Club the year before and was its first president.

Local fishermen of Avelon village believed that big fish couldn't be caught with rod and reel but the sport fisherman of that day proved them wrong. Here in the sleepy island town one of the first flexible rods was used to land the fighting yellowtail.

It was a chore to go fishing in those days. Fishing boats weren't what they are now. Certainly there were no live bait sportfishing crafts as there are today. Ingenious baits were rigged up to tempt the fish.

Without a doubt the big fellows are not as abundant as they were. Commercial fishing and purse seiners have made terrific inroads on our fish reserves. Perhaps the major cause in recent years is the disappearance of sardines. Certainly controls on our ocean game fish should be exercised before they become as scarce as our prairie buffalo.

The lower jaw of a fish is hinged and has a wide range of movement. Incidentally a fish hooked in the lower jaw puts up less fight than one hooked in the upper rigid jaw. We have no ideas on how to do it, however.

Barracuda are the fastest fish that swim. Once seen they will never be forgotten. They're shaped like a giant cigar. The big fellows are called logs and the nickname fits.

A barracuda's long sharp muzzle makes it a hard fish to hook. Its habit is to swallow a bait tail first. It has an irritating habit of nibbling at its food. Consequently many an angler has set the hook too soon and reeled in to find he has only half a bait. Barracuda swim in schools. They have wicked teeth and severe cuts may be incurred if hooks are carelessly removed.

Albacore are already hitting fast and hard along the coast. Both sportfishing and commercial boats are bringing in good catches. They're a close relative of the tuna and one of the gamest of all fish. An albacore takes the hook in one tremendous surge and as the line tightens and the barbs begin to pierce, he'll explode in a twenty-five pound blast of piscatorial dynamite.

White sea bass run to forty and sixty pounds. The spawning season is June and July in Southern California waters. The young resemble their parents though the fins are darker and have three or four dark stripes down the sides. The small fry are popularly called sea trout.

Yellowtail are not as plentiful as in days gone by but this is the fish that first made California waters famous. He takes live bait readily but warily. Though they will weigh anywhere between 15 and 60 pounds, the average runs closer to the lighter figure. It's a member of the mackerel family, having a sickle-shaped tail. It gets its name from the vivid golden hues of the fins.

Perhaps the oddest looking and one of the most delicious eating fish to come out of the sea is the halibut. It has both eyes in top of its head. It is aptly called a barn door because of its flatness. The young, we are told, swim upright. As they grow older they fall over. The lower eye actually moves around the head to the upper flat side to join its mate. You'll have to catch one to believe us.

OUR COVER

We feel that the Bear Flag cover is appropriate on this issue featuring the 98th Admission Day and Centennial Celebration of Sacramento sponsored by Native Sons and Daughters to be held in the Capitol City, Wednesday, Thursday, September 8-9.

The picture was taken several weeks ago when South Gate Parlor, NSGW, and Rio Hondo Parlor, NDGW, Huntington Park, presented the Bear Flag, California history books and a plaque to South Gate High School. Presentation of the history books and plaque was made by Councilman and former Mayor John C. Olson, charter member of South Gate. Mrs. William Shirey, president of Rio Hondo, presented the flag. Miss Earlene Dunn accepted on behalf of South Gate Student Body. Native Son, Mayor Merle Beckley gave the principal address. Arrangements were in charge of R. E. Hankinson, 2nd vice-president of South Gate Parlor. Left to right in the picture are Mrs. William Shirey and Miss Earlene Dunn.—Enterprise Photo.

Our Adoption Agency Needs Help NOW!

At the annual organizational meeting of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., held in San Francisco June 26, 1948, Past Grand President Hazel B. Hansen of Glendale, was elected president for the ensuing year.

The new directors for the year, representing the Native Daughters and Native Sons, after organizing and electing the officers for the year, discussed the critical financial status of the Corporation. All directors present agreed that the greatest problem confronting the Corporation at this time is the solicitation of funds to carry on the work of the Charity. All promised to take the message of our dire need for money to all friends of our Charity and to impress upon the Parlors of both Orders the necessity of sending to the Corporation office all money at hand collected for the work.

Many more applications for children than there are available, are still being received. The directors all wish that each applicant could be given a child, but everyone knows that is impossible. However, all realize that each application is scientifically processed and as many of them as possible are being processed and filled.

The main problem at this time is financial assistance. If our Parlors and members do not help NOW, it soon may be too late.

Native Sons Americanism Committee Active

The Board of Grand Officers, Native Sons of the Golden West, at the initial meeting, presided over by Grand President Walter Bailey, referred resolution No. 41, relative to the Mural in the Rincon Annex of the San Francisco Post Office to the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee for action and a report thereon. Chairman Eldred L. Meyer in turn appointed Joseph I. McNamara, of Stanford Parlor No. 76, Chairman of a subcommittee made up of the San Francisco and Alameda Committee members to make this investigation and report to the Committee their findings.

The Grand Parlor Americanism Committee has secured permission from the publishers of ALERT to reprint the following article which appeared in the weekly issue of June 25, 1948:

"The most important immediate spot where a housecleaning is needed is in the Social welfare units of State, county and city in California, where fanatical leftists, Stalinists and fellow-travelers, along with known Communists, play an influential role in the disposition of several hundred million dollars in public charity funds."

This appears timely inasmuch as there has been considerable dissatisfaction in the manner in which the California Department of Social Welfare has regulated the Native Sons and the Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc. The delegates and members who attended the 71st session of the Grand Parlor at Hoberg's will remember the admonition made by Past Grand President William P. Cauby in which he stated it was high time for a delegation made up of prominent members of both Orders to hold a conference with those charged with administering the Adoption Work in California and that a committee should consult with them in Sacramento. It is apparent that with an ever-increasing amount of stringent regulations, the Church and Fraternal charities would soon be eliminated and in its place all adoptions would be made by the State. The Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West have no idea of borrowing such a plan from Communistic Russia.

The ALERT'S Comment regarding the Social Welfare units in California appears to have the same line of reasoning as stated by Past Grand President Cauby. However, the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee does not imply that the State Welfare Commission has any known Communists on its payroll. Nevertheless, it is apparent that other groups than ours are aware that dreamers and theorists are playing an active part in State Charities.

The Grand Parlor Americanism Committee is as follows:

Eldred L. Meyer, Past Grand President, Chairman, Santa Monica; Jessie H. Miller, Past Grand President, San Francisco; Waldo F. Postal, San Francisco; Joseph I. McNamara, San Francisco; Frank P. Smith, Oakland; Judge Benjamin C. Jones, Lakeport; Chester F. Gannon, Sacramento; Judge Thomas P. White, Frank J. Collins, Sr., Bernard G. Hiss, Los Angeles; Ellsworth Williard, Placerville; Rawlins Coffman, Red Bluff.

Lower Lake Parlor Dedicates New Rodeo Grounds July 17, 18

Lower Lake Parlor No. 159 officially dedicated the New Rodeo Grounds on July 17-18 with fitting ceremonies. The new grounds are said to be one of the newest and best in northern California. The Rodeo held on the dedication dates was an Accredited R.C.A. show with a complete program including a Rodeo Sweetheart and attracted wide attention. A big Whoopie Western dance was held Saturday evening, July 17 at the newly acquired Native Son hall in Lower Lake.

Captain Smith's Historic Flag Pole At Bodega

By EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, NSGW

SONOMA COUNTY, one of California's most colorful and productive regions thrives in beauty and history. This county being among one of the largest in the Redwood Empire possesses many places of historical significance relating to the early history of our state. One of them located near Bodega Bay is the site of Captain Stephen Smith's flag pole where the American flag was raised.

According to H. H. Bancroft's Pioneer Register, Stephen Smith, a sea captain, was a native of Maryland and visited California for the first time in 1841 on the ship "Corsair." On this first visit he made arrangements with Governor Alvarado to introduce a steam mill, and in 1843 he returned from the east with the engine. This was the first steam engine and mill to be used in California. The mill proved successful and was considered valuable property. The steam engine, according to Zoeth Skinner Eldredge, furnished power for both a grist mill and a saw mill. He also is reported to have brought three pianos with him, undoubtedly the first in California.

Smith also acquired a vast land grant which included the site of the former Russian settlement at Bodega with its dismantled stockade fort. According to Bancroft's History of California the grant included 35,000 acres. The Captain made Bodega famous as a settlement and port for the shipment of lumber, flour, grain and dairy products. His ranch became well known in central California and was a prosperous place. The location achieved distinction when the American flag was raised on a redwood flag pole erected by him.

The year of 1846 was epochal in the state of California because that year characterized a memorable series of events. In the month of June the Bear flag revolt at Sonoma had taken place. Upon the raising of the Bear flag it signified California a republic. In the meantime Commodore John D. Sloat was preparing to land his fleet on the coast of California to proclaim it for the United States.

On July 7, Captain William Mervine acting under orders from Commodore Sloat, raised the stars and stripes over the custom-house at Monterey, thus taking possession of California for the United States.

On July 9, 1946 Captain John B. Mont-

Saga of Holcomb Valley

By HAR LAR

Editor's Note: Native Sons and Daughters who have visited the Crestline home of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, have seen the gold rush relics there. Here is the story of Holcomb Valley, which played a vital role in the early development of San Bernardino County.

BACK in those lazy easy going early California days, six years before Captain Sutter had even thought of building a sawmill at Coloma, a young majordomo from the San Francisquito Rancho swung off his cowpony to take a noonday siesta in the cooling shade of a gigantic tree now known as the Oak of the Golden Dream. Francisco Lopez was searching the brushy Placerita Canyon, north of what is now Newhall, for stray cattle.

Lopez had one peculiar, not to say exotic whim. He passionately enjoyed the hot tangy taste of wild onions. As he lay back comfortably reclined, he lackadaisically reached out for the pungent bulbs and pulled one up. Carefully he rubbed it clean. Dirt still clung to the hair like roots but it shone with a dull golden sheen.

The vaquero no longer reclined in lazy idleness. His black sombrero was off his head. Carefully he shook the golden flakes inside. Frenziedly he pulled more and more wild onions but no longer did he think of his palate. Francisco Lopez had discovered gold. The date was March 9th, 1842.

For a few short weeks it caused quite a stir among the residents of that sleepy village, El Pueblo de Nuestro de los Angeles. In fact Abel Stearns recorded that from $6,000 to $8,000 in gold was found in the Placerita Canyon. Certainly it caused none of the wild excitement that was heard 'round the world when James Marshall discovered the yellow metal in the mill race at Coloma.

Yet Southern California was to have her own spectacular gold rush. From the far corners of the globe would come the gold hungry, hoping to reap her golden harvest.

High in the San Bernardino Mountains are located the blue waters of Big Bear Lake. Here great pines and blue skies are mirrored in tranquil waters and because of its quiet beauty it has become one of the favorite vacation spots of all southern California. Summer and winter thousands upon thousands seek the lofty mountain hide-away in serene forgetfulness of valley heat and city cares. Few know that wild western drama was once made here. Not just the flickering celluloid epic of the Hollywood movie makers but the bloody lawlessness that marked the gold camps of the Mother Lode. Few indeed know that this peaceful mountain valley eighty-eight years ago once resounded to the roar of six guns and hardly a day passed without a shooting or knifing.

History has it that William F. Holcomb who came from Indiana by prairie schooner made the first worthwhile strike. "Billy" Holcomb shot a bear and its bloody trail led over gold bearing quartz.

In his own chronicle Holcomb wrote: "We let the bear go and taking some dirt in our handkerchiefs, went down and dug a hole in the main gulch and found more gold and still further examination showed us several good prospects."

The date was May 5th, 1860.

There were eight men in Holcomb's party. After staking their claims they purchased supplies in the valley pueblos, paying with gold dust. Though Holcomb candidly told those interested that the diggings were producing about $5.00 to $10.00 a day per man, the rush was on. Prospectors came up the treacherous trails afoot and by horse.

By the summer of 1861 the population of Holcomb Valley was estimated to exceed 1400. In Clapboard Town there were 600 persons alone. The shallow diggings were yielding small quantities consistently. Two men, according to the May 12, 1860 issue of the Los Angeles Star, washed out with a hand made gold rocker $50 in a week. In the same news item a mention was made that the Bear Valley smoke-house contained 8000 pounds of smoked bear meat.

Those able to get down to bed rock were realizing higher profits. Placer and quartz claims were being worked. Again the Los Angeles Star, dated June 8, 1861, tabulates that "many are taking out from $25.00 to $140 a day rocking." However, food costs were ridiculously low. The news item continues, "Provisions of all kinds are abundant. Board at hotel and restaurants, from $5 to $8 per week. Beef 5 to 8 cents; mutton ditto; venison 8 to 10; bear 12 to 15 cents per pound. Deer and bear are to be found in

By virtue of resolution adopted at the 71st Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, it was decreed that the 1948 observance of Admission Day should be in the City of Sacramento. It is true that all of the cities of California, which, have from time to time been honored by the Grand Parlor by selection for the seat of an Admission Day observance are of historical importance. This fact, however, applies with doubled force to the City of Sacramento, State Capitol since 1854, home of historic Sutter's Fort, gateway to the Sacramento Valley, key to the northern section of the Mother Lode, city laid out by Pioneer John A. Sutter, and scene of all the varied activities of the pioneer era.

Sacramento has always been a center of Native Sons of the Golden West. The Second expansion of the Order was to Sacramento, on March 20, 1878, when the Parlor of Sacramento No. 3 was instituted. Today, the Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters of Sacramento County are working hard to make this celebration a success. They earnestly want you to come to Sacramento not only to celebrate the ninety-eighth anniversary of California's admission into the Sisterhood of states, but to help celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the City of Sacramento.

I want to urge all loyal members of our Order to do their part on this day that is so close to the hearts of all loyal Californians. Those who cannot attend the celebration in Sacramento, should encourage proper observance of the occasion in their home communities. We should encourage greater support for this legal holiday from all our citizens, whether native or adopted. We should especially encourage merchants to close their places of business and to display the State Flag of California, together with the Stars and Stripes.

Every Native Son is a true patriot and citizen of the United States of America, and by demonstrating our loyalty to our Nation on Admission Day we can accomplish much in stamping out the subversive groups which are rearing their ugly heads in our midst.

My personal greetings and best wishes to each and every one of you, with the fond wish that I may have the privilege of greeting you at Sacramento on September 9, 1948.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,
WALTER N. BAILEY,
Grand President, NSGW.

Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club Hears Centennial Official

Members of the Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club meeting at the Hotel Clark July 9, heard Southern California Manager of the California Centennials Commission, Lloyd D. Mitchell, outline plans for the Portola Trek and discuss coming Centennial events, together with the part that Native Sons and Daughters can play in the success of the Centennial program. A colorful motion picture on "The Redwood Empire," shown by Harry Balch completed the program.

AUGUST, 1948

Cabrillo Parlor Plans Entry In Portola Trek Parade

Cabrillo Parlor No. 114 returned to its old home at the Ventura Elks Temple Tuesday, June 29, with a gala dinner meeting attended by more than 60 members, several of whom had not been present at a parlor meeting for three years. The Cabrillo Parlor orchestra composed of William Salas, M. Burdick, George Pacheco, William Flores and Pete Rodriguez was there in costume to furnish plenty of good music.

Plans were made to enter a float in the Portola Trek Parade on Saturday evening, August 14. A. B. Perley, superintendent of city parks, was appointed committee chairman with power to select his committee. The Cabrillo Parlor member was largely responsible for the Ventura County float which took first prize in Class A-8 in the 1948 Tournament of Roses Parlor at Pasadena. Adolfo Camarillo of Cabrillo Parlor, will enter his white Arabian horse in the big August 14 parade. This was the group that won such resounding applause in the Admission Day Parade at Long Beach last year.

Cabrillo Parlor is also considering the restoration of one of the two two-story adobes in Ventura County, the owner having made a very generous offer to the parlor. With Milton P. Stiles as chairman, the Ventura Parlor is also sponsoring Oxnard Girl Scout Troop No. 81.

Meeting night of Cabrillo Parlor has been changed to the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, at the Elks Temple.

Sebastopol Native Sons To Replace Flag Pole at Bodega

On September 19, 1948, Sebastopol Parlor No. 143, NSGW, will replace the flag pole at Bodega, Sonoma County, which was erected by Captain Stephen Smith on his ranch and from which Samuel Kelsey found the Stars and Stripes, together with a small Bear Flag, already waving when he arrived July 10, 1846, from Sonoma with an American Flag for the Captain sent by Lieut. Joseph Warren Revere.

The original pole was rest in 1893, but fell and shattered in February, 1947. Sebastopol Parlor will replace it with a new pole and distribute sections of the old one to museums throughout the State.

Sebastopol Parlor is operating the eats and soft drink concession at the night softball games, expecting to have a nice sum to add to the general fund and for the Homeless Children. An "old timers night" and card parties are being planned for the fall season.

Arrowhead Assembly Meets

Arrowhead Assembly, Past President's Association, met Sunday, July 18, in the Tudor room of the Chase Hotel, Santa Monica. The affair began with a ladies' day dinner, followed by a meeting for members only.

Change Meeting Hall

San Luis Rey Parlor No. 300, Oceanside, San Diego County, announces it is now meeting at the Oceanside Womens Club House, 312 Fremont St., on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

ATHLETICS

Long Beach Parlor No. 278 held a golf tournament Sunday, July 11, at the Meadow Lark Country Club to determine suitable representation for the parlor at the Admission Day golf tournament in Sacramento. Manuel Cabrel was in charge.

The bowling team of University Parlor has been playing every Tuesday night at 4335 Crenshaw Blvd. at 8:30 o'clock. As we went to press the team was going strong in second place and was only two points behind the winning team. The lusty bowling shirts of University are bringing much publicity to the parlor. Mike Perez is team captain.

June 26 was the date of the first game of the Huntington Park Softball League Playoff and found the Huntington Park Native Sons playing the L. A. Young team, defeating them in eight innings 4 to 3. It was a bitterly fought game from start to finish. Ray Best, a new addition to the Native Sons, pitched almost flawless ball to keep the Huntington Park team in the running for the championship, striking out 14 batters. Tom Hoard, South Gate's fairhaired boy, came through in the eighth inning with a tremendous home run to win the ball game for the Native Sons.

Stephen M. White Parlor, San Pedro, entered three bowling teams in the annual ABC Mid-State Tournament July 3, 4, at Fresno. The final results were not available to the Grizzly Bear when we went to press. Team No. 1 from Stephen M. White was composed of Felix Gregorio, John Dentone, Mike Gregorio, Elmer Field and Paul Gligo. Team No. 2: Tony Ivelia, Kenny Swartz, Frank Ardaiz, Bill Brickey, Barney Halverson. Team No. 3: Joe Ivelia, Matt Soares, Dewey Brickey, "Cap" Molle, George Gligo.

Successful Basket Picnic

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, held a successful basket picnic at Cedar Ridge on Sunday, June 27. Nearly 100 Native Sons, their families and guests were present. Modesto Parlor, headed by Melvin David, president, is out this term to greatly increase its membership. Several new members were scheduled to be initiated on Wednesday evening, July 21.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 Observes 61st Birthday Anniversary

The 61st Birthday Celebration of Ramona Parlor No. 109, Los Angeles, held Wednesday evening, June 16, at the Mona Lisa Cafe, was a complete sell-out. Guests arrived early and stayed late. Great masses of colorful flowers decorated the numerous tables imparting a festive air to the large banquet hall.

Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer arrived as a special emissary for Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz who was unable to attend. Ernie Orfila, acting as emcee, read the telegram Committee Chairman Harry Frost received from His Honor, Mayor Fletcher Bowron, regretting his inability to attend due to pressing civic duties. Past Grand President Judge Walter H. Odemar and Ward McConnell delivered the concluding speeches of the dinner hour. The balance of the evening was devoted to dancing.

Family Picnic of Observatory Parlor Is Gigantic Success

With a lot of fond memories still embedded in our minds, we, the members of Observatory Parlor, certainly want it publicized that the Annual Family Picnic held at the Fortini Ranch, June 27, was more than a success.

From the time the first jalopy wheeled around the bend, until the last of the stragglers found their way out of the grounds, not a dull moment was in sight. The committee had everything well under control and expedited matters with great and punctual ease.

From the medical department, we learned that no one suffered any ill effects from the food consumption. In fact the plates were well cleaned and the left overs were few and far between. So all in all, everyone had a wonderful time and left the party late in the afternoon with nothing but praises for the committee.

We must doff our skimmers to Chili Gallichottee, the head man of the committee, and his gang of co-workers who certainly outdid themselves in putting over this year's party. This is not an easy task, but one that entails lots of work, worry, and wriggling. So to Chili and his gang, may we, the members, say, "Well done, good and faithful servants."

Past Grand Presidents Hold Annual Dinner in Sacramento

Twenty-eight Past Grand Presidents, N. D. G. W., assembled at Hotel Senator in Sacramento, on June 23, for the annual reunion dinner, with Irma Baird officiating as hostess. She chose as the theme of the occasion "Gold Is Where You Find It."

The beautifully decorated table was centered with a replica of the Marshall Monument surrounded by golden-hued daisies and flanked by masses of yellow blossoms, golden tapers, gold bricks and gold-dust scales. At each plate was a corsage of white carnations in a golden collar with gold ribbon. Place cards were autographed miniatures in pen and ink, copied from the proceedings of the various Past Grands.

"Baby" Loretta Cameron was welcomed and presented with a nursing bottle filled with orange juice.

A profitable period was spent discussing matters pertinent to the welfare of the Order.

Election resulted in the retention of the same officers for the year 1948-1949—President Emma Lou Humphrey, Vice-President Dr. Mariana Bertola and Secretary-Treasurer Bertha A. Briggs.

The happy event closed with a fitting toast by Hostess Irma Laird.

Californiana Parlor Wins Scrap Book Award

Delegates of Californiana Parlor, Los Angeles, who attended the recent Grand Parlor at Sacramento, brought home the welcome news that Californiana had won first in the Scrap Book Contest for parlors in cities of 100,000. Much credit is due Miss Magdalena Wildasin, who compiled the scrap book for the parlor. Although she was ill and confined to her home most of the year, she was able to work on it and make the book a winner.

Mrs. Earl R. Osborn opened her spacious home recently, entertaining more than 90 Californiana members and guests at a baked ham luncheon for the benefit of the Homeless Children fund. She also auctioned off a chair, upholstered with petit-point, the work of her own hands. The day's receipts totaled almost $200, a gift for the great work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters.

Mrs. R. E. Steckel was installed as president of Californiana on July 13 with colorful ceremonies reminiscent of the Days of '49. A miner's gold pan was the center of the decorations in front of the stage. Mrs. Steckel's four little grandchildren, dressed as gold nuggets, preceded the officers-elect as they marched in. They came to the front of the room and stood by the gold pan as Mrs. Sinclair E. Carpenter read the most popular song of the "Days of Gold," "The California Emigrant," which used to be sung to the tune of "Oh! Susana."

Later when Mrs. Steckel was presented at the altar for the charge to the president, the four little children in their gay costumes, formed the escort. When she spoke she stressed the need of the work of everyone for the success of the parlor.

Andreas Parlor No. 113, in tribute to our departed two hundred members of the past term. Included were eulogies for PGP Mattie Stein and the last two Charter founders of our Order, members of Ursula Parlor No. 1, Jackson,—Flora Podesta-Ferrera and Mary Ellen Fontenrose and Permanent Member Mellie Peek. So they have all passed away, these argonauts of the early days and now live only in memory.

Our compliments are extended to PGP Edna B. Briggs and the Parlors of District No. 18, for the many pleasurable moments of our Sixty-second Grand Parlor. Their hospitality, graciousness and entertainment left nothing to be desired. Final report of the Credential Committee—15 Grand Officers, 28 Past Grand Presidents, 448 Delegates, 237 registered visitors and 9 Parlors partially represented or a total of 737.

Monday evening the Deputy Grand Presidents, Presidents and Past Presidents of District 18, gave a memorable exemplification of the Ritual work, with Mary Huston, SDDGP, presiding. Sixty-seven candidates were initiated into the district Parlors.

Throughout the sessions many fine reports were given, showing the progress of the Order throughout the year. Dr. George Hammon, Director of the Bancroft Library, University of California, spoke on the "Pioneer Builders of California."

A no-host Banquet was held in the Empire room of the Hotel Senator, at which all Grand Officers and Past Grand Presidents, also State Chairmen in attendance were guests of the Committee. Entertainment "de luxe" was given by the Sacramento Convention Ensemble, an all girl orchestra, in which each participant was an artist. Long after the heat of the evening had vanished . . . the echoes of this lovely group of musicians remained.

Grand President Walter N. Bailey of Elk Grove and a group of his Grand Officers visited the Session officially on Wednesday, staying over for the Gold Centennial Grand Ball in the Veterans Memorial building. Colorful and beautiful was the Grand March—directed by Guy Foulks of Elk Grove and led by Grand President Doris Treat and Grand President

There was a paper bag on the stand beside President Louise Crawford of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, which seemed to be heavy and had a faint jingle when touched. President Louise kept the members in suspense for some time then just had to give in and announce that Birdie Plath had sent the bag, which contained $54.60, donated by the South Gate Eastern Star Chapter to the Homeless Children work of the Native Sons and Daughters. The thanks of Los Angeles Parlor, and of both Orders, goes to the South Gate Eastern Star in appreciation of their recognition to the worthwhile work.

Grand President's Acceptance Speech

By Grand President Margaret Farnsworth (Delivered at Grand Parlor, Sacramento,

Tonight seems almost like a dream, yes like one of those dreams of our early childhood, when fairy princesses and godmothers carried one away to heavenly surroundings and happiness. No one, who has lived in California all of her life and who loves her state and order as I do, could refrain from feeling deeply and humbly honored, for having been chosen to serve you and your order, Native Daughters of the Golden West, as their Grand President and leader.

I sincerely wish to thank each of you for the faith, confidence and trust you have placed in me. I assure you, that to the very best of my ability, I will do everything in my power to serve you, in the manner which you rightfully expect; to promote the growth of our order and to advance our noble projects.

Of course this can only be accomplished by having the help and co-operation of all subordinate parlors and members; "Not for self but for others," let us work together, pull together, for in full cooperation, with harmony, lies the secret of success in every undertaking. This too, was the spirit of our pioneer mothers and fathers, for without their unselfish understanding and cooperation, they could not have survived, the many hardships and problems which confronted them in the early days and gave us our birthright, the great state of California; "Golden in climate, soil and opportunities."

1948, 1949 and '50 are centennial years in our beloved state, we as Native Daughters of the Golden West, should participate in the various celebrations, to perpetuate for future generations all historical places and events. Like our ancestors, it is becoming increasingly obvious that the future of the American way of life depends upon how well, we, as citizens of this great nation, intelligently handle these days of many rumors and uncertainties. This cannot be accomplished by merely believing in it or wishing for it, the remedy is in working hard and thinking hard, also we must support, with all our might, those whose thoughts and ideals are working, with and for us. The American system will survive and expand in the world only, if it supplies more satisfactions, to more people than any other system. The world and all humanity is depending upon us for leadership, so let us dedicate our lives to work for everlasting peace.

Have you realized what loyalty to your order really means? It is a great deal more than loyalty to an organization, it reaches far down into human emotions, it is rooted and sustained by the same force that sustains our love for freedom, democracy, peace, good will and fraternalism.

Fraternalism, what a wonderful order we would have, if we, as members would only practice it, forgetting our petty whims and jealousies and practicing, sisterly love. We must make our meetings attractive, let me say however, that lodge activities must never be submerged to the point where social activities predominate, together, each has a place, and together we can build a greater fraternity.

During the coming year, I ask that we increase our activities, in retaining present members and encouraging new ones, by giving our utmost support to our homeless children project, native daughters home, veterans welfare, junior native daughters (our future citizens) and leaders, the preservation of California history and landmarks and advanced education, as sponsored by our order.

Following in the footsteps of our Grand Past President, Doris Treat, and those who have preceded her, I realize that my job is no easy task. Sister Treat has made a great contribution in spreading the spirit of native daughters throughout the state.

I, here and now, promise you to defend our system of government and to further the projects and ideals of our beloved order. Let us unfurl our flag and hold it high as a symbol of freedom to all the world and let us native daughters, be ever faithful to our trust."

As your Grand President for the coming year, working together, we will not, we cannot, we must not fail.

Vendome Parlor Proud Of Grand President

By IDA M. STOCKTON

Vendome Parlor NDGW is justly proud as it has been honored for the second time in having a Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West elected to head the organization. Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth, of San Jose was installed on the evening of June 24 in Sacramento at the State Convention.

Margaret Morgan of Vendome Parlor was the nominating delegate who placed Sister Margaret before the convention members. Thirty-four singing members of Santa Clara County chartered a bus that evening to Sacramento and acted as an escort team to the Grand President. Dressed in white and using the California Poppy in the escort work, they formed the letter "M" (for Margaret) and Mrs. Mamie-Pierce Carmichael, the first Grand President of Santa Clara County acted as Marshal in escorting Margaret to the Grand President's chair. Ray Schilling, of Observatory Parlor of Native Sons sang the installation ode in compliment to Margaret. Horton Kooser, also a member of Observatory Parlor presented the Grand President with a gift from the Native Sons. At the close of the impressive ceremonies, a reception was held in the Grand President's room at the Senator Hotel. The Native Sons of Observatory Parlor with Ward Farnsworth, husband of Margaret, and her brother, took over the serving of refreshments to the Santa Clara delegation and to the Grand Officers.

It was especially gratifying to Grand President Farnsworth that the Native Daughter Adoption work was voted to continue on, even though it will cost the members considerably more. This has been one of the Grand President's pet projects along with the Native Daughter Home. The 1949 Native Daughter convention was voted to be held in San Jose, and as Sister Margaret has the one hundred per cent cooperation of Santa Clara County, it is assured that the plans for the convention will be made most intriguing.

Native Daughter Notes

Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105, NDGW, Hollister, staged a very pleasant birthday observance of June 16, complimentary to April, May and June members.

Maxine's Marionettes was a surprise program, featuring puppets in songs, dances, piano solos and acts on the flying trapeze, as well as tributes to those observing birthdays.

Two candidates were initiated into the parlor during the business session, which was concluded by a history of the flags that have flown over California, given by Harriet Hooton.

Birthday members were seated at specially decorated refreshment tables with individual lighted cakes as plate favors.

A picnic potluck dinner was enjoyed at Bolado Park on July 7, marking the closing meeting of the parlor preceding the usual summer recess, which will terminate on September - with installation of officers.

Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190, NDGW, Oroville, held their last meeting for the summer Wednesday, July 7, at which time DDGP Ethel Edwards and an escort team from Berryessa Parlor, Willows, installed Frances Wright and her corps of officers for the coming term.

A Waffle Breakfast will be held for Long Beach Parlor No. 154 Sunday, August 15, at the home of Grand Outside Sentinel Eugenia Smith, 124 East "Q" street, Wilmington, it is announced.

Native Daughters To Take Part In Portola Festival

Native Daughters will take a prominent place in the revival of the Portola Festival in San Francisco October 2 to 25, 1948. Colorful and romantic commemoration of the past, the Portola Festival will honor the name of Don Gaspar de Portola and his historic expedition from San Diego to the shores of San Francisco Bay in October, 1769. Don Gaspar de Portola was the Governor of the Californias under the Spanish flag. On his famous trek, missed the original destination of Monterey and by a strange whim of fate traveled on to establish the settlement of Yerba Buena — dramatic beginning of the great city of San Francisco. The revival of the Portola Festival harks back not only to the historic episode that brought the first white settlers to San Francisco, but to the turbulent days following the 1906 fire when the city, with energy and courage, triumphed over disaster. In the midst of the complete reconstruction of the city, San Francisco characteristically threw wide its doors in welcome and took time out to play. In October, 1909, the first Portola Festival was held and presented to delighted visitors from all parts of the world a spectacle of pageantry, color and sheer fun that is still an inspiring memory to all who were able to see it. The Portola Festival was again presented in 1913 as a prelude to the Panama Pacific International Exposition of 1915. So historical parades and pageants, colorful days and sparkling nights will be recreated in San Francisco come October, 1948. There will be statewide participation.

On Tuesday, June 8, the Grand Officers of the Native Daughters participated in a colorful luncheon given by the Portola Festival Committee in the Rose Room of the Palace Hotel. PGP Ann Theusen is the Portola Festival

Chairman, representing the Order on the civic committee. In addition to Mrs. Theusen, the following members attended this large civic luncheon, Grand President Doris Treat, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, PGP Loretta M. Cameron, Grand Vice-President Margaret Farnsworth, Grand Trustees Jewel McSweeney, Edith Campaglia, Leslye A. Hicks, and Grand Organizer Francis Simas.

The sympathy of the Order is extended to PGP Loretta M. Cameron and her mother, Mrs. Loretta Schaertzer, upon the loss of father and husband, Mr. Charles Schaertzer on June 28, 1948. Their homecoming from Grand Parlor was saddened by Mr. Schaertzer's sudden passing. He was a member of Twin Peaks Parlor, NSGW.

New officers of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, San Francisco, were installed Monday night, July 12, in the Grizzly Bear Club Rooms, Native Son's Building. The public was invited to witness the ceremonies which were presided over by DDGP Kay Lagrave of Genevieve Parlor. New president of the parlor is Kay Davis.

La Reina Parlor, Los Angeles, stepped out to Chinatown June 30. There as a surprise guest was Orabell Schmidt, past president of La Reina and president-elect of Bonita Parlor No. 10, Redwood City. A wonderful time of reminiscing was had at the Golden Pagoda. The food was excellent with Ceceilia Valenzuela reading the tea cups of those present.

La Reina Parlor now meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays at 607 South Western Avenue. New secretary is Rosalie Metcalf, 1218 West 92nd Street, Los Angeles 44. Her phone is TW7165.

Last Charter Member of Excelsior Parlor Passes

Harry W. Jones, last charter member of Excelsior Parlor No. 31, NSGW, Jackson, was called to the Grand Parlor on High July 6. Born in Jackson, October 17, 1857, the son of Thos. W. and Eleanor Jones, he engaged in farming and freighting with his father in the seventies, later farming the Jones Ranch until he became inactive some years ago.

As a charter member of Excelsior Parlor he received his 50-year pin several years ago, having been a member of the Order since June 28, 1884.

The father of Harry W. Jones was one of the original founders of the town of Jackson, arriving there when it was still a portion of Calaveras County and known as Botilleas. The senior Jones was on the first city council of the newly incorporated city, and since that time, every male member of the Jones family has served on the Jackson council. The elder son, Wallace P. Jones, served as mayor of the city, preceding the present mayor. The younger son, Thomas L. Jones, with whom the deceased made his home, is now a member of the council.

Besides his two sons, he is survived by a granddaughter, Mrs. Ruth L. Boitano, and a great-granddaughter, Carlene Boitano, all of Jackson, and the late Thomas R. Jones of Sacramento, well known former Native Sons historian.

HOLCOMB VALLEY

abundance on the hills skirting the Santa Ana River." We're told that miners got their eggs whenever they were able to rob a mudhen's nest.

If Billy Holcomb had not shot a bear and thus discovered gold, Elias Jackson Baldwin, better known to most as "Lucky," might never have left San Francisco to live part of his colorful career in southern California. In San Francisco word reached him from a prospector he had grub-staked that there was gold in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Baldwin didn't hesitate. He came by tramp steamer. It took him three days and he docked at Santa Monica. He went by wagon to Los Angeles. The Southern Pacific Railroad was just being built. He hurried by horseback through the San Gabriel Valley to San Bernardino and up the trail to Bear Valley.

Lucky Baldwin was more interested in land than in mining. He immediately acquired 6,000 acres in Bear Valley. He pictured the rich loam soil producing orchards and gardens. He was later to raise race horses in his mountain valley paradise.

The fourteen original mining claims on Gold Mountain appeared to be low grade. Only with proper mining equipment would operations prove profitable. Under the name of the Gold Mountain Mining Company, "Lucky" Baldwin organized with a capital stock of $5,000,000, and shares were issued.

According to the "Grizzly," a newspaper printed at Big Bear Lake, a certain Bud Doble was "Lucky's" partner back in 1873 and '74. They state that Bud Doble was a government surveyor and that it was he who located the boundaries of the Baldwin properties. Be that as it may, Budd Doble was the third husband of Baldwin's daughter Clara. He was one of the great trotting horse drivers of that day. It was quite possible that Bud Doble and Budd Doble are one and the same. Biographers report that Baldwin and Doble had a falling out. This is undoubtedly true as Clara, after a few years of married life, divorced her husband. Still it is very unlikely that Baldwin and his former son-in-law settled their differences over a poker table with the Baldwin Bear Valley properties wagered on the outcome. Historians recall that E. J. Baldwin was a plunger but not a gambler. He liked his poker, yes, but only the "four bit" limit variety.

Today across the lake's pine clad north rim the forests are slowly erasing the ghost towns. Here and there a few ruins remind the visitor that here once stood the town that lost out by two votes from becoming the country seat of San Bernardino. Holcomb's cabin still remains. Traces may be found of the "Last Chance" Saloon. A few abandoned mining tools still remain. That's all the evidence that can be found that 2,000 people once called this home.

The late depression was hard on Doble Town. Twenty-five years ago the deserted buildings were intact. The rooms were completely furnished. Cooking utensils and dishes were in the kitchens as though their owners had but temporarily left the premises intending to return. Then hard times came. Visitors no longer came to look, they came to take. The dishes and furnishings went first. Next the window frames and doors were stolen. Stick by stick the boarded walls disappeared. All that a visitor recently could find in Doble Town was a lady's high button shoe shriveled by a quarter century of rains, sun and snow.

In the San Bernardino Court House the maps still record the town of Doble though the name is changed. It is called Gold Mountain now. It's listed among the Victorville and Lucerne Valley maps.

Nearby on Gold Mountain the Doble mine and stamp mill still stand. Today the ashes of the past are being stirred. They are planning to renew operations on the Baldwin property.

Who knows? The winding streets of Doble may come alive. The shacks, saloons and gambling houses may live again while the dance halls and rooming houses may spring forth from the rust and ring with ghostly dreams of Bear Valley folks may yet come true.

"There's still gold in them hills."

Big Bear Lake is celebrating those days of gold. In bang-up western frontier style the residents of this mountain town are arranging a pre-centennial party all their own. If whiskers will make the affair any more "wild or woolly" the two and three month old hirsute adornments should be enough to scare any visiting tenderfoot into walking down the middle of the town's main street, come Miners week dating from September 3rd to 12th.

Capt. Smith's Flag Pole

gomery commanding the U.S.S. "Portsmouth" raised the stars and stripes in the public square at Yerba Buena. On the same day Lieut. Joseph Warren Revere of the U. S. S. "Cyane," on orders from Commodore Sloat, raised the stars and stripes at Sonoma and took possession of it for the United States.

On July 10, 1846, Lieut. Revere sent Samuel Kelsey to Smith's ranch with an American flag for the Captain to raise over his large Bodega ranch. According to Tom Gregory's History of Sonoma County, page 93, "Lieut. Revere sent another flag out to Bodega, but Captain Stephen Smith did not need it. He had kept the ensign of his old bark and that with a small bear flag had been flying quite brotherly from the same tall redwood pole. When the patriotic old mariner received the news the little bear came down and the stars and stripes alone waved over "Smith's Ranch."

It is said that this historic flag pole was reset in 1893. During February, 1947, the pole fell and was shattered. Sebastopol Parlor, No. 143, NSGW will replace this pole with appropriate ceremonies on September 19, 1948.

The replacing of the flag pole will be to preserve the spot where the original stood, which location will be held most sacred by succeeding generations in memory of those Americans who first raised our flag there.

Historic Portola Trek Gets Underway From San Diego

Six hundred horsemen paraded through the streets of San Diego Tuesday, July 13, in memory of the beginning of the 108-day Portola trek to San Francisco. Grand President Walter N. Bailey, together with other Native Sons and Daughters, had a prominent part in the celebration, which preceded the start the following day of the trek which will arrive in San Francisco on October 17.

Thirty riders, clad in Spanish dress, will reenact the 780-mile expedition in 1769 of Don Gaspar de Portola. They will camp at various spots along the route, much as that early-day expedition did. Many California cities and counties are planning special observances as the group reaches their areas, with Native Sons and Daughters playing a leading part in the festivities, which are a part of the Centennial Celebrations.

It was 179 years ago that Portola and his party of Catalonian soldiers, Christian Indians from Mexico, muleteers and two Franciscan padres started their historic journey of exploration north from San Diego to found a presidio and Mission on the Bay of Monterey.

The route they followed later became a much travel road known as El Camino Real—"The King's Highway"—and today it is closely followed by U.S. Highway 101.

Every effort is being made to follow closely the actual historic characterization of the first trek. Costumed authentically in the blue and gold of the Catalonian, the rose brown and pink silk brocade which the officers wore, and the uniforms of the leather-jacketed soldiers, the party will follow closely the route traversed by the original Portola group.

The party will ride horseback the entire distance to San Francisco. The riders will carry their own food supplies, make camp, and eat and sleep under the stars each night.

Fort Moore Fiesta-Centennial Held At Hollywood Bowl

Romance of the ranchos and military splendor combined as the theme of Los Angeles County's first Centennial pageant Friday evening, July 2, at the Hollywood Bowl.

Commemorating the first 4th of July celebration in Los Angeles, the extravaganza portrayed the original flag raising ceremonies held at Fort Moore in 1847. The event was presented in cooperation with the State Centennials Commission.

Fort Moore, with 6 cannon, was erected in 1847 on a hill which overlooks the site of Los Angeles' civic center. Named for hero Benjamin D. Moore, Captain of the First U. S. Dragoons, who was killed in the Battle of San Pasqual, the Fort was the first military installation erected in Ciudad de Los Angeles.

During the Fort's construction, two large pine trees were hauled from the San Bernardino mountains by 40 yoke of oxen. The trees, trimmed and spliced together, became the 150-foot flag pole which was dedicated on July 4, 1847, by Stephen Foster, the first mayor of Los Angeles.

Fort Moore Hill became the center of the city's elegance and aristocracy during the 19th century. As such it was the scene of many gay fiestas, social gatherings and political events. The flagpole has stood there for many years as one of California's historical landmarks, and for more than a century the Hill has figured in Los Angeles' history.

Until 1889 Broadway was called Fort Street. By July next year the hill will have been razed to make way for the Hollywood-Santa Ana Freeway.

The pageant was directed by Adrian Awan and Charles Pressley. General arrangements were under the direction of the Los Angeles County Centennials Celebrations, Inc., of which Ward E. McConnell, Ramona No. 109, is secretary.

OUR COVER

Sailing off Newport Harbor, Orange County, reminds us that summer is almost over and school days are close upon our younger readers.

Like most California sea coast towns, Newport is rich in early California history. Before the development of our modern deep-water harbors, Newport was a port of call for coastal shipping, the vessels unloading at long piers on the ocean front.

Gradually, through the years, the Newport-Balboa area built up to become one of the most famous recreational areas of the world. With the dredging of the bay and building of jetties a few years ago, Newport Harbor, almost overnight, became the mecca of pleasure craft from far and wide. Today, over 4000 of these boats, from tiny sailboats to big sleek yachts, make this their home port.

Here, at Newport Harbor, is held the famous Tournament of Lights, a great parade of gaily lighted floats and boats upon the shining night waters.

COMMUNISTS AND THE LOS ANGELES SCHOOLS

The Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, is in accord with the Los Angeles Board of Education's recent edict to make it mandatory upon their employees to take a Loyalty Obligation.

Special commendation should be given to J. Paul Elliott, member of the Board of Education, who had the tenacity to advocate that their school employees take this Loyalty Check.

Educators have a serious responsibility, both to the children and to their parents, the latter having intrusted their youngsters into their keeping for their early instruction. The teacher that espouses foreign ideologies upon a young mind leaves that boy or girl's mind warped, not for a short duration, but for life.

On the other hand, the teacher that inculcates Loyalty and Americanism in his pupil has prepared him against those forces that would destroy our American Way of Life. It is mandatory for all members of the Native Sons and the Native Daughters of the Golden West to take the pledge of allegiance. This we do proudly; time and again we reiterate our pledge of Loyalty. Surely to ask those that are publicly employed to take this pledge is not to require too much.

Our membership, no doubt, will be enlightened in the fight against subversive groups by the following quotation from ALERT of August 9, 1948:

"Last week ALERT exposed only the highlights of the Communistic record and background of Harry Jung, Harold Orr, Dr. Sanford Goldner, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, John W. Porter, John Forrester and Abraham Olken.

"This motley crew of self-proclaimed civic leaders, who are in reality nothing but Stalinist stooges, organized a Communist front group, The Provisional Committee to Combat Discrimination in the Los Angeles District School System.

"This front group launched a smear campaign against Mrs. Nell Haas, principal of the 28th Street School, as 'anti-labor, anti-semitic and anti-Negro.'

"They were put in their place by the Board of Education, which not only had a top-drawer citizens committee investigate and disprove the Communist smear attack but also forthrightly challenged the ringleaders, Jung, Orr and Goldner to refute their record of Stalinist activity as cited from the 1948 Report of the Tenney Committee.

"Because of the sensational and unchallenged expose in ALERT, No. 37, which went beyond the facts cited in the Tenney report, but still only scratched the surface, many responsible organizations are expressing their support to the Board of Education for two badly needed activities, now contemplated by the Board:

"1) A loyalty check of L. A. Board of Education employees, as advocated by Board Member J. Paul Elliott.

"2) Establishment of a practical plan whereby parents can communicate factual complaints against Stalinist activity and teachings in the L. A. schools without fear of reprisal on their children.

"The Editors of ALERT can assert without fear of contradiction that this problem of Communist infiltration into our educational system is a serious one. Certain members of the Board of Education long have been alarmed about it. They have been keeping a close watch on the situation altho they have remained silent in the face of a consistent and insistent campaign of Communist directed smear and abuse of the Board and individual members.

"They now are ready to act to meet the challenge of the Communists and their apologists and friends. No responsible organized civic group in Los Angeles can afford to stay out of this fight . . .

"No Communist ever has contributed anything but eventual disruption and confusion to the programs of bona fide and responsible trade union and minority groups. The Communist Party enters into such programs only to advocate its vicious class struggle theory.

"If any job needed to be done to defeat Communism in America, it is to root the Reds and their influence out of our schools and colleges. This is something on which all Good Americans can agree.

"The Los Angeles Board of Education want to do that job in this great community. It realizes that the Los Angeles school system is a logical target for Communist Party disruption because of its size and influence on smaller school systems."

The American Legion was quick to support the Los Angeles Board of Education in their demand to secure a "Loyalty Check" from their employees. The Native Sons of the Golden West endorse and commend J. Paul Elliott and the Board in their attempt to rid the Los Angeles school system of disloyal persons.

It is to be hoped that other school boards throughout the State of California will take a similar stand.

Editor's Note:

Advance details of the big Admission Day Celebration and Centennial of Sacramento were given in the August issue of the Grizzly Bear. As we go to press prior to the celebration and this will probably be read during or right after the event, we have been forced to wait for the October issue, when we hope to be able to tell you about this observance which means so much to Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

California's Centennial Film In Cinecolor Is Released

Premieres of the first official Centennials motion picture, prints of which will later be available to interested groups throughout California, were staged simultaneously in Sacramento and Los Angeles on Friday, August 27.

This first documentary film on the colorful and dramatic history of California is entitled, "California's Golden Beginning." Other films depicting this phase of the state's early beginnings will be produced during the Centennial years, 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Governor and Mrs. Warren were invited as guests of honor for the presentation in Sacramento's Memorial Auditorium. Governor Goodwin J. Knight officiated at the Los Angeles premiere.

Both premieres were held under the auspices of the California State Employees Association.

This first motion picture, filmed in cinecolor, was produced by the California Centennials Commission in cooperation with the State Department of Education and the motion picture industry.

The historical documentary film depicts the events preceding and immediately following the discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill more than a century ago. Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, director of the Bancroft Library of the University of California at Berkeley, acted as technical adviser.

Although many of Hollywood's most noted feature actors appear in the film, all have waived the usual custom of crediting stars by name, thus, giving full emphasis to the official, historical import of the document.

Following the August 27th premiere prints of the picture were made available for distribution for non-commercial showing in all state and parochial schools, service clubs, historical societies and other interested organizations. Parlors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West in the eleven Southern California counties wishing to secure a print of this picture for a special showing are advised to contact the California Centennials Commission office at 1212 Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles. Parlors in the northern part of the state should make their request of the Commission's office in the Ferry Building, San Francisco.

Natives Invited to Historic Exhibit At Los Angeles County Fair

Members of Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will be interested to know that the Historical Society of Pomona Valley will maintain a spacious booth in the palace of Agriculture during the forthcoming Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona Sept. 17 through Oct. 3. Roy Fryer, member of Los Ranchos parlor of Pomona is general chairman of the committee in charge and he is preparing to hang out a welcome sign to all "natives."

According to present plans the booth will be decorated with pictures and objects of historic interest. Such a booth has been maintained by the society in the past and has been a popular reunion spot for the members of the old time families. Again it will be a comfortable place to drop in and rest for a little. It will also serve as an information center and a place to meet friends and relatives.

While Roy Fryer is chairman of the committee in charge, the society's president, Mrs. Alphonse Fages, former editor of the Grizzly Bear, has a prominent part in the preparations. The fair is being presented this year as a part of the state-wide centennial observance and has chosen as its theme "A Century of Progress." This is one of the reasons why the historical society is taking a particularly active part.

San Francisco Plans For Portola Festival

SAN FRANCISCO is inviting the nation to join it in what promises to be that city's biggest celebration, the Portola Festival and Pageant, a 24-day continuous round of gay festivities, October 2 to October 25. Pageantry, carnival, frolic and high jinks in general will prevail throughout the city, day and night, with a wide variety of entertainment, in fact just about every form of amusement conceivable.

Highlights will include two of the most spectacular parades ever attempted in the city by the Golden Gate. One, on the afternoon of October 17, will be more than three miles in length and will feature many elaborate and unique floats and famous bands as well as marching units of fraternal orders and the United States armed forces. The second parade, a night affair on October 23, will be a dazzling electrical spectacle in which innovations in brilliant illumination will be introduced, according to the official announcement.

San Francisco's far-famed Chinatown alone will have 30 units in these processions, including a new 60-foot silver dragon, imported direct from China for the occasion. Also will be featured the well-known Cathay All-Chinese Band.

By way of stressing the endless variety of amusement events, the management of this city-backed Portola Festival and Pageant announces the world premiere of a new pageant entitled "The Shining Trail," in which is to be unfolded dramatically the story of Don Gaspar de Portola's discovery of San Francisco Bay in 1769 and which is the occasion for this celebration. There also will be especially elaborate presentations of grand opera such as "Carmen," and "Barber of Seville." Still another musical feature will be concerts by a chorus of 1,000 voices.

There will be street dancing, strolling troubadors and a grand masquerade ball in Civic Auditorium. Dozens of school bands will contest for the honor of being judged the best one and there will be no end of carnival.

For sports-lovers there will be several notable championship events, including a $15,- 000 open golf tournament, a tennis match in which the nation's foremost champions will compete, and a swimming and diving contest in which Champion Ann Curtis will defend her title, this to take place in the world's largest outdoor pool, situated at the famous Fleishhacker Zoo. In addition there will be a football game between Oklahoma A. & M. and University of San Francisco and a polo match for an international championship.

Still another featured attraction will be a mammoth Regatta with thrilling races by ultra-modern speed boats as well as by trim sailing vessels. Another event in the San Francisco Bay will be a special exhibition by fighting ships and war-planes of the United States Navy.

And the concluding attraction, one of the biggest, will be the Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horseshow and Rodeo, perhaps the most outstanding event of its kind in the country.

According to an announcement by San Francisco's Mayor Elmer E. Robinson, the Portola Festival and Pageant will provide "fun for everyone" and he extends an invitation to people, far and near, to join in the festivities in a spirit of "letting one's hair down" and really go all out to get real joy of the rounds upon rounds of entertainment events.

Change Schedule

Due to other commitments at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, will not hold a dinner meeting in September, but will meet in its new meeting hall, 617 West Venice Blvd., Thursday evening, Sept. 16.

Beginning in October the parlor will hold a dinner on the first Thursday of each month at the Los Angeles Athletic Club and meet at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 617 West Venice, on the third Thursday.

This change of policy is reported to have brought about an increased attendance at the parlor, with a goodly number of the members and visiting brothers attending the first dinner meeting at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, August 19.

Descendant of Captain Ortega Weds at Santa Barbara Mission

By EMMETT P. JOY,
Grand Historian, NSGW

Santa Barbara Mission established in December, 1786, is where many forebears of early Spanish families worshipped and were married. The recent wedding of Mary Dolores Ortega at the Mission brings to mind the old days in early California where many of the bride's ancestors were united in marriage.

Recently Mary Dolores Ortega became the bride of Gerald Robinson, both of San Francisco, in the Mission where Reverend Father Eric O'Brien, O. F. M., member of Santa Barbara Parlor 116 NSGW officiated in the presence of relatives and friends. The bride was escorted up the isle of the historic Santa Barbara Mission by her father Alfred A. Ortega. The wedding took place on the 27th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Ortega of San Francisco. Mr. Ortega is a member of California Parlor No. 1 NSGW. The bride through her father is a direct descendant of Captain Jose Francisco Ortega. Captain Ortega accompanied the land expedition northward in 1769 under Don Gaspar de Portola and with Father Junipera Serra to San Diego. Then he went on with the first expedition under Potorla in search for the port of Monterey. It was on this journey that he distinguished himself as being the first to discover San Francisco Bay.

In 1781 Ortega founded Santa Barbara Presidio where he planned the buildings, and fortifications and served as commandant. He was at one time commandante of the presidio of San Diego and Monterey.

The reception was held at the El Paseo. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ortega and Mrs. Gerald Robinson, mother of the bridegroom, attended. Among the Santa Barbara relatives of the bride included at the reception were Mrs. Frank L. Birabent, who is a charter member and past president of Reina Del Mar, Parlor No. 126 NDGW in Santa Barbara. Also present were Mrs. Andrew Ortega and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phelan. Mrs. Phelan is the daughter of Mrs. Birabent and is also a member of Reina Del Mar, Parlor No. 126 NDGW. At present she is the organist of the parlor.

Plaque Dedicated At Springfield By Natives

Two celebrations dealing with the State Centennials took place Saturday, July 24, and Sunday, July 25. Murphys Wingdam celebration was held on both Saturday and Sunday. The celebration at the old mining town of Springfield was marked by the dedication of a tablet on Sunday, July 26. The tablet bears the following inscription:

Mark Twain Bret Harte Trail
Springfield

Springfield received name from abundant springs gushing from limestone boulders. Town, with its stores, shops and hotel, built around plaza. Once boasted 2000 inhabitants. Believed founded by Donna Josefa Valmesada, Mexican woman of means with reputation for aiding Americans in war with Mexico. During heyday, 150 miners' carts could be seen on road, hauling gold-bearing dirt to Springfield springs for washing.

Tablet placed by Historic Landmarks Committee and Columbia Parlor No. 258, Native Sons of the Golden West, July 25, 1948.

Master of Ceremonies at Springfield was R. W. Muller, Native Son and Centennial Commission Tuolumne County Chairman, who introduced the speakers. Grand President Walter N. Bailey represented the Native Sons, and Miss Doris Treat, Past Grand President of the Native Daughters, were among the speakers. Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, Chairman of the California Centennial Commission, was also on the program. Other grand officers present were Grand Trustee Del H. Gilstrap of Fresno, Grand Marshal Wesley Strong of Stockton, and Walter Crow, Supervising Deputy of Modesto Parlor. John Nash, a member of Columbia Parlor, 94 years of age, is standing in front of the monument with the cane and light pants. He is probably the oldest Native Son in the State of California.

At Murphys the opening ceremonies took place on the historic balcony of the old Sperry hostelry, now known as Murphys Hotel, which ceremonies were combined with the placing of the tablet by the Native Sons and Native Daughters. Among the speakers were Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt, distinguished Californian, Hon. Joseph M. Mayo, State Senator from Angels Camp, Grand President Bailey, and Past Grand President of the Native Daughters Doris Treat, of San Andreas. There was a colorful parade Sunday morning. One of the outstanding features was the largest bear flag in the state carried by members of the order.

In the afternoon a historical pageant entitled "The Days of Gold at Murphys Digging" was an outstanding event, with local talent. Assistance was given by the Drama Department of the College of the Pacific.

The Third Annual Native Sons of the Golden West Bowling Tournament will be held in Sacramento starting at 6 o'clock on the evening of September 8 and the afternoon of September 9 starting at 2 o'clock, it is announced by Ernest W. Perry of Castro Parlor, chairman of the bowling committee.

There will be team events, doubles and singles. Prizes will be trophies and cash for each event, also for the all events. Bowling fees will be $2.50 per man per event. You can bowl as often as you like. Any Native Son interested may send his entry in to Dr. Donald Webb, Elk Grove.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

The past month has been spent in the organization of the various districts throughout the state and the attendance of several Centennials in the Mother Lode where the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West had the pleasure and honor of placing plaques to commemorate those sturdy pioneers who meant so much in the building of this great state of California.

It was my pleasure to attend the opening ceremonies in San Diego on July 13, 14, for the start of the Portola Trek. This Trek is sponsored by the California Mission Trails Association with the cooperation of the California Centennials Commission and the counties from San Diego to San Francisco. There is much that we can do as Native Sons and Native Daughters in helping to make this Trek a success. Portola's expedition may be regarded as the colorful and exciting backdrop for other historical commemorations being planned throughout the State. The Trek will end in San Francisco on Sunday morning, October 17. It is my earnest hope that the various parlors along the route will participate.

I cannot find words to express the enthusiasm that I found in the organizational meetings from San Diego to Sacramento. In District No. 3 the deputies are planning on a new parlor in Beverly Hills to be instituted November 18. In addition to this new parlors are in the making at Woodland, Paradise, Orland, Gridley and Oakdale.

I was more than gratified to see the effect that our Centennials have had on the parlors in the Mother Lode. My prediction at Grand Parlor is most surely coming true.

On July 24 it was my pleasure to dedicate the old Sperry Perry Hotel at Murphys during the Murphy Wingdam Centennial and to give the dedicatory address at Springfield where Columbia Parlor No. 258, Native Sons and Golden Era Parlor No. 99, Native Daughters, erected a monument to the memory of those pioneers who built the town of Springfield, now a ghost town.

On August 8 I was present at the Jamestown Centennial. Although the Native Sons do not have a parlor there, the Native Daughters are very strong in Jamestown and played an important part in this Centennial. All parlors of the Native Sons in Tuolumne County participated.

At this writing Excelsior Parlor, Jackson, is planning on marking that portion of the old Kit Carson Trail which has been cut off by Highway 88. At the present time it is nothing more than a trail, but it is their hope to make it a recreational trail for those lovers of horseback riding and to make important spots by suitable markers.

I wish to announce the following changes of Deputies: Shirley Meyers, Arrowhead Parlor, No. 110, San Bernardino, to Paradise Parlor No. 282, Huntington Beach and Los Ranchos Parlor No. 283, Pomona; E. R. Machander, Santa Ana Parlor, to Arrowhead Parlor; Banning W. Garrett, San Luis Obispo Parlor No. 290, to Cambria Parlor No. 152, replacing C. Wesley Hatch. Wesley Freeman of Glendale Parlor No. 264, has been appointed to the Juvenile Welfare Committee. George H. Hammill of Quartz Parlor No. 58, replaces John M. Johnston of Long Beach No. 278, on the Manual Committee.

Beautiful Joint Installation Service Held at San Bernardino

New officers of Lugonia Parlor No. 241, Native Daughters, and Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, Native Sons of the Golden West, were installed in beautiful outdoor ceremonies, held jointly on the evening of July 14, 1948, at the San Bernardino Valley College Greek Theatre in San Bernardino. Mrs. Rena Churchill, Supervising District Deputy Grand President, opened the ceremony and introduced the Acting Grand Marshals, Leon Gregory of Arrowhead Parlor, and Mary Kraemer of Grace Parlor at Fullerton.

The officers-elect made their entrance in striking effect, marching down the steps on each side of the amphitheatre forming a semi-circle before the stage. The Native Daughters were all in white formals with red gladioli corsages, and the Native Sons in dark suits with white boutonnieres.

Among the special guests were: Walter N. Bailey of Wilton, Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Mrs. Bertha Heap of San Bernardino, Grand Organist of the Native Daughters, Eugenia Smith of Long Beach, Grand Outside Sentinel of the Native Daughters, and Judge Walter H. Odemar of Los Angeles, Junior Past Grand President of the Native Sons.

The Installation Ode was sung by Mrs. Lois Aldridge Knuckey, Charter President of Lugonia Parlor, with the accompaniment played by Mary Benson. Paulene Johnson, Deputy Grand President conducted the ceremonies for the Daughters, and David W. Stuart, Grand Trustee of the Native Sons installed the Arrowhead officers.

Mrs. Donald M. Cochran, (May) was installed as president of Lugonia Parlor, and Dwight Williams was installed as president of the Native Sons, Arrowhead Parlor. Others installed were: Lugonia Parlor, Sylvia Gregory, Past President; Ivy Harmon, first vice-president; Geneva Switzer, second vice-president; Jean Ann Stewart, third vice-president; Virginia Bliss, marshal; Ruby Meadows, inside sentinel; Marjorie Van Horn, outside sentinel; Aileen Noonan, financial secretary; May Carter, treasurer; Bertha Heap, organist; Joanne Callahan, recording secretary; Eva Giloy, Maxine Risberg and Iris Du San, trustees; and the officers for Arrowhead Parlor were: Sr. Past President, Mark Watterson; Shirley Myers, Jr. past president; Sherman Thomas, first vice-president; Jesse V. Kerr, second vice-president; Lloyd E. Burcham, third vice-president; R. W. Brazelton, recording secretary; Robert O. Ward, financial secretary; Fred A. Ward, treasurer; Ed Heil, Jr., marshal; Roy B. Finkle, Jack D. McCoy and Avery Anderson, trustees; Burton Meyers, inside sentinel; and Carl L. Passmore, outside sentinel.

Mrs. Sylvia Gregory was presented with a lei of pink gladioli as a token of appreciation for her year of service, and Mark Watterson was presented with a insignie ring. Dwight Williams presented Mrs. Cochran a spray of gorgeous red roses as a gift from Arrowhead Parlor. Her orchid corsage was a gift from her husband and daughter.

Walter N. Bailey, Grand President of the Native Sons, made the address of the evening, discussing the Portola Trip along the Mission Trail, sponsored by the California Mission Trail Association.

Mrs. Cochran has been in a Native California family because her father, Thomas J. Coats is the oldest living life member of Redwood Parlor 66, Redwood City, and six brothers belong to the Order of Native Sons, also a husband, Donald M. Cochran who has been a president of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110.

Accordian selections were given by Eligio Zanone, and refreshments were served by the Junior Native Daughters of San Bernardino.

Stan Norwalk was installed as president of South Gate Parlor at public installation ceremonies conducted July 8 by District Deputy Art Hulse of Huntington Park Parlor. The new officers have taken over with real enthusiasm to make this parlor one of the most active in the state.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 To Fight Subversive Activities

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, NDGW, this year has placed high priorities on Americanism, legislation and Adoption Agency support, Mrs. Milo (Genevieve) McGinley, newly installed president, announced.

"Worldwide uncertainty and enemies within our midst," she said, "have prompted our 250 members to pledge action and support for civic moves against subversive influences.

"Because the Native Daughters of the Golden West is a patriotic organization we are alert always to patriotic duties. Never has it been more important than now that steps be taken for preservation of our form of constitutional government. We will keep a watchful eye on what is taught in public schools, on what is spoken in public and private places.

"Whenever subversive activities are detected, our members will report details to the Americanism committee and proper procedures will be taken."

Mrs. McGinley stated that with Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer as legislative chairman, the parlor will pay much heed to what transpires in Sacramento and Washington, D. C.

"We will form our opinions," she said, "on bills pertaining to Americanism, women's rights, care of children, historical matters and several other subjects. Once a stand is taken, we not only will pass resolutions, but will follow through with members of Congress and the legislature, to see that our views are made known and understood."

As the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency urgently needs support, Mrs. McGinley said the parlor will make a strong effort to raise a larger sum than last year, when it contributed $1600. This year, she said, it hopes to exceed $2000.

Mrs. McGinley said other parlor projects will be continued with much attention given to centennial observances. At least one marker will be placed. Several historic sites are being considered, among them an overnight camp of the Gaspar de Portola trek.

Besides Mrs. McGinley, new officers of Los Angeles Parlor are: Mesdames Alvin Setterberg, Jack Stratton and Lewis Meek, first, second and third vice-presidents, respectively; Mrs. Donald Searcy, marshal; Miss Mary Dougherty and Mrs. John Hoffman, sentinels; Mrs. Oliver Frinjer, financial secretary; Mrs. Henry Mayer, treasurer; Mrs. Alford Leroy Foster, recording secretary; Mesdames Emma Rose, Oswald C. Owen and Jacqueline Wilson, trustees; Mrs. Roger C. Campbell, organist and Mrs. Kerrins J. Crawford, past president.

On July 4 Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW Fullerton, participated in the parade at Huntington Beach, with Matilda Enfield, Jeanne Barks and Agnes Pelous, dressed in '49er costumes, riding in an ancient automobile owned and driven by Judge Raymond Thompson.

DGP Mildred Meyer and her corps of officers from Lugonia Parlor, San Bernardino installed the new officers of Grace Parlor at an open installation July 15. Jeanne Barks of Buena Park was installed as president. Mary Kraemer is outgoing president.

Placerville Parlors Hold Joint Installation

Officers of Marguerite Parlor No. 12 NDGW and Placerville Parlor No. 9, NSGW were installed jointly in a Hawaiian setting July 13 at the Masonic Hall in Placerville. The incoming presidents, Geraldine Hamilton and John Kitchen, were presented with carnation leis by SD. D. G. P. Ann Boyer, while Alice Hill sang "You're the Only Stars in Our Blue Heaven." "Aloha," also by Mrs. Hill, was dedicated to the retiring presidents.

Installing officers were Deputy Grand Presidents Maybelle Timm and Roy Boom, assisted by Nora Gray as Chairman, Henrietta Hume and Victor Leonardi as Past Grand Presidents; Grave Valley and Lester McKenzie as Marshals and Sibyl Crocker, organist.

Mrs. Hamilton is a third generation descendant of El Dorado County pioneers. Her grandfather, Calvin H. Hawley, was a Wells Fargo man and stagecoach driver at Strawberry in the early fifties. Mrs. Hamilton treasures his gold-headed cane with a dagger carved on it, which he always carried while in Placerville, and a pair of silver shoe buckles with a stage coach on them, awarded to him for service.

Following the installation ceremonies members and guests enjoyed modern and oldtime dancing.

Admission Day Brings Memories To Keith Parlor Members

By ALICE BARICHIEVICH

The approach of the Admission Day celebration to be soon held in Sacramento is regarded not only with great anticipation, but also with a feeling of nostalgia by members of Keith Parlor No. 137 Native Daughters of the Golden West, San Francisco. This memorable occasion will mean the forming of many new friendships, and the renewal of old ones, especially among those members who have long been associated with the Order, and who have had the honor of knowing beloved Eliza Douglas Keith after whom Keith Parlor was named.

Eliza Douglas Keith was born in San Francisco the latter part of the nineteenth century, and was a representative of honored pioneer families of California. She was the daughter of William Henry and Sarah Ann Keith. Her father who was born in the East became a California pioneer in 1851, and was a leader in San Francisco business, and was also well known in civic circles. Eliza's mother was reared in California, and her father was also interested in civic affairs. Miss Keith was a graduate of our own Girls High School, and in the succeeding years she worked diligently to advance herself along cultural avenues. She had to her credit a record of splendid achievement in connection with educational work in various phases, and had great literary talent, with a reputation as a fine newspaper correspondent, and was also very active in civic affairs in San Francisco and the State of California. She was in succession a public school teacher, and the principal of the Starr King School and the Sherman School. In connection with her work in the public schools in her native city, Miss Keith found opportunities to give expression to her fervid patriotism and her loyalty to the land of her birth. She introduced in the San Francisco schools the daily salute to the national flag.

Eliza Keith was most outstanding in the leadership of that splendid organization of California women, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and had the distinction of serving as its Grand President from 1902 to 1903. It was on January 29, 1903 that Keith Parlor No. 137 was instituted, and is to this day a tribute to this wonderful woman who represented all that is symbolic of true Americanism.

Santa Ana Holds Beautiful Installation Service

Santa Ana Parlor No. 235, NDGW, installed officers August 2, 1948 in the Ebell Club amidst a pastel floral setting. Louise Cash, DGP from San Gabriel Valley Parlor, was the installing officer and was assisted by members of her parlor.

Ivo Richardson, Jr. Past President, was chairman. The candlelighters preceding the ceremonies were Winifred Sowards and Bertha Rutledge. They also escorted the American Flag. Grand officers present were: Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Marshal; Eugenia Smith, Grand Outside Sentinel; and Bertha Heap, Grand Organist. Members welcomed the new Deputy Grand President Tennie Padilla from Conchita Parlor and the new SDDGP Mae Lemke from Grace Parlor No. 242.

Among the 200 guests were representatives from many parlors and other organizations.

Following the ceremonies delightful refreshments were enjoyed by all.

President Olive Hadley set a goal of 150 for Santa Ana parlor and expressed a wish for continued fraternal love.

Committee chairmen in charge of arrangements for the installation were as follows: Ava Ridgeway, refreshments; Ivo Richardson, corsages; Irene Arborn, decorations.

CALIFORNIA BOOKS

Our readers will remember the interesting story in the July issue on Murphys by Coke Wood. Just off the press is an interesting little book "Murphys, Queen of the Sierra," by Richard Coke Wood, that we think that you would enjoy.

It is a history of Murphys, Calaveras County, as the title implies and was published by the Calaveras Californian, Angels Camp. Bound in an attractive heavy gold paper, the book contains 110 pages with 21 illustrations of early-day Calaveras County.

The author tells about John Murphy, who is said to have taken $1,500,000 in gold from Murphys Flat the fall and winter of 1848. The early mining laws of that region are dealt with as well as the water development. Fire, the terror of the mining camps, practically destroyed Murphys three times—in 1859, 1874, 1893, and a good account of the fire of 1859 is given.

Crime and the miner's justice is an interesting chapter, with many famous characters of early California riding across the pages.

History of the lumber industry and the big trees in Calaveras County is given, as well as something about the various organizations that have played a part in the story of Murphys.

Space does not permit us to give more than a brief resume of "Murphys, Queen of the Sierra," but we enjoyed it very much and feel that it is a "must" for every student of California history. Seldom has so much of interest been put down in a few pages.

The author has been painstaking in his research and at the close gives his source material.

Richard Coke Wood is a graduate of the College of the Pacific. He has taught history at the high school at Bishop and at Reedley Junior College. The past several years, he and his wife have taught at Murphys. During the summer months he has been at the University of Southern California working towards his Ph.D in "History of the West."

He writes that he intends to do his doctoral dissertation on the history of Calaveras County, at least on that region.

He says: "Calaveras County was one of the leading gold and copper producing counties of California and yet it is one of the few counties which has no written history. I hope that I will be able to publish the dissertation in time for the 1950 celebrations.

Sequoia Native Daughters Begin Active Program

Carrying out the Centennial theme, Sequoia Parlor No. 272, NDGW, Berkeley, held its public installation, July 22nd with District Deputy Grand President, Helen O'Connell, in charge. Gilded pick axes, shovels, rocks and miniature covered wagons and old oil lanterns used in 1849, were the predominated features of decorations. All officers wore yellow pompom dahlias. Mrs. Eleanore Garrison, the new president carried yellow carnations and wore an orchid corsage given to her by her family. During the evening, several songs of the Gold Rush days were sung and a dance program was given. Refreshments were served from appropriately decorated tables. Vera Giordano was the general chairman. The installing officer was Louise McDougal of Bahia Vista Parlor 167.

September 23, the parlor will entertain with a whist party to be followed by refreshments.

The Green Patrol Drill Team will take an active part in the Admission Day program in Sacramento and several members of the Parlor are planning to attend.

Native Daughters Against Reapportionment

For the general welfare of California as a whole, many members of NDGW are campaigning in the respective districts to defeat Senate Reapportionment, Proposition 13 on the Nov. 2 general election ballot.

In performing this work, they are voicing the theme of a resolution, proposed by Miss Grace S. Stoermer, legislative chairman, and adopted unanimously at the Grand Parlor, NDGW, recently held in Sacramento.

The resolution in part follows:

WHEREAS: Political extremists have placed on the ballot for November 2, 1948, an amendment to the State Constitution which virtually disfranchises 54 California Counties and would give the majority of Senatorial voting power to four heavily populated counties, and

WHEREAS: The "federal plan" now practiced in California grants a preponderance of representation in the Assembly to large population centers and insures a voice in government to the other 96 per cent of our State's area by according one senator to each of the established senatorial districts, and

WHEREAS: Our Senate as it now is organized repeatedly has been a bulwark against radical and selfishly aggressive legislative proposals, and

WHEREAS: California's economy cannot be maintained if 54 counties are sacrificed for the aggrandizement of four others, particularly when the effect would expose our Senate's voting power to the dominative influence of big-city pressure groups and bosses for special interests,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the Grand Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, hereby goes on record as opposing Senatorial Reapportionment as it has been proposed, in order that all parts of our State may continue to have a fair share in law making, and for the general welfare of California as a whole.

Vallejo Honors New United States Citizens

Planning Entry In Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade

With the appointment by Grand President Walter N. Bailey of a Grand Parlor Tournament of Roses Committee headed by James Ritchie, Pasadena Parlor, chairman; Russell B. Seymour, Ramona Parlor, secretary and Dr. John A. Schwamm, Ramona Parlor, treasurer, efforts are being made to raise sufficient funds from individual Native Sons, Native Daughters and friends to enter a float equal to the prize winning float at Pasadena last New Year's Day.

"It is understood," according to Russell B. Seymour, secretary, "that whatever contributions are made will be returned to the donors if sufficient funds should not be obtained. Nothing heretofore done by or for the Native Sons and Daughters has ever given such publicity as the 1948 float. Even bigger and better results are expected next year with the increased use of radio and television broadcasts throughout the United States.

"In case you should not receive an individual letter from the Committee, your contribution may be made to the Committee in care of Dr. John A. Schwamm, Treasurer, 649 South Olive Street, Los Angeles. The entry has already been made with the Tournament of Roses Association and the contract for the float must be made before September 15.

"It is hoped that substantial support will be had from all parts of California so as to assure the Native Sons and Daughters of a permanent representation in the world-renowned New Year's event."

NDGW STAND ON SENATE REAPPORTIONMENT

The stand taken by the Grand Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, in Senate Reapportionment reflects two precepts of this statewide organization—Americanism and love of California.

At Sacramento last June, the Grand Parlor adopted a resolution submitted by the State Legislative Committee, of which Grace S. Stoermer is chairman, flatly opposing this measure which will be Proposition No. 13 on the Nov. 2 general election ballot.

Americanism was reflected in the resolution where it pointed out that the "Federal Plan" of electing senators and assemblymen, now in practice here, insures a voice in government to all parts of the State.

Love of California was shown by the resolution with the words, "Our Senate as it now is organized repeatedly has been a bulwark against radical and selfishly aggressive legislative proposals." The document's concluding words stated that the urge for defeat of Reapportionment, in part, was submitted "for the general welfare of California as a whole."

In stressing the "Federal Plan," the resolution pointed out that the California legislature, through election of assemblymen on a basis of population and senators on a basis of geographic districts, is provided with the same checks and balance which give good government to the United States.

By this method assemblymen tend to study legislative proposals for the effect the bills would have on their own districts. Senators more frequently analyze a measure from the standpoint of what it would mean to the welfare of the State as a whole.

Thus balance is given to our legislature. Each house serves as a check on the other. These balances and checks are as essential in law making as the checks exercised by the executive, legislative and judicial departments—one upon another.

Further, the checks are taken from fundamentals of American government, developed by our Nation's founding fathers for the election of representatives and senators to the National Congress.

With further thought for the welfare of the State as a whole, the resolution said the proposed constitutional amendment "would disfranchise 54 California Counties and would give the majority of senatorial voting power to four heavily populated counties."

If this should come to pass, the legislative power of our State would be vested in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego and Alameda Counties.

Under the present system, these four highly industrialized counties have 49 of the 80 assemblymen—a majority of 49 to 31. They are in a position to control the lower house.

Reapportionment would give these same four counties 21 of the 40 senators—a majority of 21 to 19. The other 56 counties, which occupy 96 per cent of the State's land-area would be deprived of an effective vote in making the laws under which they live.

As the Grand Parlor resolution further points out, "California's economy cannot be maintained if 54 counties are sacrificed for the aggrandizement of four others, particularly when the effect would expose our Senate's voting power to the dominative influence of big-city pressure groups and bosses for special interests."

These 54 counties produce the State's agricultural, horticultural, mineral and timber wealth. They are the ones in which many of the State's water sources are located.

To deny these industries and sources of water supply their rightful share of representation would be to invite economic problems for these important adjuncts. California is a vast empire in itself. It consists of numerous diversified interests. It is both metropolitan and rural.

All of these divisions in the State's economy must have representation if they are to continue to exist. Let one of these vital productive industries experience economic disaster, and the effect would be imposed upon the general economy of the entire commonwealth.

Particularly important is the resolution's reference to "big-city pressure groups and bosses for special interests." California experienced an era of bossism around the turn of the century and does not want another infliction of the kind.

It is a notorious fact that self-interested politics thrive in metropolitan centers. Office holders in the larger communities often have it dinned into their ears that they were elected through the efforts of pressurists, who follow their claim with a demand for action that suits only themselves, and often at the expense of the majority.

If 21 senators were chosen from the four big counties, they would be exposed to this type of domination. They would be told at times to vote the line of the political gang which makes the most noise and exerts the greatest pressure.

Political extremists, radicals, expounders of isms and other left-wingers would have their opportunity to dominate the legislature. Our State would be wide-open to the type of radicalism, which now is trying to make-over our American form of government.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West is typically representative of California as a whole. In publishing its findings on Senate Reapportionment, the Grand Parlor has demonstrated precepts of Americanism and love of State.

Every sound-thinking Californian should treat Senate Reapportionment, Proposition No. 13 as one of the most important issues on the ballot. To drive another restraining peg against the inroads of radicalism, all should vote NO on this dangerous measure and get their friends and relatives to do the same. Defeat of Proposition No. 13 is imperative for the general welfare of California.

To quote Governor Earl Warren: "I have always believed the rural counties are of much more significance in the life of our State than the population of those counties would represent. And I also believe the principle of balance representation in the two houses of the legislature is in keeping with the Federal system of representation."

15,000 in Big Parade

By JOHN BYERS
(Sacramento Union)

Sacramento's most massive parade Admission Day marked the capital city's salute to her 100th anniversary and California's 98th birthday.

Veteran policemen, who described the Admission Day parade as orderly and well-organized, said the three-hour event outdid the 1932 National VFW Encampment in size and impressiveness.

Governor Warren and the oldest Native Daughter, Mrs. Mollie Lockhart, 94, were accorded the honor places in the line of march. Leonard Kidder, 94, oldest Native Son, was unable to attend because of illness. Both Mrs. Lockhart and Kidder are Native Sacramentans. She lives at the County Home and he lives at 1620 Capitol Avenue.

There were 10 bands, 14 drill teams, and 17 drum and bugle corps, in addition to the floats, marching units, decorated cars, and mounted horsemen.

Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, chief components of the Admission Day parade, got a taste of what their forebears endured when a merciless sun scorched an estimated 50,000 spectators.

Although most of the 15,000 paraders were on foot as well as being exposed to the heat, there were few—if any—gaps in the ranks of the approximate 180 units that composed the parade. Paraders ranged from tiny tots to grandparents.

Gold, the magic word that 100 years ago attracted attention of the entire world to California, was the dominant color of paraders. And the State Centennial Commission's $10,000 float, all gold colored and depicting the miners, covered wagons and other historical events and persons, headed the parade.

There was plenty of "modern," however, in the parade to contrast with the pioneer spirit. Crack San Francisco police and fire units—plus a car loaded with family belongings and labeled "100 Years too Late"—gave an up-to-date atmosphere.

In addition to the parading by units of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, commercial enterprises and fraternal, civic, and other groups also composed the five-mile long line of march.

Dignitaries, headed by Governor Warren, led the parade and then were seated in the reviewing stand in Capitol Park, facing I. Street.

Other officials included City Manager Cavanaugh and several councilmen. County Executive Deterding and Supervisor Board Chairman Garlick, State Controller Kuchel and State Finance Director Dean, and the Grand Presidents of the Native Sons and Daughters organizations, Walter N. Bailey of Wilton and Margaret Farnsworth of San Jose.

Parade awards were made to:

Story Of Sutter Is Reenacted In Pageant

By EUGENE HILL
(Sacramento Bee)

John Augustus Sutter and his lusty contemporaries relived their triumphs and tragedies in Sacramento Admission Day afternoon. The saga of the diminutive wouldbe empire builder was traced with color and feeling by a cast of more than 150 persons who presented the pageant. A City Is Born, in the shadow of the walls of historic Sutter's Fort.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 persons, spread out over the lawns and blocked off I Street, applauded with vigor and enthusiasm.

The presentation was part of the two day celebration of Admission Day, marking the ninety eighth year of California's statehood, and the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Sacramento. It was just 100 years ago that streets were laid out and the city became an entity.

The pageant was sponsored by the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. The play was written by Justus E. Wyman of 2608 Kit Carson Street and directed by Myron Hamm, manager-director of the Sacramento Civic Repertory Theater.

The pageant opens, as the narrator put it, "on the day in August, 1839 when a man with a dream in his heart came to the end of his odyssey and said: It is here that we shall build."

Sutter, realistically portrayed by Don Tresca, leads his weary little band of footsore pioneers to the center of the makeshift stage.

Soon comes an Indian attack. The redskins are beaten off, and not long afterward the little Swiss "substituted beans and beads for bullets." Peace with the Indians was established and they are seen in a tribal dance.

As the work on the fort progresses Sutter's troubles, which eventually drove him to a pool and lonely end, begin.

There is trouble between the men and the traders who "were the exploiters, while Sutter was the explorer."

Then is depicted the historic moment when James Marshall rushes in from Sutter's mill a Coloma, shouting "Gold, gold!"

But the gold for which men always have lusted was the downfall of Sutter, already hard pressed by the Russians to whom he had mortgaged the fort which was his life and his hope. The golden bubble burst.

His lands were overrun by gold seekers, his workers deserted him to go prospecting and his creditors pressed him.

The pioneer's son, John Augustus Sutter, Jr., arrives and is greeted by his father with the simple reference to their old home in Switzerland.

"This is New Helvetia."

Eventually the elder Sutter turns his lands over to his son to avoid confiscation by the Russians and retires to his farm, a broken man. The son, addressing a crowd of miners, businessmen, workers and saloon girls, pronounce the words that resulted in the birth of Sacramento:

"Here we shall build our city."

Throughout the play the Sacramento Choral Society, directed by Fred Brugge, sings the ancient songs taught to the Indians centuries ago by the first missionaries. Some of the music in its original form dates back to the sixth century.

The many famous early day characters are ably played. Louis Torres is the Indian chief, Robert Varney is Captain Vioget, Sutter's close friend, and Marne Bass plays James Marshall.

John Sutter, Jr., is portrayed by Kenneth Byers, Secundino Reyes is General Vallejo, and Glenn Young is Sam Brannan, the merchant. Tom Rosqui plays Peter Burnett, California's first governor and Sutter's attorney, Warren Rathbun is John McDougall and Pickett, the philosophical prospector, is played by James Keller, Priest and Lee, the early day merchants, are enacted by Arnold Clark and Richard Mier, Count Rotscheff, the Russian emissary, is played by Arthur Hayton.

Others in the cast include Jack Carpenter, Donald Barbeau, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peltier, Curt Grolla and Irving Blake.

The Mexican Artistic Circle members, under the direction of Jess Morales, took part. Local folk dance groups sent dancers who took time out from their exhibition at the State Fair to perform at the pageant. The verse choir was led by Verna Smith.

Ed Rappolo was the narrator. Musical accompaniment was by Emil Martin and Charles Baillie. Richard Castellone and Frances Pendleton handled production and guns which are actual relics of the early days were furnished by the Landis brothers of Orangevale.

Prior to the pageant, Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the state centennials commission, unveiled in the fort a marker which identifies a European white oak tree brought here from Sutter's birthplace in Kandern, Germany, in 1939. Knowland was introduced by Municipal Judge Percy K. West, who was co-chairman of the Native Sons' celebration.

Edward J. Guirado, master of ceremonies and Congressman Richard M. Nixon of Whittier Parlor, NSGW, talk it over at the big barbecue of Whittier Native Sons, Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th—Photo by Andy Cummings

Report On Washington Hearings Given Natives

More than 300 Native Sons and their guests heard Richard M. Nixon, 12th District Congressman, member of the House un-American Activities Committee, tell of some of the experiences of the committee at a barbecue in his honor at the Shallow Brook Ranch of Robert Alexander Wednesday evening, September 8th, sponsored by Whittier Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, of which Congressman Nixon is a charter member.

Nixon gave an intensely interesting and thrilling report on his part in the Washington hearings, reviewing the testimony of Miss Bentley and the progress of the investigations.

None of the present and former government workers would testify, begging off with the plea that answers to questions put to them would incriminate them.

"Their refusal to talk is in part an admission of guilt," he declared. "One by one they took the stand, and one after another they refused to answer our questions—some that had absolutely no reflection on their alleged spy activities."

Nixon declared that there is not a "question of doubt" that an active Communist spy ring operated in this country during the war and since, and that government employees were involved. He declared that when the new Congress convenes next January one bit of legislation which will be made a priority will be amendments to the espionage laws which he said "were absolutely necessary for national security."

Congress will change the laws so that governmental employees will have to answer any and all questions asked by a congressional investigating committee and the bar behind which many now take refuge, that of refusing to answer "because it might incriminate," will be removed.

Also general legislation will be enacted attacking secret underground operations of spy rings.

"The present administration has been an obstruction rather than a help in these espionage investigations," he charged. "The president is in a position to help if he would permit the committee to examine the records of employees under question. He and he alone, can answer many of these questions of loyalty."

Nixon further stated that the FBI had cooperated in a number of particulars the story Miss Bentley gave the committee of her spy activities and her contacts with certain members of the administration, of obtaining information that she had transmitted to Russia.

Miss Bentley's appearance before the House committee followed her testimony before the Grand Jury in New York where an investigation of espionage had been conducted for more than twelve months.

However, the Attorney General did not hand down any indictments, despite Miss Bentley's charges against government workers and despite the FBI's findings that verified the testimony offered by Miss Bentley.

Instead, the government did indict the twelve top men in the Communist Party of America, although the Grand Jury investigations were aimed at government people."

Nixon declared that the first duty of the new Congress will be to strengthen the laws against espionage.

But legislation alone is not the whole answer," he warned. "We must maintain constant vigilance, and education is one of our most important weapons. We must educate ourselves, our children and our fellow townsmen that our nation and our government with all its faults are worth living for, working for and fighting for.

"The greatest task facing us today is not legislation—the cure—but education, where we can get at the cause. We must fight this thing in our own homes, our schools and our communities."

Nixon was introduced by Edward J. Guirado, who presided as master of ceremonies. A welcome was extended on behalf of the Whittier Parlor by its president, William McDonauld. Among those introduced from the head table were Assemblyman Thomas Erwin, from the 50th Assembly District, president of Whittier service clubs and other outstanding citizens.

The dinner was prepared under the supervision of Robert M. Alexander and Leslie Yarbrough.

Dinner music was provided by the Avalon Trio, a Mexican troupe.

Santa Cruz Natives Take Part In Portola Trek

Native Sons and Daughters of Santa Cruz played a prominent part in the Fiesta Saturday, October 2, in celebration of the Portola Trek's arrival there. As they entered Santa Cruz the Trek paused momentarily to bless the historical marker placed there a few years ago by the Native Sons and Daughters. Dedication ceremonies were also held at the Soquel Avenue bridge where two additional markers have been erected commemorating the discovery of the San Lorenzo River by Portola. The Native Sons and Daughters also had a part in the ceremonies Sunday morning, October 3, at the Santa Cruz Mission.

Mother Lode Trek

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

THIS is the centennial year marking the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery of gold by James W. Marshall at Coloma and the founding of numerous towns and cities along the Mother Lode.

During the year 1949 and the following years more towns sprung up like magic and in like manner some of them faded away.

In these centennial years many people will travel through this area to visit places made famous during the gold rush and for that reason this article covers the first of a series of treks which will interest the reader regarding the well known historic places that are easily reached by present day roads and highways. The visitor will enjoy the sights of old stone ruins noticeable along the road, the remains of a once thriving city but now only a ghost town, forlorn but surrounded by beauty and solitude. Then there are the surviving towns and cities possessing their share of historic lore where old buildings and historic markers tell their story.

This trek of the mother lode will start at Placerville as it is the most centrally located along the mother lode in El Dorado county. It is the county seat and metropolis as well as a modern, thriving city located on highway 50, forty-seven miles east of Sacramento. Highway 49 also runs northward and southward through the city.

The city was founded during the summer of 1848 by three men, William Daylor, J. Sheldon and Perry McCoon. These men followed a fork of Weber creek which led them to a ravine where they discovered gold which is located nine miles south of Coloma. The men camped here and soon the news spread to the miners on Weber creek and before long it became a place of great mining activity and was called "Dry Diggings." It was in the early part of 1849 that it gained notoriety as it became the scene of the first mob tribunal in the mines, and several robbers were hanged. The name of the settlement was then changed from "Dry Diggings" to "Hangtown" and then again, due to the extensive placer diggings, changed to "Placerville" in 1850. It became the goal of the forty-nine immigrant overland route over what is now known as the "Placerville road" while some came through the Carson Pass in Amador county. Placerville was incorporated in 1854 and was well known as a way station during the Pony Express period and the Comstock mining days. In 1856 John A. "Snow Shoe" Thompson first began to carry mail on skis to the miners in Placerville. His route was from Nevada over the Sierras to Placerville, his destination. He achieved fame in performing this hazardous duty over a period of years.

SOME HISTORIC PLACES IN PLACERVILLE

At the west end of Main street there is a Pony Express marker which commemorates the overland Pony Express that started to operate by relay riders between San Francisco and St. Joseph, Missouri, in April, 1860. The courageous riders pounded the main street of Placerville continuously for a year and a half as they rode through.

The old "Hangtown" bell, located in the plaza on the east side of the County Court House, was used as an alarm bell during the "Sixties." It was cast in Shettfield, England, in 1860 and shipped around the horn in 1865 to San Francisco, thence to Placerville. It was first used April 19, 1865 when it tolled of the time funeral services were held throughout the nation for our martyred president Abraham Lincoln.

A bronze plaque on the Raffle's Hotel on Main street can be seen in memory of Hank Monk, the famous stage driver who drove Horace Greeley to Placerville from Carson City, Nevada in 1859. The Raffle's hotel stands in the same location where the Cary House stood. It was from the balcony of the Cary House that Horace Greeley addressed the miners.

Placerville's Methodist Episcopal Church, built in 1861, is located near the Ivy House at the intersection of Main street and Cedar Ravine.

On Main and Colma streets a bronze plaque marks the site of Elstner's Hay Yard on which stood the Hangman's tree. Other plaques along Main street mark the oldest building built of stone in 1852. On the north side of upper Main a plaque marks the location of John Studebaker's Wheelwright Shop. Studebaker later left for the east to build wagons which eventually lead to the development of the Studebaker automobile.

The Ivy House, a three story brick building, once served as the Placerville Academy established in 1861, is located on the east end of Main street.

Among the church buildings there are St. Patrick's Catholic church erected in 1865 and the Presbyterian Church also built in 1865.

At the east end of Main street is Druid monument, erected to commemorate that organization in 1859 of the first Grove of the United Ancient Order of Druids to be established in the west.

The city of Placerville has recently celebrated its centennial of its founding. Having retained activity and prosperity for 100 years.

Leaving Placerville on the Cold Springs or Gold Hill road one travels northwest seven miles to the summit of Gold Hill. There is a stone building here which was erected in 1859. Gold Hill was once a booming mining camp. The historic places throughout this area are located by historic markers placed by El Dorado county.

WHERE GOLD RUSH HISTORY STARTED

Driving northward three miles from Gold Hill brings you to the historic town of Coloma. The historic places here are well marked by historic plaques. On the high hill to the south is the Marshall monument overlooking the American river and is surrounded by a park. This ground was purchased by the Native Sons of the Golden West and presented to the state. The unveiling of the statue took place on May 3, 1890. It is now a part of the California State Park System.

On the river is a monument marking the spot where Sutter's Mill stood and where James W. Marshall discovered gold on January 24, 1848.

The Chinese stores which were once operated by Man Lee and Wah Hop are now museums, and among the historic sites are the Wells Fargo Express Office, Adams Express Office, Bekeart's gun and ammunition store built in 1853 also the site of where the home of the Coloma Grays once stood. Many markers can be found along the street.

One and a half miles west of Coloma is Lotus (Uniontown) located near the American river. It was first known in 1849 as Marshall so named for James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold at Coloma. In 1850 the name was changed to Uniontown in honor of California's Admission to the Union. It was later changed to Lotus. The site of the general store built by Adam Lohry in 1859 and other historic spots are marked.

Going north on highway 49, the first historic spot to be seen are the ruins of a roofless stone building. This was Meyer's dance hall and wine cellar.

Nine miles north of Lotus on Highway 49 is Pilot Hill. It was a mining center in 1849 and was first known as Centerville. Continuing northward the road passes the old Bayley House built in 1862, a beautiful building surrounded by shade trees. Four miles north is Cool. This was well known in the early days as a stage station.

At Cool this trek turns east along the road to Greenwood which is a picturesque village named for the famous trapper and mountaineer. It was first known as Long Valley, also Lewisville. Greenwood established a trading post in Long Valley in 1848 and in 1854 it was a lively city. It once aspired for the county seat.

The next settlement located on this road, is Garden Valley once known as Johntown. Upon discovery of gold in this vicinity it is said that millions in the precious metal had been taken from the nearby creeks. In later years it became more profitable to raise vegetables in the fertile valleys and therefore the name was changed to Garden Valley. A stone building, the only one remaining, with two iron doors built in the early days of Johntown, still stands, and is the only relic visible today.

Five miles north of Garden Valley is Georgetown surrounded by tall pines and evoking a scene of sublimity. History fills the atmosphere as one walks along its streets observing and reading the historic markers.

Among them is the site of the former United States Armory built in the days of the Civil War. On the corner of Main and Auburn road stands the I. O. O. F. hall which is a two story brick constructed building erected in 1859 formerly known as the "Olmstead Hotel" or "Balzar House" later used as a theatre. The Masonic hall building located on the northeast corner of Auburn road and Main was built in 1852.

A few miles south of Georgetown is Kelsey situated on a high ridge north of the American river its placer diggings were discovered by Benjamin Kelsey in the year 1848. Two main historic places are the sites of James W. Marshall's blacksmith Shop and where once stood the Union hotel in which the discoverer of gold at Coloma died on August 19, 1885 both are marked by historic plaques.

Continuing south on the Kelsey road th visitor arrives on the American river and three miles south of it is Placerville.

Ten miles west of Placerville is Shingle Springs on highway 50 which during the fifties and sixties was full of activity it being a way station for the freight teams on their way to the Comstock mines in Nevada.

Diamond Springs is situated three miles south of Placerville and similar to the other towns was a large settlement during the rush and once it too aspired to be the county seat. Many old landmarks still remain.

Two miles west of Diamond Springs is El Dorado originally known as "Mud Springs," deriving its name from the oxen driven by the immigrants who stopped to water them here causing the latter to become muddy.

In 1854 El Dorado was so large that it became an incorporated city, but when the gold started on the decline it was disincorporated in the year 1857. Old stone buildings and other relics of the gold era can still be seen.

Eight miles south of El Dorado on highway 49 is Nashville. First known as "Quartzburg" and established in the early fifties. It became a settlement and was located on the site of an old Indian Camping ground where a large rancharia still existed upon the arrival of the first miners. Several quartz mines can be seen here today as well as several buildings.

West of highway 49, high up in the pine country about twenty-five miles southeast of Placerville, is Grizzly Flats. In the rugged section of El Dorado county between the north and middle forks of the Consumnes river at an elevation of 4,000 feet this settlement was founded. It was so named for the California Grizzly bear which inhabited this area when gold was discovered. In the year 1852 it boasted having two hotels, six stores, two blacksmith shops and several saloons. Some buildings still remain.

Pleasant Valley situated about six miles north of Youngs and about fifteen miles southeast of Placerville was named by the Mormons who camped here in 1848 before going on to Salt Lake City via the Carson Pass. It later became a settled mining community.

Thousands See Admission Day Parade Held In Santa Monica

Thousands lined Wilshire Boulevard Admission Day night to witness Santa Monica's Admission Day parade.

Upward of 30,000 spectators jammed sidewalks along the line of march to cheer the flag-bedecked cars, the high stepping mounted troops and precision military units which participated in Santa Monica's observance of the 98th birthday of California's statehood.

Sharply at 8 p. m. the parade started moving westward along Wilshire from 16th street, with a motorcycle escort and the brisk martial tunes of several military bands fanning out ahead of the marching units to clear the way.

In the leading limousine rode Rep. Donald L. Jackson, grand marshal of the parade. A delegation of city officials, civic leaders and Eldred Meyer Past Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, followed in other open autos.

Next came the Elks band, Sciots band. Bands representing all military reserve organizations in Santa Monica were supplemented by the McCormick General Hospital band from Pasadena, the Seal Beach Marine band.

Leading the military marching units were 200 officers and men of the 88th Air Service Group, a jet fighter maintenance outfit affiliated with the Santa Monica plant of Douglas Aircraft Co. The white-gloved Air Force men were led by Col. E. A. Jose.

Following were the Marine Reserves, led

Credit for the idea of the Santa Monica parade, which took an hour to pass, goes to Angelo Mascaro, parade chairman, one of the newer members of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. He was assisted by Past Presidents, Dyke C. Freeman and Delmar Badgley, President Elwyn W. Kenyon, 1st Vice-Pres. Edward Rance and Trustee Mart Throssell. While Santa Monica Bay Parlor did not sponsor the parade as a parlor, a great deal of credit should go to Mascaro and his committee of Native Sons for the success of the event.

Ontario Parlor Takes Part In All-States Picnic

Members of Ontario Parlor No. 251, NDGW, were official greeters at the Ontario All-States Picnic on "Pepper Tree Lane," Saturday, Aug. 28, attended by an estimated 125,000 people.

A "Surrey with the fringe on top," drawn by a spirited horse, carried President Mrs. Loren Robinson, Mrs. William Way, Mrs. Harley Estabrook and the driver, Mrs. Paul D. Cushing, to greet each state delegation seated at the two-mile long table. All were dressed in costumes of the Centennial years.

A paper California poppy was given the chairman of each state by the greeters as they welcomed each delegation.

At the California table decorations were marigolds in gold-pans. One section of the table was reserved for pioneers, who enjoyed a pleasant time greeting each other and exchanging stories of other years. About 888 Natives were registered at California's table.

"Surrey with the Fringe on Top," used by Ontario Native Daughters, official greeters, to greet each state represented at the two-mile long table of the All States Picnic on Pepper Tree Lane, Ontario, Sunday, Aug. 28th, which was attended by an estimated 125,000 people.

CALIFORNIA BOOKS . .

If you believe what you read in the papers you can't go far wrong. Maybe a newspaperman doesn't look like a historian, but more than one hundred years of journalism in California has meant the preservation of countless items of priceless Californiana. Four of the new Centennial books from Stanford University Press are authored by just such journalist-historians who have contributed their share to the annals of the Golden State past and present.

In 1878 the columns of the Truckee Republican carried the first factual history of the Donner Party and its survivors. This was some 32 years later, a time when public knowledge of the episode was still contradictory and sensationalized, particularly in Truckee, three miles from the site of the tragedy. Editor C. F. McGlashan's historical venture originated as a circulation booster for the near-defunct Republican, and as such it was unquestionably successful. Reaching its final and revised form in 1880, the history has since exhausted twelve large printings in book form. Stanford has just brought out another edition of the McGlashan History of the Donner Party with new photographs, introduction, and notes. It is an appropriate Centennial renaissance of one California journalist's contribution to state history.

The influx of people to California in the years of hysteria following Marshall's discovery of gold in 1848 meant more newspapers for California. In time many of the fortune seekers began to leave the insecurity of pick and pan for business ventures, and some tried their hand at journalism. Among early contributors to boomtown papers were Bret Harte and Mark Twain, but the less-sung historians were those small-town newspapermen who had to write news for a public that knew all the local news before it could be set in type and who didn't much care what was happening anywhere else.

When a California editor, son of one of these pioneer newspapermen, compiles a book by tapping his newsprint reservoir of Western raw material, the reading public gets an authentic dose of gold fever. Gold, Guns and Ghost Towns by the late W. A. Chalfant, recent best seller from Stanford, is such a book. The first chapter, "A Boy in California in 'Forty-nine," is a bit of autobiography written by Bill Chalfant's father, who set the story directly into type as he went along. Confabs with honest-to-goodness old-timers gave Bill material for other tales in the book, choicest pieces from the columns of the Inyo Register.

Today's Mother Lode historian is the Sonora Union Democrat's one-time columnist, Othello Weston, who has assembled her notes and photographs into an outstanding book—Mother Lode Album. First recognized as a painter, Othello found that medium too slow to keep up with the rapid rate of decay of Gold Rush landmarks and turned to photography. Nearly 50 per cent of the relics preserved in her book have become unfortunate sacrifices to the wartime shortage of building materials. It was the reporter's curiosity that led this former journalist trekking all over the mining region with camera, brush, and pencil—the result is a real contribution to Californiana.

And the California journalist still plays the part of contemporary chronicler. James Clifford Safley, managing editor of the San Diego Union has authored "Fisherman's Pier," a collection of character sketches on the motley crew of Californians he has met fishing off a southern California pier. Substituting the rod and reel for 'forty-niner trappings, author Safley deftly casts his reportorial eye on these present-day prospectors to whom El Dorado means "fish." Maybe there's a hundred years' difference in time but the pioneer spirit is there all the same, and there's still plenty of local color in the Golden State for the journalist-historian to record for posterity.

All the romantic essence of the California "back country" has been distilled into California Jubilee, Ed Ainsworth's new book, based largely on his experiences over a period of many years as state editor of the Los Angeles Times. Ainsworth, who has high praise for the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West in their marking of historical landmarks, has long championed the theory that "Hollywood is not California," and in this book he goes forth with bucolic energy to prove that "beyond the city limits" lies the real land of the Golden West.

Timed to coincide with the State's Centennial Celebrations, California Jubilee is full of surprises and will appeal to everyone who loves to explore side roads and peep around unexpected corners. One moment "The Mad Mummy" dominates the scene. The next "The Drunken Bookworm" takes over the interest. It is the kind of book that defies classification; but it is the kind of book too, that you can't lay down until you find out what happens next. Ed Ainsworth's ability as a story-teller has never been better displayed than here. California Jubilee is the result of many years of keen observation in a land where the unbelievable still happens and romance exists up every by-path. From "The Swallows of Capistrano" to "God's Laziest Creature," this is an adventure in the unexpected and the bizarre.

Two famous Native Sons of the Golden West, Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz and Leo Carillo are the horsemen appearing on the cover jacket designed by Clyde Forsythe, the eminent Western painter, who also did the cover for Ainsworth's now famous book, "Eagles Fly West." Incidentally, Forsythe's oil painting of Gene Biscailuz on a splendid Palomino is said to be one of the finest in existence.

FORTUNE, SMILE ONCE MORE!

By MARY FLOYD WILLIAMS

In this brilliant and powerful novel Mary Floyd Williams tells a tale of dramatic conflict and strange love, rich with the flavor of bygone days in California. This is history, alive and moving, its meaning clear, its lesson plain; and this is romance, enthralling and revealing.

San Francisco, now proud and beautiful, once struggled through lusty, turbulent days of '51, when Argonauts rubbed shoulders with the disinherited of the earth, rogues and adventurers, and Sydney Ducks who came in hundreds from Australia. Before the American heritage of justice and security was established these desperadoes formed a ruthless gang that threatened with fire and pillage the golden promise of the city. Then brave men struck at evil, and the Watchful Eye of Vigilance picked up the outlaws' trail.

Against this background runs the poignant love story of an Australian convict and a lady's maid—audacious, strong Sam Watkins and beautiful, ardent Mary Stokes. Their brief and tragic courtship in Tasmania blazes into passion before injustice turns Sam into a bitter prisoner, ready to stake his life on the success of a hairbrained escape. It is impossible! But for all that he comes alive to San Francisco where Fate unites him once again with Mary, but not before he is involved with men who terrorize the city with bludgeon, torch and pistol.

The woman's intuition sees to what tragedy such acts must lead, even before the Committee of Vigilance lets loose the anger of the community upon the Sydney Ducks.

The fiery city shouts a deadly threat against the lovers, but Mary clings to the hope that some good luck will turn the wheel of Fate; that Fortune will smile once more upon them. She, too, becomes involved, and as the drama sweeps toward its climax she stands on the verge of an abyss.

She has one tribute in that hour of suspense. The man she loves speaks out to do her justice!

Weaving across this story of Sam and Mary move the furtive people of a hidden world, and the stern men who are resolved to save the city from their onslaughts. Most of these characters have historical place in San Francisco annals: even their names ring true. There is Ah Toy, the lovely Chinese courtesan, dreaming amid her fumes of opium or incense; there is English Jim, handsome and debonaire, cold-blooded thief and killer, there is young William Coleman, checking the frenzies of a raging mob.

Mary Floyd Williams is already known as an authority on the history of her state. The University of California has published books of hers about this period of the Vigilantes. She now demonstrates that she is also a novelist of outstanding talent. She proves her feeling for plot, atmosphere and character. Her pages are alive with action and color, heart-break and terror, tenderness and wisdom. So thoroughly does she know San Francisco and its history and so well does she depict it, that the reader becomes a living partner in the pageantry, fury and vitality that surge along its sandy streets.

This is a full, exciting novel. A deep and satisfying experience awaits any reader who opens it.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

By WALTER N. BAILEY
Grand President, NSGW

Now that September 9, 1948 is over, and we have observed correctly the 98th Anniversary of our State's admission into the Sisterhood of States in a very creditable manner, let us re-dedicate ourselves to our cardinal principles and face the future. It was voluntarily admitted by those who witnessed the gigantic parade and the competition at Sacramento, that everyone admired the cleancut, mannerly spirit of team competition exemplified by those units competing. It was a true example of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity. These contests can and will be carried out year after year in this same spirit, irregardless of who wins.

As we well know, the general celebration was held on September 9th in Sacramento. In spite of many, many adversities, the committee in charge saw to it that we held one of the finest celebrations ever. I, as your Grand President, have nothing but praise for the fine work that the committee in our Capital city accomplished. To pick out any one individual to compliment would not do justice to the other. From coast to coast, the Native Sons and Native Daughters were given recognition for their fine work. Standing in front of the reviewing stand and seeing wave after wave of fine units of our Parlors was more than enough to thrill any man. Needless to say, that was one of the proudest moments of my life.

In just two short years, we, as Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, will have on our shoulders the position of being leaders in that grand and glorious celebration which will bring to a climax, the Centennial of our State joining these great United States. Down through the years we have kept alive the traditions of our State. Let us start to plan now for the future. Let us tip our hats to what is past, re-dedicate ourselves to the future, and above all, take our coats off and go to work.

We all realize that our Centennial Celebrations are promoting the education of the people of California on our history, but I think that the greatest good is in the education of our children in the history of our State, and it is going to result in our future generation realizing that this, our State of California, cannot be stopped from being recognized as one, if not the greatest state in the Union.

What better way could we, as Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, educate our future generation, than through the medium of our oratorical contests on California History. George M. Cuthbertson, chairman of the Grand Parlor Public Speaking Contest Committee, has worked diligently, and has perfected this contest. There should be no rhyme or reason why any high school should not be approached and entered in this contest. It is your duty as a parlor and as Native Sons to see that this program is carried out. The time is now, before the calendars in the high schools in your respective communities, are filled.

In order that some individual members and Parlors might not miss Grand President Margaret Farnsworth and my plea to Parlors of both Orders throughout the State, to send in their monies for that so valuable part of our organization, namely the Homeless Children

Constitution Day Address Given By Waldo F. Postel

Waldo F. Postel, San Francisco attorney, Past President of Stanford Parlor, was the principal speaker, Tuesday evening, September 14, when Constitution Day, September 17, was observed by Stanford Parlor No. 76, Native Sons of the Golden West. Postel's subject was "Today's Threats Against Our Constitutional Form of Government," according to Fred J. Sinclair, president of Stanford Parlor. Co-chairmen of the Constitution Day observance were Joseph I. McNamara and Ivo Monti. Postel is also prominent in Masonic circles and has delivered numerous addresses in his capacity as a member of the California Advisory Committee of the Senate Un-American Activities Committee.

Arrowhead Assembly No. 14 Elects Delegates Sept. 19

Delegates to the 28th session of the General Assembly were elected at a meeting of Arrowhead Assembly No. 14, at Campo de Cahuenga, Universal City. A delicious steak barbecue was served by Chef Ralph Walters of Ramona Parlor, preceding the meeting, which was presided over by Worthy Governor Robert A. Ziegler. Robert W. Brazelton, veteran recording secretary of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, San Bernardino, is recording secretary of Arrowhead Assembly.

Membership Trophy

William Shearman of Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, presented that parlor with a beautiful membership trophy on August 17. To be known as the Bob Owen Membership cup, it will be exhibited in the parlor at all meetings. Under terms of the donation, the member of Pacific Parlor, who brings in the most new members during the year will have his name engraved on the cup. A small trophy will also be presented to him as a remembrance of winning this signal honor. In the event that the same brother wins the membership honors two years in succession, not only will his name be engraved upon it, but the cup will become his personal property.

project, please be so reminded that your Homeless Children Committee needs your Parlor contributions NOW. Any Parlor, or local committee, having any funds, to be held until a future date, please send them now to Mary K. Adams, 1095 Market Street, San Francisco. This is not only a request from your Grand President, but a must, in order to facilitate our continued operation in this work.

Young Parlor Proves It Can Compete With Older Parlors

Less than three years old the South Gate Parlor No. 295 girded itself recently to put on an affair that would have taxed many parlors twice its size and age. Having set the date as Sept. 23 with applation of Junior Past Grand President's Night, the little South Gate Parlor went all out in an eager attempt to honor Judge Walter Odemar.

President Stan Norwalk of the South Gate Parlor set his committees to burning the midnight oil and a program began to unfold that according to many who attended expressed nothing but praise for the fine program and the masterful way it was handled. For a small and young parlor South Gate has been fortunate in having a meeting hall that can easily accommodate 500 or more and the night of the 23 was no exception when neighboring parlors in full cooperation turned out en masse in great numbers to support the occasion.

Among the many notables in attendance besides Junior Past Grand President Judge Walter Odemar was Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, Ex-Mayor Olson and Councilman Weaver, both of South Gate.

Under the careful tutelage of Art Hulse, deputy to the parlor, the South Gate officers proceeded to put on their first initiation and installed five new members into 295. While this proved quite an ordeal they came through with flying colors. To top the evening off a handsome inscribed plaque was presented to Judge Walter Odemar by Vice-Pres Hank Hankinson on behalf of the parlor in true appreciation of all he had done to build and create an all time high interest in parlor affairs and activities.

Members of Huntington Park Parlor No 294, NSGW, made a trip to Arcadia Sunday, Aug 22, where they visited the Pony Express Museum of W. Parker Lyon, who escorted them through the building and grounds. Huntington Park Parlor presented a California State Bear Flag to Mr Lyon (with big hat center of picture) who said that it will have a place of prominence in his collection.

ATHLETICS

The Third Annual Native Sons of the Golden West Bowling tournament, held at the Alhambra Bowl in Sacramento, on September 8th proved a big success.

Tournament started at 2 p. m. and ran continuously through the afternoon and night, finishing up at 2:00 in the morning.

Too much praise can not be given to Dr. Donald Webb of Elk Grove Parlor, the local chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Sollinger of Sacramento for their untiring efforts in keeping the boys rolling for 12½ hours. Getting the boys started on time, checking and rechecking their scores, each year this event gets larger, over two hundred entries participating this year.

Grand President Walter N. Bailey presented the winners their trophies at the Grand Ball held on the evening of September 9th at the Native Sons building.

The trophies for the team event, and the all events, were put up by Grand President Walter N. Bailey. Thanks a million, Walter.

That's 30 for now.

ERNEST W. PERRY, State Chairman.

Softball has truly been a success for Arrowhead Parlor this year with the Native Son entry giving all opposition plenty of competition and something to think about. At this writing our ball club holds the same league standing as the same date last year. Last season it was necessary to whip one ball club in order to tie for first place. Recently our horsehiders defeated the Inland Distributors in order to stay in the race and later whipped the Signal Pipe sluggers for the right to hold first place.

The ball club of Long Beach Parlor No. 278 won the Southern California Championship in the Fraternal Division. A four-game series was played at Glendale and Long Beach won all four, taking home a handsome trophy. George Pearson pitched all these games.

The bowling team of Pasadena Parlor, Douglas E. Granzow, captain, is working to build a team to compete for prizes with teams of other parlors.

"Spit And Argue Club"

By THEODORE H. HARLOW

It's the "University by the Sea" at Long Beach, California, familiarly referred to by local citizens as the "Spit and Argue Club."

Located on the famous Rainbow Pier, a modest sign proclaims that here is "America's Greatest Institution of Learning." Any speaker with an idea is free to express it. No subject is barred. It's free-for-all members argue and preach, orate generally, and at times even burst into song. It's in session seven days a week, day and night.

About the rostrum, standing or occupying benches provided by a paternalistic city administration, are the "students" and the visitors, without distinction of color, class or creed. These club meetings are not invariably too peaceful. There are times of over enthusiastic discussion, or unmerciful heckling and argument from the "class," and of attention from the police. But it is generally a good natured assemblage.

On this afternoon visit the speaker is an individual deeply concerned with the economic condition of our country. "Our United States," he declares, "is on the road to ruin and bankruptcy. Ruin and bankruptcy," he repeats, "because of taxes that sap the lifeblood of the nation, taxes that could be immeasurably reduced if we would send business men—not politicians—to Washington. I wonder," he goes on, "how many of you listeners have the faintest idea of those hidden taxes that are concealed in the food you buy, the clothes you wear." And so on and on.

What to do about it—his remedy—isn't completely clear. But, anyway the crowd agrees and enthusiastically cheers.

Injecting a more cheerful note, a singer with his accordian, ascends the rostrum. With a robust baritone voice he quickly captures the approval of his listeners. Soon they are singing with him. Comes "Home on The Range," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Even "The Old Rugged Cross." Here a good time is enjoyed by all.

Hecklers and vociferous "booes" greet the next speaker who, long whiskers and long hair flying in the Pacific Ocean breeze, demands that we understand Russia's point of view. Ostensibly a crackpot, his opportunity to explain in brief—drowned out by the interrupting cries of "Communist."

And so, hour after hour, continues the procession of speakers as they expound their ideas on economics, politics, religion, or what have you.

Native Sons Represented at Un-American Activities Meeting

Members of the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, who are also members of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American activities in California, attended two separate meetings which were called by the Chairman, Senator Jack B. Tenney.

At the Los Angeles meeting held on August 30, 1948, the Native Sons of the Golden West was represented by Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, Chairman, Americanism Committee, and Bernard G. Hiss. Leslie F. Olson, Past County Commander of the American Legion and an active member of the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion, was elected permanent Chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee, Southern District of California.

In compliance with a previous request from the State Senate Committee, the following legislative proposals were submitted by the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, NSGW:

"1. The Communist Party of the State of California should be outlawed. The legislatures of other States should be encouraged to enact similar legislation.

2. Our Committee is unalterably opposed to the use in California schools of the series of textbooks known as 'Building America.' The removal of those portions which have been considered previously as being objectionable, will not alter the Committee's attitude toward these textbooks. The Americanism Committee believes that the publishers were lax in compiling this series of thirty textbooks for the youth of California, and therefore, a contract of this magnitude should be awarded only to those that take sufficient time and research to gather material that will truly build America.

The Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, The Senate Investigating Committee on Education, The California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Executive Committee of the American Legion, Department of California, have already done commendable work to prevent this series of textbooks being used in California schools.

3. The Americanism Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, recommends the enactment of legislation which would make it mandatory for all State, County, and City employees to take a loyalty check."

At the San Francisco meeting which convened on September 1, 1948, the Order was represented by its two duly appointed representatives, Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller and Grand Secretary John T. Regan. Both of our representatives were elected to responsible positions with the Senate Committee. Jesse Miller being elected the permanent Chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee, and John T. Regan being elected Secretary, Central and Northern Districts of California.

To offset the constant flow of communistic protest against loyalty tests, the Subordinate Parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West should locally commend any resolution of any unit of the State, County, or City which is attempting to enforce loyalty checks of its employees.

GOLDEN POPPY BANQUET HELD BY KEITH PARLOR

"Auld Lang Syne" was a befitting theme song for the beautiful and memorable "Golden Poppy Banquet" recently held by Keith Parlor No. 137 at the Riviera Restaurant in San Francisco. It was given in honor of Sister Mae Frugoli, our charter member, and Sister Bertha Mauser, our Financial Secretary.

Sister Frugoli is Keith Parlor's sole remaining charter member. She has served in the chairs of the Parlor and is a Past President. At the dinner she gave a resume of the instituting of Keith Parlor forty-five years ago under Grand President Eliza Douglas Keith after whom our Parlor is named.

Sister Bertha Mauser has been a member of our Order for fifty years, thirty-two of which she has served as Keith Parlor's financial secretary. She has been most outstanding as the organizer of the Grove of Memory, and has worked tirelessly for the Homeless Children Committee.

Twenty-five year members of Keith Parlor who have had continuous membership in the Order were presented with 25-year sterling silver membership pins. They were: Anna Barney, Gertrude Cassidy, Bertha Cole, Mae Frugoli, Elizabeth Graham, Lelia Leep, Ross London, Hannah MacDonald, Frances Noehl, Hilma Rechter, Margaret Stanton, Olga Styche and Josephine Phillips.

The dining room was a mass of golden poppies. The program for the evening opened with the Invocation by Past President Kathleen Essig, followed by the Flag Pledge by Alice Barichievich, and greetings by Record and Secretary and also Chairman of the affair, Vera Thompson. The introduction of the guests of honor, and officers of Keith Parlor was made by President Ruth Scheffler.

Among the many distinguished guests present to pay tribute to these members who by their many years of service have endeared themselves to the Order, were Grand Officers and Past Grand Presidents of both Orders, as well as officers and members of the Grove of Memory Association, the Homeless Children Committee, the Extension of the Order Committee, and the Social Club, together with Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler who made the presentations, including the 50-year gold membership pin to Sister Bertha Mauser. There were also present, John Regan, Grand Secretary of the Native Sons, Charles Koenig, Past Grand President and Mrs. Koenig, Frank Buckley of National Parlor No. 118 and Mrs. Buckley, William James of California Parlor No. 1 and Mrs. James, Anita Craig of Dolores Parlor No. 169, who is president of the Grove of Memory Association, Lulu Porter of Guadalupe Parlor No. 153 who is Secretary of the Grove of Memory Association, Deputy Grand President Edna Erney of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, Tessie Pearce of Sans Souci Parlor No. 96 who is Vice Chairman of the Extension of the Order. There were many inspiring talks during the evening, and Leslye A. Hicks, Grand Trustee sang, and Madeline Jevencenzi of Castro Parlor No. 178 and Chairman of the Homeless Children Committee presented a bouquet of flowers. The honored guests were deluged with telegrams, and when Bertha Mauser completed her very moving speech there were tears in many eyes, and the ovation she received was tremendous.

Officers and members of Guajome Parlor No. 297, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Escondido, instituted June 11, 1948, with Willa R. Hall as charter president. Guajome Parlor was organized by El Vera Wittenberg, San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW.

Members of Morada Parlor Enjoy Many Activities

Legion Park, skirting the banks of the Tuolumne River, was a perfect setting August 19 with a full moon shining down on the fifty members of Morada Parlor, Modesto, assembled for the annual picnic and potluck supper. A white elephant gift for everyone in the guessing contest and game of the evening, carried out by Lottie Peck and volunteer committee.

A lovely evening was enjoyed as guests of Modesto Parlor No. 11, Native Sons, in the IOOF Hall September 15, at a dance and post-Admission Day celebration.

Birthday night was celebrated August 25, with 20 honorees seated at the special table. The August social committee, supplemented by volunteers and Mary Panetto, chairman, served refreshments. September 8, Lucille Powell read a synopsis of early California History.

President Edith Lilly and her corps of officers installed in July by Deputy Grand President Leola Kaufman and full complement of acting grand officers from Oakdale Parlor No. 125, Oakdale, have been holding regular officers meetings planning for future events.

Copa de Oro Parlor Gets Under Way To Busy Season

Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105, NDGW, Hollister, resumed the season's activities with installation of officers, on Sept. 1.

Complimentary to the new president, Helen Leonard Butts, the theme of the evening was "Pine Rock," stressing the name of her country home. Pine branches and cones with silvered horseshoes were used for decoration. Helen chose as her slogan for the year "Good Luck."

During the installation, the officers carried small silvered horseshoes, and an escort of eight carried large silvered horseshoes, forming an arch under which the new leader was escorted to her station. As she assumed the gavel, a floral horseshoe was placed over her shoulders.

An originally worded song to the tune of "Smiles" honored the retiring president, Fay Frusetta.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by D. G. P. Dora Presho, of Santa Cruz, assisted by officers of her home Parlor.

Presentation of gifts was made by Elma Libao in the guise of a blacksmith as Gladys Jones read excerpts from Longfellow's "The Village Blacksmith." Hilda Thompson personated the chestnut tree.

During the business session, a report was given on the recent successful Bargain Center, the date of the annual Homeless Children Benefit Card Party was set for October 20, and one candidate was added to the roll by affiliation.

All Parlors of the District were represented at the well-attended affair.

Corrections

We have just received word that the new recording secretary of Verdugo Parlor No. 240, Glendale, Los Angeles County, is Ruth G. Boone, 1316 Grandview Ave., Glendale 1. Please make this change in your directory.

It was erroneously reported to us that the name of the new Whittier Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was Washington Parlor, and we so published in last month's Grizzly. However, we have since learned that it is Whittier Parlor, No. 298. We are sorry that this error occurred and the Grizzly Bear is happy to call it to your attention.

Santa Barbara Natives Observe Admission Day

Reina del Mar Parlor, Santa Barbara, has successfully observed almost a year of civic-historical participation with the presentation of the Admission Day Tea held on Thursday, September 9th, sponsored jointly by the local parlor and Santa Barbara Parlor, Native Sons at the Native Sons Beach Club on East Cabrillo Boulevard and honoring early-day pioneer families and their descendants. Heading the History and Landmarks Committee of the parlor is Mrs. A. Stanley Clem who was in charge of Native Daughter participation. Native Sons, under Joseph F. Reidy, President, planned the program for this very enjoyable event, and the local Native Daughter parlor took as his topic, "California Comes of Age." on the program was Thomas M. Mullen, who took as his topic, "California Come of Age." He highlighted his speech with examples of California's tremendous growth during the ninety-eight years of its life, and voiced the opinion that Californians should be looking ahead to plans for increased growth unparalleled in history, which brings with it great problems in the fields of providing education, housing, good roads and all the facilities that go to make for a thriving, happy state.

Adding entertainment to the program were Miss Betty-Carol DeKay who sang two solos, and Miss Kay Chapman, descendant of the Ortega family, who presented Spanish dances. Pouring at the tea tables were the following descendants of early pioneer families: Mrs. John Troupe, Mrs. Margaret Mangan, Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Miss Pamela M. Vance, Mrs. Ida M. Klett, Mrs. Ida Catlett Chamberlain, Mrs. Samuel J. Stanwood, Mrs. J. C. Fast, Mrs. Hester Fish, Miss Julia Fish, Mrs. H. L. Beckstead and Mrs. Mark Cravens.

Acting as master of ceremonies for the day was Paul Sweetser, local Native Son.

Native Daughters, during the past several months, have been prominent in civic as well as historical observances. On Flag Day, June 14th, the parlor made a presentation of a Bear Flag to the St. Vincent's Day Nursery. Cooperating in the presentation was Starr King Post Women's Relief Corp which presented an American Flag similar in size to that presented by the Native Daughters.

The parlor's efforts from a publicity standpoint were recognized at Grand Parlor in June with presentation to Reina del Mar Parlor of first-place award for scrapbooks in their class. Mrs. Wm. Birss, scrapbook chairman for the parlor, was highly commended for the beautiful book presented at Grand Parlor.

During the Portola Trek observance in Santa Barbara, on August 17th and 18th, Reina del Mar Parlor again came into prominence by being invited by the local Centennial Committee to sit in on plans for the trek observance and to take complete charge of the tea contemplated in compliment to the Portola Group on Thursday afternoon, August 18th. Mrs. A. Stanley Clem, as History Chairman, and President, Mrs. Raymond B. Romero are members of the Santa Barbara Centennial Committee and as such represented the local parlor. Reina del Mar Parlor was asked to take responsibility for choosing one of its members to portray St. Barbara in the pageant presented in the sunken gardens of Santa Barbara's world-famous County Court House. Miss Barbara Melendes was the choice of the History Committee, and with the unanimous approval of the parlor membership appeared in a large barred, oval window, as overseer of the program being presented below. The presentation was beautiful and spectacular and has brought commendation from all who saw it.

While dinner was being served, an appropriate program was presented by Miss Burk Dance Studio. Louise Ramirez, chairman of the affair, and her committee are to be commended for the most enjoyable evening. Mr. Sue Dyke, president, wished to convey his most sincere thanks to all her committees and to the public for the generous reception given this first affair put on by the Whittier Parlor.

Los Angeles Parlor To Hold Second Annual Hi-Jinks

Mrs. Milo McGinley, president, said the event of last year drew large attendance.

"So many took part in the comedy program and so many original costumes were worn that we decided to make the affair an annual one," she said. "Events like this one will cement friendships between parlors and will help members to become acquainted with each other."

All who wish may wear original costumes in a competition for prizes, and parlors are invited to present comedy skits, Mrs. McGinley said. Chairman of the affair will be Mrs. Jack Genest.

MY NATIVE STATE

By ROSE MARY FREITAS

YOU ask me why I love my native state. Look about you, my friend, and listen to the call of Mother Nature's child . . .

Why do I love my mother, or my brother. Because she is a part of me, a part of my Grandparents, and someday a part of my children. In her cool humid grounds lie the relics of the men who planted her seeds for democracy . . . the man with the hoe who tilled her fertile grounds . . . the banker . . . the shopkeeper . . . all fertilizing the ground for the tomorrows. Where once there was buried a missionary who came to my beloved state with dreams of starting a settlement, there sprouts a small redwood tree. As the years pass, the tree grows, while all the while Mother Nature watches over him with an ardent hand, watching to see that no harm befalls her precious child. Straight and tall this tree grows, climbing higher and higher, head uplifted toward the vast sea of sky, with eyes that are bold and defying, like the very people who inhabit our state . . . my state.

Yes, I love my native state. I love her green fields, like giant arms stretching out to the yellow sands of the seashore. I love her lakes in summer time, her white-capped mountains in winter. I love, too, her shanty towns along the bay shore. Her bridges that to me are the welcome mats to the very cities themselves. Her busy streets, so crowded with cars and buses . . . always rushing . . . to work . . . school . . . and home. These are the things that make me love by native California.

Then too, how I love her history! That beautiful fantastic history! Like a fairy tale read over and over again until you practically know it by heart, Indians . . . Spanish missionaries . . . wars . . . the building of a state . . . the destruction of a city by a single fantasy of Mother Nature, the earthquake that shook a city to ruins, like some sort of a punishment . . . the rebuilding of that city into not only a stronger, better city, with better buildings, but with a stronger people.

As I close my eyes and try to picture my native state, not only do I see her green pastures with roaming cows, her buildings and streets, schools and churches, but I smell her fragrant perfumed flowers . . . the green musty smell of pine and smoke. I feel too, her warm, soothing winds, and her burning sunlight, kissing my warm cheeks.

Oh! How I love my native State. Her people, bare foot and tattered, elegantly dressed with jewels, clean and dirty, all I love because they are her people . . . my people.

But most of all I think I love our springtime, like a child, dancing over the green fields of yesterdays, throwing dreamers' dust into the eyes of the old, and thoughts of romance into the young. California Springtime, how I love you . . . I love you, my beloved California.

EDITOR'S NOTES This story by Rose Mary Freitas, 15-year old member of the Menlo Park Junior Native Daughters, won first place in competition with other girls of that group. For the past three years Dorothy Donofrio, Past Grand Trustee, and now Supervising District Deputy of San Mateo County, has encouraged similar essays by offering a $5.00 prize to the winner in the Menlo unit. She selects the subject. No names are on the papers submitted by the girls, so Mrs. Donofrio and her committee are absolutely unaware of the identity of the writer in judging the winner.

Honored By Morado Parlor On Golden Wedding Anniversary

Morado Parlor No. 1192 Modesto, honored Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Schneider on the occasion of their Golden Wedding Anniversary September 7th. An evening reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Phoenix, with open house from 8:00 to 10:00 P. M.

About 100 friends and neighbors signed the guest book.

The couple were married at Rockville, Solano County, California, September 7, 1898. They came to Stanislaus County in 1899, among the passengers on the first passenger train run of the Santa Fe railroad to Oakdale from Merced. Mrs. Schneider, a Native Daughter and member of Morado Parlor, was born at Visalia. They have a married son, Ed residing in Los Angeles; two grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

The Parlor gift was an electric Seth Thomas clock.

Mary Martin played old time favorites on the piano and Marjorie Bomboy sang selections appropriate for the occasion.

Decorated in gold, a three-tiered wedding cake and punch was served guests from the buffet table covered with an ecru colored hand crocheted cloth. Napkins were gold inscribed, "Harriett and Gene." For table decorations tall tapers blended with the arrangement of chrysanthemums shading from yellow to gold. Other appointments about the home were in keeping with the golden wedding theme.

Working out details for the affair were Alice Phoenix, chairman; Helen Condit, Pearl Gordon and Mary Blaine. Assisting that evening were Leila Benson, Katherine Kopf, Shirley Garrison, Grace Donald, Lottie Peck, Doris Hamilton, Mary Clay, and Bess Gray. The president, Edith Lilly and Ethel Enos were in the receiving line with Mrs. Phoenix.

Dolores Parlor Drill Team In Colorful New Uniforms

The Drill Team of Dolores Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco, planned its first appearance in stunning new uniforms at the Centennial and Admission Day Celebration in Sacramento, September 9. The team has been holding regular drill practice and the parlor has high hopes that it will be among the best participating. A sizeable marching unit, in addition to the drill team, will represent the parlor in the Ninth of September Parade.

On Wednesday, August 11, the Drill Team participated in the Napa County Fair Parade and again on August 29, it took part in the Martinez Centennial Celebration.

Something New Under The Sun Is Palm Desert

Approximately 12 miles southeast of Palm Springs, rising gently from the Coachella Valley floor and sheltered in a protecting cove of the Santa Rosa Mountains, are the 1600 acres which comprise the incomparable new planned community known as Palm Desert.

Headed by Clifford W. Henderson, less than two years ago, work was commenced to turn this 1600 acres of desert wasteland into a Wonderland and the dream of Mr. Henderson has become a reality. Over a Million Dollars worth of property has been sold and another million in private construction is now under way or completed, including homes, apartments, hotels and commercial buildings. The first unit of Firecliff Lodge, owned by Leonard K. Firestone and Clifford W. Henderson, is open and filled to capacity. The individual cottages, each with its own garden and terrace, are designed and furnished to provide the utmost in comfort and privacy for the discriminating. Many other apartment-hotels are open.

The famous Shadow Mountain Club provides for every recreational need of its members such as the spectacular figure-8 swimming pool; individual cabanas; wading pool for small children; two championship tennis courts; pony golf course; stables for saddle horses which will be the starting point to steak rides and barbecues into the nearby canyons with the use of surreys and a tally-ho for color and fun; a separate snack bar for bathers; huge glassed-in dining areas with dance floor; spacious lounge; and, not a mirage, but a real lake on the desert for small sailboats has been completed on the Club grounds!

OUR COVER

Two famous Californians, Governor Earl Warren of Fruitvale Parlor, Oakland and Mary A. Doyle, State Fair Centennial girl, of Californiana Parlor, Los Angeles.

By the time this issue of the Grizzly reaches you, the chips will be down and we will know whether a Native Son has won the high office which he sought. Regardless of political convictions, every member of both great Orders may well be proud of California's Native Son governor and the clean fight that he has waged.

Mary A. Doyle, who Californians know affectionately as "Toni," a member of a pioneer California family, won her title at the time of the 1947 California State Fair. Governor Warren called attention to the fact that "Mary" is a beautiful name and expressed the hope that she would be called by her real name. However, "Toni" captured the imagination of the press and general public. As a result few Californians know that her first name is "Mary."

AGO

California, 75 years ago, is resumed as a regular feature of the Grizzly Bear through popular request.—The Editor.

The big event during November, 1873, in California, and, in fact, attracting the attention of the whole nation, was the great four-mile-heat-an-repeat race for $20,000, run over the Bay Shore track, San Francisco, November 15.

Turfites from every state in the Union and from every county in this state came to see it, and the largest crowd that had ever witnessed a horse race in California was gathered together. The Jockey Club sold over 30,000 tickets of admission.

The first heat was fought for by "True Blue" of Kentucky and "Joe Daniels" of Michigan, "Thad Stevens" of California trailing several lengths behind. It was won by "Joe Daniels" in 7:45. The second heat was another struggle between the two eastern horses with "Thad" again trailing; "True Blue" won in 8:08. He now sold favorite at $600 to $400. In the third heat "Thad" went off with the lead, which he maintained, winning in 7:57. On the third mile "True Blue" stepped into a newly-made gopher hole, sprained a tendon and, disabled, dropped out of the race. "Thad" easily took the fourth heat and race, in 8:20¾. He ran the sixteenth mile in 2:04¾, and looked fresh enough to run another heat.

The crowd went wild with enthusiasm. Thousands rushed upon the track, hurrahing and throwing their hats in the air. Many of them lost their head-gear beneath the trampling feet and had to go home bareheaded. The ovation to the horse and rider lasted fully fifteen minutes, and then the rush back to the city began. It was after dusk, the road was not lighted with street lights, and half a hundred wrecked vehicles from collisions soon strewn the roadside and over a score of people received injuries, but fortunately, none were killed.

The market quotations show fresh butter was 60c and tub 35c a pound, eggs 60c a dozen. Eggs by steamer from Japan were selling in San Francisco for 40c a dozen; they were kept in lime. Hens were $6, ducks $7, geese $15, quail $2 a dozen, and oranges from Tahiti, were $4 a hundred.

A quicksilver mine called the Buckeye, in Colusa County, began making shipments of nine flasks of ninety pounds each a week.

Owing to important cinnabar discoveries in Napa and adjacent counties a new town, called Pine Flat, came into existence near Calistoga.

The first steamer to be chartered with a cargo of wheat from California to Europe was the "Quang Se." It was expected to make the voyage around Cape Horn in sixty-five days.

The citizens of San Bernardino called a meeting and drew up a petition to the Southern Pacific Co. asking it to extend the railroad to that town.

The Central Pacific roundhouse at Rocklin, Placer County, was burned November 27.

Nine locomotives were damaged and ten box cars destroyed.

A citizen of San Francisco returned home unexpectedly one evening and found a sea captain entertaining his wife. He "hooked" the captain, upset a coal oil lamp, set his house on fire and caused a conflagration that brought seven fire engines to the scene, a result of ten minutes. It was considered quick work.

Impressive Ceremonies Held At Bodega Bay

A 102-year-old flag pole which flew the second Bear Flag of California was replaced Sunday, Sept. 19, by Sebastopol Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West at impressive ceremonies on the P. G. Albin ranch near Bodega Bay.

At the base of the new flagpole is a plaque reading: "This flagstaff stands on the spot occupied by the original one where Capt. Stephen Smith raised the Stars and Stripes July 10, 1846. This tablet is placed by the Historical Landmarks Committee and the Sebastopol Parlor No. 143, Native Sons of the Golden West, 1948."

Participating in the ceremonies were Mrs. Lea McCann, president of Sebastopol parlor, NDGW; Mrs. Blanch Cassarotti of Petaluma, SDDGP for Sonoma County; Mrs. Zora Thompson of Petaluma, past president of Petaluma Parlor; Grand 2nd Vice-President Edward J. Wren, San Francisco; Grand 3rd Vice-Pres. J. Walter Kamb, Berkeley; Grand Trustee Louis Pellandini, Sonoma; Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, San Francisco; Grand Secretary John T. Regan, San Francisco.

More than 150 people witnessed the dedication with William Borba of Sebastopol Parlor, introducing the guest speakers. Following the dedication a picnic at Bodega Bay was given for those attending.

The 75-foot redwood flagpole was erected on the site of Kuskoff, the first Russian colony in Sonoma county, to replace Capt. Smith's flagpole which was shattered by a storm in 1946. William Borba called attention to the fact that Angelo Smith, a distant descendant of Capt. Smith, was present.

In his dedication speech, Grand 3rd Vice-Pres. Kamb recalled the history of the Russian settlement and Capt. Smith's land grant. He emphasized that "activities such as we celebrate today and others that will follow during the next three years will produce permanent benefits—increased interest in our State's history and a renewed respect and reverence for the memories of our pioneer mothers and fathers to whom we are deeply obligated."

The new pole has a stainless steel replica of the crudely-carved wooden bear ornament that topped the old flagpole for years. The pole was donated by Wade H. Sturgeon, member of the old—and now disbanded—Occidental Parlor of the Native Sons. He cut the tree on his mill property between Occidental and Graton.

W. B. Coats, Sebastopol, made two trips to the mill site to paint the staff with preservative paint donated by Howard McCaughey, Bodega merchant.

Committee members made a special trailer to haul the pole to the site with a tractor donated by Hardy Chenoweth, another mill operator, and "turned to" with a community work day to hoist it in place.

H. U. Gonnella, veteran Occidental line-man, donned "climbing irons" to climb the staff and remove guy ropes.

It was the second ceremony staged by Native Sons at the old flagpole site. First was in 1893 when the late Emmet Seawell, justice of the California Supreme Court, then a young Santa Rosa lawyer, made the dedicatory address on the occasion of the raising and re-setting of the original pole. The bear ornament was fixed to the top at the 1893 ceremony and the pole replaced in its footing to fly both the American and Bear Flags on holiday occasions.

Fragments of the original pole are being preserved in various museums, one in the Fort Ross historical collection soon to be housed in the restored Commandant's House.

SALUTE TO THE DESERT

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

THIS month the Grizzly Bear salutes the Desert Magazine, which in October dedicated its new home at Palm Desert, Riverside County, with friends from far and near present to congratulate Editor Randall Henderson and his staff upon the completion of the beautiful, unique building, a modified pattern of the Southwest's Pueblo-Indian design. Newsmen and photographers were present, and you will be reading about the event in at least one national publication before the November Grizzly is off the press.

Within the 17,000 square feet of floor space, the new publishing and printing plant provides for an unique desert museum and art gallery, book shop, editorial and business office, photographic department and complete facilities for printing, binding and mailing.

The Desert Magazine, founded 11 years ago at El Centro, Imperial County, by Editor Randall Henderson and J. Wilson McKinney, was designed originally for desert people. But Americans became increasingly aware that the American desert is a great recreational area covering nearly one-third of the United States. Readers found the key that would unlock the door to this vast desert playground; maps to guide their travels, pictures of the areas to be explored; where to find accommodations; how to dress, and a wealth of desert lore of the West. The Desert Magazine takes them away from everyday humdrum of life into a world where there is peace and sunshine, beauty and optimism.

Thousands of Grizzly Bear readers will recognize the covers of the Desert Magazine on the left. Below is artist's sketch of the spacious new building of the Desert Magazine at Palm Desert, Riverside County, dedicated last month, giving the magazine one of the finest equipped and most unique homes of any publication on the west coast.

FOR LACK OF ONLY 10c—NO FLOAT FOR 1949

By JAMES T. RITCHEY, General Chairman
Tournament of Roses Float Committee

As all parlors have been informed, the small request for a 10c per capita tax to finance next year's float entry for the Native Sons and Native Daughters in the Tournament of Roses Parade for 1949, was defeated by a small majority at the last Native Sons' Grand Parlor. Though this was encouraging in a sense, nevertheless it was disappointing after the effort made last year to bring pleasant publicity to both Orders. The continuity of such projects tend to pyramid pleasant publicity for any organization.

After the resolution had been divided at Grand Parlor, separating the financing from its endorsement, the finance part lost. Many delegates wanted the project to be continued regardless. With this feeling prevalent, printed cards were handed out at the Convention so those interested could be heard from, and, if proper support were indicated, it would be still possible to put on the project. However, the response was very weak.

Many suggestions have been received that the Southern part of the state handle the project. This may have some advantages, yet the project is a state affair and in my opinion, should be maintained as such. Therefore, every parlor of Native Sons and Daughters alike should have sufficient feeling of interest in this type of publicity to give their support. It is hoped that as we approach the end of this year that both Orders will again reflect upon their 1948 beautiful float.

As I dictate this article October 5, I want to extend to that committee, Russell B. Seymour and Dr. John H. Schwamm and some Ramona Parlor members who felt so strongly in favor of the project, that they made a last effort on their own. This effort failed completely, for the response was not worth considering.

And so, Brothers and Daughters of both Orders, when one of the most beautiful parades in history shall roll down through Pasadena New Year's Day, I know that every member in both Orders will, if they don't they should, feel a little guilt and regret that they had not contributed ten cents to keep both Orders high up in the limelight.

To those who did fight for this project and who knew the benefits that our organizations would reap from such publicity, may I extend to them from the executive committee members and myself, our most sincere thanks and also our apologies, for not maintaining the continuity of such good publicity. When Grand Parlor meets again next year, may the delegates not attach so much significance to ten cents. The monies collected this year toward the new project will be returned to those kind donors with our thanks.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

Saturday, October 16, in the City of San Francisco, the citizens celebrated the ending of the modern trek of Don Gaspar de Portola and his party, who reenacted the original trek of the year 1769. It was my pleasure to be in San Diego at the start of the trek and to be in San Francisco, 108 days later, for the ending.

San Francisco went all out in the mammoth parade thru her streets to honor this memorial event. In addition to the local and civic organizations who participated, horse units, floats and marching units came from as far away as San Diego.

It was particularly gratifying to the Native Sons present, to see one complete division of the parade, made up of 45 units of drum and bugle corps and drill teams from various parlors of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, march by.

This trek has done much to bring back that colorful part of California's history which preceded the coming of the Americans nearly a century later. Although we have heard much of the work of Father Junipero Serra and Father Juan Crespi in the building of the 21 California Missions, those landmarks of an earlier civilization, around which most of our State's history is entwined, until recent years little was thought of what Portola accomplished. It is exceedingly gratifying to the Orders of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to see the interest which the people of California have taken in this recent re-enactment. Parlors enroute participated in the various parades and I wish to take this opportunity to thank them for their endeavors.

The month of October brings back to memory the tragic story of the ill-fated Donner Party, for it was October 28, 1846, that they were caught at the foot of Donner Summit by an early snow storm which trapped the party until the following April. Here occurred a time of anguish and travail that later was recounted the world over. Half of the original number of more than 80 emigrants died of hunger and exposure. An imposing monument, erected in 1918 by the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West, stands as a memorial to the pioneer men and women builders of California.

On Saturday, October 16, the Past Presidents' Association of the Native Sons of the Golden West met in San Francisco. Governor General Lew Giegerich presided and Lieutenant Governor Les Ashworth was elected Governor General for the ensuing term at the close of the meeting. Both of these Brothers have done much for the parent Order and are carrying on for the Past Presidents' Association. This Association is composed of the key

General Assembly Meets In San Francisco

Les Ashworth, East Bay Counties No. 3, was elected Governor General of the General Assembly of the Past Presidents Association, Native Sons of the Golden West, Saturday, October 16, at the annual meeting held in the Native Sons Building, San Francisco, under auspices of San Francisco Assembly No. 1.

Native Sons Meet With Los Angeles Elks

L. A. "Fay" Lewis, Past Exalted Ruler of the Elks of the United States and charter member of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, Anaheim, was the featured speaker at the annual Native Sons night of Los Angeles No. 99, B.P.O.E., Wednesday evening, September 22, attended not only by Native Son members of that lodge, but by Native Sons from many southland parlors.

It was at a meeting of Mother Colony Parlor in Anaheim during the summer of 1947, when "Fay" Lewis, newly elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, and Judge Walter H. Odemar, then Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, met and pledged ed the support of both great Orders in the fight against communistic and subversive influences in California and in the United States.

There is hardly a person in the United States today, and certainly not in California, who does not know how well those promises made that night before members of Mother Colony Parlor, have been carried out. For these two fraternal societies through their leadership and by the individual members, have carried the fight throughout the length and breadth of the United States.

While it is true, that the Native Sons of the Golden West, through its able Grand Parlor Americanism Committee, with Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer as chairman, naturally concentrated on California never-the-less, Native Son Congressmen carried on the fight in Washington. A member of the Native Sons Grand Parlor Committee, Congressman Richard M. Nixon of Whittier Parlor, is a member of the House un-American Activities Committee, and has been one of the leaders in the Congressional investigations now going on.

The Native Son program of Los Angeles No. 99 was arranged by Junior Past Grand President Walter H. Odemar. Among the speakers was Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, chairman of the Grand Parlor Americanism Committee.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE NATIVE SONS

Redwood Parlor No. 66, NSGW, Redwood City, celebrated its 63rd birthday Thursday evening, September 23. Although the parlor's birthday was August 15, the observance had to be held at this latter date in order to secure a suitable hall date, it is reported.

Grand 3rd Vice-President J. Walter Kamb of Berkeley, will pay his official visit to Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento, Monday evening, November 8.

University Parlor No. 272, Los Angeles, paid a visit to Ramona Parlor No. 109, Friday evening, October 15. On Wednesday evening, November 10, University Parlor is planning a turkey dinner with all the trimmings. All new members and their sponsors will enjoy a free dinner. The meeting is to be held in the parlor's lodge hall at 1329 South Hope Street.

The marching unit and drum and bugle corps of Guadalupe Parlor No. 231, NSGW, turned out Sunday, October 10, to take part in the Columbus Day festivities in San Francisco. The parlor was also well represented in the Portola Festival parade.

San Gabriel Parlor No. 291, NSGW, is now meeting on the 1st and 3rd Fridays of each month at 201 North Golden West Avenue, Temple City. The parlor now has a new bulletin, which is attractively put out with pictures of the various activities of the parlor and its members. It is known as "El Temblor."

Old Timers Night annual affair of Guadalupe, was held Tuesday evening, October 26. The following members who have belonged to the Order for 15 years were honored: Theophile H. Balch, James Bonnet, Arthur Cavagna, Daniel Moriarty, Frank Neto, Joseph Neto, Francis Thompson, Edward Wright and Phil Clerkin.

Huntington Park Parlor No. 294, NSGW, held its first Annual Past Presidents night Wednesday, October 20, with the original charter officers taking over the chairs and arranging a gala entertainment for all.

Ben Watson from the Los Angeles California Centennial Commission office and a member of El Camino Real Parlor, was the speaker at a recent meeting of Southgate Parlor No. 295, NSGW. His subject was "Native Son in South America." Having spent 18 years in South and Central America his talk was both interesting and instructive.

The editor of a parlor bulletin that comes to the Grizzly Bear desk every month slipped in writing the head for one of his stories in the October issue. He referred to one of our illustrious cities by a "nick-name." These things slip through once in awhile, but Native Sons and Daughters should take pride in the names of our California cities and use every effort to spell them correctly.

Observatory Parlor, San Jose, will hold a Centennial Dinner Dance for members and their ladies Friday evening, November 19, at the Hawaiian Gardens.

ATHLETICS

Napa Parlor's live wire Athletic Association sponsored a big bass derby for parlor members Sunday October 10. Many fine prizes were awarded the lucky anglers.

Napa Parlor entered a bowling team in the City League which began the last week in September.

Sunset Parlor No. 26, Sacramento, has entered a bowling team in the Fraternal League this year. The league bowls at the Capitol Bowl on Wednesday nights at 9:00 o'clock. The team is composed of Earl Winn, Ed Hardaker, Virgil Rominger, Ray Melford, Bill Vukajlovich, with John Ghelfi and Sid Boardman as substitutes.

The parlor will again enter a basketball team in the City League this year.

Long Beach Parlor is proud of the fact that its bowling team won the state championship at Sacramento Admission Day in competition with the best of the other Native Son teams throughout the State had to offer. Members of the team were: Capt. Joe Lewy, Bill Nicolaus, Chuck Skillman, Jack James and Hollis Brown. The parlor now has two softball, two bowling and one golf trophy, a collection that the boys feel warrants a nice trophy case.

Guadalupe Parlor, San Francisco, is planning on a ball team to enter the city's winter league. It also has five bowling teams entered in the Native Sons League.

On Sunday, September 26, Guadalupe held its semi-annual golf tournament at Crystal Springs Country Club. The parlor also has two basketball teams in the Native Sons League.

Napa Sea Scout Ship Is Christened With Ceremony

The sleek ex-navy ship used by the Sea Scouts, sponsored by Napa Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, was recently christened "Wappo" at appropriate ceremonies with the queen of the 1948 Napa County Fair bestowing the name upon the ship when she broke a bottle of rare Napa Valley vintage across the Wappo's bow.

Skipper Pete Lande, mates, Fred Brown and Clarence Haynes, as well as the Scouts themselves are mighty proud of their ship and are always ready to show her off to the members and friends. She is named for the largest tribe of Indians that inhabited the Napa Valley in early days.

The Sea Scouts took a cruise up the Sacramento River the weekend of September 4, 5 and 6.

The ship left Napa at 7:00 a.m. the 4th and arrived at Sacramento at 6:00 p.m. The boys were given liberty and enjoyed a trip to the State Fair.

They left Sacramento at 2:00 p.m. on the 5th and cruised to Rio Vista, where they stayed overnight. Leaving there at 11:00 a.m., the next morning, a stop was made at Martinez after which the ship made the homeward journey, arriving at 8:00 p.m.

The trip was a beautiful one and the boys enjoyed it very much. Liberty was granted at each stop. It proved costly to four crew members who overstayed a bit and were put on galley duty the balance of the trip. Each boy stood watch at the wheel during the trip.

A cruise to San Francisco is planned in the near future.

Native Daughters

Grand President Brings Inspiring Message

By IDA M. STOCKTON

Grand President Margaret Farnsworth was the inspiration for a reception in her honor by members of Vendome Parlor, NDGW, Saturday evening, October 2, which was held at the Sainte Claire Hotel, San Jose. Many Grand Officers and Deputy Grand Presidents as well as Santa Clara Native Daughters and Native Sons were present.

The main dining room of the hotel was transformed into a beautiful autumn garden, flanked with large yellow chrysanthemums. The speakers' table and the many small round tables throughout the dining room were exceptionally beautiful with the yellow candles and chrysanthemums casting a golden glow throughout the room. Mrs. Ada Fox Carabal of Vendome Parlor was the decorating artist.

Over 150 members and guests were present and the Grand President made a striking picture gowned in an all white dinner dress with an orchid corsage. Jack Brown of the San Jose Light Opera Guild, sang a group of songs including, "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" from Oklahoma, and concluding "The Desert Song." He was accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Haub of Vendome Parlor. Allan P. Lindsay, Assistant District Attorney, was the speaker of the evening, and after paying a tribute to Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, he spoke on the "Projects of the Order" and what they mean to the State of California. Vendome Parlor presented the Grand President with a money-order toward her "Grand Parlor Piano." In response, the Grand President said:

"Greetings, to Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, fellow officers, present and past, distinguished guests: Happiness finds expression in many ways, on an occasion such as this, where we meet and greet those whom mutual respect and esteem has given me the privilege to regard as friends. It is no more than natural that I have a big place in my heart for my own Parlor and the members of Santa Clara County, for without your help and understanding, it would have been impossible for me to have come before you tonight as your Grand President, all of which I am sincerely thankful. In looking over this splendid gathering, I note many new faces among the old, and a pang of regret is felt that so many of the dear familiar faces are wanting, so in the joy of meeting the new is mingled the regret of missing the old.

"The Native Daughters of the Golden West have a most important place to fill in the Fraternal life of California. As the oldest patriotic organization for women in our great state, it is our duty to lead the way for the women of California by the exercise of our franchise and acknowledge our responsibilities as American citizens, to uphold the true spirit of Democracy. Ours is the only great democracy in the world today and only by emulating loyalty and tolerance, set for use by the leaders of our great nation and by self-control in speech, thought and action, can we, in these great days of unrest and danger, hope to maintain peace and security of the American way of life. Let not our sympathies be swayed by any other nation, let us think American, act

American and be American. Let us have ever in mind the best interests of our beloved Order, acting at all times for the furtherance of its success and progress, but with kindly consideration for the gentle forbearance toward one another. For our Native State it is up to us to keep ever alert and to promote and foster in the minds of all Californians, a proper reverence toward those men and women, who blazed the way for California. Let us not falter in meeting our obligations. We, ourselves, are but pioneers of other generations. After us come those, who in their turn, will judge us by what we are doing now. Let us leave a good record. Our various projects, require but little effort on the part of each of us to bring them to successful reality.

"May I always feel worthy of your trust and may I be guided by Him who is always loving and charitable as well as wise in His decisions and judgments.

"I wish to thank those who have made this reception possible, and want you to know it has been greatly enjoyed and appreciated."

San Diego Parlor Has Interesting Meeting

September 27, 1948, San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW, welcomed Grand Trustee Emily Welch back from an extended vacation in New York.

Founder's Day was recalled, Deputy Grand President Sarah Miller relating the early history of the organization of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Merlene Thompson read an article telling of the discovery of San Diego Bay by Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo who took possession of all what is now California in the name of the then reigning Spanish monarchs—September 27 being the eve of the 406th anniversary.

Isabel Young related the story of Julia De Frate, a member of San Diego Parlor who was born at Los Coches, the smallest grant of land given by the Mexican government and which was recently marked as a historical landmark by Cuyamaca Parlor NSGW of El Cajon.

On November 7 San Diego Parlor will give a reception and tea honoring Grand Trustee Emily Welch in the Terrace Room at Imig Manor on El Cajon Ave. from two until five.

Stockton Native Daughters Set Up Memorial Book Fund

By ALICE JOHNSON

In response to a recent plea from Miss Margaret Klausner, city librarian as she stressed the needs of our city and county library in a talk before the Parlor on September 18th it was decided at the parlor meeting on September 27th to respond by setting up a Native Daughters Memorial Book fund as suggested by Mrs. Kenneth Harry, marshal of the parlor and chairman of the civics and memorial committee of the order assisted by members of her committee: Mrs. Roberta Swain and Mrs. Edwin Johnson.

This fund will have a dual benefit to the community in that it commemorates members of the Native Daughters and their families and assures borrowers at the library of a continuous supply of information source books on California through duplication and substitution of volumes that have hitherto been held "for reference only" because of scarcity. Some of them will be released for home reading because of this. Of value also is the fact that this fund has been set up so as to be continuous throughout the life of the organization. This assures an increasing collection for future borrowers. The volumes will be identified by specially designed book plates.

Donation to the fund will be three fold:

1. The family of each deceased member of the Parlor will be contacted and given a choice of the usual sum the Parlor spends for flowers for the funeral going either for flowers or for memorial books. The response has been overwhelmingly in favor of books as being more lasting.
2. Free will donation from Californians, who are members of our parlor, in memory of their departed loved ones.
3. General fund to take care of commemorative books for those sisters who were former members of the parlor whom have long since passed away whose relatives have likewise gone, to replace worn volumes, repair materials for books, book ends, printing of book plates, purchase of shelves and other equipment as it becomes necessary. This fund will be set up through money raising projects similar to those for homeless children and other worthy charities aided by the parlor and invested in bonds which when they mature assure a continuous supply of funds for future investments.

The first of these projects was an Antique and Silver tea held on October 16th at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Harry. The Centennial group of Camp Fire girls sponsored by the Parlor took part in the program which was open to the public.

The memorial committee will be expanded to include five members and names will be announced at the next regular meeting.

This activity of the parlor (memorial fund) has the unqualified endorsement of the Grand Parlor NDGW, through Mrs. Anne Thuesen, Past Grand President and State Chairman. Committee on Civics, in a letter written to the memorial committee.

Minerva Native Daughters Plan Christmas Bazaar

Minerva Parlor No. 2, NDGW, San Francisco, plans to greet the Holiday season with a festive bazaar to help you with your Christmas shopping problems. Members are busy with handmade linens, homemade foods, dolls, and attractive novelties for the "Pin-up Booth." A committee has been appointed to shop for prizes for the Miscellaneous Booth. There will be games to play and prizes to win.

Members of both Orders are invited to come and bring their families and friends; we promise you an entertaining and profitable evening. So put Minerva's bazaar on your list of "musts"—Saturday, December 11th, at Yosemite Hall, 120 Page Street. Doors open at 6 o'clock; there's a free cash door-prize, too.

NATIVE DAUGHTER CENTENNIAL GIRL

Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Los Angeles, proudly presents Toni Doyle, State Fair Centennial Girl, as one of its new members. Mary A. Doyle, better known as Toni, comes from a pioneer California family, her grandparents coming to this state in the early '70s.

Both her father and her mother are natives of California, her mother being a member of Californiana.

Toni attended Los Angeles High School and later the University of Arizona, where she joined Kappa Kappa Gamma. She returned to Los Angeles and entered the University of California at Los Angeles. Here she was given a signal honor in her junior year, being elected Queen of Homecoming Day of 1946.

When she decided to enter the contest for State Fair Centennial Girl in 1947, the Del Mar Beach Club sponsored her entry. There were 350 girls entered in the contest and each county of the state chose a representative from its entrants. Toni was the choice of Los Angeles County. In the final contest with 17 other girls from 47 other counties of California, she was chosen State Fair Centennial Girl.

The selection was based on poise, charm, beauty of face and figure, personality, ability to meet people, and ability to make a speech, both prepared and extemporaneous. It is gratifying to know that the product of our Western culture, a daughter of California pioneers, fulfilled these exacting requirements and will reign as State Fair Centennial Girl during the three Centennial years.

She has various pleasant duties and commitments in the role of State Fair Centennial Girl. She was privileged to announce the theme of the Rose Parade at Pasadena, rode in the Los Angeles County Float in the 1948 New Years Tournament of Roses Parade, was made "Little Rose Bowl Queen" for the East-West game. She appeared in the 1947 Anaheim Halloween Festival Parade, in the Portola Festival Parade in San Francisco in October, and played a prominent part in the festivities of the 1948 California State Fair.

When Toni has time, she likes to model. She is the youngest in the Doyle family and has two older brothers, who are very proud of their famous little sister.

AGO

Christmas Day, December 25, 1873, came on a Thursday. Storms during the month had caused fears of a dry season to fade away. An optimistic feeling loosened the purse-strings of farmer, miner and business man, and throughout California made the holiday season one of the best, for trade, yet enjoyed.

The only mishap chronicled to mar the merry day happened to a Grass Valley, Nevada County, young man. He purchased, in the same store, a fine dress-pattern for his fiancé and a suit of red-flannel underclothes for himself. In some way the packages got mixed, and after the young woman had received and opened her expected Christmas present, the engagement was emphatically broken off.

Crown Point paid a dividend of $2 a share, making $8,525,000 it had paid out in twenty months, and Belcher added $450,000 with a dividend this month. There was a boom in Ophir that sent it from $80 to $310 a share and took the prices of other stocks upward with it.

The snow king held sway during this month. December 2 a heavy storm came in with a flurry of snow in San Francisco. It began snowing in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys at daybreak and snowflakes continued to fall until dark. Two feet of snow covered the Coast Range, and nearly seven inches fell in Sacramento City. On the summit of the Sierras twelve feet of snow fell. It was the heaviest snowfall in the state since 1861. General John Bidwell at Chico, Butte County, said it was the heaviest snowfall he had seen in the Sacramento Valley since 1847. Another snowstorm prevailed December 15, but was a small one in comparison.

The rainfall for the month in San Francisco was 10:33 inches, making 12:24 inches for the season. Livestock suffered, and heavy losses to stockmen were reported from cold and lack of feed.

At Milton, Calaveras County, December 16, a tornado passed over the town at 1 p. m. lasting a short time but blowing down several buildings and doing an estimated damage of $10,000.

J. A. White, in Plumas County, after the storm of the 2nd, came upon a flock of about fifty deer struggling through the snow along the hillside of Jameson Creek. He had a Henry rifle and fired twenty-nine shots at them, without hitting a deer. He was too excited.

Captain John A. Luttrell, December 1 in Scott Valley, Siskiyou County, killed an enormous black bear weighing 600 pounds. In the gulch, a year previous, he killed a grizzly bear popularly known as "Old Samson."

A Los Angeles editor was enthusiastic over the fact that over 100 Eastern visitors were wintering there.

John Brown Sr. came into San Bernardino December 1 and set the populace wild with excitement by showing specimens of quartz "lousy" with gold, which came from a ledge discovered by Charles Carter in Bear Valley. Carter, riding along a seldom used trail in the hills, saw, glinting in the sunshine, an object on a piece of quartz on the hillside. To see what the shining object was, he dismounted and after examination found it to be a streak of gold imbedded in the quartz boulder. He then found the ledge, which was sixty feet wide in places and stood, occasionally, as many feet above the ground. It extended an unknown distance, and hundreds of intending locators prepared to leave at once for Bear and Holcombe Valleys.

Vasques, with a mounted band of fifteen Mexicans, entered the town of Kingston, Fresno County, at 7 p. m., December 26. They tied up thirty-five men found in the stores and saloons and robbed them and the stores of about $2000 in money, jewelry and other valuables. They then rode away. A posse was organized and started after them. It was reported they had captured one of the band.

OUR COVER

All California wants a heavy snow pack in the High Sierras this winter. Faced with falling water tables, drastic curtailment of domestic and irrigation water, and serious power shortages, next summer will be a hard one for all of us if the drought is not broken this winter with bountiful snow and rain storms from the Oregon border to San Diego on the south.

So, at this season of the year, it is with considerable pride that the Grizzly Bear presents, through courtesy of Yosemite Park and Curry Co., the beautiful snow scene of Half Dome in Yosemite Park taken a few winters ago by Ansel Adams, one of America's famous photographers. It should brighten the hearts of all Californians.

SELL YOUR HOMELESS CHILDREN STAMPS

The directors of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc., have decided to request every member of each Order to show his or her willingness to help the official charity of said Orders during this Christmas season. Every member of the Native Sons and the Native Daughters will receive a communication from our Charity, sent through the assistance of the secretary of each Parlor, requesting the Native Son or Daughter to SELL the one hundred Homeless Children stamps accompanying the letter for at least $5.00 and to return the money received in a self-addressed envelope, which requires no postage, together with a slip which asks for the name, address and Parlor name and number of the member.

There are many of us who feel the rank and file want to help and that they will when given the opportunity. Many of us feel that they also would like to have a little knowledge of what the Agency does, and so we are also sending a folder which explains a few of the highlights of our work. It is hoped all will read the pamphlet for such information, which it contains.

Many feel, and this writer is very sincere in the thought, that if the members of the Native Sons and Native Daughters are not each willing to put in a little effort and either SELL, or themselves buy, the stamps for at least $5.00, then we, as Orders, should abandon this most creditable and worthwhile Charitable work, take our name from it and let someone else do it and get credit for doing it. If it is ours, if it bears our names, LET US DO IT.

Obviously the 12 directors can only do a part of the work, or are not able to supply the necessary finances themselves. ALL must help. And all will have the opportunity this month.

This is our charity, a charity that cannot be equalled for those interested in the future of their Native State. Let's all join in a truly Christmas spirit and do our little bit to insure the continuance of this most wonderful and Christ-like work, assisting our fellow man, the homeless waif.

May I also take this opportunity to wish all members of both Orders my most sincere Holiday Greetings.

Native Daughter Wins Place With Pacific Opera Company

Pauline Pappas of Vallejo Parlor No. 195, has just won the K.Y.A. Opera Audition of the New Pacific Opera Company and made her debut at the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco on Saturday, November 13, in the role of "Lola" from the play Cavaleria —Rusticana.

This popular young Native Daughter, while a Junior at Hayward Parlor, sang for members of Alameda County and received favorable commendation for her wonderful voice. She later joined Vallejo Parlor where her mother, Matilda Pappas is a member.

She was awarded a contract with the Opera Company on Sunday, November 31, at the Academy of Music on Russian Hill in San Francisco.

The best wishes of all Native Sons and Native Daughters go to her for success in her chosen career.

Mother Lode Trek

AMADOR COUNTY

This is the second of a series of the Trek of the Mother Lode, which includes most of the Important places in Amador County.

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW.

CONTINUING south on highway 49 from El Dorado county, the first town is Plymouth in Amador county.

The lower end of the flat where Plymouth is now located was named, during the early mining days, "Pokerville" of which not much is known. However, it is said that there were about thirty miners and is believed that it derived its name because they were always playing poker. Plymouth proper was settled by Green Aden and others while searching for gold quartz. It grew to a large community due to the development of such mines and is still thriving as it is a farming center.

Six miles east of Plymouth is Fiddletown which was settled by a party of Missourians in 1849 and so called because the new settlers were always fiddling. A resident started a movement to change the name to "Oleta" in 1878 and was known as same until a few years ago when it was again changed to its original name. It was inactive in the beginning but when gold was discovered on American Flat, French Flat and American Hill in 1852 the town grew to the extent whereby it had several general merchandise stores, a large number of saloons, several hotels also a drug store. In the same year the United States hotel was kept by Devitt and Pope, the latter of which became a member of the Supreme Court. Wells Fargo & Company had an office in the United States hotel and four stage lines made connections here carrying passengers to Indian Diggings, Drytown, Plymouth and other mining communities. Fiddletown is immortalized in Bret Harte's story "An Episode of Fiddletown." Many old buildings still remain, among them are a few old Chinese adobes all that is left of the Chinatown which was located on the west end of Main street. Fiddletown is a picturesque place and still retains the early day atmosphere.

Three miles south of Plymouth on the 49 highway is Drytown which is still a populated community and derived its name from the dry creek running through it also it is the oldest town in the county. At one time it had twenty-six saloons.

As early as May 1848 miners worked the gulches in the vicinity. The first store was operated by a man named Pilkinton which was established in a house made of brush. The Mexican inhabitants mined during the summer with batayas or the dry wash method. Until 1853 Drytown consisted of a large number of log cabins but in 1854 brick buildings were erected. During the years 1856, '57 Drytown reached its height and was booming. In the fall of 1857 the town was struck by fire and was destroyed with the exception of three buildings which were saved. It was famous as a stage station connecting Latro and Ione. In its surrounding vicinity a Murderer's Gulch, Blood Gulch, Rattlesna Gulch which were very rich but after the great influx of miners they were soon worked out. Two old buildings still stand today, the old store and town hall.

Still continuing south on highway 49 three miles from Drytown is Amador City. Oregonians arrived in 1848 and built the first cabins and in 1849 James T. Wheeler and others built a log cabin. In 1851 a firm consisting of Davidson, Glover, Herbert and Cool started the first quartz gold mining in Amador county. Davidson, a Baptist preacher made the first discovery in February the same year. Many large mines were located here most of which are now closed. Among them were the Keystone, Bunker Hill, Fremont, Amador Queen and Walnut Hill. Several old buildings can still be seen such as the old Fleethart store once well known trading point for miners, the old Amador hotel and Imperial hotel. It is interesting to note the old two story brick building which was once the Keystone mine office.

Three miles southward of Amador City on highway 49 is Sutter Creek. This vicinity was first visited by Captain John A. Sutter in 1846 and again in 1948. It is said that Jim Wheeler, Boz Goodrich and Dick Mouton were the first to use the longtom to sluice the gravel beds in Amador county. In 1851 the first family groups settled here and the first church, which was Methodist, was dedicated in 1863 by Dr. Thomas who was later slain in the Canby massacre during the Modoc Indian war of 1873. Wells Fargo and Company established their office and the settlement grew to a good size community. It was partly destroyed by fire in September, 1861 and rebuilt. Sutter Creek was first incorporated in 1856. Some of the large mines are the Old Eureka and Central Eureka. The Old Eureka was discovered in 1852 and the Central Eureka in 1869. Among the large early day mines were the Lincoln, Mahoney and the South Eureka. A few historic buildings are still standing the Masonic Hall, John Keyes and the Alvinza Hayward Office building.

Two miles south of Sutter Creek is Martell and about ten miles west of Martell is Ione located on highway 104. Ione was first named "Bedbug," then Freezout and later changed to Ione. The first brick store was erected by Dan Stuart in 1855. In 1876 it had a large Chinese population, four stores, two hotels, a brewery, two blacksmith shops, harness shop three shoe shops, jewelry store and numerous other types of business houses. The first railroad reached here in December, 1876. It was flooded during the winters of 1861 and 1862 causing much damage. Ione at present is a large place. The Preston School of Industry was established in 1889. Many old

We Observe

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

We haven't received anything for a long time that pleased us so much as a big Grizzly Bear 15 inches high and over two feet long, presented to us by George F. Hennessy of San Luis Rey Parlor No. 500. It is really a work of art, covered with a soft brown substance giving natural folds to the skin. Its wide-open red mouth displaying white teeth and black nose give it a realistic appearance that causes everyone who sees it in our office window to stop and look. Playing at the feet of the big fellow are several little bears that win the hearts of old and young alike. We're really quite proud of this big Grizzly and hope to show him to you at some of the Native Sons and Daughters festivities in the near future. Perhaps, in a parade some day, you may see him riding the shiny hood of a gaily decorated car, escorted by a couple of beautiful Native Daughters. Who knows.

George Hennessy of the George F. Hennessy Manufacturing Co., Vista, San Diego County, makes all kinds of bears: Papa Bears, Mama Bears, Baby Bears, for souvenirs, center pieces and party favors. You've probably seen his products wherever souvenir bears are displayed, for they are distributed nationally. The big bear that we have has been purchased by several hotels and resorts for dinners and festivities in honor of California's Centennial Years.

One of the most recent parlor bulletins to come to the Grizzly Bear desk is the "Aloha Victory," official publication of Aloha Parlor No. 106, NDGW, Oakland, edited by Leona Suesman, publicity chairman of the parlor. Attractively mimeographed, the first thing that meets the eye is the month's schedule of events arranged in such a way that the member can cut it out and paste it on her calendar. In following paragraphs the events of the month are elaborated upon, together with personal mention of the members working on the various activities of the parlor. A bulletin of this type represents a great deal of effort on the part of one or two individuals and too much praise can not be given them for a job well done.

Other parlors not having bulletins, both Native Sons and Native Daughters, might take a tip from the many successful bulletins being put out regularly, and try such a venture. Pack it full of the activities of your own parlor and personals about its members, and you'll be surprised the interest that you will arouse. But, we warn you, it's work, and something that has to be done every month.

Maybe we shouldn't mention this. Usually it's the Grizzly Bear editor's face that is red, when some error gets by us, or an event is cancelled after the story is in print. However, this time we can sit back and grin at our fellow editors, both newspaper and magazine, who jumped the gun on the November election, the result being some of the greatest boners in journalistic history. You've all seen them if you read the newspapers or take any of the national publications. Need we say more.

Down in Borrego Valley, San Diego County, where George Hoberg is opening his splendid new desert resort, about which you'll hear in a future issue of the Grizzly Bear, they are planning for the second annual Pegleg Trek

Cypress Headland, Big Dome, in the Point Lobos Reserve State Park, which shows what is said to be the sole remaining natural grove of Monterey Cypress. Point Lobos is claimed to be "The Greatest Meeting of Land and Water in the World."

The park's other points of interest include Pine Woods, a stand of Monterey Pine, protected in its natural state; Whalers Knoll, the meadows, and the south shore, with a wealth of wild flowers and colorful plant life... 250 species of shrubs and other plants have been listed here.

Seal Rocks, off Cypress Headland, with colonies of California sea lions and Steller's sea lions, are interesting. The sea otter, recently rediscovered, is to be found nearby. Bird Island, off the south shore of the reserve, is the farthest north breeding place of the California brown pelican and the nesting place for cormorants and many interesting species of seaweed and marine invertebrates.

The reserve is located about nine miles south of Monterey and is open to the public all year around. Picnicking facilities are provided and fishing from the shore is allowed. There are no camping facilities and dogs or firearms are not allowed.

All in all, Point Lobos is a beautiful place and should be visited by all who can make the trip. The Grizzly Bear is indebted to Arthur E. Lundy of San Jose for the photo and description of Point Lobos State Park.

on New Year's Day, to hunt for the lost Pegleg Mine. It will be a double-barreled affair this year as a contest to find the biggest liar in the desert country will be held at the campfire program New Year's Eve, at the site selected for Pegleg's monument.

The participants, and all who care to listen to the yarns, are invited to bring their bedrolls and make an all-night camp on the sandy floor of the desert near the base of Borrego's Coyote mountain. Campers are warned that they should bring their own grub and water, as there are no hot-dog-and-soda stands in the vicinity.

The Pegleg gold hunt is a very informal affair—any person being eligible for the hunt after depositing ten rocks on the mound which is being erected as a monument to Ol' Pegleg.

The committee in charge of this year's event is composed of Ray Hetherington; Harry Oliver, desert rat extraordinary, and commander of Fort Oliver, Thousand Palms, editor of The Desert Rat Scrapbook (America's only five-page newspaper); A. A. (Doc) Beatty, Borrego pioneer and Randall Henderson, editor of the Desert Magazine. Ed Duval is camp foreman, while Desert Steve Ragsdale, Hank E. W. Wilson and Major Robert Ransom have been named judges of the Liar's contest.

The editor of the Grizzly Bear hopes to be among those present this year.

Mother Colony Member Pays Tribute To Early Pioneers

There is an unusual book out at Knott's Berry Farm, Buena Park, Orange County. You'll find it in the Bottle House. Its very pages breathe an enchanting aura of the past. It contains the signatures of those folks whose families came to California by covered wagon. A few of these names were signed with age cramped fingers belonging to the very pioneers who braved the western trek across the plains about the time California became a state.

To us this is a noteworthy undertaking and we commend Native Son Walter Knott for his part in preserving the names of those historic pioneers who were to be the first residents of the great state of California.

To those Native Sons and Daughters whose own families came here by prairie schooner or "around the Horn," they too are entitled to affix their signatures among those of California's first. Along with that privilege they will receive a certificate of membership in the Society of Covered Wagon Folks, descendants of our pioneer forefathers.

This is a kindly memorial that one should be proud to possess for it is written in tribute to those whose forebears shared the hardships of the stalwart men and women who first carried our America westward to establish our Golden State on blue Pacific shores.

Santa Barbara Natives Get Editorial Comment

Editor's Note: Seldom do the Native Sons of the Golden West attract the comment which Santa Barbara Parlor did in an editorial in the Santa Barbara News-Press prior to their "Home Show," which ended Sunday night, October 31. Said the News-Press in its issue of Saturday, October 23:

"The Native Sons of the Golden West in Santa Barbara next week will give a four-day 'Home Show' at Cabrillo Pavillion on East Cabrillo Boulevard. Their plans for this show are a fine expression of the traditions and objectives of The Native Sons, and one of the best services that any organization could give to the people of a city like Santa Barbara.

"The Native Sons of the Golden West meet and work together to keep alive the best traditions of the state they were born in and to keep the history of this state and its meaning fresh in the minds of each succeeding generation of native and adopted sons and daughters of California.

"A few people came to California for gold but almost all of the people in California today and almost all the earlier Californians whose children now live here, came to this state for better homes. The Native Sons honor and help to continue the greatest service of their state to humanity when they turn their attention and efforts to exhibitions that will help to improve homes in their communities.

"No one should think that because Santa Barbara is noted for its fine homes that Santa Barbara does not need 'Home Shows' to show the public how good homes can be made better. We have in Santa Barbara more opportunity than can be found in most places to have beautiful homes—from cottages to palatial residences. We are not making the most use of these opportunities. We need 'Home Shows' in the same measure as we fail to make every home in this city as good as the natural setting and climatic advantages of this city invite its homes to be.

"The Native Sons should succeed with their Good Home idea in Santa Barbara. Almost everyone in Santa Barbara came here or stays here for some reason connected with a good home. They see around them every invitation to build or develop a good home. They should attend and take interest in every showing of anything and everything that is needed to make a home good."

True to the News-Press prediction, the "Home Show" met with great enthusiasm, both from the exhibitors and the general public. From now on it will be an annual event, and because of its success it will be necessary to rent larger quarters next year. Already, it is reported, more business houses are asking for space in the next event.

The committee for the Native Sons was headed by Past Grand Trustee Thomas J. McDermott as general chairman, Capt. W. H. Rutherford and Raymond B. Romero.

Hallowe'en Party Given At Centennial Exhibit

The ghost town setting and Mother Lode gold display of the California Centennials Commission in Pershing Square, Los Angeles, was the scene of a traditional Hallowe'en party for children and friends of Native Sons and Daughters of Los Angeles County on Saturday, October 31. No decorations were necessary for the Commission's exhibit included a century old miners hut, complete with windlass, stag horns and gold ore, a real stamp mill, water wheel, and other early methods of mining.

Although party hours were in the mid-afternoon, Native Sons and Daughters were hosts and hostesses throughout the day for it was their day at the exhibit. Gertrude Allen (Los Angeles ND) was chairman for the reception committee.

Ella V. Steinbeck (Los Angeles ND), centennials chairman for Interparlor Committee was assisted by Mrs. John Genest (Los Angeles ND) and the wives of Native Son Jack C. Williams (University), John E. Schmolle (Ramona) and Everett Harris (University), Pat, Bernice and Beatrice.

The children's costumes parade was judged by Mary Foy and Grace Vejar (Californian ND) and Mel A. Bley (Pasadena NS). Prize were awarded to the boys and girls wearing the most typical centennial outfits, first prize going to Larry and Susan Schmolle.

Games, prizes and refreshments galore assured the children that it was a gala party.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S —MESSAGE—

This might seem rather belated to read about the Fiesta Days of San Rafael, but from the proceeds of this very fine event came a most generous presentation of two checks of $600. each for our Homeless Children. Sunday night, November 15, Marinita Parlor, Native Daughters and Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, Native Sons, in a joint meeting presented Grand Vice President Henrietta Toothaker and myself with checks totaling $1200 for the Homeless Children.

Not only will the Fiesta Days go down in history as one of the very best events of the year, but their thought of giving the profits of this venture to that most worthy cause is outstanding. To me this proves the faith of our two Orders in the Homeless Children project. If we could transfer this same spirit to the other communities throughout the State, our Homeless Children project would never want.

We are only having one drive this year to raise money for the Homeless Children. The stamps should be in your hands by the time you read this article. Your generous contribution will not only be appreciated, but will indicate to the general committee your faith in this project.

Many parlors have qualified in the membership and delinquent member contest which ends December 31. Now is the time to help your parlor win one of these very fine prizes by inviting a friend to join.

Not only have we instituted Beverly Hills Parlor, but Antioch Parlor is scheduled for December 18. Many of our fine old parlors have been strengthened materially, proving the value of our participation in the many Centennials. The entire population of this great State of ours has its eyes on, not only what we are doing now, but what the Native Sons and Native Daughters have accomplished preserving the historical spots in the past.

Just a little more about the wonderful success of Byron Parlor. In a year's time this parlor has come up from 17 members to 175, with the promise of 200 by December 21. Big Brother Fruitvale Parlor was the sparkplug. What they can do others can.

What better way could the spirit, which comes to us as we near another Christmas, be shown, than to help build up another link of this great chain of Native Sons parlors. Let's accept our slogan and take off our coats and go to work.

May I wish each and everyone of you a very Merry Christmas and a most Prosperous New Year.

WALTER N. BAILEY,
Grand President.

Grand President Walter N. Ramona No. 109 Is Visited By Pasadena Parlor Members

President Bill Eichler and his loyal host of followers from Pasadena poured into Ramona's austere chambers the night of October 22. Naturally, with walls vibrating and chandeliers swinging it was an extremely short business meeting. With a great deal of pleasure, Brother Leon J. Leonard was re-instated.

Ducks Unlimited, a colored motion picture, was the feature of the evening. The narrator, V. D. Hale, entertained us for about 45 minutes. This organization is proud of its record. It has completed over 250 projects, improved over one million nesting acres, reduced predators, banded more than 50,000 wild ducks, made people more conservation-minded and kept duck numbers higher.

With help they can expand their conservation program during the next ten years to keep duck production at highest numbers possible in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba where most of North America's waterfowl breed. To do this they must fight many adverse factors which challenge constantly and must continue to supply safety havens. Strangely enough water, vital to nesting wild ducks, can devastate them, too. More dams must be built as a means of stabilizing water areas against killing drought and floods. Wise conservation can help assure a future for these sporting birds.

Thanksgiving Dinner Honors Napa Drum & Bugle Corps

Napa Parlor No. 62, NSGW, planned to honor its Drum and Bugle Corps at its annual Thanksgiving turkey dinner Saturday night, November 20, with all indications pointing towards an outstanding event. The Napa Drum and Bugle Corps are State Champions in Class "B" and they were honored guests on this occasion.

Initiatory ceremonies were also scheduled for a large class of candidates to be inducted by a degree team of past presidents headed by Jess Stephenson.

Pacific No. 10 Celebrates Sixty-Seventh Anniversary

On Tuesday evening, November 9th, Sierra Hall in the Native Sons Building, San Francisco, was filled to capacity, when Pacific Parlor celebrated its 67th anniversary. The presentation of 25 and 50-year membership pins to a number of the members, was one of the outstanding events of the evening. Grand Trustee Lewis A. Giegerich, a member of Pacific Parlor, bestowed the 25-year emblems, on behalf of the Parlor, to Brothers J. C. Baggenstos, Thomas B. Duffy, L. G. Ernest, J. F. Kelly, H. W. Potter, E. P. Saunders, and Charles F. Smith. Honored for fifty years of loyal and faithful membership in our order were: Brothers Constant J. Auger, Lewis E. Kingsley and Francis H. "Bert" Dam.

Highlighting the evening's program, was an address by Pacific Parlor's only living Charter Member, 92-year-old William "Bill" Metzner, who served the Parlor as President in 1882, and whose interest in the affairs of our order has not waned with the years. Despite his advanced age, "Bill" makes his annual visit to the Parlor without the aid or assistance of an escort. Speaking in a firm strong voice, Bro. Metzner recounted many of the trials and tribulations that beset Pacific Parlor during its formative years. For a brief period the audience relived with the Parlor's first president, the exciting and nostalgic events of a bygone era. His anecdotes and recollections painted a vivid word picture of the early years of the Parlor's history, blending the names of men and places into an historical tapestry, which the passage of years have caused to assume legendary proportions.

Another outstanding member present on this occasion was Brother Frank R. Neville, president of Pacific Parlor in 1896, who was in a large measure responsible for the founding of the Past Presidents' Association.

Past Grand President Edward J. Lynch, of Pacific Parlor, gave a brief address on the affairs of our order thirty years ago. Grand 1st VP Peter Conmy, represented our Grand President, had for his topic, the colorful background of Pacific Parlor. Grand Trustee Armen Nishkian made a short talk on the progress of the order of the Native Sons. Supervising District Deputy GP Clifford Wayman, member of Pacific Parlor welcomed the distinguished guests. Chairman of the evening was Bert D. Paolinelli, who looks forward to bigger and better anniversaries with the succeeding years.

Plans Being Made To Mark
Old Mission Site At Jamul

Plans are being formulated to place a suitable marker on each of the old Spanish Grants through which the highways of San Diego County pass, the program to be spread over a period of five years due to the amount of research necessary to secure accurate data and information relative to each Spanish Grant.

Past President James Willits of San Diego Parlor, has been appointed chairman of a committee to work out some plan for the proper consummation of this most important and truly needed designation showing where these historical Grants actually were.

Another important landmark is being considered for proper marking is the Old Mission located at Jamul. With practically no trace of this Old Mission left and very few being aware that such a Mission ever existed at this location, Past President Willits has assumed the responsibility for securing information on the landmark.

First Official Visit Made To San Francisco County

A new innovation was made in San Francisco County on October 28th, when Grand President Margaret Farnsworth made her first official visit to San Francisco County. For the first time in the history of San Francisco County, a Grand President visited jointly six Parlors. The meeting was held in the spacious Masonic Temple. Sponsoring the evening were the following hostess Parlors: Orinda No. 56, Buena Vista No. 68, Keith No. 137, Golden Gate No. 158, Dolores No. 169 and Utopia No. 252. Over five hundred members of the bay area joined with the group in welcoming the Grand President to San Francisco County.

The arrangements for such a large group is no easy assignment. Many details must be worked out to a successful conclusion. Chosen as general chairman of the evening by the group of chairmen representing each Parlor, was Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson of Dolores Parlor. The chairman, with the cooperation of the other sub-chairmen of each Parlor, worked diligently and with forethought to carrying out the evening. As the members entered the hall, it was almost felt an "Autumn Grand Parlor" was in session.

The Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County attired in their identical dresses of white chiffon, entered in a group. Followed the officers of each hostess Parlor, announced by PGP Carlson as they entered the hall and took space reserved for them. Then a selected ritualistic team entered, the officers chosen from each group, with Alma Klahn of Orinda Parlor the presiding officer of the evening.

An escort of eighteen representing each Parlor, formed a delightful escort for the Grand President as she was escorted to the altar and introduced.

The following Grand Officers were presented for introduction: Grand Vice President, Henrietta Toothaker; Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler; Grand Treasurer Agnes M. Curry; a full representation of the Board of Grand Trustees, Elmarie Dyke of Pacific Grove; Jewel McSweeney, Leslye Hicks and Ruth Trousdale of San Francisco; Marion Brien of Napa; Emily Welch of San Diego and Juanita Austin of Quincy. Following the Grand Officers, were presented the Past Grand Presidents: Mary E. Bell, May C. Bolde-mann, Bertha B. Briggs, Loretta M. Cameron, Evelyn I. Carlson, Clarice E. Cook, Orinda G. Giannini, Claire Lindsey, Mae Himes Noonan, Emily E. Ryan and Mae B. Wilkin.

The Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County formed a special escort for the introduction of SDDGP Vera Thompson of Keith Parlor.

The ritual ceremonies were presented in a most commendable manner to a large group of candidates.

The presentations of the evening were made by Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks of Buena Vista Parlor who presented to the Grand President on behalf of the six participating Parlors the following gifts: $15.00 to the Restoration of Missions Fund; $10.00 to the Native Daughters Home toward the Thanksgiving dinner of the Home Family and the adoption of little Baby Ward, named in honor of the Grand President's husband, Ward Farnsworth, with a check for $37.50 toward La Tijera Parlor No. 282, NDGW, recently initiated into membership three members of one of Inglewood's oldest pioneer families. Mrs. Frank Bennett, her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Bennett Dickerson, and granddaughter, Mrs. Phyllis Dickerson Rockwell, making up three generations. Two other members of the family also belong to the parlor, Mrs. Vera Bennett Warnell, charter organist, now a trustee, and Mildred Bennett Dittmar. Also initiated at the same meeting, but not pictured above, was Mrs. Frances Willyard, a third generation Californian.

the Milk Fund of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency, Inc. The personal gift to the Grand President was a $50.00 note, to be used toward the purchase of a cherished dream—a spinet piano at the close of the term. Grand President Farnsworth was very touched with the presentations and responded in a gracious and inspiring message.

Speaking for the Grand Officers was Grand Trustee Emily Welch of San Diego and Bertha B. Briggs representing the Past Grand Presidents. SDDGP Vera Thompson extended congratulations on the successful evening. Each President presented her own Deputy Grand President with a colorful leather wallet. Refreshments were served in the Black and Gold Mirror Room of the Masonic Temple.

The members voted that the parlor sponsor their showing in this area at an early date.

A gift was presented to the Grand President by Florence Boyle and Ruth Brown as "Ma and Pa" who found a homeless baby in their garden of poppies. The Drill Team presented a special drill by forming the letters "M.F."

Beloved Member Called

The Charter of Angelita Parlor No. 32, Livermore, was draped in memory of Sister Mary Henry, who, following a short illness, passed away November 2, 1948. She was born in Livermore on April 27, 1872 and spent her life in this vicinity. She was an active member of Angelita Parlor for many years and her presence will be missed not only by the members of that parlor, but also by members of surrounding parlors. Surviving her are two sons and three grandchildren, all residing in Livermore.

Entertain Grand President

Grand President Margaret Farnsworth of Vendome Parlor No. 100, San Jose, paid her official visit to Vallejo Parlor No. 195 and Benecia Parlor No. 287 at a joint meeting held in the Casa de Vallejo on November 3. A dinner was held in her honor preceding the meeting with over 100 in attendance.

Nine candidates were initiated into Vallejo Parlor and one into Benecia Parlor, with officers of Vallejo Parlor, headed by President Emily MacFarland, performing the opening and closing ceremonies. The ritualistic work was rendered by officers of Benecia Parlor, Dorothy Bishop, president.

The proceeds from a mysterious package were presented to the Grand President to be turned over to her favorite project, which proved to be the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency work.

Benecia's gift to the Grand President was in the form of a golden tree with coins wrapped in golden paper. Cherie Durkee recited a clever original poem as she made the presentation. A gold covered wagon containing gold covered coins was the gift of Vallejo Parlor.

Elvena Woodard, a past president of Vallejo Parlor, was presented with a 25-year pin by the Grand President.

Vallejo Parlor entertained its members at turkey dinner on November 17 and a Christmas party, with gifts for all, is being planned for December.

Lugonia Parlor No. 241, NDGW, San Bernardino, entered an old stage coach in the "Days of Gold" parade held there October 23. The coach is one of Dr. George L. Shaler's famous collection of ancient vehicles. Native Daughters who rode in the coach were Mrs. May Cochran, president of Lugonia Parlor; Miss Svetla Medori, president of the Junior Native Daughters; Mrs. Clara Benson, civic chairman; Mes. Virginia Bliss, Iva Giloy and Helen Esson. Their costumes were chosen to depict the stagecoach era following the year 1850. They won first award in the stagecoach division of the parade and received a fine trophy. The Junior Native Daughters of San Bernardino also won a trophy for first place in the young people's division.—Photo by Steele.

El Vesperto Parlor Honors Grand Trustee At Tea

On Sunday afternoon, October 10, El Vesperto Parlor No. 118 Native Daughters of the Golden West, San Francisco, honored their esteemed member, Grand Trustee Jewel McSweeney, with a tea at the Native Daughters' Home. The rooms and tables were beautifully decorated in autumn colors and flowers.

Among those in the receiving line with the honored guest, was the chairlady Marguerite Kemme, the Parlor's President Adele Turner, Deputy Grand President Nelda Ehrhorn and the delegates to Grand Parlor, Bernadine Torres, Gladys M. Smith, Nan Walsh and Clara Brady.

During the afternoon music was supplied by Past Grand Organist Frances Simas and her musicians. Jewel was the recipient of many lovely gifts, including one from the Parlor.

Grand Officers Entertain For Junior Unit No. 6

Sponsoring the evening were Grand Treasurer Agnes M. Curry and Grand Trustee Jewel McSweeney, Leslye Hicks and Ruth Trousdale. The party was held in the Native Daughter Home by gracious consent of the Native Daughter Home Committee (and the tolerance of the noise—until almost midnight of the Home Family).

Assisting the Grand Officers were Advisors PGP Giannini, PGP Ryan, Nelson, Petty and Nau. Also assisting in the entertainment—at the piano Elvira Root and Carolyn Huerig, with the games.

The Juniors were all in costume and appropriate prizes given for costumes and representations.

brick buildings built in a past era still remain. Midway between Martell and Ione is a monument alongside the highway erected in memory of Michael (Mike) Tovey, Wells Fargo messenger, who was killed here on June 15, 1893 by a lone bandit, and to the other early Wells Fargo messengers and stage drivers of California. This tablet was placed by the NSGW and NDGW of Amador county, September 8, 1929.

A few miles south of Ione is Buena Vista which formed a part of the tract of land granted to Theodosia Yerba in the year 1840 by Governor Juan B. Alvarado. Buena Vista became a trading post in 1849 where a store was kept by a man named Diggs. During the early days this area also was known for cattle raising. When the Turner ditch was brought in, mining was carried on; on the north side of the valley.

Two miles south of Martell is Jackson, the largest city in Amador county, also the birthplace of the writer. Known at first as "Batayes" so called by Mexicans in 1948 because of the large number of bottles found beside a nearby spring left by early miners. Later the name was changed to Jackson in honor of Colonel Jackson. The first settler was Louis Tellier who erected a log cabin covered with rawhide. However, in December 1850 it had one hundred houses. The hangman's tree stood in the east side of Main street, its location now marked by a bronze tablet placed in the sidewalk. Jackson is the location of the famous Argonaut and Kennedy mines. Others are the Zeilie, South Jackson and Oneida. Some of the old buildings were the Wells Fargo, and George Brown House. It is also interesting to note that the order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West was founded in Jackson in 1886. In 1861 Jackson was visited by a flood and many buildings were damaged. It became the county seat of Amador county in 1854 upon the organization of the county.

Volcano is located about nine miles east of Jackson, being among one of the largest mining communities in the mother lode during the fifties. Volcano was located in 1948 by a party of discharged soldiers of Stevenson's regiment after the Mexican War who built two houses in Soldier's gulch. In 1849 two more houses were built on the present site of Volcano. The Woley-Green party arrived and were the first business men. They were followed by many others which formed a large population. Clapboard Gulch, Indian Gulch and other gulches were found to be very rich so in 1853 canals were built to convey water to the claims. Hydraulic mining was the principal method during the winter of 1853-54. The newspaper, Amador Ledger, started here in 1855 by Thomas H. Springer.

The Mahoney Hall was used as an armory during the civil war by the Volcano Blues. Near Volcano is Hunt's Gulch and Platsburg. There are many old buildings still standing in Volcano, the old jail, post office, I.O.O.F. and Masonic Hall, Adam's Express office, St. George Hotel, stores, saloons and brewery.

One mile south of Jackson on highway 49 is Scottsville which sprung up during the tunnel Hill rush. A number of tunnels were sunk into the low ridge east of the village and proved to be exceedingly rich. This is also the location of the Moore gold quartz mine.

About two miles south of Scottsville on 49 is Butte City. The old Ginocchio store, a stone frame building, is all that remains of the business section of the early day town. It was erected in 1854 and burned toward the end of the century. North of the townsite is Butte Basin which is scarred by old ditches and placer mining excavations. The gravel here is lava capped, the result of ancient volcanic activity. This area is now used as farming land. To the north of the basin is Butte mountain, over 2,000 feet in elevation.

Big Bar also on highway 49 is located on the Mokelumne river. The first mining was carried on by members of Colonel Stevenson's regiment followed by a group of Oregonians in the fall of 1948. The first ferry was operated by a Scotchman and the price of passage was one dollar. Soher & Parrish erected the first bridge in 1853.

Big Veterans Party Planned By Los Angeles Interparlor

Christmas fun for the veterans will again be the goal of the Inter-Parlor Committee of Los Angeles county this year as they plan a bingo party for 1000 men!

Beverly Hills Native Daughters will chairman the event, the committee headed by Miss Rosemary Connor. As we go to press Miss Connor has given a tentative committee representing every section of the county including: Virginia Connor, Senaida Sullivan, Charlotte Spain, Stella Connor, Ann Schiebusch, Eugenia Smith, Ella Steinbeck, Blanch Oeschel, Florence Grass, Peggy Enz, Hazel Goodnoe, Grace Vejar, Beatrice Wahrmond, Shirley Kinet, Pat Thomas, Margarette Bohannon, Kay Weaver and Unavine Nicholson.

Representing Native Sons will be: Dan Kruckeberg, Carl Martin, Everett Harris, John Schmolle, Frank Collins, Jack Williams, Milton Eisenhart, Walter Brandt, Paul Holland, Roger Johnson, Edward Lane, Charles Gelpi, Robert Pesqueria, William Eichler, Clyde Harry Davis and Joe Daleo.

The party is scheduled for Sunday, December 19 at 1 p. m. in the big "Q" hut on the domiciliary grounds, Veterans Administration, West Los Angeles. Plans include accordion music by Roger Johnson, piano by Benaida Sullivan and Christmas carols for the men to sing. At 1:30 promptly, the men will be treated to "sweets" and bingo.

Parlors are being asked for cash donations and plenty of members out to assist the men with the game. Many are so disabled they need help to play. Miss Connor stated that this annual Inter-Parlor event is an excellent way to get into the Christmas spirit of doing for others.

BOOKS

HISTORY OF THE DONNOR PARTY
By C. F. McGLASHAN

(Revised Edition)

No book in recent years has given so much pleasure as The History of the Donner Party, by C. F. McGlashan, which has just been re-issued by the Stanford University Press.

Originally published some seventy years ago, the new edition is a complete reproduction of the second (1881) printing with foreword, notes and a bibliography by George H. Hinkle and Bliss McGlashan Hinkle. In the latter reference is made to articles published in the Grizzly Bear in 1907.

According to the editors, "since 1880 the book has run through twelve large printings, has been widely quoted, and remains prominent in the minds of many readers for its contribution to their knowledge of Western history."

The editors have added newly discovered information and photographs to their foreword which is based on material in family documents and on the author's own recollections.

McGlashan was a contemporary of the Donner Party's children. He had taken over the publication of the Truckee Republican in 1876, when the possibility of a fully documented Donner Party history first occurred to him.

From the many survivors of the expedition whom he knew and interviewed, from a personal knowledge of the route followed, from more than a thousand letters written to him by survivors, and from consultations with still-living authors of older works on the subject, McGlashan was able to verify the facts and write a book from the point of view of the survivors themselves. The book enjoys the additional distinction of having been written and originally published within three miles of the catastrophe.

The name of the Donner Party has come to symbolize the struggle of all pioneers, from the Donner experiences were the acme of horror, despair, and suffering. This chronicle is a towering tribute to the band of pioneers who struggled over deserts and the High Sierras toward California during the rugged winter of 1846-47. The disasters they endured form a bold contrast to the comfort and safety of the present-day Donner Lake region.

It is difficult for the reader to realize that the original book was written so long ago, as the people mentioned in its pages live and breathe from out of the past. The addresses of many of these living at the time, who were the children of the Donner Party, are given and the reader is left with the feeling that he could go and talk to them today. Seldom does a book written so long ago, have the power of transporting one back through the years to that far-off day. But The History of the Donner Party does.

On Beautiful MONTEREY PENINSULA

So breathtakingly glorious that it lingered in men's memory a century and a half. Colonists came on foot a thousand miles that they might live their lives amid its charm.

Today the enchanting loveliness of Monterey Peninsula is known the world around. Even as Viscaino, Junipero Serra and de Anza came so long ago, so come the pleasure-seeking folks from everywhere to spend a never-to-be-forgotten vacation.

CARMEL MISSION 1771

The Indians built it under the direction of the padres one hundred and twenty-six years ago. The red tile of its roof were molded on the thighs of Carmel Valley Indians. Though the adobe walls may slowly crumble into dust, the great mission still proudly thrusts her cross of God into blue heavens and smiles in the sun.

OUR COVER

It was a warm, sunny day on the desert, while the coast was cold and windy, when our cover picture was taken by M. D. Bradshaw a few miles north of Garnet, Riverside County. The picture presents an optical illusion. Snow-capped Mount San Geronio in the background towers over 10,000 feet above sea-level. It is behind this mountain peak that the resorts of Big Bear Lake, San Bernardino County, are located. At the base of the low foothills runs the Los Angeles Metropolitan Aqueduct bringing precious water from the Colorado River to the coastal cities. To the left out of the picture is famed San Geronio Pass, gateway to Southern California, up which the Southern Pacific hauls the sleek diesel-powered Golden State Limited and other crack trains. Behind the photographer and to the left are Palm Springs, Palm Desert, Indio, Coachella, Thermal and other towns of fertile Coachella Valley.

AGO

New Year's Day, 1874, in California was wet, cold and dismal. Everybody who could, evidently remained indoors and New Year calls were few and far between. The customary observance of the day was eliminated by the weather.

"Emperor Norton I" made his biennial visit to the Legislature and levied his usual tribute upon the generous members. He looked sleek and fat, and evidently enjoyed about seven meals a day obtained by skirmishing about the free-lunch tables set along the cocktail route to and from the Capitol. The city soon became flooded with "Emperor Norton" money, which had about the same value as the German mark had during 1923.

Twenty-five vessels were loading wheat in San Francisco Bay this month.

Dr. Glenn and his tenants in Colusa County had 41,000 acres sown to wheat. One-hundred eight-mule teams, with gang plows, were used to plow it.

L. J. Rose of Los Angeles sold his orange crop at $30 per thousand. It was estimated he had 500,000 oranges on his trees.

As a curiosity, a branch of an orange tree with about a dozen oranges on it, from Marysville, Yuba County, was exhibited in the Senate Chamber in the State Capitol at Sacramento. Oranges raised on Putah Creek in Solano County were being sold in San Francisco for 10 cents apiece.

Dr. Barton of San Bernardino found that bees deposited in an abandoned hive stored on his back porch 700 pounds of honey.

A lot on Broadway, Oakland, sold in 1867 for $2,000, changed owners this month for $75,000.

A clergyman was taken ill on a train at Truckee, Nevada County, and in a delirious condition removed to the depot hotel there. An old '49er, doing odd jobs about the town, was employed as a nurse and he was faithful as well as sympathetic in his attendance upon the patient. After having a high fever for several days the sick minister began to improve and finally, in a semi-conscious condition, smiled upon the old-timer. Then he impressed upon the sick man that nothing he desired was too much trouble to do and not to be bashful in asking, and finishing by saying: "Now, you ask of me anything you want and I will be delighted to get or do it for you. Don't be afraid to ask."

After a few moments of silence the minister said: "Brother, lead in prayer." The old-timer looked aghast and was speechless for a short time. Then, shaking his head, he said: "I'll go to Lake Tahoe and catch a mess of trout, or I'll go to Prosser Creek and kill a grizzly, or I'll fight the best man in town, but I'll be damned if I know how to lead in prayer." Amen!" drowsily said the ill clergyman and he, apparently satisfied, went to sleep again.

A policeman in Sacramento was accosted by a man who had one boot on and the other in his hand, limping on the river wharf with one bare foot. He had been a passenger on the steamboat arriving shortly before and was looking for the fellow-passenger who had occupied an adjoining berth and gone off with two right-foot boots and left two left-foot ones for him. He could not put one of them on his right foot, and the policeman was unable to relieve the vexatious dilemma.

E. J. Lewis was delivering a lecture in a church at Red Bluff, Tehama County, where he was a prominent attorney, on the "Groundwork of Society and Morality." While in the midst of it, a portion of the ceiling gave way and he was enveloped in mortar and a cloud of dust. Some said his eloquence caused it.

That the streets of Sacramento were not in the first-class condition they are now, is shown by the fact that an inebriated individual attempted to cross Third street between "K" and "L" one evening and got stuck in the mud. Two policemen rescued him from his mud bath.

A prisoner named Daugherty, in the Mariposa County jail, burned a way out with a lighted candle and escaped.

A 16-year-old boy named Leslie McMurtry disappeared from San Rafael, Marin County, several months before and left no trace. He was heard of this month as being in Liverpool, England, where he landed in a grain ship from San Francisco. It was thought he had been shanghaied.

HISTORIC PORTSMOUTH PLAZA TO BE CENTENNIAL ATTRACTION

PORTSMOUTH Plaza, one time heart-beat of old San Francisco, will once again become a center of activity when the California Centennials Commission, matching funds with the City and County of San Francisco, reconstructs replicas of three of the city's historic old buildings. Ground-breaking ceremonies will be scheduled for the early part of January.

The structures, which will be of a temporary nature, include: the early Custom House whose building was first authorized in 1844 by Spanish Governor Figueroa; California's first public school and Dr. D. G. "Yankee" Robinson's Dramatic Museum. Both the Custom House and the schoolhouse were originally located on Portsmouth Plaza. On completion the three buildings will become San Francisco's outstanding centennial attraction for 1949 and 1950.

During past months, San Francisco's Centennial Committee, under chairmanship of Carl J. Eastman, has conducted exhaustive research on the project. Long forgotten records, state and city archives, limitless books and memoirs of early San Franciscans were examined. The results of these efforts have enabled the architect to blueprint detailed plans that will materialize as authentic full-scale reproductions of the original buildings.

MacMinn's book, "Theatre of the Golden Era in California," describes the pioneer playhouse as "a cozy little theatre," "a little gem." It will serve a dual purpose in its Twentieth Century revival. That of a local centennial information center and as a meeting place for historical societies, civic organizations and other active centennial groups. The auditorium, complete with stage and removable seats, also will be available for a limited number of 49er-days dramatic productions.

Ten three-dimensional dioramas of long ago San Francisco scenes will be installed in the reconstructed Custom House. The dioramas are those seen by thousands of visitors at the 1939-1940 Golden Gate International Exposition. Too, this building may be utilized as a meeting hall from time to time.

Contrary to popular opinion, the replica of California's first public school will be the "little white schoolhouse" rather than the little red schoolhouse. In it will be housed a number of historical exhibits together with traditional desks and equipment of "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic days.

The Portsmouth Plaza project will be coordinated and operated by the San Francisco Centennial Committee. Construction of the buildings will be handled by the San Francisco Park Commission with tentative completion date set for March 31.

History of Early San Francisco Street Cars

By HISTORIAN FRED ZIMMERMAN, SR.

Writing in the South San Francisco Parlor Bulletin

The first cable car was exhibited in 1871, and in June, 1873, ground was broken for the first cable road in the world. About four o'clock in the morning on August 1 the first grip-car was started on its journey down Clay street. The theory of the car was the same as that used today, the underground rope in its long tube gripped to the middle of the underside of the car with a strong fastening capable of release. The grip was differently shaped from that now in use but the theory was similar.

While the members of the Clay St. Railroad Company stood en-masse and watched, wondering if it would work with the early morning fog, gray and clammy, making it hard to be enthusiastic. The gripman took a look at the grade of Clay Street and decided he was not working for the railroad any longer. So Hillidie took charge and stepped into his place. Fastening the grip to the rope he started the machinery. He and eight other adventurous male spirits went over the hill in the car and landed safely at the bottom. The dummy was reversed there, just as it is done now, and the ascent was made later in the day. A car was attached to the grip car and with a crowd of cheering enthusiasts the feat was repeated and the Clay Street Railroad Company was officially started. This single track line was built at a cost of $68,000 per mile and the fare was only five cents. A regular schedule was maintained during the day but night operation proved difficult. Lanterns were hung on the gripper car and two oil lamps lighted the interior of the ten-seater passenger trailer.

On Monday, February 6, 1942, when the Market Street Railway buses took over operation on the Sacramento Street line, another of San Francisco's historic cable lines was relegated to the past. Operations on the Sacramento Street Cable line started in 1888 and the last cable car completed its run on Saturday, February 6, 1942.

About half a dozen balloon cars were built in 1871 after the design of Harry Casebolt, the inventor, who had a shop on Union street near Larkin. They ran over Larkin from Sutter across Market Street into Mission and out Mission to Fourteenth with the terminal at Woodward Gardens. In emergencies they were used on the Embarcadero and certain other tracks. They were horse and mule drawn, had a roof like an umbrella and were circular in shape. By releasing a kingpin the body of the car could be turned around on the track. The fault of the design was that this single bolt down the center of the car became very shaky with wear—the car jiggled at every bump.

A parade on June 3, 1913, marked the end of San Francisco's horse car era. Mayor James Rolph drove the car over its usual route from Sutter and Sansome Streets down Market to the Ferry Building followed by an electric car which inaugurated the present Sutter Street service.

HISTORICAL CARAVAN NEAR COMPLETION

Under construction for five months, the California Centennials Commission's Historical Caravan will make its premiere appearance in Sacramento beginning January 15.

The traveling museum, consisting of two all-steel busses, will carry valuable documents and objects depicting California history from the year 1842 up to the present day.

Each exhibit case—of which there are 14—will be devoted to a particular era of historical significance. In Case No. 8, recalling the discovery of gold by James W. Marshall on January 24, 1848, there will be displayed H. W. Bigler's diary telling of the find, first public notice of the event in the March 17, 1848, "California," Marshall's original drawing of Sutter's Mill found at the time of his death in 1885, and many other items pertinent to that momentous occasion.

Summarizing panel themes, the following important periods are covered: Age of Exploration, Spanish Colonization, Russian Colonization, Mexican Succession, Bear Flag Revolution, United States Acquisition of California, Westward Migration, Marshall's Discovery of Gold, Gold Rush by Land and Sea, Mining Methods, Life in the Mines, The Thirty-first State, Development of Transportation and Communication, Preservation of California History.

Among the innumerable original documents and relics to be exhibited will be Drake's Plate claiming California in name of "Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth of England;" Portola's diary of his exploration of California in 1769; Commodore John D. Sloat's proclamation of July 7, 1846, announcing American occupation of California; the gold spike, symbol of the welding of East and West with the completion of the Central Pacific Railroad on May 10, 1869.

In planning for protection of the many invaluable exhibits, the commission has taken every possible step to safeguard them.

To insure the Caravan against fire hazards, all interior construction has been of steel where possible, with other materials of fire-proof manufacture or chemically treated to be fire-resistant. Working in close liaison with the National Board of Fire Underwriters, large CO2 tanks were installed in storage compartments of each bus. These automatic units, which may be controlled from the interior and exterior of each bus, are augmented by hand-operated fire extinguishers.

A nine-man honor guard of State Police will be permanently assigned to maintain a 24-hour watch over the mobile units for the duration of their state-wide tour. Additional protection has been promised by local police authorities in communities where the Historical Caravan will be shown.

As the huge white, blue and gold busses travel from town to town on their appointed visits, they will be escorted by a special traffic detail of State Highway Police.

Commission staff members now outlining an itinerary estimate it will take two full years for the Caravan to complete its state-wide tour.

With an initiatory team headed by Earl Magee of Ramona Parlor No. 109, Los Angeles, conducting ceremonies, Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventura, initiated a class of candidates Tuesday evening, November 30. A dinner at the Elks Club preceded the business meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO IS YOUR HOME

By Samuel Dickson

Illustrated by Mallette Dean

Author Dickson describes his book as a "San Francisco Kaleidoscope," and that's precisely what it is—colorful history and biographical bits shaken up together to form the exciting patterns that are San Francisco, past and present.

The opening chapters concentrate on the "Days of Gold," the era when the Bella Union had its heyday and soprano Biscaccianti captivated the city. These were the days of Sam Brannan, the days when San Francisco was getting rich.

Then come the tales of the glamorous time of "The Comstock, the Railroad, the Champagne," when San Francisco's wealthy rubbed shoulders with outcasts and eccentrics. Here are Adolph Sutro, Black Hart, Lotta Crabtree, the unbelievable Emperor Norton, and Jane Lathrop Stanford.

After these we have "The End of the Century," when the Bohemian and the eccentric life was at its height, with Lucky Baldwin who didn't believe in luck, Ina Coolbrith, the crowned poet laureate of California, and George Sterling the bizarre and despondent Carmel poet. The final section, "The City Comes of Age," describes various spots of interest, including some of the famed restaurants, and tells the story of the earthquake, one of the many disasters that San Francisco faced only to come back fighting.

Samuel Dickson is best known to San Franciscans for his radio program, "This Is Your Home." The book is completely rewritten from several of the radio scripts; the result is a sparkling picture of the cosmopolitan City-with-a-past by the Golden Gate.

James Lick Native Daughters Have 27th Birthday Dinner

Wednesday, December 1, was the date chosen by members of James Lick Parlor No. 220, NDGW, San Francisco, to celebrate the parlor's 27th birthday. The affair was held in Mount Diablo Hall, Native Sons Building, San Francisco, a full course turkey dinner being served the 50 members present by Jaredna Johnson, assisted by Lena Sand, Julia Owens and Margaret Kane. The lovely birthday cake was the gift of Lena Sand.

During dinner a floor show under direction of Organist Hilda Mathis was well received. Annabelle Cornboy and Lillian O'Leary each put on specialty acts and as always, had everyone in stitches.

A large "L" shaped table was decorated with fall flowers of the colors of the Order, red, white and yellow. The table cloths and napkins had bunches of golden California poppies stamped on the corners in natural colors.

After dinner a social hour was held, adjourning late to catch the last elevator down. Good nights were said together with the hope of another dinner in the near future.

RECALLING HISTORY—In the shadow of San Jose's red brick City Hall Saturday, December 11, a plaque was dedicated on the site of the State of California's first Statehouse. It was erected in 1853. Superior Judge Leonard R. Avilla of Santa Clara County and a prominent member of Palo Alto Native Sons, traced the romantic history of California in one of the dedicatory addresses.

RECALLING HISTORY IN SANTA CLARA COUNTY

By IDA M. STOCKTON

Grand President Margaret Farnsworth has found time between her official visits throughout the State this year to attend the placing of Historical Plaques at various historical sites in Santa Clara County.

She was responsible for the first marker which was placed at the home of the first Governor of California, Peter Hardeman Burnett, at 441 North First Street in San Jose, October 19, 1946. The members of Vendome Parlor No. 110, Native Daughters of the Golden West escorted the Grand President, who was then Grand Marshal, to the old Burnett home and it was she who unveiled the plaque in front of the old home, which was built in Alviso in 1850 and moved to the present site in 1854.

The San Jose Historic Landmarks Commission is responsible for the marking of public sites and buildings in Santa Clara County. Clyde Arbuckle, Santa Clara County Historian has compiled a list of the Public sites, early Spanish homes and adobes and gives a colorful description of each at the ceremonies.

Saturday afternoon, December 11, a plaque marking the first capitol in California was placed just opposite the City Hall Plaza in San Jose, marking the spot where the first legislature met on December 15, 1848. December 11 was the 100th anniversary of a meeting held in the office of the Pueblo de San Jose. The San Jose Council United Travelers was responsible for this marker and Ward Farnsworth, husband of the Grand President of Native Daughters, and a member of the Traveler's Council, opened the ceremonies and introduced the Grand Counselor Thor Hanson, of Sacramento, who presented the plaque. It was accepted by the city manager of San Jose, O. W. Campbell. Charles Payne, Santa Clara County Recorder, president of San Jose Historic Landmarks Commission, and a prominent Native Son, and John Sullivan, past deputy grand president of Santa Clara Native Sons were distinguished guests present, along with Grand President Margaret Farnsworth.

Judge Leonard R. Avilla, Superior Judge of Santa Clara County, and a prominent member of Palo Alto Native Sons, traced the romantic history of California in one of the dedicatory addresses. The Peter Burnett school was chosen to participate in the ceremonies and the music was presented by the school band. The student body president, Charles Wolverton gave a splendid address entitled, "Peter Burnett, the Man and the Governor."

Since the first plaque presented by Grand President Farnsworth, several other historical sites have been marked including: the Site of the first Pueblo, at the Jefferson school on Hobson street, San Jose, December 6, 1946; the Edwin Markham Home on South 6th St., Markham was known as "The Man with the Hoe." The marker was placed April 20, 1947; Dr. Benjamin Cory's old home, still standing at 435 South Second Street. Dr. Cory was the first physician in Santa Clara County. This plaque was placed June 8, 1947; Site of Louis Pellier Nursery, 218 North San Pedro Street, September 11, 1947. He was the man who introduced the first prune raising in Santa Clara County; San Jose State Normal School, built in 1866, known now as San Jose State College. The plaque was placed with outstanding ceremonies on June 12, 1948. The Plaza, Pueblo de San Jose, October 5, 1948. Trinity Church was presented with a plaque by the San Jose Parlor No. 81, Native Daughters Golden West, Sunday, November 7, directly after the church meeting with dignified ceremonies. Mrs. Emma Jane Rutan of San Jose Parlor, NDGW, was in charge of the ceremonies and Bishop Noel Porter, of Sacramento, who was visiting, accepted the marker on behalf of Trinity Church. Mrs. Margaret Morgan of Vendome Parlor No. 100 is a member of the Grand Parlor History Committee.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S —MESSAGE—

Since writing the last message for the Grizzly Bear Magazine, many events in Native Sons Parlors throughout the State have come and gone, marking in every case a revival of interest in our Order. There is no doubt but that the power, prestige and strength of the Order is increasing. Your Parlor can and should be an important factor in its community life. During the last month we have added two very important links in this great chain of Native Sons Parlors.

The institution of Beverly Hills Parlor proved a great success with an outstanding class of candidates. This Parlor is the result of the combined efforts of SDGP Jack Williams and the Deputies of Los Angeles County, in which the work of District Deputy Walter Brandt of Santa Monica Bay Parlor played a large part.

At this writing, Antioch Parlor isn't instituted, but will be on Saturday night, December 18, with over 75 members. These new members in Antioch are highly enthused and should form one of the strongest units in that part of the State. My sincere thanks to Past Grand President Edward T. Schnarr and his co-workers for making this new parlor possible.

Probably the outstanding thing accomplished during the last six months is the revival of interest in the weaker parlors. Many parlors have been put back on a working basis. My sincere thanks to the brothers working to assist the weaker parlors and to organize new ones. But, let's not stop at the end of this last year's membership drive, but continue through this year in order that the Native Sons of the Golden West may be better prepared to take their rightful place in the great Centennial of the birth of our State. We have only scratched the surface in building this great Order. These next years should prove very fruitful indeed.

Again, may I wish each and every one of you a prosperous New Year.

Sincerely and fraternally yours,

Ramona No. 109 Wins In Ritualistic Contest

Ramona Parlor was the uncontested winner of the ritual team contest held Friday, November 12, 1948, to decide which team would be chosen to put on the county-wide initiation to be held at the Elks Temple, 6th and Parkview, November 19, 1948.

Judges were Brothers Brazelton, Arrowhead Parlor, Hulse, Southgate Parlor, Bob Castro, Long Beach Parlor and Willard Allen from Los Angeles Parlor.

How could we lose with that wizard of the rituals, that dean of all coaches, Earle (Fiber) Magee to put us through our paces?

According to the grapevine, scouts were sent out by various parlors to see Ramona's first-rate team in action. The scouts apparently brought back discouraging news, hence, the lack of competition. Anyway, fellows, we are proud of our victory, proud of Ramona and proud of our members who came out in great numbers to give us their loyal support.

Los Angeles Parlor Takes Stand On Two Civic Issues

In the past month, Los Angeles Parlor No. 121, Native Daughters of the Golden West has taken definite stands on two civic issues: a better polio treatment facility for Los Angeles County and restoration to the State of title to the Kellogg Arabian Horse Farm, near Pomona.

As a result of the move on the polio situation, Grand Marshal Anne T. Schiebusch and PGP Grace S. Stoermer, both members of Los Angeles Parlor, have been named by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors to a citizens' committee, which will study the present infantile paralysis section of the county hospital and recommend improvements.

In a letter to the Supervisors, the Parlor commended them for taking heed of reported crowded conditions in the section. The letter also pledged that Los Angeles Parlor would join with other civic groups in supporting a reasonable bond issue to erect and equip a new structure for poliomyelitis and other contagious diseases.

Sharp issue with the U. S. Army and Department of Agriculture over disposition of the Arabian Horse Farm was expressed in a resolution suggested by PGP Stoermer.

The resolution pointed out that the ranch originally was deeded by its founder, W. K. Kellogg, along with $600,000 for maintenance, to the University of California. To help in the war emergency, the university transferred land and horses to the Army Remount Service, which, after the war, turned all over to the Department of Agriculture.

Only last month, it was announced ranch and animals would be sold as surplus property through the War Assets Administration.

Particularly, Los Angeles Parlor protested the Army's indifferent attitude toward a cherished California landmark.

It also asked all concerned parties to confer on transferring land of the ranch, with all horses, to the State of California, and the University of California to return the $600,000 for its intended purpose.

Copies of the resolution were forwarded to the Army, the Department of Agriculture, University of California, the War Assets Administration, Mr. Kellogg, President Truman, Senators Knowland and Downey and the press, urging that the sale be halted until arrangements proposed by the Parlor could be effected.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS HOME AFFAIRS

By MAE B. WILKIN, PGP
Grand Historian, NDGW.

The summer season has been an active one at the Native Daughters Home in San Francisco. Numerous favors from Parlors and individual members during the season have made welcome contributions to the upkeep of the Home and the well being and pleasure of the guests. A number of Native Daughters have made the Home their place of abode during their visits to San Francisco this year. A regular annual visitor from Visalia was Mrs. Josephine Barboni of Vendome Parlor during the season of hot weather; Mrs. Doris Treat (Daley) of San Andreas Parlor, during her year as Grand President came for an occasional day or two; Mrs. Theresa Whiteside, the camera artist of Junipero Parlor, has been a frequent visitor and entertained with a display of chrome photo slides. Mildred Baird of Santa Cruz Parlor has recently repeated an overnight stay, accompanied by a friend; Mrs. Nellie Lombardi and daughter Annie of Ruby Parlor, who come frequently, were down from Murphys on a shopping trip, which had the ear marks of a trousseau, for Miss Annie has since become Mrs. John Voitich.

Mrs. Nellie Tubbs of Turlock spent several days as the guest of her nieces the Misses Libbing who are Home residents; Mrs. Lopshire of Guajome Parlor, Escondido, accompanied by Mrs. Crocker of San Diego dropped in for dinner; Charlotte E. Moores of San Andreas Parlor was another guest for a few days and Mrs. Addie Penny of Clear Lake Parlor was a guest for several weeks during the summer..

Birthdays of the residents of the Home have been remembered with cards and gifts by Long Beach, Compton, and Joshua Tree Parlors, as well as on various holiday occasions.

San Bruno Parlor was responsible for some very acceptable bed pads and from Mrs. Nellie Lombardi of Ruby Parlor, a dining table silence cloth. Five table cloths from Joaquin Parlor; two dozen napkins from Mrs. F. W. Nunes, San Luis Obispo Parlor, a frequent visitor; Santa Cruz Parlor was responsible for a dozen table cloths, a two quart jar of pears and a box of apples; Wilmington Parlor remembered each guest of the Home with an individual box of toilet accessories; Grace Partison of Joaquin Parlor brought seventy-five jars of jams, jellies and fruit and Grand President Margaret Farnsworth of Vendome Parlor, was responsible for the Home being the recipient of several cartons of vegetables fresh from the garden, as well as lovely gladiolas on several occasions.

Vendome Parlor staged a wedding, and the gifts to the "Bride," more than one hundred packages and jars of edible goods, plus twenty dollars from the "Bucket," were sent as a contribution to the larder of the Home. This Parlor was responsible also for a case of tomato soup, and some of its members,—Mrs. Emma Nelson sent sixteen pounds of dried peaches, Mrs. Marie Serpa two crates of berries, as well as a pair of beautiful chenille bed spreads for the "Tillie Brohaska" room, which is the room the Grand President occupies when in the city; from Mrs. Frances Duart a case of solid pack tomatoes.

Mrs. Norma Abel of Orinda Parlor and a Home guest contributed a half dozen dishtowels and Mrs. Esther Rogan of Fruitvale Parlor, a dozen potholders; Mrs. Lucy Waugh of Alta Parlor, another Home guest, provided a dozen dishtowels, glass creamer and sugar, all such very acceptable gifts.

Fifty pounds of fresh asparagus was received from Mr. George Tubbs, a Native Son of Livermore and a box of Oranges from Long Beach Parlor; a oriental brass bowl and stand

To the Officers and Members of Calistoga Parlor No. 145, N. D. G. W.
 Dear Sisters:

A golden link in the chain of friendships has been severed and another of our members has passed to the great beyond.

We reserve the memory of our Sister, Irma Howard, a Past President of the Calistoga Parlor, No. 145.

An ardent worker she contributed years of faithful services as Organist for the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

She is a descendant of a pioneer family and a daughter of the late Lillie Brown, the Mother of the Calistoga Parlor. Her devotion to her family, her loyalty to her friends, her pleasing personality, her cheerful manner all endeared her to those who knew her.

RESOLVED, that this tribute to her memory be inscribed in the minutes of our parlor, that a copy be sent to her family, and that a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear magazine for publication.

TO THE MEMORY OF TILLIE BROHASKA

Organizer and "Mother" of Vendome Parlor No. 100, NDGW

A call from the Great Father of us all, has taken from our midst a dearly beloved member, Tillie Brohaska.

In life, Tillie's devotion was so closely wound among the roots of Vendome Parlor that one suggested the other. It just won't be the same without her. While we shall miss her dear presence at every gathering of Vendome Parlor, we know that Tillie's spirit will always be there assisting us in "carrying on."

Tillie's kindness toward all, her constant consideration of the needs and interests of her fellow members, her wisdom in reaching helpful decisions on all problems—all these attributes endeared her to every member.

While Tillie had many interests outside of Vendome Parlor, her deepest interests ever since the organization of the parlor over fifty years ago, were centered in its progress.

Throughout her busy life, in her association with varied types of her fellow-men, she saw some good in them all. She allowed no group or class to claim her favoritism. A cheery word, a kindly smile, from her, have helped to remove many a tear, to renew a fading courage in many a despondent soul.

We cannot know "just why" people like Tillie are not spared to continue their good work here but we do know that souls like hers are called to another world to receive the reward so justly earned, to that land where illness and suffering and grief are no more! Sweet Peace to Her.

OUR COVER

Old Man Winter came to Southern California with a cold blast of wind and snow unprecedented in forty years. San Bernardino Mountain areas tabulated some 15 feet of snow. Snow Valley, pictured on our cover, was more than bounteously supplied.

Ski runs are blanketed with at least a six foot pack of crunchy, springy snow, ideally suited for fast skiing.

From the boys that know, comes the opinion that even famed Sun Valley has nothing on Southern California spots this year.

Several thousand Southland fans are daily journeying mountainwards for a try at the fastest and most exhilarating sport in the world.

The photo for our cover was lent to us by Johnny Elvrum of Snow Valley. This superb ski bowl is located some five miles east of Running Springs, between Arrowhead and Big Bear Lake, on the Rim of the World Drive, above San Bernardino.

February 1874 in California was a cold and stormy month. Twenty feet of snow piled up on the Sierra snowsheds, and the Central Pacific railroad was kept hustling with snowplows and equipment to keep the road open.

A heavy rainfall was experienced in the southern portion of the state. The San Diego river cut a channel above its mouth in False Bay and poured its flood, with an immense quantity of silt and sand, into the bay; fears of great damage were expressed. In Los Angeles the rainfall for the month amounted to 7.35 inches, making the season's total to date 19.35 inches.

Heavy snowfall in the Sierras drove immense flocks of wild pigeons to the valleys. They invaded Sacramento City, and were roosting in the hills along the American River east of Folsom, Sacramento County. They also went to the Coast Range, where three hunters from San Jose killed 800 in one day.

Commencing February 11, Gibsonville, Shasta County, had three days of snowshoe racing, with a nightly dance.

Sam Brannon, the noted California pioneer, had 9000 mulberry trees pulled up from his land at Calistoga, Napa County, and prepared to plant broom-corn.

A plow made in Hollister, San Benito County, for a ranch in Kern County, was a mammoth one. It weighed 3,700 pounds and cost $800. It was intended to cut a furrow three feet deep and five feet wide, and was to be pulled by eighty horses.

For discovering gold in California, the Senate passed a bill to pay James W. Marshall $100 a month during his lifetime. It also passed a bill, which was signed by Governor Newton Booth, prohibiting the sale of liquor on election day.

The Legislature created to the County of San Benito, carving it out of parts of Monterey and other counties. An illustrated lecture on Yosemite Valley's wonders was delivered in the Assembly chamber of J. H. Hutchings.

The Central Pacific railroad brought from the East, 1,824 passengers and took East 1,027 during the month.

James Gregory, while hunting on Stony Creek, Colusa County, found a coal vein 18 inches wide.

John Beaudary of Los Angeles began the construction of a reservoir to hold a million gallons of water, with which to supply a portion of the city.

At Clipper Gap, Placer County, J. J. Cooper captured a young fox, which he reared with a kitten. When grown, the fox was kept chained in Cooper's office, while the cat, foraging about the barn and other places, caught mice and other rodents and brought them to the fox to share.

Casa Munras Early Home Of California Pioneer

This is an apology to the memory of one of Monterey's most distinguished citizens. A century and a quarter ago Don Esteban Munras built his home beyond the safety of Monterey Presidio's adobe walls. The massive mansion with its great walls measuring thirty-two inches through, from 1794 until 1941 has housed Don Esteban and his descendants. Across the length and breadth of California the house of Munras, the Spanish diplomat, was known. Many were the guests who enjoyed the warmth and hospitality of the Spanish Don.

Casa Munras still stands. Today it is operated as an inn by P. J. Dougherty and his son Jack. The hospitality of the Munras' is still prevalent. Long will a guest remember the food they serve there. And stealing an almost forgotten chapter from the book of history that might have been entitled "George Washington Slept Here," you too may conjure through your dreams those immortal famous California figures of years gone past who, like yourself, may have found tranquil lodging for a night beneath the Munras roof.

So much for the history of the house of Munras. Though that congenial golf loving Jack Dougherty may have added still more luxuriant guest rooms in the gardens of the old estate, certainly that is no reason why the Grizzly Bear Magazine on the Monterey publicity page should dub the famous Inn the Spanish equivalent of Munras houses. Casa House of Munras may it continue always to be.

MOTHER LODE TREK

Calaveras County

This is the third of a series of the Trek of the Mother Lode, which includes most of the important places in Calaveras County.

By EMMET P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

HIGHWAY No. 49 ascends a high hill after leaving Big Bar on the Mokelumne river. It passes through groves of pines and oak and brings the traveler out upon several flats. To the east is Stockton Hill which borders the town of Mokelumne Hill on the west.

Mokelumne Hill is located about five miles south of Big Bar and is a very historical place as landmarks still remain. Upon entering the town from this direction there are several old stone buildings among which, is one stone building bearing the date of 1854 inscribed over the entrance which is the only remaining part. Several others may be seen on the same side of the street named Center street. During its peak of prosperity from 1850 to 1856 this was the principal thoroughfare. Early pictures of Mokelumne Hill present to sight the street built in solid on both sides with business establishments. Most of which have disappeared with the exception of the above mentioned being a remnant of the gold era. Today Center street is built with homes and shade trees where solitude reigns over what was once one of the busiest streets in California. On the north side of the street, and Main Street is the I.O.O.F. building reputed to be the first three story buildings in the Mother Lode. After the fire of 1854 stone buildings were erected. Opposite this building on the east side of the street is a bronze marker describing Mokelumne Hill's historic events as well as the Bull and Bear fights. On the east side of Main street, north of the Leger hotel, is the old County Court House building erected of native stone. At one time Amador county was a part of Calaveras county and the court house originally located in Double Springs was re-established in Jackson where it remained until 1852 whereupon it was transferred to Mokelumne Hill. Upon the separation of Amador county from Calaveras county in 1854 again Jackson became the county seat of the new county. The court house of Calaveras county remained in Mokelumne Hill until 1866 when it was moved to San Andreas. The next building south of the old court house is the Leger Hotel which is still in use and well known as a stopping place on the Mother Lode. It was built in the fifties by George W. Leger who came to Mokelumne Hill in 1851. On the south end of Main street is the oldest Congregational church building in the state erected in 1856. According to records the church is the fifth in point of service. The original structure still remains. A short distance east of Main street is the St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic church erected in the late seventies. Its first structure built in the early fifties was destroyed by the fire of 1854 which almost ruined the town.

East of town is French Hill which was the scene of the "French War." Dispute arose between the American and French miners over mining claims.

About one mile south of Mokelumne Hill on Highway 49 is Chile Gulch marked by a historic marker on the west side of the road. It is about five miles in length and received its name from the large number of Chileans who mined here in the years 1848 and 1849. Upon completion of a canal in 1853 to supply the miners water which enabled them to hydraulic and placer mine resulted in its growth and it became a large mining community. At the junction was a trading center and a post office. Chile Gulch gained notoriety in 1849 as it was the scene of the Chilean war, described by Col. Ayers in his book: "Gold and Sunshine." Highway 49 passes the junction but no buildings remain of what was once a flourishing town.

Continuing south on the same highway the traveler crosses the north fork of the Valaveras river and then on to San Andreas located about eight miles south of Mokelumne Hill. San Andreas is a picturesque place in the foothills of the Sierras. From the north long Bear Mountain is the background and stands as a sentinel. San Andreas is a busy town and is the county seat of Calaveras county. It was founded by Mexicans in 1848 while mining on the spot where the present town is located and named for St. Andrew. Some of the remaining landmarks are the old American Hotel, now the county library and museum, the old Banque building or the Agostini adobe, the old I.O.O.F. hall on the east side of Main street built in 1856 from brick shipped around the Horn. On the hill on South Main street is the St. Andrew Catholic Church erected in 1857. A historic marker, stands on the east side of St. Charles Street near Main street, it tells of some of the events in the town's history. The stone building on the east corner of Main and St. Charles streets was erected in 1854 and at one time was one of the largest store buildings. Two miles west of San Andreas on highway No. 12 is the Pioneer Cemetery and five miles west is Double Springs where still standing is the first county court house of Calaveras county. A bronze monument has also been placed here. Four miles west of Double Springs is the town of Valley Springs. This became a stage depot in 1885 upon the completion of the railroad. Prior to this enterprise mail and freight was shipped from Calaveras county via Milton.

Six miles east of San Andreas is Calaveritas (in Spanish) meaning Small Skull. This was first mined by Mexicans in 1849 who built the first adobe buildings which were used as a trading post. One time, it had a livery stable, a number of stores and business establishments. It also had a large Chinese population. Most of the original town was destroyed in the fire of 1858. However, several adobe buildings built during the gold rush can still be seen.

Continuing south of highway No. 49, six miles from San Andreas, is Fourth Crossing. It was a large mining center in 1849 and '50. A pioneer named Foreman settled on this spot and first known as Foreman's mining district. A number of business establishments were located on San Antone Creek. The old Reddick house is the only landmark remaining. John B. Reddick, the son of William Reddick, early settler, became Lieut. Governor of California in 1890.

About five miles south of Fourth Crossing on Highway 49 is Altaville whose history is closely identified with that of Angels Camp. It was first known as Cherokee Flat. A foundry was established in 1854 where mining machinery was manufactured for the large quartz mines in the county. James Fair of Nevada mining fame operated a mine nearby before he went to Nevada. The Calaveras Skull which was taken from a mine on Bald Hill became known to early anthropologists who were for a time puzzled as to its origin and what period in history it originated.

Angels Camp joins Altaville on the east and is a city of Historic significance. Gold was discovered on Angels Creek in August 1848 by George and Henry Angel. It is said that on a spot here two Winter brothers washed out $9,000 worth of gold in 1852. Angel built a log cabin and conducted the first store on the bank of the creek. Large quartz mines once operated here such as the Gold Cliff, Lightner, Utica and Angeles. Samuel Clemens "Mark Twain" was once a frequent visitor and made Calaveras county famous with his story "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras." A monument erected in his honor can be seen in the city park. Each year Angels Camp celebrates with the "Jumping Frog Jubilee" which attracts many visitors. Bre Harte also made it known in his story "The Bell Ringer of Angels."

The city of Angels Camp is nestled between two hills and is a prosperous city as well as being a historic place it still maintains the atmosphere of the early mining days.

Traveling south on highway 49 about one mile south of Angels Camp is Albany Flat. The only remaining landmark is the old Romaggi building built in the early fifties which stands on the south side of the highway.

Four miles south of Albany Flat on 49 is Carson Hill. Gold was discovered in 1848 by James H. Carson. Carson's name was given to the hill, town and creek. In 1856 rich quartz deposits were discovered and the largest gold nugget found in the United States was discovered here. Nearly $3,000,000 in gold was taken from Carson Hill. Old adobe and stone buildings stand alongside the highway.

On the south side of the hill on Highway 49 is Melones located on the Stanislaus river. John W. Robinson established a trading post in 1848 and a ferry to carry freight and passengers across the river. This was known during the gold rush as Robinson's Ferry. The quartz discoveries on Carson Hill stimulate activity and it became one of the largest settlements in the mines. Melones is the name given to the community that is located on the Calaveras side of the Stanislaus river. The Spanish called the place Melones from the fact that the gold found in this vicinity resembled melon seeds.

There are other historic routes in Calaveras county. One being the road east of Mokelumne Hill in the direction of Happy Valley settled by French pioneers as a trading post before the gold rush. Several stone buildings can be seen near the road, such as the Boudon's business establishment and winery. Continuing eastward eight miles is Glencoe known in early days as "Mosquito Gulch." This was first worked by Mexicans who used mudrastras. Clark's ditch was used to bring the water from the south fork of the Mokelumne river for mining operations. It is still populated but the old buildings are gone. About six miles east on the same road is Sandy Gulch. A monument bearing a bronze plaque stands on the north side of the road telling its story. On a hill nearby is a pioneer graveyard. Two miles north of Sandy Gulch is West Point located between the middle and north forks of the Mokelumne river. One of the north branches of the Ebbett's pioneer road connected with West Point. Many of the early settlers of this community came via this route. Mexicans were the first to mine in this area.

Despite the record snowfall in Southern California mountains the highways are well tended, snow plows are constantly at work on all important mountain roads. Only during the heaviest storms have they been closed. Chains, of course, are a necessity. The above photo was taken by Elizabeth Evans of Big Bear Lake's Pine Knoll Lodge.

SNOW SPORTS

Old man winter treated Southern California to a mess of snowy weather which reminds us of the fable of the ship captain who commanded a magic mill to grind out salt and once it started it would not stop and so he threw it into the sea. At least the mountain folks were wishing for snow and most certainly their wishes came true. Unfortunately they seem to have forgotten the magic words that will put a stop to the blustery weather. The snows are packing the mountain slopes to a depth of nine feet. At this writing total snowfall in these southland mountains is within four feet of upsetting an all time nineteen foot record.

From every snow resort in the mountains come the same reports. Never has there been better snow for skiing. The long fast runs are enticing the experts while gentle rolling snow-laden hills hold a strange allure for the snow unies.

Up from the valleys come the snow lovers in quest of fun. On every mountain highway the pleasure seekers are headed "up the hill." Every car seems to have its quota of snow gear strapped to top and sides. Skis, sleds, toboggans and even ice skates are in evidence.

Perhaps the greatest bouquet of flowery praise is due the state and county road departments. Thanks to the lads who buck the rifts with great snowplows, and to the men who operate the whirling rotaries that toss the snow aside in a cloud of billowing white,

"It's as easy as falling off a log," opines this youthful skier to three experts of the Big Bear Ski School. That vast expanse of gentle slope in the background is Lower Moonridge.

It's not like it used to be. Snow enthusiasts may be rugged individuals on the ski slopes but when the sun goes down they like the luxury of a blazing fireplace, hearty meals and soft beds. Such are the present day lodge accommodations. Pictured above is an especially inviting spot. It is the spacious lobby of Idylwild Mountain Inn in the San Jacinto Mountains, Riverside County.

these mountain highways are open. It's a big order to clear the roads and it's a twenty-four night and day job. Yet the roads have been open except for brief stretches during the very heaviest storms when gigantic drifts have temporarily blocked the highways.

For the motorist who puts on skid-chains at snowline and observes the rules of the road, these snow-packed highways are perfectly safe. Huge snow embankments line the road all the way. Take it easy and enjoy the drive. There has never been such wondrous scenery in southland hills for forty years.

Fun at Big Bear

By ELINOR WIRTH

SNOW! That's the most important prop for any winter carnival and in Big Bear Valley the stage is beautifully set with several feet of glistening snow, long-lasting enough to still festoon the trees, heavily cover the ski slopes, and picturesquely shape the village roofs on Feb. 26-27, the dates calendared for the Snow Carnival.

Careful and long planning of the Winter Sports Committee of Big Bear Lake Chamber of Commerce will make a gala winter festival in this snow-blanketed valley that will put it on an entertainment par with Snow Valley and Canada's Laurentian mountains.

Snow time invitations have been extended to the southland's collegiate ski clubs, asking them to participate in scheduled ski events, downhill races, slalom, and others. Tommi Tyndall, director of Big Bear Ski Schools, and his able staff of instructors, are in charge of the skiing program and will prepare races, flags, and courses. Free use of ski tows has been arranged for contestants with the most spectacular racing performed on Big Bear Park Board slopes because they are within easy access of the village with a weasel taxi running shuttle service up and down the hill.

Novel publicity stunt and feature of the carnival will be the carrying of mail cachets from Big Bear Lake to Arrowhead on skis, the unusual and rugged 28-mile cross country run accomplished by instructors of Tommi Tyndall's teaching staff. Carnival visitors may address these letters to their friends or themselves and keep them as a memento or add them to their stamp collections.

No snow carnival would be complete without a parade and Big Bear is planning one which will effectively portray the snow attractions of this winter resort. Ingeniously constructed floats, weasels, a well clad group of skiers representing the valley's winter ski clubs, and miscellaneous entries will make this year's parade of exceptional spectator interest.

Big Bear now numbers five ski areas within its boundaries; Lone Star Tow, a beginner's slope featuring night skiing under flood lights; Upper Mill Creek, famed for its long-lasting snow and clear slopes; Lower Mill Creek, the tow erected only this year; Big Bear Park Board Tow, pioneer valley ski hill; and Moonridge Meadows where the snow sporter finds a thrilling toboggan run and convenient toboggan lift, the only one in the valley, in addition to Moonridge's ski tows.

A spectacular and scenic chair lift, the only one of its type in Southern California, is under construction and contractors anticipate completion before this winter's snows melt. Because of the sweeping and breathtaking view of the lake and valley from the summit of the lift, it is now planned to operate it summer as well as winter, utilizing it solely for scenic beauty during the summer.

Snow bunnies who come to Big Bear unequipped with the various paraphernalia necessary to winter sports will find several well stocked sporting goods shops where they may rent skis, boots, toboggans, and sleds for a day, week, or longer.

Big Bear Ski Schools, under the fine guiding hand of Tommi Tyndall, have an expert staff of instructors, a star-studded roster of skiing experts known throughout the western states for prowess, grace, and teaching ability. Instructors are on hand at each of the five ski areas.

Big Bear Ski Patrol has swung into action for the winter season, each patrolman a graduate of American Red Cross First Aid classes, prepared to render aid in case of injury, perform rescues, and direct skiers on all slopes.

SNOW VALLEY

One of the favorite snow bowls is located on the Rim of the World Highway between Arrowhead and Big Bear lake. This snow retreat is situated some five miles east of Running Springs. It's right on the road with plenty of parking facilities.

Every need of the skier is supplied here. Nine ski tows take the drudgery out of that uphill climb back. There are gentle slopes just right for the beginners. It is here that Sepp Benedikter and his staff instruct the novices and advanced skiers alike on how to improve their skiing technique. You'll glide down to these snowy slopes to enchanting music. For the expert there are three jump hills.

Johnny Elvrum manages Snow Valley resort. He held the National American Ski Jump Championship for four long years. This lanky good natured Norwegian won the title in 1934 at Big Pines with a leap of 240 feet. Johnny was acclaimed by the newswriters as the most graceful man on skis. It was estimated that he attained a speed of 96.8 miles per hour on that skimming, downhill flight to glory.

Snow Valley boasts a complete rental shop. There's one room equipped with ski shoes that would prove the envy of any shoe store in the country. It's a cinch that somewhere in that collection you'll find a pair that fits. Whether it's skis, warm togs, or sun visors, everything is stocked. If your own equipment goes wrong, there are a couple of repair experts who can fix you out in a jiffy.

Frankly, we enjoyed the warmth of a cheery fireplace and a cup of coffee in the warming house and restaurant while listening to Sepp Benedikter and Johnny Elvrum talking shop.

The GRIZZLY BEA

A skier pauses briefly to drink in the fascinating beauty of snow clad hills. IDYLLWILD

In the San Jacinto Mountains which tower in snowcapped grandeur above that winter sunshine spa of Palm Springs, Idyllwild is revealing in snow. Skiers are initiating the new ski slope and lift, now operated by the "Inn." In snow conditions, we noted, are the best in years and promise to continue so throughout the winter.

San Jacinto Mountain acts as the desert's southwest barrier. The great mountain towers 9,305 feet in an almost sheer escarpment. Idyllwild is situated on westerly slopes boasting a mile high altitude. Just off the Palms to Pines Highway, the resort is readily accessible both from the desert and coastal areas by a well paved highway.

Accommodations are snug and comfortable at the Idyllwild Mountain Inn. A roaring fire in the huge lobby fireplace welcomes the guests as they return from their frolics in the snow. Easy lounges are scattered through the lobby. The tang of crackling pinewood smoke is only rivaled by the spicy aroma of fresh made coffee from the dining room which incidentally boasts some of the finest cuisine you ever sat down to enjoy. Idyllwild is fast becoming one of the southland's leading convention centers and organizations both civic and fraternal are making it their annual get-together headquarters.

FEBRUARY, 1949

Observed from the Bear's Den

The opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

No Californian needs to be told what the weather has been during the last few weeks. We all have our "Believe It or Not" stories. To all of us it has meant increased work and hardship, whether citrus grower, vegetable grower, stockman, resort operator, or merchant, and the Grizzly Bear editor is no exception. We did our stint at frost fighting in the family citrus groves at Hemet, and it was no picnic, we assure you.

Then came the great snow, blocking highways and isolating whole communities for days at a time. At periods, even traditional sunny Palm Springs and the desert towns were shut off from the coastal area.

As a result, the Grizzly Bear has come in for a great deal of good natured kidding over the winter scene in Yosemite by Ansel Adams that we ran on the December cover. Such scenes were common within a few miles of our office during the past few weeks.

There is a sunny side to the picture, however, for January has brought life-saving water to California. Without it, the coming summer would have been a hard one for the entire state as water levels were at the lowest that they have been in many years.

Yes, 1949 will long be remembered to Californians as the year of the Great Snow.

You wouldn't think that the weather and holidays would affect the size and date of publication of the Grizzly Bear. However, the combination of both played havoc with our plans for the January and February issues, resulting in keen disappointment to reader and editor alike.

We don't like to cut the number of our pages. We'd much rather increase them. Also, we don't like to get out late, but it seems like it was a situation that could not be avoided the last two months. And we can draw solace from the fact that we are not the only publication having these troubles.

To begin with, four pages of advertising ordered for the January issue were cancelled at the last minute due to the approaching holidays, with the promise that they would run in the February issue. This meant that we had to completely re-arrange our plans for the January issue, leaving out material that we had planned to run.

Then came the snow storms and the promised four pages were only a memory. Further, we might just as well have been snow-bound, for many of our prospective advertisers were. As this is written, they are just beginning to dig out and get set for what promises to be one of the best winter sports seasons in years if the weather holds good.

Native Sons are beginning to think of the coming Grand Parlor session in May at Sonoma on the Mother Lode and during the next few months we hope to bring you details of this big yearly event. It is fitting that we meet here during this Centennial year in an area which played such a prominent part in the "Days of '49."

George Perry of Castro is doing a swell job as secretary of both divisions, checking and rechecking the averages and posting them in the bowling alleys.

Bowling is going over with a bang in the San Francisco Bay area and it is hoped that Native Sons throughout the State will take to bowling in their respective districts, so that it will be possible to get together and exchange bowling matches between the parlors of the different cities throughout California. The San Francisco parlors are all willing to play matches with out-of-town parlors, either handicap or straightaway.

Any parlor interested can get all information by dropping a note to State Bowling Chairman Ernest W. Perry, 450 Hoffman Ave., San Francisco.

Long Beach Parlor, NSGW, has two teams bowling Tuesday nights at the Belmont Bowl.

Napa Parlor, NSGW, has entered its basketball team in the Vallejo League. It will also play some games in the local high school gym during February.

Napa also has an active bowling team and expects to compete with Sacramento No. 3 in the near future.

Members from Napa Parlor are planning on entering the golf tournament to be held at the Sonoma Golf and Country Club Sunday, February 27.

One of the most active basketball teams in Native Sons circles is that of Guadalupe Parlor, San Francisco. It is entered in the recreation league which started January 5. Members of the team are Don and Earl Malnick, Rich Stanfel, John Triebe, Robert Ghorzi and George Fabian.

R. E. "Hank" Hankinson, who was installed as president of South Gate Parlor No. 295 at ceremonies in the American Legion Hall January 13, with DDGP Arthur Hulse as installing officer. The South Gate high school band, under direction of Dale Eymann furnished music for the occasion.

Charles A. Roberts Is New Stanford Parlor President

Charles A. Roberts, director of the San Francisco Mercantile Exchange, was formally installed as president of Stanford Parlor No. 76, Native Sons of the Golden West, at ceremonies Tuesday night, January 11, 8:30 o'clock, in the Hall of the Grand Presidents, Native Sons Building, 414 Mason street.

Installation was conducted by Joseph I. McNamara, district deputy grand president, assisted by Fred C. Drewes and Arthur T. Poheim, all past presidents of Stanford Parlor. Roberts succeeds Fred J. Sinclair as president. At the same time a token of esteem was presented to John L. Purcell by Webster K. Nolan, a past president and presently a member of the grand parlor's board of appeals. Paul Walti was soloist. Stanford Parlor was founded in 1886 and is one of the largest units in the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

75 Attend Celebration Of Sunset Parlors 65th Birthday

About 75 members of the Native Sons of the Golden West celebrated the sixty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the local Sunset Parlor No. 26 January 24, at a dinner meeting in Native Sons Hall.

Members of the John A. Sutter Assembly of past presidents were honored guests of the Sunset group, as were Walter Bailey of Elk Grove, grand president of the NSGW, and a number of other members from Sacramento Parlor No. 3, Elk Grove, Courtland; Placerville, El Dorado County, and other Superior California cities.

William Sullivan is president of the parlor and Larry Marvin was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Grove of Memory Association Honors World War Two Heroes

The Grove of Memory Association recently held a whist party at the Grizzly Bear Club, San Francisco, for the purpose of raising funds for the plaque commemorating the seventeen San Francisco Native Sons of the Golden West who gave their lives in World War Two. This plaque will be placed in the Memorial Grove in Golden Gate Park opposite the Doughboy Statue, at the foot of which is a bronze plaque with the names inscribed thereon of the heroes of the First World War.

Both these projects have been completed by the Grove of Memory Association, Native Sons and Daughters. Miss Bertha Mauser of Keith Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco, was the originator of the idea of perpetuating the memories of these gallant men.

Anita Craig of Dolores Parlor, retiring president of the Association, was in charge of the affair.

Los Angeles Inter-Parlor Has New Meeting Place

The Los Angeles county Inter-Parlor committee announces that future meetings will be held on the third Monday night of each month in order that all parlors may be represented.

Through the courtesy of the Historical Society of Southern California the committee will meet in the E. T. Earl Mansion at 2425 Wilshire Boulevard.

In a recent communication to all parlors, President John B. Schmolle said that through Inter-Parlor the unification of all local parlors could well advance all the aims of both orders; could give a concerted force to any chosen activity and could present the powers of all the parlors rather than the lesser power of an individual parlor.

The unity of action and activity through the Inter-Parlor committee during these Centennial years will make the presence of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West felt in all communities, said President Schmolle.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Californiana Parlor No. 247, Los Angeles, celebrated Christmas by aiding the fight against Polio with a donation to the Sister Kenny Foundation. During a meeting recently they also remembered the veterans by a donation to the Inter-Parlor Committee for the bingo party of December 19, 1948. At this same meeting the Bill of Rights was commemorated by a short talk on the first ten amendments to the Constitution by Charlotte V. Carpenter with a copy of them for each person present. Miss Mary Foy, first woman librarian of Los Angeles, brought two old books, collections of poems, printed more than a hundred years ago which are a prized family possession. She read from memory a long ballad from one of them called "King John and the Abbot of Canterbury" much to the delight of her listeners.

At an earlier meeting Mrs. Enid Stickler, Past President of Toluca Parlor gave a book review at a luncheon meeting. In January Judge Dawson of the Municipal Court gave an exceptionally interesting talk on the human side of the court with emphasis on traffic offenders.

Dolores Parlor No. 169, San Francisco, held their formal public installation January 26 at 414 Mason street. January 27 was the 40th birthday of the organization, and it was observed with a dinner at the Club Casino. Vivian McSwain was chairman of arrangements, assisted by Madeline Jacobsen.

San Fernando Mission Parlor No. 280, San Fernando, held their installation of officers recently with Verna Doster assuming the gavel to head the parlor. The candle lighting service was performed by Barbara Burnison and Isabelle Griffin. Margaret Peters, Senior Past President, escorted the Holy Bible. Refreshments were served to the many friends and members who attended the ceremony. Decorations for the evening were beautiful silver fans tied with red satin ribbons.

Wilmington Parlor No. 278, Wilmington, held their installation of officers on Wednesday evening, January 26, in the Woman's Club House at Wilmington. A large attendance was reported.

Whittier Parlor No. 298, Whittier, reports a very successful Christmas Party held at the East Whittier Woman's Clubhouse. Entertainment, fine refreshments, beautiful decorations and a good turn out went into making this event a memorable one.

Several years ago Fresno Parlor No. 187, dedicated a Christmas Tree to the city of Fresno to be known as the Fresno City Christmas Tree. Last year they put in their bronze plaque. This year the tree was large enough to be decorated and the decorations were beautiful. They are contemplating a tree to be given to the Lake Millerton Recreation Area after a while. However a plaque may not be set up for a gift of less than seven trees. The parlor was fortunate in having the "Early California Centennial" film shown recently. It is in technicolor and has a grand sound track of appropriate music. Any organization may borrow it and is urged to do so.

Aloha Parlor No. 106, Oakland, is a very busy parlor indeed. Plans are underway for a rummage sale in the near future. A very successful "Old Timers' Nite" was held January 28 with the parlor turning out enmasse to enjoy an evening of entertainment and a good old "gabfest." They are also lending a helping hand to a Veteran and his family. They're justly proud of the fact that they sent out five heavily laden baskets of food and "goodies" to needy families at Christmas.

Miriam Mayerhofer Is New President of Keith Parlor

A "Garden of Roses" was the theme of the evening when Keith Parlor No. 137, Native Daughters of the Golden West, San Francisco, recently installed Miriam Mayerhofer and her corps of officers at the ever beautiful ritualistic candlelight ceremony of the Order. As the many guests entered the lovely room where the affair was held they beheld a veritable garden which together with the colorful gowns of the officers, guests, and escort team made a picture long to be remembered.

Deputy Grand President Edna Erney of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, was the installing officer, and Rita Ford of Keith Parlor sang while the President was escorted to her station.

The parlor was honored by having many distinguished guests present from both the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, and among the speakers were Grand Trustees Leslye Hicks and Jewel McSweeney, and Past Grand President Claire Lindsey.

At the close of the ceremonies, a reception was held and refreshments were served, and as a grand finale to a wonderful evening everyone danced to the strains of gay music. Past President Ruth Scheifler was chairman of the evening.

The Junior President was escorted by the Junior Marshal Eileen McGinnist followed by a unit from the Junior NDGW. They wore blue and gold dresses. The organist played "California" as they marched in. As the Junior President called each letter from the name Margaret, a girl stepped out of line. They carried a large yellow daisy made out of paper plates with a letter in blue, which when put together spelled the word MARGARET. There were tears in the Grand President's eyes as each little girl made her presentation. The Junior President then presented the Grand President a lovely blue jewel box decorated in gold.

Each Grand Officer was presented with a pottery wall bracket shaped like a poinsettia. The Grand President was presented with a porcelain statuette, by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Chairman. The statuette is to be placed on the "Spinette" which our Grand President is waiting for.

$20 was presented the Grand President from the five parlors for the Homeless Children Fund by General Chairman Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler.

Grand Parlor On High Calls Secretary of Ramona No. 109

It is with deep sorrow that we of Ramona announce the passing of our good Brother and Recording Secretary, Walter L. Baskerville. Mr. Walter passed on to our Grand Father in High at his home, 325 West 10th Street, Los Angeles, on the morning of November 22, 1948, from a heart attack.

Services were conducted from Armstrong Family Mortuary, this city, Saturday, November 27, 1948. The chapel proved wholly inadequate to accommodate the large attendance of Fraternal Brothers, Civic leaders and friends who attended.

Walter Baskerville was appointed Recording Secretary of Ramona Parlor in 1945, which position he held up to his death. He joined the order in 1913, was President in 1920, and Trustee for eighteen months immediately following.

Third and Hill streets, Los Angeles was the place of his birth, and Los Angeles was his home most of his life. He was a member of the California National Guard during World War I, served at one time as Court Clerk in local county courts. His Masonic affiliations were: Member of Palestine Lodge; Past Patron of Palestine Order Eastern Star.

To say that Walter will be missed at Ramona Parlor fails to convey our true feeling. He was sort of a "hub" around which activities and projects of the parlor revolved. Genial and of a cheery nature, he was never too busy to stop and give a new member sage advice, or to prevent dissension among the members of the parlor.

Our Cover

To those residing in California's mountain areas, where King Winter still holds court, and snow sports are the finest in many years, it might seem that our March cover is out of place. However, like us, those in the snow-bound High Sierras and at California's mountain winter resorts are beginning to plan ahead for the summer months, when scenes such as this will be familiar on lakes from the Oregon border south to the Mexican line.

Drained to a low point by years of drought, boating and fishing on many of California's famed lakes the past summer was disappointing to vacationists. But this year it will be a different story. With one of the heaviest snow packs in many years in the mountains, most of our lakes, fed by melting snows, will be nearly full.

Our cover, "Yachting on Clear Lake and Blue Lakes in dramatic Lake County," is typical of the scenes that will greet you this summer. Our picture is through courtesy of the famed Redwood Empire Association, which has done a great deal to popularize the famous resort areas of Northern California.

California's Centennial Years
1948-1949-1950

NEW FILM RELEASED SHOWING HOMELESS CHILDREN PROJECT

The season for "Oscars" has arrived, and the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency is in the receiving line, anticipating a nomination for its recent production "Homeless Children." After several years of disappointments and delays in the completion of the picture because of war restrictions and shortages, a feature has now come out of Hollywood to portray the splendid humanitarian work of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West in the placement of children for adoption.

The Honorable Georgia P. Bullock, Judge of the Superior Court in Los Angeles, presiding in adoption proceedings, plays a stellar role in the picture and emphasizes the importance and the seriousness of adoptions and the work done by placement agencies in placing suitable children in eligible homes. Happiness and the welfare of the child must be the first consideration of the welfare worker in the placement of a child. Uninfluenced by any other motive the Agency of the Native Sons and Native Daughters has, since its inception in 1910, placed over 8,000 children in California homes. These children have been, and are being raised in an atmosphere of religion, education, and loyalty that permits them to take their places in adult life as industrious and loyal Americans.

The California Centennial Commission has presented the Southern Committee on Homeless Children with a print of its first historical picture entitled "California's Golden Beginning," vividly portraying in color, the discovery of gold at Coloma and the resulting gold rush. Both pictures are in sound and, shown concurrently, leave the audience, both native and adopted native, with a feeling of pride in the heredity they share in California.

Bookings for showing the pictures can be arranged through the Adoption Agency office, 1095 Market Street, San Francisco 3, or Bernard G. Hiss, 520 Rowan Building, Los Angeles 13.

Two-Year Itinerary For Historical Caravan

It will take two full years for the Historical Caravan of the California Centennials Commission to cover the itinerary outlined for its statewide tour.

A primary objective of the Commission is to give opportunity to people in every section of the state to view at first hand the collection of historical treasures.

Never before have so many treasured moments of California's heritage been assembled in a mobile exhibit. Because the many valuable documents and objects will be returned to their respective and far separated custodians when the tour is completed, emphasis is being placed on giving the widest possible coverage in the Caravan's itinerary.

Among the many original items that highlight the exhibit sections are the diary in which Don Gaspar de Portola chronicled his famous expedition of 1769 from San Diego to San Francisco; the personal bible of Father Junipero Serra, founder of the California missions; the doll that the survived the Donner Party tragedy; the first newspaper published in California; Mark Twain's first published volume and the gold spike that linked the continent at the completion of the Central Pacific Railroad.

MOTHER LODGE TREK

Calaveras County

Continuing from last month the third of a series of the Trek of the Mother Lode, which includes most of the important places in Calaveras County, which will play an important part in the celebration of California's Centennial Years.

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

Five miles south of West Point is Railroad Flat. It is said that a Mr. Henry Haye opened the first store in 1850. The history of Railroad Flat is closely associated with that of Independence Flat where miners arrived in 1849. Railroad Flat received its name from the fact that ore cars were used to haul ore from the mining claims. During the early 1870's several hydraulic mines were in operation using "Monitors."

Three miles southeast of Mokelumne Hill is Jesus Maria located on Jesus Maria creek. This was a large mining community during the gold rush. At present one old stone store building remains.

Six miles south of Jesus Maria is Whiskey Slide. Continuing on this road is Mountain Ranch. The first location of this place is about one mile west of the present site where an old adobe building still stands its location is on private property. Chee Chee Flat, Cave City were nearby large mining towns during the rush but at present nothing remains of the two latter places. Mountain Ranch or "El Dorado" which is eight miles east of San Andreas has several landmarks. One is the Domenghini store building built in 1856 by Carlos Pagani. The Rodosino building built about 1860 and several other pioneer stone buildings typical of gold rush architecture. Mountain Ranch during the gold rush was a large trading center for many of the mining claims. It is an attractive place surrounded by Pine woods and quite populated.

State Highway No. 8 leaves Mokelumne Hill in the southeast where it passes through the historic town of Fosteria also known as "Paloma." The history of it is closely identified with the Gwin Mine. The Gwin mine is located in Rich Gulch north of the settlement and was one of the first quartz mines in Calaveras county. It was operated by Senator Gwin as early as 1867. Few buildings remain in Fosteria but the majority have disappeared.

Continuing southwest on highway No. 8 the traveler arrives in Valley Springs, already mentioned. Three miles west of Valley Springs is Campo Seco. During the fifties it was among the largest mining towns in Calaveras county. Its gravel channels yielded gold in quantities upon the completion of the Mokelumne and Campo Seco canal and Mining Company flume in the middle fifties. The fire of 1859 destroyed most of the business section. Campo Seco was first settled by Mexicans in 1849 and soon became the main trading post for the other mining camps in the surrounding area such as Cat Camp, Chile Camp, etc. Several old buildings still remain from the thrilling days of the gold rush among which are the old Adams Express building with iron doors and part of the French hospital and Chinese store buildings. Campo Seco once had an Armory Hall which stood on the north side of Main street. It was in this hall that men were trained for the civil war from this area.

Comanche is five miles west of Campo Seco. Some stone buildings erected in the early days can still be seen. This place during the gold days had a large Chinese population.

Eleven miles south of Valley Springs is Jenny Lind founded in 1849 as a placer mining town. Landmarks here are the ruins of the Orenge Brothers and Rosenberg store store buildings.

Six miles south of Jenny Lind is Milton which was the terminus of a twenty-eight mile railroad from Stockton. The Central Pacific completed the road to Milton in 1871, it was the first settlement in Calaveras county to have a railroad. Mule teams conveyed freight to the mining towns of Calaveras, while stages carried the mail, express and passengers.

Sixteen miles southeast of Milton is Copperopolis. During the civil war it became one of the principal copper producing sections in the country. In the civil war years an armory was built on Main street, its construction being of brick where men were enlisted and trained to enter the service of the United States Army. This mining community was one of the most populated during the copper boom days of the sixties. Ox and mule teams were used to haul the copper ore to Stockton before the completion of the railroad to Milton. Among the large mines here are the Keystone and the Empire. Several brick buildings dating back to the early days of Copperopolis is O'Bryne's Ferry on the Stanislaus river. Several old stone walls of building remain along the road. This was a trading center for the miners working the Stanislaus river. O'Bryne's is significant because of its covered bridge. At this point the river had been bridged since 1852 but several had been washed away and the present covered bridge has been standing for some time.

Five miles northeast of Angels Camp on highway No. 4 is the town of Vallecito. Several stone buildings remain and the bell used to summon miners to Sunday services is preserved here.

Continuing east on highway 4 is Douglas Flat, once the scene of large mining operations. In 1853 about five mining companies located here. The Gilleado building still stands. It is of stone and was once used as a bank and a store.

Several miles east of Douglas Flat is Murphys on highway No. 4. Murphys is well known to all who have read or traveled the Mother Lode country. One of its most historic buildings is the Mitchler Hotel built by J. L. Sperry in 1855. It was a noted stopping place along the route to the Calaveras Big trees and was then known as the Sperry Hotel. It is said that the hotel is supposed to be the one referred to in Bret Harte's "Night in Windham." The old registers show the names of Mark Twain who registered June 5, 1877, Horatio Alger, June, 1877, John A. Aster, Jr., June, 1876, M. Wooster, October, 1867, Thomas I. Tipton, September, 1880, and many other famous names in the history of the west.

Eight miles north of Murphys is Shee Ranch. This was the location of the Shee Ranch mine where history dates back to the early quartz mining days in Calaveras county.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Grand President Walter N. Bailey arriving in Sonora to help make arrangements for the "Days of '49" Grand Parlor Convention.

Days of '49 Grand Parlor

By CHARLES P. JONES,

Chairman Publicity Committee, Grand Parlor Convention Committee.

With two months remaining before the Grand Parlor of Native Sons is to meet in Sonora, every committee under the general committee, headed by R. W. Muller and composed of members of both Tuolumne (Sonora) and Columbia Parlors, reports plans for the big time well formulated, and everything points toward one of the most enthusiastic and entertaining sessions ever held by the Grand Parlor.

It goes without saying that the historical significance of this year, heralding as it does the 100th anniversary of the great "Gold Rush" into the Mother Lode (the host Parlors having accepted as their responsibility the duty of carrying on the traditions and preserving the sentiments of that historic event) will naturally force upon the convention that always romantic theme, "The days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49."

With that thought in mind, every committee chairman has planned his program for the our-day session, and the accompanying entertaining features, to bring back the pioneer customs, scenes, costumes and ways of living of 100 years ago.

There will be a whiskerino contest, old-time dance contests, historical exhibits, parade of old vehicles, with riders and marchers displaying their old costumes, and impersonations of famous "gold days" characters. There will be a barbecue in Columbia State Park.

Horses and donkeys, stage coaches, buggies with the fringe on top, freight wagons and other ancient means of transportation will be given the right of way over autos. Delegates and visitors as well as local Native Sons will be given entry into hotels, convention halls, and even homes, when their badge of admission is a full growth of whiskers, miners boots, and a red flannel shirt. Prizes will be awarded the best characters.

This session will have the honor of dedicating Tuolumne County's $150,000 fair building, and the Natives will be the first organization to hold sessions there.

Sonora's Washington street, and Columbia's roadway, as well as most places of business, will be decorated, stores will utilize their show windows for the display of gold-days relics; on the barbecue and the banquets (one for delegates, one for ladies) will feature dishes popular in gold-rush camps of 100 years ago.

With the housing and food reporting ample accommodations for fully 700 visitors; the transportation committee has arranged for local auto owners to handle the tour, the grand ball committee has secured a well-known orchestra with promise of many pioneer dance tunes, the program committee will distribute a beautiful souvenir program of the event, recording much of the historical background of Tuolumne County. All other committees report that they are fully aware of their responsibilities and will assure a success in every line.

THE STATUE'S LAMENT

Native Sons' "Winged Victory"
Now in Golden Gate Park.

Here in this park where the night winds sigh,
I scan the years that have passed me by;
The years when I faced a busy street,
And heard the tramping of many feet;
And parades saw gaily pass along,
With banners waving, music and song;
And when busy day had turned to night,
The city glowed with refulgent light;
But when grew the city day by day,
And greater grew the traffic's sway,
They said I'd have to be moved away;
Though fifty-one years I served the town,
Yet the wreckers came and pulled me down;
Of all my friends who unveiled me there,
But few are now left my grief to share;
Yet here in this park—the Golden Gate—
In time I'll weather my sad estate;
For when days are warm and skies are clear,
My friends will come to visit me here.

HARRY S. JENNER,
1435 Filbert St.
Oakland, California

Editor's Note: In December a barred crew dismantled and transplanted "Winged Victory," the statue that has graced Turk, Market and Mason intersection, San Francisco, for 51 years. Besieged with many technical problems the crew finally overcame them and the statue was relocated in the Native Sons of the Golden West grove in Golden Gate Park. The above was written commemorating the occasion.

Death Takes Famed U. S. Deputy Marshal at 87

Frederick Eugene Jackson, 87, one of the most famous of the hard-riding, fast-shooting U.S. deputy marshals of the old days, died last month at his home, 1218 Elm Ave., Glendale.

Jackson was an active participant in the Battle of Stone Corral, June 12, 1893, in the Tulare County hills against the Chris Evans-John Sontag gang of train robbers.

The Evans-Sontag band terrorized Central California in the late 80s, earning a nationally infamous reputation for murders and train robberies. But a posse of which Jackson was a member trapped the gang at Stone Corral. Sontag was killed and Evans wounded in the bloody melee that followed.

Jackson later became a shotgun messenger for Wells-Fargo in the Mother Lode country. He was a nephew of William T. Heaton, San Gabriel Canyon pioneer.

Jackson, for whom Jackson City was named, had been a Los Angeles resident for 58 years. He leaves his widow Annie and a daughter, Mrs. Olive Becker.

Riverside Native Daughters Have Antique Display

Romance in antiquity was the theme of the program, exhibits and refreshments at the meeting of Jurupa Parlor No. 176, Riverside, last month.

With the aid of members from West Riverside, the History and Landmarks Committee headed by Mabel Parma planned the evening. Committee members included Viola I. Pittam, Flora Kauffman, Marie Wood, Ruby Miller and Estella Russell.

A highlight of the program was Naomi Pood's reading of a letter written by her grandfather from Bucksport, Calif., in 1854. The letter was a rich source of historical data. Interest was also shown in a paragraph written by Mrs. Pittam on her grandparents' love story.

Most of the antiques displayed were heirlooms from the homes of West Riverside members, some had been collected and purchased. Among the striking exhibits were Iva Galwas Andrews' marble platter and antique smoking set; Evelyn Lovelady's brass lamps, china and 100-year-old Bible; Mrs. Sadie Evans, wine bottle with goblet, pressed glass dish and china spittoon; Mary Ann Schroeder's blue glass bell and dish; Ethel Waggoner's tin candlesticks and branding iron; Florence Vandell's silver caster, pickle dish and sugar bowl with spoons, and Helen Whitney's china.

Mayme Cooper displayed an 1898 Riverside City directory with its quaint ads and illustrations and Flora Kauffman showed three pictures of the Rubidoux home. Also attracting much attention were Mrs. Ed Russell's silver napkin rings, fine spoons and old Irish linens, Mrs. Pittam displayed drawn wood, colored glass bells, buttons and pictures.

San Francisco County Deputies Honor Past Grand President

The Native Daughters Home wore a "Valentine Decor" on Sunday morning, February 13th, when the Supervising District Deputy Grand President and Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County sponsored a breakfast honoring Dr. Mariana Bertola, esteemed Past President, for her Fifty Years of service as Chairman of our Native Daughters Home Committee.

DGP Irene Bondanza, San Francisco Parlor No. 261, presided. Greetings were extended by SDDGP Vera Thompson, Keith Parlor No. 137, who stated: "We are commemorating two occasions this morning. First and paramount, is the Fiftieth Anniversary this year of the founding of the first Native Daughters Home—and second, St. Valentine's Day. As "Love of Home" is one of the principles upon which our Order is founded, and St. Valentine stands for "Love," the Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County welcome you with open hearts and trust that the sentiments expressed this morning will show our love for both the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West and our Native Daughters Home."

The Salute and Pledge to the Flag was led by DGP Jaredna Johnson of James Lick Parlor No. 220 and Past Supervising Deputy Nan Kelly, Portola Parlor No. 172, gave the invocation.

The honored guest, Dr. Bertola, gave a resume of the history of the Native Daughters Home, giving special mention to those Parlors and many friends throughout our State who have contributed to the Home through these many years. The Deputy Grand Presidents expressed sincere appreciation to Dr. Bertola, to the members of the Home Committee, and to Mrs. Grace Carpenter, manager of the Home, for many courtesies received. A presentation was made to Dr. Bertola of two Golden Manzanita Trees, clinging to which were fifty individual red and gold hearts—each containing a silver token for the Home.

Throughout the morning's festivities, entertainment was provided featuring Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks as vocalist, accompanied by Frances Simas of Oro Fino Parlor No. 9 and Past Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel of Mission Parlor No. 227, favored the group with the rendition of her original poem entitled, "San Francisco, City of the Pioneers."

Among the distinguished guests present were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Trustees Jewel McSweeney, Leslye Hicks, and Ruth Trousdale, Sr. Past Grand President Mae Wilkins, Past Grand Presidents Mae C. Bolde-mann, Mae Himes Noonan and husband; Anne C. Thuesen and husband; Emily C. Ryan, and Loretta Cameron and husband. Many Past Supervising Deputies, members of the Home Committee, presidents of the San Francisco Parlors, and Mrs. Grace Carpenter, manager of the Home, were introduced. SDDGP Vera Thompson then introduced the twenty-seven San Francisco County Deputies.

The tables were artistically decorated with large red hearts ruffled in white lace and place cards of gold hearts. The walls and mantle of our beautiful Native Daughters Home Dining Room and Reception Hall also caught the "Sweetheart Theme" for they were festooned with large red hearts, cupids and golden arrows. Much praise was given to DGP Irene Bondanza and her committee for the beautiful and delightful decorations.

Schools Presented Bear Flags By Marguerite Parlor

The California Bear Flags are proudly flying over every public school in El Dorado County today as the result of the efforts of Marguerite Parlor No. 12, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Placerville.

Two years ago the parlor sent an inquiry to all public schools in an effort to find out if they had Bear Flags and at that time it was found that half of the county's 52 schools did not have flags; some did not even have flag poles.

A committee was appointed by the parlor to raise money and to assist these districts to procure their flags. On October 20, 1948, the parlor goal was reached for on that date it was the privilege of Marguerite No. 12 to present the 12 schools left without flags, outdoor flags for their schools. In addition, a four by six silk flag was given to the Placerville Grammar School for its auditorium. With the presentation of these 13 flags was completed a most gratifying project.

The flags were presented at a program given in the Masonic Hall at Placerville, with every school invited to send two student representatives and their teacher. The history of the Bear Flag was reviewed, with appropriate music being played and sung. Mary Alice Kitchen was chairman of this committee.

Marguerite Parlor No. 12 is truly proud to say the "Banner of the Bear" is waving in El Dorado County.

Californiana Parlor Approves Assembly Bill No. 677

Californiana Parlor No. 247, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Los Angeles, recently passed the following resolution without a dissenting vote, as presented by State Radio Chairman Margaret Ann Kerr, upon motion of Past President Susan M. Lange, seconded by Vice President Blanche Oechsel:

Whereas, California's first organization of California-born women was founded upon the early traditions of California—faith in and freedom to worship Almighty God, loyalty to America and love of home, and

Whereas, the Bible occupies a sacred place upon the altars of all of our Parlors and in the hearts of our members; and

Whereas, permission to read quotations from this inspired Book in the public schools of California was denied more than two score years ago over the protests of countless parents, women's club leaders and other residents, thus depriving thousands in succeeding generations of youth of knowledge of its precepts; and

Whereas, in California today over 90 per cent of juvenile delinquents are unchurched and receive no consistent moral training;

Therefore, It Is Hereby Resolved, that Californiana Parlor No. 247, in regular meeting assembled this 25th day of January, 1949, convey its approval of State Assembly Bill No. 677, introduced by Assemblyman G. Delbert Morris and the Committee on Education to which it was referred, which Bill would restore daily reading of selections of the Bible in the schools of our State, such selections to be read without comment and to be recommended to the State Board of Education by authorized representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths; and

It Is Further Resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor, to the Grizzly Bear and to the press, and that we as individuals communicate our approval to each of our Assemblymen and invite Native Sons and Daughters elsewhere to convey their support of this measure to their Assemblymen and the State Legislature Committees on Education.

CALIFORNIANA PARLOR 247, NDGW.,
MRS. HAZEL E. STECKEL, President.
MISS MARY C. BEEBE, Secretary.

San Fernando Mission Parlor Events Announced

Verna Doster, President of the San Fernando Mission Parlor, No. 280, Native Daughters of the Golden West, announced her plans for the year at the regular meeting of the parlor, Wednesday, February 2 at the American Legion Hall. Plans discussed included: The parlor's Birthday Celebration in March; a Spanish Dinner in April; the Pioneer Tea in May, and the Fiesta Participation in May.

Busy Year Ahead For Modesto Native Daughters

Helen Condit was installed as president of Morada Parlor No. 199, Modesto, January 12, at a joint installation ceremonies with Modesto Parlor No. 11, Native Sons of the Golden West. Flora Pelusa, Lomitas Parlor No. 215, Los Banos and Bud David, Modesto Parlor No. 11, Modesto, were the installing officers. Ernest Curry was seated as president of the Native Sons.

Edith Lilly received her past president's pin at this occasion and a 25-year pin was presented to Ann Olsen Michael.

At the January 26 meeting President Condit named the standing committees and gave a comprehensive report on welfare work, especially among children.

Lucille Powell reported on the success and fun of the Christmas party December 22, sponsored by Morada Parlor and Modesto Parlor for the children and grandchildren of the members of the two parlors.

Morada Parlor's civic committee will present a California Bear Flag to the new Orville Wright school in March, it is announced. Ada Carroll is chairman.

Three members were initiated at the Valentine party meeting on February 9. The hall was attractively decorated by Elizabeth Lollich and Marion Rehder. A skit "St. Valentine's Work Shop" was presented by Lucille Powell and a group of members. The February social committee, Margarite Johnson, chairman, carried out the theme of the evening in the banquet hall.

In memory of Bess Elmore a book pertaining to California History will be placed in the Modesto Public Library. This is a new project of Morada Parlor.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S —MESSAGE—

Perhaps the thing that we should think about now as far as Parlor activity is concerned, is 100 per cent participation in the Grand Parlor Public Speaking Contest. This contest is a very important one because it brings before our students the history of California, which in my opinion, is not sufficiently taught in our schools. The contest this year has every promise of being better than previous ones. The county and district finals will be held in March and April, with the winners of the three districts competing at Sonora during the Grand Parlor in May.

In speaking of the coming Grand Parlor, Brother "Hi" Muller and his committee in charge, have announced that they would like to make this Grand Parlor as much a 49'er affair as possible. They are figuring on a grand parade with all of the delegates dressed in either 49'er or Spanish costumes for this event. Everyone coming would have a lot of fun and we, as an Order, would be very much in keeping with the spirit of the Centennials of California.

At this writing I have just received a letter for Deputy Grand President Bert Reid, who has been working on a new parlor at Paradise, scheduled to be instituted on February 28, saying that it will be impossible to institute at this date. We have more than enough applications in the Grand Secretary's office to go ahead, but the postponement is due to the people of Paradise being literally snowed in. They have had 41 days of snow at this writing with no let-up in sight. Brother Reid and DDGP Metsger have done a grand job there and I know that they feel bad about the postponement, and I have their assurance that as soon as mother nature lets up, we will institute.

There is still time for any of you who haven't sent your contribution to the Homeless Children Committee to do so. Although the drive was scheduled as a Christmas appeal, the fiscal year doesn't end until March 31, 1949. This is too worthy a project for us to drop and the response received so far is a definite indication that the membership as a whole wishes to continue the Homeless Children work.

During the last year something new was added to the Grand Parlor contests in the shape of a Lapsation Contest. It is my pleasure to announce that two parlors have a 100 per cent paid up membership—Calistoga Parlor No. 86, with a membership gain of 18 and no delinquents, and Washington Parlor No. 169,

Charles R. Nutt, left, was recently presented with a life membership in Paradise Parlor No. 282, Native Sons of the Golden West, Huntington Beach. Past President Gale S. Bergey made the award. Born in 1869 in the quaint little Mother Lode town of Yankee Jim, Nutt was reared among the roaring mining towns of the Mother Lode country. He never tires of telling fascinating yarns of adventure in what have now become ghost towns. In 1888 he became a charter member of the Dutch Flats Mountain Parlor No. 126, later serving as president of that parlor. He has never relinquished his active membership in the Native Sons and was instrumental in forming Paradise Parlor No. 282, where he served as recording secretary for two years.

with a membership gain of 12 and no delinquents. As these two parlors were in the same membership bracket the prize will be divided equally.

Other parlors to qualify and win were as follows:

A tie between Las Positas Parlor No. 96 and Pleasanton Parlor No. 244 with one delinquent.

Fruitvale Parlor No. 252 and Arrowhead No. 110 each won their respective classes. This contest proves that by active work of the Lapsation Committee the delinquents can be held to a minimum.

I wish to announce the following appointments:

Walter Brandt, No. 267, appointed Deputy Grand President to Beverly Hills Parlor No. 306; Russell D. Copley, No. 273, to Wilmington Parlor No. 280; Hugh Spaulding, No. 272, to Pasadena Parlor No. 296; Kenneth Halnan, No. 252 to Antioch Parlor No. 32; Deno Pavioni, No. 200, to Ukiah Parlor No. 71, Broderick No. 117 and Alder Glen No. 200.

C. R. Weller, Alder Glen Parlor No. 200, has been appointed to the Board of Relief. Hiram H. Moore, Arrowhead No. 110, will serve as district deputy to Riverside Parlor, replacing Roy E. Bushey.

Modesto Parlor To Take Part In Big Celebration

The officers of Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, headed by Ernest Curry as president, were duly installed for the ensuing term by District Deputy Grand President M. H. (Bud) David assisted by Supervising Deputy Grand President Walter Crow acting as Junior Past President and Past President William Phoenix acting as Marshal. The installation was held jointly with Morada Parlor No. 199, NDGW, in Oddfellows hall on January 12th and many members from both organizations were present.

Modesto Parlor is taking an active part in the plans for holding a monster 1949, Gold Rush, Centennial Celebration in Modesto starting May 16th and continuing until May 22nd. Jointly with Morada Parlor NDGW it is planned to have a dance team of 16 or 24 to exemplify the old time square and other dances prevalent in the early days, attired in costumes of the period. An excellent 7 o'clock dinner was served by Chuck Boring and Bud David on January 19 and at the meeting following a very interesting talk was given by Fred A. Earle, Jr., athletic instructor at the Modesto Junior College and former football coach, the subject being skiing. The first meeting night in March will be Past President's night.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

HERE AND THERE WITH THE NATIVE SONS

Jack Marsh Laughlin was installed as president of Monterey Parlor No. 75 at ceremonies conducted January 25 by DDGP Manuel Gonzales, assisted by members of Santa Lucia Parlor No. 97, Salinas. Meetings of Monterey Parlor are on the second and fourth Tuesdays, 8:00 P. M., Redmen's Hall, 467 Alvarado, Monterey.

The historical markers and Centennials celebrations committee of San Diego Parlor, composed of Frank Forward, Edwin Churchman and Dan Shaffer, has been cooperating with other members of the county committee in arranging details for several historical markings in San Diego County. At the present time a new plaque is being made to replace the old one on the boulder in the National Cemetery on Point Loma, marking the last resting place of those killed in the battle of San Pasqual. Col. Buhlen is assisting in having the names properly spelled and other details that were lacking on the original plaque.

Judge Thomas P. White, Associate Justice District Court of Appeals, was the speaker at the February 25 initiation and birthday dinner of Ramona Parlor No. 109. Plans are also being made for a '49er night on March 11.

Stephen M. White Parlor No. 263, San Pedro, celebrated its 24th birthday, February 18 with charter members being honored.

Leslie C. Schellbach, Jr., heads Glendale Parlor No. 264 for the coming term. Officers of the parlor were installed January 27. The parlor meets every second and fourth Thursday, 8:00 p.m., Hahn's Hall, Brand at Broadway.

University Parlor No. 272, Los Angeles, observed Ladies Night February 19 at the Aragon Ballroom, Lick Pier, Ocean Park.

The meeting of Huntington Park Parlor No. 294 on February 16, was highlighted by the official visit of Grand Trustee David W. Stuart. A class of candidates was initiated in honor of the Grand Trustee. Art Hulse, charter president of the parlor, was in charge of the entertainment.

New officers of Observatory Parlor, NSGW, were recently installed in joint ceremonies with Vendome Parlor, NDGW. Willis Butler is the new president of Observatory Parlor.

Guadalupe Parlor, NSGW, San Francisco, announces that its annual dinner dance has been postponed to Saturday evening, May 7. The affair will be held in the Gold Room of the Palace Hotel.

Members of Southgate Parlor, NSGW, are making plans for a giant fiesta and bazaar to be held the latter part of April, sponsored jointly with Rio Hondo Parlor, NDGW.

Commencing February 10, Wilmington Parlor No. 280, Wilmington, will meet every second and fourth Thursday, 8:00 p.m., at the new VFW building, Anaheim and Hawaiian Streets, Wilmington, it is announced.

Pasadena Parlor No. 296 held a family potluck dinner on the evening of February 10, which was well attended by the Natives and their wives. Clark Sellers, eminent criminologist, was the speaker, showing slides and pictures of some of his experiences. Curtis Knight was in charge of arrangements.

Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, is very active in the Order's athletic program. The parlor has a bowling team, which is currently playing in the Native Sons League for top honors. Another group playing in the Native Sons League is Pacific Parlor's basketball team, coached by William O'Sullivan, an outstanding basketball coach.

Pacific Parlor held a Pre-Lenten Dinner dance Saturday evening, February 26, in the Garden room of the Claremont Hotel, Berkeley. Music was furnished by Jack Fina's orchestra. The dance committee was headed by Edwin A. Cox, II, with Frank Medaglia, Paul Conniff, Bill Shearman, Bill Daley and Lewis A. Giegerich assisting him.

Santa Monica Bay Parlor Starts Year Off Right

At its regular meeting of January 25, 1949, on the occasion of Grand Trustee David W. Stuart's visit to the Parlor, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, NSGW, had a large group for a fine dinner, speakers, entertainment, and an initiation and installation of officers.

Installed by DDGP Earl W. Norbry on that night were the following officers for the new term: President, Jack O'Shea; 1st Vice President, Edward Rance; 2nd Vice President, Orvil DeYoe; 3rd Vice President, Richard Laventhal; Marshal, Don Hecker; Recording Secretary, Robert C. Miller; Financial Secretary, Stuart L. Brandel; Inner Sentinel, George Sperry; Outer Sentinel, Clyde Ragsdale; Trustees, R. C. Eshelman, Hal Baida and Walter Brandt, and Treasurer, Delmar Badgley.

Also present for the occasion were PGP Eldred L. Meyer, PGP Walter Odemar, Past Grand Trustee Ben Hiss, and many other District Deputies, visitors, and officers from other parlors.

Sacramento County Plans Regular Get-Togethers

To promote sociability the Native Sons Hall Ass'n., of Sacramento has agreed to give the combined Native Son and Native Daughter parlors of the entire county the use of the auditorium for one night each month for the purpose of getting members together, renewing old acquaintances, making new ones and having a general good time. Plans for the project were scheduled to be made at a meeting of Sacramento County parlor representatives held Thursday evening, February 24, in the Native Sons Hall, Sacramento.

Unique Installation Is Held At Redwood City

Thursday, January 27, members of Bonita Parlor No. 10, NDGW, and Redwood Parlor No. 66, Redwood City, gathered for joint installation of officers of the two parlors. Installing officers were SDGP Dorothy Donofrio of Daly City, who officiated in the absence of DGP Dolores Mattson and Kelly Mattel of Pescadero.

The Redwood City installation was unique in that husband and wife were installed as heads of their respective parlors; Leroy Hubbard of Atherton being the incoming president of Redwood No. 66 and Mrs. Hubbard the president of Bonita No. 10. As they were escorted to the altar by members of the Bonita Parlor Drill Team and Redwood Parlor Drum Corps, Orabell Schmidt of Bonita Parlor sang, "When You Wish Upon a Star."

In attendance were Grand First Vice President Peter T. Conmy, NSGW, Oakland, and Grand Inside Sentinel Eugene Carqui of Redwood City.

Grand President To Dedicate New City Hall

According to Arrow Grains, official publication of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, Grand President Walter N. Bailey has accepted the invitation of Brother James E. Cunningham, mayor of San Bernardino, to dedicate the new city hall this spring. Grand President Bailey is expected to bring a corps of Grand Officers with him, while Grand Trustee David W. Stuart, chairman of the board of Grand Trustees, will take a leading part in the dedication ceremonies.

Plans Being Made to Make Enchilada Feed Annual Event

Attended by Native Sons from all parts of Southern California the annual Enchilada Feed of San Gabriel Archangel Parlor No. 291, held February 3, promises to become one of the outstanding events of the year in this section. Plans are already underway for next year's affair.

The occasion was the official visit of Grand Second Vice-President Edward J. Wren of San Francisco, who gave an inspiring talk on the future of the Native Sons of the Golden West in these Centennial Years. Among those present were: Junior Past Grand President Walter H. Odemar and Past Grand President Eldred L. Myer, both of whom spoke on the work of the Order. Past Grand Trustee Bernard G. Hiss gave a report on progress on the Homeless Children work and announced that he will make showings of the new film just released on this important project of the Orders, thru-out Southern California.

At a recent box lunch party for members and their wives, held at the American Legion Clubhouse in Temple City, President Al Mata really sprang a surprise on the parlor by having Jim Dyer, recording secretary of Whittier Parlor, assisted by his clever wife, in what had been initially intended as a preliminary instruction in square dancing, but which turned out to be a real funfest, with all joining in numerous sets, the affair continuing into the late hours.

Jim Dyer and his wife are really experts in this field, and all participants, though admittedly a little sore, limp or lame, are unanimous in their endeavor to have more of those highly enjoyable evenings.

Fruitvale Parlors Hold Joint Installation

Officers of Fruitvale Parlor No. 177, NDGW and Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW, Oakland, held joint installation ceremonies January 28 with Myrtle Ransom of Aloha Parlor No. 106 and Edward Freese of Oakland Parlor No. 50, as installing officers.

Mary Berndt was installed as president of the Native Daughters and Duncan McMeekin heads the Native Sons for the new term. Following installation ceremonies a program was presented by the Native Daughter Junior Unit of Fruitvale Parlor. Past Grand President Edward T. Schnarr of Fruitvale Parlor, gave an interesting report on the Ice Hockey game sponsored February 4 by the Native Sons and Native Daughters of Alameda County for the benefit of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Adoption Agency.

Sebastopol Parlors Hold Joint Installation

Many visitors and district parlor members attended the joint installation of officers recently by the Sebastopol Parlors, Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

New officers of the Native Daughters were installed by Deputy Grand President Josephine Andreaux from Sonoma. Mrs. George Buck, 419 Rosedale avenue, Santa Rosa, was installed as president.

The California Historical Caravan of the Centennials Commission, which will tour the State for the next two years, got off to a fine start with fitting ceremonies at Newhall, Los Angeles County, early in February. Honored guests, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz of Santa Monica Bay Parlor and Assemblyman Julian Beck participated in the ceremony. Verna Doster, president of San Fernando Mission Parlor, NDGW, holds a bottle of oil from famous old Pico No. 4 well, drilled in the seventies and still producing. Verna did not actually shatter the bottle—it would have been a shame to smear up those beautiful buses—but went through the motions. In the picture, left to right, are: Col. Lloyd D. Mitchell, Southern California manager for the Centennials Commission; Dr. Bynum, scholar and author, who is writing a biography of Sheriff Biscailuz; Assemblyman Julian Beck; Mrs. Doster, Sheriff Biscailuz.

Plans Huge Celebration

Plans for the forthcoming celebrations which will be held in San Jose on the 9th of September are getting under way with full sails flying. General Chairman Irv Lee is leaving no stone unturned to seek ways and means to have this celebration one of the greatest in the State's history.

Meetings are being held every week with wonderful responses from the various Native Son and Daughter Parlors throughout the adjoining cities. There is no doubt in any one's mind that this will be the creme-de-creme of celebrations. The cooperation of all, so far, is marvelous, reports the Observer, official publication of Observatory Parlor No. 177, San Jose.

The Bulletin, official publication of San Jose Parlor No. 22, goes The Observer one better in commenting on plans for the big event by publishing the names of those on the various committees, calling attention to the fact that it is 27 years since the last statewide Admission Day celebration was held in San Jose.

The Ways and Means Committee includes Tim Sullivan, chairman; Charles A. Payne, Peter J. Mancuso of No. 22; Jay McCabe of Observatory 177, and Anthony Trigueiro of Santa Clara No. 100.

Edward M. Fellows of Santa Clara No. 100 has been appointed Chairman of the Parade Committee, with the following assistants: Clyde L. Fischer, Jerry O'Brien and Ed Strohmaier of No. 177; Tim Sullivan, Neal Man-gin, Harold Moriarty, and Gerald Origlia No. 22.

John P. McEnery, M. G. Moenning and J. McCabe of No. 177; Adaline Boysen and Ru Semichy of San Jose Native Daughters, Augusta Petersen of Vendome Native Daughters and Lillian Avilla of Palo Alto Native Daughters, have been appointed on the Housing Committee.

The officers of the Joint Committee include Irving Lee, chairman; Chas. M. Baldasini, treasurer; John Sullivan, secretary; and the following vice-chairmen: Lawrence Paradiso, Em Falbe, Dolly Kooser, Viola Parks, Lillian Avilla, and A. G. Ruth.

OUR COVER

It may be a bit early to some of us for scenes such as that depicted on this month's cover, but any calm week-end now will find white sails out at sea off California's famous yacht harbors, with yachtsmen trying their wings for the exciting days ahead.

When the Southland Yachtsman offered us this cover, taken by their staff photographer, Harry Merrick on last year's Santa Barbara Island race, the temptation was too great. Photographer Merrick stole a few moments from his job of crew member aboard "Doc" Barber's Branta to make this action shot. Bob Miller's Westward is on extreme left and almost hidden behind Westward is Endymion. The Roland Von Bremen is away astern, with Pursuit directly aft of the yacht this photo was shot from. "Doc" Barber is at the helm and Bill Lapworth has his usual sailing hat on, which is becoming known all up and down the coast.

Scenes such as these serve but to remind us of the long way that our beloved California has come since "the Days of Old, the Days of Gold, the Days of '49."

California's Centennial Years
1948-1949-1950

San Rafael Mission To Be Restored

Luis Gil Taboada, a Franciscan friar, came to the valley that was to become San Rafael in 1817. He built its first home, a shelter of thatched branches. And he set about following the orders of Friar President Payeras, head of the California missions, to build "a sort of rancho, with its chapel, baptistry and cemetery under the title of San Rafael Arcangel." The Arcangel was to provide a sunny sanatorium for ailing Indians.

It grew quickly. Its beams were made from hand-hewn redwood and oak, its walls of adobe brick, and its tiles from adobe clay rounded on the thighs of Indian workers. By 1818 it was finished and the huts of neophyte Indians dotted the gradually sloping hill around it. It developed rapidly from an "assistencia" (auxiliary) (to Mission San Francisco De Asis—"Dolores") into the 20th of 21 California missions.

San Rafael mission, like all the others, was doomed by the Mexican decree of secularization in 1834. Its converts scattered and died off. It was abandoned and gradually crumbled into a rubble of wood and formless clay. In 1861, a carpenter named James Byers removed the last timbers of its roof and foundation to build homes.

The mission had the melancholy honor of being the only one in the State to be destroyed completely.

But historical monuments die hard. For the last 14 years Mrs. Florence Donnelly, former secretary of the Marin County Historical Society and a member of Marinita Parlor, No. 198 San Rafael, has been working for a reconstructed mission to recall Marin's past. By last week, she was able to report that her dream was already on paper and would be a reality by this summer. The Hearst Foundation, Inc., had promised $85,000. Plans had been drawn up by Sausalito architect Arnold Constable. Ground will be broken in April.

The new Mission San Rafael Arcangel will be raised between the Catholic church and the parochial school on San Rafael Fifth Street. It will be composed of a 23-by-49 foot museum wing adjoining a slightly larger chapel.

Only a few remnants of the old structure still remain for exhibit, several of the adobe tiles, some letters and baptismal records and two of the original mission bells.

And probably only one man can claim that his life has spanned the space between the two eras. John Murray, a 93-year-old citizen of Kentfield, Marin County, once played as a child in the wreckage of Friar Taboada's Handi-work.

New Regulation

Under a new regulation, which went into effect March 1, the postoffice no longer provides Second Class publications with the forwarding addresses of its subscribers. If you move, without giving your new address to this magazine and to your parlor secretary in plenty of time, your copy of the Grizzly Bear is returned to us as un-deliverable. Already, we are receiving back, with postage due, a good many magazines, making it necessary for us to enter into correspondence with parlor secretaries in this regard. If he doesn't have the correct address then there is no alternative, but to take you off the mailing list.

The postoffice will provide you with a card to correctly notify us of your change of address. Be sure to give us your old as well as your correct new address. If you have a Zone number, be sure to include it. Failure to do this latter may also result in your magazine being returned. Allow about 30 days for the change to take effect.

SAN FRANCISCO ESTABLISHED 1852

Sonora headquarters for the "Days of '49" Grand Parlor Convention of the Native Sons of the Golden West, now only a few weeks away.

Big Time at Sonora

Praise for the organization of the program and plans for entertainment of delegates attending the 1949 session of the Grand Parlor in Sonora in May was expressed recently by Grand President Walter Bailey following a meeting with R. W. (Hi) Muller, General Chairman, and fourteen committee members in the colorful Mother Lode town.

Bailey heard detailed reports of all committee heads outlining plans for the conclave and heard sparkling reports of progress toward the arrangement of the finest Grand Parlor in history.

President Richard Honey of Tuolumne Parlor, Sonora, reported the most critical phase of the Grand Parlor, housing, was being met and that he had assurances of accommodations for 700 persons in Sonora and the immediate vicinity, with more available further from headquarters.

John J. Muzio and James Panero, in charge of banquets and meals, indicated that all restaurants will remain open for 24 hours if necessary to care for the visiting delegates. Muzio said that plans were being outlined for a banquet for the men and another for the ladies. A barbecue is also being planned in Columbia to fete the visitors to the historic State Park and Columbia Parlor.

Bill Woodford, head of the transportation committee, said that there was assurance that an ample number of automobiles to care for all delegates that arrive by plane or bus and for sight-seeing trips for the ladies.

Plans for the grand ball were outlined and it was indicated that a famous orchestra would play for the dancers during the evening. It has been decided by the grand ball committee that grand officers should attend the grand ball in tuxedos, but that all others should attend in old-time costumes. This, they explained, would aid in carrying out the theme of the convention, which is "Days of '49."

Various entries in the parade, it was announced, will be awarded cash prizes, and all visiting Parlors are invited to enter marching units and floats, as are all business and organizations in Sonora's home county, Tuolumne.

Business men of Sonora, as well as the local Fair Board, will decorate store fronts and the streets of the town as well as the main meeting hall and the recreation hall. At the latter place, delegates will find easy chairs, card tables, books and newspapers, and a canteen for cold drinks, candies and cigarettes.

Golden Era Parlor, Native Daughters of Columbia, will also maintain a social hall at the historic Springfield school house.

Another feature of the conclave will be a tug-o-war between the hard-pulling Native

Sons and the team of Lumberjacks from nearby Tuolumne City.

Arthur Martin, chairman of the souvenir program committee, indicated that a real "gold" edition of a handsome booklet will be available to the delegates. The program will not only contain a complete list of events, but will give a history of old buildings, landmarks, ghost towns and forgotten gold rush camps, as well as photos of old structures still to be seen.

With fine cooperation at every hand, the committees all indicated that one of the finest conventions ever will be staged at Sonora.

The committee feels that delegates, grand officers and past grand presidents should all give serious consideration to bringing their wives. Entertainment is being arranged for the ladies that they will all enjoy.

Above can be seen Al Ponce (left) and Richard Honey, presidents of Columbia and Tuolumne Parlors, respectively, wishing each other "good luck" as they climb in a real old Prairie schooner enroute to the Grand Parlor at Sonora. The whiskey contest announced in last month's Grizzly Bear, has been called off according to R. W. "Hi" Muller.—Photo by Pitts Studio, Sonora.

Grand Parlor Notes

Tuolumne Parlor and Columbia Parlor, realizing that the coming session of the Grand Parlor in Sonora is to be historic, inasmuch as their parlors are concerned, are putting forth every effort to make the session a most outstanding event.

This fact was most evident at the two recent meetings of the chairmen of the several committees handling the affair.

For instance, and this is of special importance to delegates and visitors, Richard Honey, president of Tuolumne Parlor and chairman of housing, reported that he had secured close to 400 reservations without going up the Mono road beyond Twain Harte (12 miles up) and was confident that he would have over 650 rooms available. Some of these rooms will be at Long Barn (20 miles up the road) and some will be of cabins, fitted with baths, and all conveniences, wherein parties of twelve or less can club together. (Of course all these roomers should be delegates or gentlemen visitors.)

To take advantage of such accommodations, write to Richard Honey, Grand Parlor Session Committee, Sonora, California.

Then Wm. Woodford, chairman of transportation, reported that he had assurances of sufficient automobiles to transport delegates and guests to their rooms, from the stage depot or from the Columbia Airport, as well as enough seats to take care of all persons on the tours. For further information write Woodford, care of the committee, Jamestown.

Similar fine reports were made by Jack Newman, chairman of badges and registration; Irving Symons, chairman of the parade committee, who will be pleased to reply to any inquiry regarding entries in such parade; Al Ponce, chairman of the barbecue, who has a fine committee handling that affair which the committee as a whole is working to make an historic event; Max Just, chairman of the grand ball committee, who will give details of the rules governing costumes of dancers and spectators; Al Bolter, in charge of the social hall for delegates, and Al Denison, in charge of similar social pleasures for the ladies, who will provide accommodations and leisure time pleasures for either group.

James Panero reported that he had contacted all eating places within a radius of ten miles of Sonora and found that all will remain open each day and far into the night—and that accommodations will be augmented in several eating places, which guarantees ample accommodations for all.

And that was the story as spoken by each of the chairmen.

For further particulars, it is urged that the delegates write any of the above named chairmen, who can be reached "in care of the Grand Parlor Session, Sonora, California."

Yours for a happy reunion,

CHAS. P. JONES, Chm.,
of Publicity.

Natives Play Prominent Part In Pasadena Diamond Jubilee

January 27th, 1949 was Pasadena's 75th birthday and the celebration during this year is known as the Diamond Jubilee. Outstanding events during this year were a grand pageant which was presented at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium on the evenings of March 30th, and 31st, 1949, and an exhibit in the Civic Auditorium Exhibition Hall on the same dates both depicting the life and growth of Pasadena during these years. Descriptive matter and maps designating interesting and famous landmarks were available to the public. A plaque was dedicated to the 27 founders of Pasadena and placed in Pioneer Square.

January 27, Pasadenas birthday was celebrated with a grand banquet and program, Dean Rockwell Hunt of the College of the Pacific was the principal speaker. Willard Keith, Vice president of the California Centennials Commission also spoke. Joseph V. Scott was Master of Ceremonies.

The program was presented by the Pasadena Historical Society, Pasadena Pioneer Association and the Native Sons and Daughters. A number of members of Pasadena Parlor, NSGW are taking a very active part in Pasadena's Jubilee Celebration. Joe Phelps, Pres., is on the General Committee and Chairman of publicity. C. Victor Sturdevant is Chairman of Landmarks, Henry T. Holmes is chairman of Plaque dedication to the Founders of Pasadena. William F. Holt, Sr., past president of Pasadena Parlor is General Chairman.

The winter of 1872 was one of the coldest experienced in the middle west. There was formed in Indianapolis the following year a group of folks known as "The California Society of Indiana," the purpose of their organization being to find new country where the climate was more equable. They therefore sent out scouts to locate land, well watered and timbered, in Southern California, which might be purchased at about $3.00 per acre. They wore out their shoes, clothing and themselves looking for such a place, without success. While in Los Angeles, one of the scouts, D. M. Berry, met Judge Benj. S. Eaton who invited him to come to his home, it was known as the Fair Oaks ranch, a beautiful spot on the slopes of the Sierra Madre mountains in the northeast section of what is now Pasadena.

After spending the night there he arose the next morning and looking down over the valley exclaimed, "this is the place I have been looking for." This then, is how the location of Pasadena was decided upon. After a few days Mr. Berry returned to Los Angeles and there opened a real estate office, with a partner named H. C. Wiley, at 32 North Main street. They interested their friends back in Indianapolis and others in Los Angeles in purchasing land in the vicinity of the San Gabriel ranch.

November 13, 1873, the San Gabriel Orange Grove Assn., was formed to exist ten years, and have a capitol stock of $25,000.00, divided into 100 shares at $250.00 each. December 13, 1873 the organization came into existence. They purchased from Dr. J. S. Griffin about 4,000 acres and had 1500 subdivided into lots varying in size from 15 to 60 acres, water as piped from near the mountains to each parcel of land, and when this was done the stockholders met on January 27, 1874 and made their selection according to interest and desire. Each of the 27 stockholders made their selection without conflict with the choice of any other stockholder. Fourteen of these were from Indiana and thirteen from other Mid-Western and Southern states, therefore the name of "Indiana Colony" was selected. In addition to the 4,000 acres

Long Beach Parlor No. 154, Native Daughters of the Golden West, recently dedicated a sundial to the memory of Josham Bixby. This was the second sundial dedicated in honor of the pioneer settler by the local parlor of the Native Daughters. The first, erected in August, 1938, was defaced by vandals through the war years. The sundial is in the park area, just west of the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. Col. Jesse Jackson of the city engineering department, designed the dial. The plates were cast and donated by I. O. Frantz of the Frantz Pattern and Foundry Co. Betty Hayward, history and landmarks chairman of Long Beach Parlor, was in charge of the ceremony, assisted by Ann Barton. Also participating were Col. Jesse Jackson, I. O. Frantz, Mrs. J. S. Harris, park commission president and Ernest R. Barker, park superintendent. Left to right: I. O. Frantz, Betty Hayward, Mrs. J. S. Harris, Ernest Barker, Col. Jesse Jackson and Ann Barton.

for $25,000.00 about 1400 acres near the mountains was donated to the colony by B. D. Wilson, for whom the first High School was named, also Wilson's Peak, Wilson Avenue and Wilson's Lake at the end of Lake Avenue near their home. B. D. Wilson was the grandfather of Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. Nine-hundred of this 1400 acres was sold at $5.00 an acre to Woodbury Brothers in 1882 and the driveway to their ranch is now the world famed cedar or Christmas Tree Lane. Dr. T. B. Elliott was President of the Indiana Colony and it was he who suggested the name PASADENA, which was adopted from two Chippewa words for valley or plain, Passa-ka-miga, that for hill, Pig-wa-dena. The name Pasadena being formed from the first half of one and the last half of the other word and means, Valley in the Hills, or, between the hills.

Natives To Mark Adobe In San Luis Obispo County

Honoring Los Angeles County Supervisor Roger W. Jessup, the Inter-Parlor Committee NSGW and NDGW of Los Angeles County will place a bronze plaque on an old adobe on Mr. Jessup's Rancho Huasna in San Luis Obispo County, Sunday June 5.

Chairman Ella V. Steinbeck has announced that Mr. Jessup in turn has invited "natives" and friends to a barbecue preceding the ceremonies. However reservations must be made for the barbecue.

As the adobe and rancho was granted Isaac Sparks who was later a prominent citizen of Santa Barbara County, the Inter-Parlor committee has invited native son and daughter parlors and the historical societies of San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties to assist as hosts and hostesses for the day.

Homeless Children Will Benefit By Ice Capades

The evenings of May 11 and 12 at the 9th Edition of the Ice Capades at the Pan Pacific Auditorium, Los Angeles, have been set aside as benefit nights for the Homeless Children work of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, it is announced as we go to press.

Coupons have been printed and will sell for $1.00 each. These coupons may be applied on any ticket ranging in price from $1.25 to $3.60. The bulk of the seats will be in the $2.50 bracket. Each coupon may be used on only one ticket. Two coupons cannot be applied on the price of one ticket.

Twenty-five percent of the first $1,500 will be turned over to the Homeless Children's Fund and 40 per cent of anything over $1,500. Here is an opportunity for Native Sons and Daughters in this area to really do something to support our Homeless Children work. Many parlors are already at work on this project.

Placerville Parlors To Have Booth At State Fair

Marguerite Parlor No. 12, Placerville, NDGW and Placerville Parlor No. 9, NSGW, are joining forces to represent El Dorado County by sponsoring a booth at the California State Fair in Sacramento next September.

On August 19, 1948, Marguerite Parlor, realizing the Gold Discovery County of El Dorado was not to be represented at the State Fair, appointed a committee and appeared before the county supervisors and with only 12 days before fair opening, were granted permission to sponsor an exhibit. It was a labor of love by most members. The cooperation of the business men of the County made for success and the booth placed fourth as a lumbering feature.

This year, 1949, with eight months to plan and with the combined efforts of both parlors, it is hoped that an outstanding representation can be made.

Clair Freeman of Marguerite Parlor and Harold Duden of Placerville Parlor are Co-Chairmen with a supporting committee of fifteen members.

Their slogan is "meet us at the fair!"

Fiftieth Anniversary of Copa De Oro Parlor Celebrated

A brilliant event of February 23 was the 50th birthday anniversary of Copa de Oro Parlor, NDGW, Hollister. The American Legion Auditorium had been transformed into a beautiful woodland setting with tables set for 196, the decor featuring myriads of bright daffodils and golden tapers. The Hollister Ensemble orchestra furnished music during the serving of the dinner. Hostesses at each table were attired in gowns of the Gay Nineties. Grand Trustee Elmarie Dyke sang the National Anthem and P. G. P. Bertha Briggs delivered the invocation. Supervising District Deputy Harriet Hooton introduced distinguished guests, the six charter members and the candidates to be initiated at later ceremonies.

Preceding the initiatory ceremonies, held at I.O.O.F. Hall, the birthplace of Copa de Oro, the YLI Choir rendered a program of old-time melodies and a group of Hollister Promenaders danced a series of early day California dances.

Two acolytes lighted the myriads of golden tapers. The officers, in white formals and wearing golden corsages, entered bearing lighted tapers. An escort group of eight, in old-fashioned dress, presented the Grand President with arm sprays of daffodils.

Five candidates were initiated into the Parlor.

Minutes of the first meeting were read, and Eva Rhodes, organizer and charter President, related interesting facts concerning the institution of the Parlor. Also present was the first Outside Sentinel.

Grand President Margaret Farnsworth presented the charter members with their fifty-year pins, after which they were the recipients of gold purse pencils from the Parlor, as well as reproductions of California's first gold dollar.

Informative and complimentary talks were made by the Grand President, Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler; Grand Marshal Ann Schiebusch; Grand Trustees Elmarie Dyke, Jewel McSweeney and Emily Welch; Past Grand Presidents Mae Wilkin, Esther Sullivan, Mae Noonan; Deputy Marjorie Colburn and Supervising D. D. Harriet Hooton, with P.G.P. Bertha Briggs acting as Master of Ceremonies.

At the close of the outstanding evening, President Helen Butts and Past President Fay Frusetta presided at the beautifully appointed buffet table, centered with a four-tiered birthday cake topped with the gold numerals "50".

In the meeting hall, the sun rising from the blue Pacific shed its rays over a golden California. Other murals consisted of a bright golden poppy and a covered wagon train.

Help! Help!

The Grizzly Bear is receiving an increasing number of stories written by hand. Please, please, if you can't type the stories, be sure to write names very clearly, or better still, print them. Nothing is harder for the editor to figure out than an unfamiliar name that is not written plainly. People do not like to see the names misspelled in the magazine and it just as humiliating to the editor.

Reina del Mar Parlor To Use Centennial Theme

In Santa Barbara Reina del Mar parlor Native Daughters, under presidency of Miss Josephine Pagliotti in programming for its 1949 programs is using the Golden State Centennial as underlying theme. Every member of the parlor will have participation in program in the course of the year.

Hospitality was provided from tables decorated in Centennial colors, with Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Mrs. Henry Griffiths and Mrs. R. J. Schuld pouring. The evening's presentation was considered effective in furthering Centennial program interest of allied groups active in Santa Barbara community life.

Natives Seek To Preserve High School As Historic Center

For some years, Californiana Parlor 247, Los Angeles, has watched with concern the need of preservation of the first public secondary school in Southern California, erected in 1872, which must now be moved from the path of the Hollywood Freeway. A Special Committee, Miss Margaret A. Kerr, Chairman, Miss Mary C. Beebe, Mdmes. Eric Lange, Belle Ostrop and Emma B. Lawson, has been functioning for some time and held further conferences recently with Mrs. Gertrude H. Rounsaville and Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, Superintendent of the Los Angeles City Schools, which resulted in these and other recommendations: That a sizeable replica (not a miniature) of the original Los Angeles High School built entirely of the original lumber be preserved on top of Fort Moore Hill in Los Angeles' "Old Town" area; that the interior house collections of relics concerning this school and the beginnings of public education in Los Angeles; that the grounds be maintained as a part of the school system in keeping with that period; that the school be designated as a historic shrine and integrated into the public school curriculum as a current historical project including research, and that students conduct its visiting hours.

Californiana Parlor boasts of a number of members who attended this historic school, including Miss Mary E. Foy, Miss Mary C. Beebe and Miss Bertha Ducommun. Also a number of the mothers of members attended, including Mrs. Lucy Preston, mother of Mrs. Rounsaville and Frances Ada Connor, mother of Sarah Doherty, who was valedictorian of the class of 1878. Past President Charlotte Carpenter's grandfather was a member of the School Board and addressed the graduating class in 1895. Numerous other members graduated from Los Angeles High School in later years at other locations, including Mrs. Hazel E. Steckel, President of Californiana 247.

Further conferences have been held with the President of the Historical Society of Southern California, Mr. E. A. Dickson, and the Los Angeles High School Alumni Assn., Judge LeRoy Dawson, President. Representatives from both of these organizations, including also Miss Mary Foy, were invited to participate on an enlarged Committee for the Preservation of the original Los Angeles High School.

All Native Sons and Daughters who attended the original school are urged to communicate with Miss Mary C. Beebe, Secretary of Californiana Parlor and member of this Committee, 329 So. Manhattan Place, Los Angeles 5, and transmit in writing any information of historical interest they might have. Appropriate re-dedictory ceremonies are planned when restoration is completed and invitations will be sent to those so requesting.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

Yerba Buena Parlor No. 273, NDGW, San Francisco, enjoyed the official visit of Grand President Margaret Farnsworth of Vendome Parlor, San Jose, on Saturday afternoon, March 5, at the Grizzly Bear Clubrooms, 414 Mason Street. Miss Alma Hall was in charge of arrangements.

East Los Angeles Parlor, NDGW, had a waffle breakfast Sunday, March 20, at the Poppy Trail Villa, sponsored by the parlor's Homeless Children Committee to raise funds.

March 9 Dolores Parlor, NDGW, San Francisco, had a St. Patrick's party and meeting at the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker Street. Six candidates were initiated.

The Drill Team of Dolores Parlor is also very active. On February 15 it held a business social, followed by a surprise miscellaneous shower honoring Helen Lunny, who will become the Easter bride of John Gomersal of Dolores Parlor No. 208, NSGW. Joan Conaty and Juanita Moran were hostesses for the honoree.

The drill team had a St. Patrick's Party March 15 at the home of Frances Carlson, with Theresa Vizcaino as co-hostess.

On Sunday afternoon, March 20, the Dolores Drill Team participated in the St. Patrick's Day Parade from the Ferry Bldg., San Francisco, to the Civic Center.

Open installation of officers was held recently by Silver Sands Parlor No. 286, Huntington Beach, with Gwendolyn Talbert being installed as president. Installing officers for the candlelight ceremony were from Santa Ana Parlor No. 235. Among the many guests were Grand Outside Sentinel Eugenia Smith and Genevieve Hiskey, organizer of the parlor.

Verdugo Parlor No. 240, NDGW, Glendale, gave its annual Homeless Children Benefit at the YWCA. The affair began with a breakfast at 9:30 a.m., followed by a fashion show and card party. On March 22 the parlor had a St. Patrick's dinner preceding the regular meeting in the Masonic Temple.

Natives In Charge Of Big Centennial Parade

Probably the successful Admission Day Parade staged by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West in Long Beach, September 9, 1947, had something to do with that city placing responsibility for its big Centennial Parade in the hands of Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW and Long Beach Parlor No. 154, NDGW. The event will be held during the Long Beach Centennial Celebration May 7 to May 11. Gary Lynes, chairman of the 1947 Admission Day Parade Committee, heads the joint parade committee of the two parlors.

Century Old Adobe at San Luis Obispo To Be Marked

A century old adobe on Rancho Huasna in San Luis Obispo County will be properly marked by Los Angeles County Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West on Sunday, June 5, as they honor Supervisor Roger W. Jessup. Ceremonies are scheduled for 3:30 p.m. with Inter-Parlor chairman John B. Schmolle introducing the chairman of the day. Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties will share in the program and day's activities.

To tell the story of this valley, the adobe, and the man who was first granted the rancho, will be Leo Marcus Harloe, great grand son of the ranch owner Isaac J. Sparks. Mr. Harloe, a historian in his own right, spent several years and great expense in gathering material for his thesis on Captain Sparks. At the present time Mr. Harloe is a Los Angeles City Jordon High School teacher but plans to make California History his career.

The present owner of 5000 acres and the adobe of Rancho Ruasna, Roger W. Jessup, will give the guests a barbecue preceding the marking ceremonies — 2 p. m. Reservations MUST be made with chairman Ella V. Steinbeck, 1129 West 88th Street, Los Angeles 44 (PL 29341) by May 23.

The 7-room adobe is completely restored and appropriately furnished by Mrs. Roger Jessup with lovely antiques—many of them family heirlooms. It picturesquely sets on top of a little knoll, overlooking the valley. At this time of the year the hills are green and covered with wild flowers. Sheep and cattle graze on nearby fields.

The committee in charge are the Inter-Parlor Committee officers, John B. Schmolle, Rosemary Connor, Gary Lynes, Everett Harris, Edward Lane and Maxine Porter; Olive Hedges; and Los Angeles County Grand Officers Anne T. Schiebusch, Eugenia Smith, Mary B. Noerenberg, Hazel B. Hansen, Grace S. Stoermer, Walter H. Odemar and Eldred L. Meyer.

Assisting as hosts and hostesses will be the Historical Society of Southern California, the Santa Barbara Historical Society and the San Luis Obispo County Historical Society. Native Sons and Daughters of Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo Counties who have accepted an invitation to participate are: San Miguel Parlor, NDGW; Santa Maria Parlor, NSGW; San Luisita Parlor, NDGW; Santa Barbara Parlor, NSGW; Reina del Mar Parlor, NDGW; San Luis Obispo, NSGW; and El Pinal Parlor, NDGW. Their parlor appointees to the committee for the day are Louise Baumfield, Dr. Lloyd M. Clemons, Harry S. Sweetser, Mrs. Alta Schuld, Jess Zanoli, Katie G. Jewett, Elizabeth Rice, Henrietta Quesnal, Lorraine Cubb Wright.

To arrive at the Roger Jessup Ranch, drive to Arroyo Grande, about half way between Santa Maria and San Luis Obispo. Turn east on Branch about 1.1 miles to concrete bridge. Turn right into Huasna Valley, driving about 9.8 miles to the gate on the left hand side of the road. Turning left through the gate, drive about 1.7 miles to the adobe.

It is planned to charter a bus which will leave Los Angeles and return for $6.00 per person.

Native Sons and their wives attending the Grand Parlor Session at Sonora, Tuolumne County, May 16-17-18-19, will have an opportunity to visit The First Methodist Church of Springfield built in 1851. More recently known as the Springfield school house, this ancient landmark of early day California has long since been condemned. The locust trees, now dead or dying, were planted nearly a century ago. The settlement of Springfield was founded by Donna Josefa Valmezuda and her peons. The structure faces the plaza from the north. In the foreground is the historical marker erected in commemoration of Springfield by Columbia Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West.

FORTY-TWO YEARS OLD

With this issue the Grizzly Bear Magazine observes its Forty-second birthday, making it one of the oldest magazine in the State of California in years of continuous publication. California has come a long way since the first Grizzly Bear came off the press in May, 1907. Originally founded to hold this great State together, the Grizzly Bear has served the two Orders of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to the best of its ability through these forty-two years. The going has been rough the past few years, but given the tools to work with, there is no reason that it could not become the outstanding publication of its kind in California.

Beverly Hills Parlor Asks Adoption Of State Song

Editor's Note: Beverly Hills Parlor No. 284 unanimously adopted the resolution printed below. It was endorsed by the Grand Officers of the Native Daughters of the Golden West in special session and permission given Beverly Hills Parlor to circularize the subordinate parlors so that they in turn, can petition their State Senators and Assemblymen for their approval of the bill, which will be presented by State Senator Jack B. Tenney of Los Angeles County. Because of the short time remaining before the State Legislature recesses, all parlors wishing to take part in this movement to have "I Love You California" made the state song, should take immediate and appropriate action.

Honorable Earl Warren,
Governor of California,
Sacramento, California

Upon motion of Mrs. Francis W. (Senaida) Sullivan, State Chairman of Music, seconded by Rosemary Connor, the following Resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, the internationally recognized song, "I Love You California," written by the well-known Angelinos, F. W. Silverwood, with music by A. F. Frankenstein, in 1913, is usually sung as California's Official State Song; and

WHEREAS, this popular song, first introduced by Mary Garden in 1913, truly expresses the sentiments and feelings of California's native and adopted sons and daughters, young and old; and

WHEREAS, no other song written before or since, shares its unique distinction, enduring record and affectionate appreciation with which it has entwined the hearts of all Californians; and

WHEREAS, the royalties from "I Love You California" from the beginning, have been been devoted to charity; and

WHEREAS, California has no officially designated State Song;

THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED THAT BEVERLY HILLS PARLOR No. 289, NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST, in regular meeting assembled, this 30th day of March, 1949, at 289 North Robertson Boulevard, Beverly Hills, California, transmit to our State Legislature, our request that "I Love You California" be declared the Official State Song of California, and so recorded in all appropriate State documents and sung upon State occasions; and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to GOVERNOR EARL WARREN, LOS ANGELES COUNTY SENATOR JACK B. TENNEY and ASSEMBLYMAN WILLARD M. HUYCK of Beverly Hills; and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor and that copies also be released to the Grizzly Bear and to the press.

Artist's drawing of Sonora in 1852. Delegates to the Seventy-second Grand Parlor Session in Sonora, May 16-17-18-19, will find much to interest them in this picturesque city located in the heart of the Mother Lode. A visit to nearby Columbia will also be worthwhile.

Mother Lode Trek

This is the fourth of a series of the Trek of the Mother Lode, which includes most of the important places in Tuolumne County. The 72nd Grand Parlor Convention of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be held in Sonora, Tuolumne County, May 16, 17, 18, 19, 1949.

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

TUOLUMNE COUNTY immortalized by Mark Twain and Bret Harte is one of the most beautiful and historic counties in the Mother Lode and the delegates to the Grand Parlor convention will find many historic and interesting places to visit in the vicinity of Sonora.

Sonora is a charming city and is of historical significance as it was one of the first mining settlements to be established during the gold rush. The name "Sonora Camp" was given to it in the middle of 1848 when a group of Mexicans from Sonora, Mexico camped there. According to H. H. Bancroft's History of California Vol. VI page 469 "Among the first settlers were C. F. and T. Dodge and R. S. Ham, the latter chosen first alcalde that same autumn and succeeded by Jas. Frasier."

Sonora was made the county seat of Tuolumne county in 1850 upon the organization of the county government. In May of the following spring of 1850 it was incorporated as a city. Its first newspaper was the "Sonora Herald" the first issue of which was printed on July 4, 1850. The city is located on Wood's creek and since the days of '49 has been visited by many fires which destroyed the business section but now has many modern buildings and a population of about 3,000.

St. James Episcopal church built in 1859 still stands. The Wells Fargo building, Odd Fellows Hall and the old Rothers building still remain from the gold rush days.

Two miles west of Sonora is Shaw's Flat. This rich mining camp was discovered by Mandeville J. Shaw in 1850 and was one of the richest mining centers in California. During the same year the Mississippi House was built and formerly used as a hotel, stage station, post office, trading post and court room for the alcalde. It still remains and is one of the most interesting landmarks in the Mother Lode. On October 5, 1947 the N. S. G. W. dedicated a monument telling the story of the flat. Express shipments from Shaw's Flat were $6,000,000.00 in gold.

About one mile north of Shaw's Flat is Springfield so named from the many springs which were found and once boasted a population of 2,000 inhabitants. A tablet was placed on this spot by the Historic Landmark's Committee and Columbia Parlor 258 N. S. G. W. on July 25, 1948. Its inscription reads: "Springfield received name from abundant springs gushing from limestone boulders. Town, with its stores, shops and hotel, built around plaza. Once boasted 2,000 inhabitants. Believed founded by Donna Josefa Valmesada, Mexican women of means with reputation for aiding Americans in war with Mexico. During heyday, 150 miners' carts could be seen on road, hauling gold bearing dirt to Springfield springs for washing."

About one mile north of Springfield is Columbia the "Gem of the Southern mines." Columbia is now a state park and is one of the old mining towns which has retained much of its '49 atmosphere. At present it is the most typical of the argonaut towns.

The beginning of Columbia dates back to March 27, 1850 when Dr. Thaddeus Hildreth, his brother George and some other miners, made camp here. One of the party, J. Walker, found gold in a gulch and for a time was called "Hildreth's Diggings" then for a short period it was known as "American Camp" and later changed to "Columbia" by Major Sullivan, the first alcalde. Columbia was almost destroyed by fire in July 1854 but the town was rebuilt almost immediately.

In the fall of 1854 the Stanislaus Water company was organized and within two years built a thirty-five mile ditch. In 1852 the Tuolumne Water company was formed and both companies supplied water for the mining operations.

Columbia was often spoken of as the "Gem of the Southern Mines" because of the great extent of rich placer deposits, and being one of the largest mining towns in California, a one time was an aspirant for the state capital.

Among the historic buildings are the Wells Fargo and Company Express building, the City Hotel, St. Anne's church and the school house. There are many other interesting old buildings to see while visiting Columbia.

Tuttletown is located about six miles west of Columbia. The old Swerer's store where Mark Twain traded still stands. One mile west of Tuttletown is Jackass Hill on highway 49. It received its name from the pack train which passed through during the gold rush as donkeys were used to carry provisions to

Sonora Ready To Greet Natives

By CHAS. P. JONES, Publicity Chairman

DELEGATES to the Days of '49 session of the Grand Parlor, to be held in Sonora, Tuolumne County, May 16-19, will find the hand of hospitality wide open, all citizens ready to work for the best in feeding, housing and entertaining the delegates and visitors.

One reason for the hearty welcome planned will be found in the fact that our city and county have not been seeking conventions, and therefore this Grand Parlor session will be remembered as a great event in the history of the city.

Perhaps this is the reason why the committees having charge of the session have gone more strongly toward entertainment than the delegates have been used to—this idea of giving pleasure to visitors being one of the characteristics of the descendants of the old gold diggers of the Mother Lode region.

As a fine preliminary to the Grand Parlor session, Grand President Walter Bailey will attend the Jumping Frog Jubilee in Angels Camp Sunday, and enter Native Son III as he prides and hopes of the Order. (See photo of Native Son III elsewhere in this issue.) Other Grand Officers will likewise enter frogs in the world-famous jump.

The committee has been told that many delegates are fearful of a lack of housing—but such a fear is groundless, according to census taken by the committee headed by Richard Honey. He says that over 650 hotel and auto court rooms are available, with additional rooms farther up the Sonora-Mono road.

The same happy condition exists in the matter of feeding, according to Chairman James Panero, who reports that every eating house in Sonora, Columbia and Jamestown, as well as the resorts up the mountain road, will remain open each of the four days, if necessary, to increase their respective capacities.

The only thing that is bothering committees is finances. Every person wants to make entertainment the predominant feature of the session, giving the best in barbecue, banquet, parade, tours, social halls and program numbers—and there just isn't that much money in the old sock.

But don't worry, you delegates, for if the committee goes broke it will be all fixed up afterwards with another money-raising dance. For the mere lack of funds will not cramp this session.

Chairman Jack Newman has selected a badge with the conventional name plate, a wide golden ribbon, and a dandy gold pan, containing a little pick and a big nugget—a real souvenir of the occasion, and there will be one for every delegate and every visitor. BUT—they will set us back about four bits per.

And about that banquet: Chairman John Muzio has arranged for a steak dinner to be served in the high school gym Wednesday evening at 7:30 sharp—and that will stagger the committee to the tune of two bucks and six bits per steak.

And this doesn't include the additional dinners—a good one—for the ladies and other guests, being planned by the three Native Daughter parlors.

Then there is that always tempting but hazardous barbecue. But this one will be under charge of experts of Columbia Parlor, who know a barbecue better than their favorite chop house. It will be held in Recreation Park, Columbia, at 1 p.m. Wednesday. The big steer will be decapitated a week before the event, and thick, juicy hot steaks will go streaking to the tables together with salads, beans, bread, coffee, and desserts. And don't forget that barbecues put big holes in any pocketbook.

Going back to the matter of housing: Return postcards have been mailed to all delegates, and those who wish their rooms near adjoining bathing facilities can select Jamestown where there are four watering troughs; Columbia, with a dandy concrete trough right on Main street, Yosemite Junction, with one where the Yosemite road turns off; Tuolumne, with two troughs and the possibility that starting about 1 a.m. the delegates can start ice skating on the ice pan.

Tuolumne County Board of Supervisors has by official proclamation provided for watering troughs in the county for the use of Natives who have been used to bathing, and they think the guests will prefer the methods in vogue in the days of '49.

Chairman Ray Sanguinetti states that the town will be decorated with flags, bunting and banner, together with "Welcome Natives" signs everywhere. Also all store windows will make displays of relics of olden days.

Columbia will also be decorated and show her old time stuff, of which she has a marvelous variety.

The grand ball for Tuesday night, under charge of James King, will be a real feature of the session. Officers of the Grand Parlor will be permitted to dance around in tails—but lord help anybody else found on the floor in anything but old fashioned outfits. So bring your jeans, red shirt, or your poke bonnet, or your six-gun, or wear your Santa Claus face, and so save a fine. James Fernandez' old-time band will work over the tune of the days of '49. And that free dance will chop another hunk out of our budget.

Of course there will be a reception Monday morning, when ex-Mayor Ed Wenzel will present Grand President Bailey with an unusual gift and the freedom of the city.

Monday night there will be a special entertainment at the high school, when Max Just will throw the weight of his Native Sons team against the husky Lumberjacks of Tuolumne in a desperate tug-o-war for the championship of the Mother Lode and a purse of $100. That exciting event will be followed by program numbers.

There will also be free entertainment in the Sonora Inn each evening.

Then there will be social halls, with smokes, soft drinks, card tables, reading and writing materials, etc., freely open to delegates and visitors. These will be in Memorial Hall and Patton Hall.

Wednesday will be the big day for entertainment, opening with tours to any of the county's 20 or more historical points, many marked by monuments, several such being Native Son II will be entered by Grand President Walter N. Bailey NSGW. Suwannee Centennial and other well-known leapers will be coached by other Grand Officers.

Native Sons

GRAND PRESIDENT'S —MESSAGE—

The seventy-second session of the Grand Parlor will convene at Sonora on the 16th of May, in a historical setting of the southern mines of the Mother Lode. The Parlors there have worked long and hard to make this Grand Parlor a success. The theme is the "Days of '49," which is a natural for the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Our interest in preserving those historic spots of yesteryear has finally been vindicated. In observing these Centennials of our great State, our Order is coming more and more to the front. In the selection of Sonora for the site of the coming Grand Parlor the Order has made no mistake. There we will see many historical things which are still in existence in a modern setting.

To those of you who cannot attend Grand Parlor this year, and who have worked so ardently for me as your leader, let me take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks for your endeavors to make our Order bigger and better. This year hasn't been as fruitful in the gaining in membership, but has made us bigger in ourselves. Let me express my sincere thanks to those of you who assisted in this program.

The Order has greatly benefitted by our participation during the last year in the Centennials throughout the State. I urgently urge that we leave no stone unturned during the next year in this work to the end that our grand finale in San Francisco, celebrating the 100th Anniversary of our Admission to the Union, may be most fittingly celebrated. This will and should be a project, not only of the parlors of San Francisco, but of the whole State and should be a statewide participation in some suitable manner.

During the last year I have been blessed with one of the finest corps of Grand Officers that any Grand President has ever had to work with. In most cases my appointments have been hard workers to the end that we have furthered the Order and spread its precepts. This next year you are going to have at the

Flags Dedicated At Santa Rosa School By Natives

An American flag and a California Bear flag are flying over the new Proctor Terrace elementary school, Santa Rosa, following their presentation in dedication ceremonies Sunday, March 6.

The flags were presented in ceremonies conducted by the Native Sons of the Golden West.

The dedication was followed by public "open house," with city school board members, Proctor Terrace, faculty members and Parent-Teacher Association leaders as hosts.

The main address of the afternoon was made by Walter N. Bailey, Grand President of NSGW, who presented a bronze plaque to the school on behalf of the Native Sons.

Other speakers were Harold D. Bostock, president of the Santa Rosa Board of Education; Lloyd K. Wood, city school superintendent, and Charles W. Wiggins, county school superintendent.

helm Dr. Peter T. Conmy, a man who is well versed in the history of our State and our Order. He has worked long and hard, not only as our Grand Historian for many years, but as a truly fine representative Grand Officer. The time is ripe for progress and Brother Conmy can not do it all alone. He must have the help of each and everyone of you, especially during the next year, which is going to be one of golden opportunity to the Native Sons of the Golden West.

I am indeed reluctant to see the month of May approach so fast because I have so many things that I still want to accomplish as your Grand President. Irregardless, I do not intend to become just a "has-been," but shall continue to work for this Order which has done so much for me and which I love so much.

It has been a great pleasure, honor and distinction to have served as your Grand President this past year. I do want to express my sincere thanks to every Parlor for the many courtesies extended to me during my many years as a representative Grand Officer. To those members of the Order, who, this year, have given such extraordinary effort, may I, at this time, attempt to show my appreciation by saying, thanks a million.

Again, reluctant to say "30", I am—

Sincerely and fraternally yours,

Grand President, NSGW.

National Parlor Moving With Great Progress

Thursday evening, March 31, was a night of fine entertainment that will be remembered by National Parlor, San Francisco, and their friends for a long time. The program consisted of first class professional acts. The Parlor was fortunate in obtaining young Forum for that evening one of the youngest and cleverest magicians in this country. This young man, eleven years old will start on a professional tour this summer. He was very highly regarded at the Magician Convention in Reno, Nevada last year.

For forgetting one's troubles San Francisco's renowned Sgt. Joe McCarthy, (comedian) had the audience laughing and in great spirits. One of Mexico's Movie Stars, Jorge Morris who was imported to Hollywood was very entertaining. He has been in many Hollywood productions, playing in "Paleface" with Bob Hope and in pictures with Rita Hayworth, Frank Sinatra, Xavier Cugat and was with M.G.M. for some time. Movies of the Gay 90's with Floradoa girls and long mustached romeos was shown by Ed Brennan. To top the evening off, food and drink was served by two very capable chefs, Henry Sciaroni and Gordon Johnston. The membership committee arranged this galor evening. The committees consisting of Chairman, Geo. Rankin, Walt Murphy, Jack Goodwin, Chas. Thompson, Jim Danton, and Frank Arata.

Al Schofield P. P. gave a very short and interesting talk on National Parlor and the propagation of the Native Sons.

There has not been a month in last years calendar that National Parlor did not have at least one big blow out; and this year so far is no exception.

Meetings are well attended, spirit is high, and friendship surrounds this Parlor.

Thursday, April 7th, D.D.G.P. Jack Lewis will be with us to see at least ten very fine Californians initiated.

A committee for this Parlor has been appointed to visit different Bay City Parlors and show movies of different Admission Day Parades and other subjects. Bros. E. Brennan and C. Griedor has given a lot of time to do this in bringing closer relations between Parlors. Worthy Pres. Joe Mibach, 1st V. P. A. McClintock, 2nd V. P. John Aicega, 3rd V.P. F. Arata, Jr. P. P. Geo. Rankin, Marshall Jas. Danton, and Inside Sentinel Denny Farron are doing a very fine job.

Annual picnic will be at Shangie La Park—June 12, while anniversary dinner was held April 23 at the Country Club.

Compton Native Sons To Dedicate Flag Pole

Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, has built a flag pole, 52 feet high, which will be unveiled at Cressey Park, Compton, at the United Veteran Council's Fourth of July picnic. This pole will carry the colors at full mast and the Bear Flag and any other on a yard arm. Below the yard arm is a round table for a public address system. A plaque will show that Compton Parlor and the United Veterans Council jointly dedicated this flag pole to the City of Compton. Around the base will be a Grizzly Bear and the emblems of the various veteran organizations.

Ramon Gonzales of Compton Parlor is city supervisor of athletics and usually has six or seven base ball teams going at all times.

The GRIZZLY BEAR

Last month, during Sebastopol's Annual Apple Blossom Festival and Spring Flower Show, the Native Sons and Daughters of Sebastopol dedicated a memorial grove of twelve red-wood trees in Ives Memorial Park to the memory of Western Sonoma County's pioneers and turned the grove over to the City of Sebastopol. S. Borba, secretary of the NSGW committee; Ray Kitchel, NSGW committee member; Stan Carrothers, NSGW committee member; Ed Thorpe, NSGW committee chairman; Grand Vice President Henrietta Toothaker, representing Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, NDGW; Blanche Casarotti, SDDGP, NDGW; Emmett P. Grand Parlor Americanism Committee's Activities

Your Grand Parlor Americanism Committee herewith submits the report of some of its leading activities for the past fraternal year. Numerous meetings were held amongst the committee members residing in San Francisco and in Los Angeles. The remaining members of the Committee, while not meeting collectively, were kept in close contact with the full committee. At the initial meeting of the Board of Grand Officers held in San Francisco, June 12, 1948, your Committee was authorized to investigate and report on the murals in the Rincon Annex Post Office Building in San Francisco, as provided by Resolution Number 41, submitted at the 71st Grand Parlor. The Chairman appointed a Sub-Committee consisting of Joseph I. McUamara, Chairman; Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller, and Waldo F. Postel.

The Sub-Committee, after a full and impartial investigation, concludes that a number of the murals are highly controversial and others are Communistic in character, and requests that the incoming Committee be authorized to take such action as may be deemed necessary to cause the removal of the objectionable murals. The work of the Sub-Committee received an abundance of fine publicity, all favorable to the Native Sons of the Golden West. Their report will be forwarded to the Grand Secretary with this report, and can be examined by any member of the Order.

The efforts of last year's Grand Parlor Americanism Committee in the movement to have Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) prosecuted for treason were successful; she has now been returned from Japan to San Francisco, and is here awaiting trial in the Federal Courts.

The Committee feels that it has been most fortunate to have had Richard M. Nixon (Whittier Parlor No. 297) on the Committee on Un-American Activities, U. S. House of Representatives. Congressman Nixon, although undoubtedly burdened to the limit with his duties, never failed to reply promptly to communications directed to him. He furnished your Committee with several sets of booklets of invaluable worth in informing the people of the evils of Communism including, "Communism in the U.S.A." and "Communism in Religion." Your Committee, in turn, distributed these books to each of the Grand Officers and to the Secretary of each Subordinate Parlor.

Senator Jack B. Tenney, Chairman of the California Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American activities in California and his Committee were most cooperative with your Committee's efforts, and gave special recognition to our Fraternity by appointing to the newly created Citizens' Advisory Committee, members of our Order. Grand Secretary John T. Regan was appointed chairman for the Northern section of California group of the Citizens' Advisory Committee, and the members of your Americanism Committee residing in San Francisco were made members of that group. In the Southern portion of the State, L. F. "Ole" Olson, Past County Council Commander of the American Legion was made Chairman for the Citizens' Advisory Committee which included most of the members of your Committee residing in Los Angeles. Members of patriotic and fraternal organizations comprise the committee, which has well in excess of one hundred members.

The Citizens' Advisory Committee has had a number of meetings since its organization.

some called by Senator Tenney, and others by the local chairmen. In addition to holding seminars, it is the plan to eventually have membership in all 58 counties. The Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American activities in California is drawing its principal support from this group.

One of the outstanding achievements of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee during the past year was to invite State Senators from eleven other states, some delegates coming from as far away as Georgia to attend the meeting, which was held in Los Angeles. Each of the visiting senators left with the intent of starting similar efforts in his own State Senate, thereby bringing about a step toward nation-wide resistance to Communism by the individual states.

At the November meeting of the Tenney Citizens' Advisory Committee, held in the State Building in Los Angeles, composed of prominent representatives of business, labor, veteran, patriotic, church, civic, professional, and other organizations, it was agreed that the representatives would request their members to send resolutions or letters, urging the State Legislature to re-constitute the Senate Fact-Finding Committee. The Subordinate Parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West were so requested, and their response was most gratifying, thereby giving the State Senate a clear cross-section of how our membership stood throughout the State against any subversive threat.

Attention is called to communications received by Joseph A. Beek, Secretary to the California Senate, who listed the following Parlors' names in the Senate Daily Journal of January 29, 1949: University No. 272, Modesto No. 11, Benicia No. 89, Rincon No. 72, Beverly Hills No. 306, Santa Monica No. 267, Castrovilla No. 132, Grand Parlor California History Board, Edward J. Lynch, President; Santa Rosa No. 28, Humboldt No. 14; Monterey No. 75, Ferndale No. 93, Cuyamaca No. 298, Sea Point No. 158, Plumas No. 228, Santa Cruz No. 90, Stockton No. 7, Bakersfield No. 42, South San Francisco No. 157, Guejito No. 301, William B. Ide No. 302, Oakland No. 50, Pebble Beach No. 230, Watsonville No. 65, San Miguel No. 303, Montebello No. 277, Grand Parlor San Francisco, Edward J. Wren.

The American Legion, Department of California, individual posts, various veterans' and civic groups, chambers of commerce, and others sent like protests against termination of the Tenney Committee. The Committee was re-constituted, and the opposition in the State Senate on the first showdown could only muster four votes against the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities. This should not lull us into any feeling of false security, as immediately the Communists and their fellow-travelers called upon their supporters to oppose each and every bill now pending before the California State Legislature which would in any way expose or control Communism.

The Grand Parlor Americanism Committee forwarded both letters and telegrams to Senator Ralph E. Swing, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Governmental Efficiency, urging the adoption of Senate Bill Number 280 (Loyalty Oath for State Employees) and Senate Bill Number 515 (Discharge of known Communists working in National Defense.) The Committee had the assistance of Grand Trustee Philip C. Wilkins and David W. Stuart and other members of our Order to request passage of those bills.

The Committee recommends that our Fraternity continue a relentless fight against Communism, subversive groups, Communistic fronts and all disloyal persons. We further recommend that the Native Sons of the Golden West throw its full support and the weight of its membership to secure additional legislation in California and in our Nation's Capitol to continue to support both the California Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities, and the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee, specifically supporting measures designed to provide new or additional laws governing passport frauds, violation of the Immigration Act, perjury, espionage, contempt and treason, and the loss of citizenship for United States Communists. We should aid in securing new California legislation relative to Communistic infiltration, prohibiting the teaching of Communism or other Un-Americanisms, requiring attendance records of secret meetings at which unlawful acts are advocated or advised, abating buildings where subversive organizations hold meetings. The adoption of a form making it mandatory for a candidate seeking public office to swear or affirm support of the Constitution of the United States and of the State of California is also recommended, along with requiring loyalty oaths or loyalty pledges of all public employees at all levels: City, County, State, and National.

George Sokolsky, the noted writer and columnist, recently stated at a public meeting, "We are at war with Russia. Those who are not for us are against us. Any group that will not take a position against Russia, is an enemy of this Country . . ." Sokolsky's remarks are significant when we study the information released by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who claims there are approximately 80,000 Communists in the United States, and has testified "that for every Party member there are ten others, willing and able to do the Party's work." — an army of over 800,000 Communists in the United States of America under orders from the Cominform.

It is imperative that the Native Sons of the Golden West use every legal weapon at its command to combat Communism, and continue to cooperate with other organizations which, like ourselves, seek greater security for our citizens and the promotion of loyal citizenship, thereby defeating foreign ideologies inimical to the American way of life.

Respectfully submitted,

Grand Parlor Americanism Committee.

Eldred L. Meyer, Chairman, Jesse H. Miller, Past Grand President; Joseph I. McNamara, Chester F. Gannon, Frank J. Collins, Sr., Rawlins Coffman, Bernard G. Hiss, Hon. Benjamin C. Jones, Waldo F. Postel, Frank P. Smith, Hon. Thomas P. White, Ellsworth Willard.

Modesto Takes Active Part In Centennial Celebrations

Members of Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, have been and are very active in all county centennial affairs. Stanislaus County was one of the first counties, if not actually the first, in the state to hold a celebration in commemoration of the "Discovery of Gold," when on January 23, 1948 a "kick-off" dinner was held in Turlock which was sponsored by the Stanislaus Centennials Committee and thus making the start of the celebrations for the three centennial years of 1948, 1949 and 1950. The affair was attended by over 1000 people and guest of honor was none other than the famous and beloved Native Son, Leo Carrillo.

Modesto Parlor members who are on the Stanislaus Centennials Committee are Leo C. Hammett, chairman of the county board of supervisors and also chairman of the centennials committee, Melvin H. (Bud) David, vice chairman of the committee, Ed Whitmore, treasurer of the committee, Robert E. Coleman, executive secretary of the committee, Kennan Beard, Roscoe Service, Chas. Whitmore, Wayne Baldrige, Alban Rydberg and Chas. Blaine, the latter representing the Grand Parlor for Stanislaus County. Elaborate plans are underway now for holding a four day celebration in Modesto starting May 19, commemorating the "Days of '49." Folk dancing, parades, rodeo, "Village of 1849" representing early day events with troubadours and many forms of entertainment are scheduled.

On the occasion of Grand President Margaret Farnsworth's official visit to the ND parlors in Stanislaus County, held in Modesto on March 23, President Ernest Curry of Modesto Parlor, presented her with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the parlor. Past Grand Trustee Chas. Blaine introduced the "Gold Nugget Baby of Stanislaus County," George Rogers Jr., and acted as spokesman for George in presenting the Grand President with an orchid on behalf of Oakdale Parlor No. 125, Morada Parlor No. 199 and Eldora Parlor No. 248, NDGW. Incidentally George Rogers Jr., earned the title of "Gold Nugget Baby of Stanislaus County" by virtue of being the first baby born in this county on the 100th anniversary of the "Discovery of Gold," arriving at 12:50 A.M., January 24, 1948 and as participated in several centennial events and many social affairs since then.

Whittier Parlor No. 297, NSGW, is sponsoring a Bear Flag Centennial Show and dance featuring Cliffie Stone and the Home Town Amboree with Eddie Kirk, Merle Travis, Tennessee Ernie, Herman the Hermit and the Armstrong Twins at the American Legionadium, El Monte, June 3, starting at 8 p.m.

BOWLING NOTES

By ERNEST W. PERRY

San Francisco NSGW bowling league came to a close on the evening of April 3, after a nip-and-tuck season.

The Castro Parlor Bears came through in the final five weeks of bowling to carry off, not only their division title, but also the grand championship. Castro finished the season by winning twenty straight games, having moved up from fifth place, nine games behind the leaders, to tie the Guadalupe Indians on the last night of play. The Bears topped the Indians in two straight games in the play-off and went on to beat the Guadalupe Dons (of the other division) in the grand roll-off for the Henry Lyon perpetual trophy.

The race was close in both divisions, the Guadalupe Indians only losing the lead that they had held all season long on the last night, while Guadalupe Dons also had to go all the way to top their division by two games after the lead had alternated between the Dons, the Guadalupe Broncos and Pacific Parlor throughout the season. Pacific put on a strong finish to wind-up in second place.

Monday night highlights: high series, George Colclough of Pacific, 668; high game, Ed Jensen of Twin Peaks, 273, high team series, a tie between Pacific and Guadalupe Dons with 2616; and high team game, Pacific, 968.

For Wednesday night, high series, Frank Nerio, of Mission, 673; high game Nick Toich of Guadalupe Bears, 266; high team series, Castro Bears, 2685; and high team game, Castro Bears, 965.

In the grand roll-off Castro Bears knocked off a 2620 series against the Guadalupe Dons' 2466. George Perry of Castro had high game and series with a 234 and 610.

This had been a great season and all twenty teams are looking forward to next season.

San Francisco County Plans Annual Spring Luncheon

The traditional first Saturday in June luncheon, sponsored by the Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County, is taking shape. On June 4, Grand President Margaret M. Farnsworth of San Jose, will be the guest of honor at a luncheon in the Rose Room of the famous Palace Hotel in downtown San Francisco. SDDGP Vera M. Thompson of Keith Parlor No. 137, N.D.G.W., will preside and she is being assisted in major arrangements by DGP Margaret M. Barrett of Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, N.D.G.W., general chairman. State wide attendance of Grand Officers and the membership of both Native Sons and Native Daughters are always in attendance at this function, which has been held honoring the Grand President at the close of her term, for many years.

In keeping with the Centennial years, the committee have chosen a Gold Centennial Theme, for which the Rose Room with its terrace formation will add to the setting. Music of the Gold Rush Days will be given by the Franciscan Trio. Program plans will be announced in the June issue of The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

In addition to the official families of both Grand Parlors, many civic leaders will attend to pay honor to Mrs. Farnsworth, including Mayor and Mrs. Elmer E. Robinson.

Santa Clara County Plans For Grand President's Visit

Native Daughters of Santa Clara County are planning an elaborate reception and entertainment to members attending the official visit of Grand President Margaret Farnsworth who will make her last official visit to the FOUR Parlors in Santa Clara County, the evening of Saturday, May 28, at the American Legion hall on North Second Street, in San Jose.

Plans for the occasion are being arranged by Mrs. Ivy Rost, of San Jose Parlor No. 81, general chairman with Mrs. Ida Conners, co-chairman. Miss Dorothy Salas, is chairman from Vendome Parlor No. 100, and Mrs. Hilda Campbell, chairman from Mountain View with Mrs. Martha Bidwell of Palo Alto Parlor No. 229 and Mrs. Fern Rhodes, president of Palo Alto Parlor.

Several members of Santa Clara County Parlors attended a recent luncheon in San Mateo at the Franklin Hotel honoring Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, by Supervising Deputy Grand President Sisiter Dorothy Donofrio and her six deputies from San Mateo County, April 2. Over 200 members and guests attended this colorful affair with many distinguished guests present. The dining room was bright with spring blossoms and at each place was a dainty miniature plastic easter bonnet as place cards.

A string ensemble played during the luncheon hour, and musical selections were given by Miss Irene Boulet, vocalist, and members of the Junior group accompanied by their sponsor, Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson, sang "THE EASTER PARADE" in closing. Past Grand Organist, Mrs. Frances Simas, was the accompanist.

Mrs. Donofrio presided as Toastmistress and presented the afternoon's speaker, Assemblyman Richard Doling who discussed "Communism in America." San Mateo officials paid a tribute to the honoree and spoke of her influence to Native Daughters in our Great State. Grand President Farnsworth expressed in her charming way her appreciation to the many Organizations represented and for assisting her during her executive year.

Carlson, NDGW, who served as acting Grand Marshal for the occasion.

What Does It Mean To Me To Be a Native Daughter?

It means thrilling to the stories of the early days of our state and the tales of our sturdy pioneer forefathers.

It means glorying in the beauties and wonders of nature as I travel the highways and by-ways; driving over the crest of a hill to see a fertile valley, a jewel like lake, or the lights of a town or city lying below; viewing the towering redwoods, the mighty mountains or the rolling waters of the Pacific and knowing that this is my God given heritage.

It means swelling with pride when I see the Bear Flag, flag of my state, flying just below Old Glory on all public buildings and in front of schools, symbolic of the fact that California since its beginning as a state has been behind our nation's leaders.

It means renewing the obligation I took at the altar when joining the Native Daughters of the Golden West, promising not to let petty things influence my actions and to do my best to uphold the principles of my order, state and country.

It means the association with the many fine women such as our Past Grand Presidents, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Sue Irwin, Arianna Stirling, Mae B. Wilkin, Mary E. Bell, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, and the many others too numerous to mention.

It means the fine and lasting friendships I have made through working with the various parlors and their many worthwhile members.

It means Mothers' Night or Pioneer Women's Night when we honor those noble women who helped to lay the foundations upon which we continue to build.

It means working on committees when asked, helping where help is needed, doing all I can to further the projects of our Order.

It means visiting other Parlors on "big nights," such as initiation, installation, official visit, and the ride home after, discussing who wore what and how she looked, who said what and how it was meant; who did what and how well or badly done.

It means going to Grand Parlor, renewing old acquaintances, seeing new faces, making new contacts, which often develop into fine and lasting friendships.

It means the excitement of politics, campaigning, being "for" or "agin" some candidate.

It means the discussions in the business sessions, sometimes rather heated, out of which come our policies and course of action.

It means being uplifted by the strains of the song, "I Love You California," each phrase of which expresses a reason for being proud to be a Native Californian.

What does it mean to me to be a Native Daughter?

It means all these things and more—but underlying all it means a grateful feeling of thankfulness to our pioneer fathers and mothers for their faith in the future, their courage to face danger, and their indomitable will to leave for us, their posterity, this glorious State of California.

HENRIETTA TOOTHAKER,

Grand Vice President.

Native Daughters of the Golden West.

ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE DAUGHTERS

On April 2 Joshua Tree Parlor, NDGW, Lancaster, sponsored a benefit basketball game at the Antelope Valley Joint Union High School in Lancaster, between the famous Paraplegic Veterans team from Birmingham hospital and the "All Stars."

An interesting feature of this game was the fact that the "All Stars" had to play in wheel chairs and compete with the Veterans group, which must of necessity play from wheel chairs and they are very clever at it.

The Drill Team and Poppy Sewing Club of Las Juntas Parlor, Martinez, are busy units of that parlor. The Drill Team has performed recently for Alhambra Rebekah Lodge and for Sharon Shrine of Martinez. They have also given showers for various members. They have rented the Campfire Girls new building where they hold a meeting each month for social purposes and practice. The Poppy Club held a bazaar on April 4, where luncheon was served and many articles were displayed for sale.

Fruitvale Junior Native Daughter Unit No. 22, Oakland, held a vaudeville show and carnival April 30 to raise funds for uniforms for the September 9 celebration in San Jose.

Miracle Of The Trees To Be Presented At Santa Cruz

Preparations for one of the largest California outdoor spectacles of recent times are now underway in the heart of the Santa Cruz Trees in Santa Cruz county.

To be known as "The Miracle of the Trees" the theatrical pageant is scheduled for presentation three consecutive weekends, beginning May 7, by a professional acting cast augmented by more than 700 volunteers.

The production, which is to be an annual affair, will be staged in a huge outdoor amphitheatre now under construction. The impressive redwoods themselves will provide the backdrop of scenery for the 6-tier stage. Although the amphitheatre is being built to seat 5,000, it is constructed so that it may be enlarged later for a greater audience capacity.

Based on a religious theme, "The Miracle of the Trees" is a symbolic production presenting the story of man's eternal struggle for freedom and peace down through the ages.

In addition to the presentation of this yearly pageant, plans are being made for an Annual Fellowship of Man Award, to be bestowed upon a person who has done the most for human welfare and world peace during the preceding year. Every year a seedling redwood will be planted in a "Grove of Peace"—especially created for this purpose—in honor of this individual.

The Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce is one of the first sponsoring organizations to be announced, although various groups throughout California are being asked to participate in this non-profit corporation. The advisory council and board of directors already include such prominent Californians as Federal Judge George Harris, Actor Leo Carrillo, member of the State Park Board; Ray Darby, president of the Mission Trails Association; Dr. C. E. Farnham of the Southern California Council of Churches; and Rabbi Edgar Maginn of Los Angeles.

Executive director and producer of "The Miracle of the Trees" is Adrian Awan, member of Ramona Parlor No. 109, NSGW., renowned for his ingenious theatrical productions. In addition to numerous other projects, he is noted for his work with outdoor pageants such as the Hollywood Pilgrimage Play, the Ramona Outdoor Play at Hemet and the Mission Play at historic San Gabriel.

A unique and long-to-be remembered pleasure came to Josephine Sullivan, president of Buena Vista shortly after she was installed, when she initiated her daughter, Jeanne, into the Order.

the miners in the area. Mark Twain's cabin is just off the main highway which he shared with the Gillis boys in 1864-65 as a guest of William R. Gillis. (The writer knew the late William R. Gillis and visited him several times at the Mark Twain Cabin in 1925.) It is said that Mark Twain gathered material for several of his stories while residing there.

Brown's Flat is located on Wood's Creek, about one mile above Sonora, but the old buildings are gone.

Saw Mill Flat is situated approximately three miles southeast of Columbia and was so named because of several saw mills which were erected.

Three miles south of Sonora is Jamestown on state highway 108. It is located on Wood's Creek and was named for Col. George F. James, a San Francisco lawyer. John Donovan was the first alcalde. Ben Butterfield and a Mr. Klein operated the first merchandise store. In 1854 Jamestown aspired for the first county seat but Sonora won in the contest. West of Jamestown is Table Mountain which is mentioned in Bret Harte's immortal stories such as "Truthful James" and the "Heathen Chinese" (Ah Sin) which are two of the characters mentioned. The Bellingham House is known to be one of the oldest buildings in Jamestown.

Near Jamestown is Camp Seco settled in 1848. This settlement is known in Mother lode history for its theatre which has since disappeared. Some sources state that this was the first theatre erected in the Southern mines.

Seven miles south of Jamestown is Chinese Camp and at one time had a population of over 1,000 inhabitants. Today several old buildings can still be seen. This mining settlement was once the scene of the first big tong war among the Chinese in the mines. Its water supply for the miners was brought in by flumes and ditches from Wood's Creek. Chinese camp is characterized by its brick buildings and heavy iron doors.

Montezuma, a ghost town, is three miles south of Jamestown and was a settlement of great mining activity in 1852. In 1849 it was founded by Sol Miller and P. R. Aurand. The business establishments consisted of several stores and hotels. During the Civil War Montezuma erected an Armory Hall and organized a military company in 1861. There no longer are any old buildings and it is located by a historic marker alongside the road.

Four miles east of Chinese Camp is Jacksonville which was founded by Col. Alden Jackson in 1849.

Priest Grade, to the north, is an interesting road. On this route is Big Oak Flat named for a large oak which stood here.

According to Rensch and Hoover's Historic Spots in California, Valley and Sierra Counties, "Groveland, formerly known as First Garotte on the Big Oak Flat Road, is still a thriving village. On its one street stands a memento of the past, the old Tannehill store. About two miles above Groveland, near the edge of the Stanislaus National Forest, is Second Garotte a tiny mountain village.

About three miles east of Jamestown is Quartz which is one of Tuolumne county's old mining settlements. About a mile south of Quartz is Stent which was known in the gold era as "Poverty Hill." Among other interesting historic spots in Tuolumne county is Rawhide located two miles west of Jamestown, west of Table Mountain.

Tuolumne, which is one of the larger towns is ten miles east of Sonora with a population of about 1,550 and is the center for lumbering. Soulsbyville is the location of the Soulsby, Black Oak, Draper and other mines. Below the grade, on the road from Chinese Camp to Jacksonville is the Eagle Shawmut Mine which is about two miles northwest of Jacksonville. The Shawmut has been one of the principal gold producing mines in this county.

Wood's Crossing is on the main highway (108) which is marked by a bronze plaque on the east side and it was here that gold was first discovered in Tuolumne county in August 1848 by Rev. James Woods, James Savage and others.

Urge Inspection Of Rincon Annex Postoffice Murals

At the coming session of the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West to be held in Sonora, a strong, specific and pertinent resolution with reference to the elimination of certain subversive and unpatriotic murals in the Rincon Annex Postoffice in San Francisco on Mission and Steuart Streets, will be presented.

In order that the delegates may have first hand information and be prepared to intelligently consider the resolution, I recommend that such delegates who visit or pass through San Francisco on their journey to Sonora visit the Rincon Annex Postoffice and inspect these murals. Any San Francisco delegate who has not yet seen the murals should inspect them at once.

WALDO F. POSTEL, Past President, Stanford Parlor No. 76, and member, Sub-Committee, Grand Parlor Americanism Committee of which Honorable Eldred L. Meyer is General Chairman.

Successful Dinner

With over 75 members and their families attending, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, held a pot-luck dinner at the recently completed Native Sons hall in Santa Monica on April 8. A fine dinner, arranged by Milton Eisenhart and other members of the parlor, was followed by a motion picture using the newly purchased sound motion picture projector of the parlor. The parlor plans to increase its funds by renting this projector to other parlors and organizations. Films are easily obtained from public libraries, most photographic houses and many commercial concerns.

Sonora Ready

erected by the Parlors of the county. This day gives the barbecue and the banquets, also.

And in addition to all this, the three Parlors of Native Daughters in the county are cooking up various forms of entertainment including each day and evening, and these events include programs, luncheons and social parties free to all visitors.

Every Native in the State is invited—tho more the merrier—and let the costs fall where they will (in the committee's lap). Perhaps General Chairman R. W. "Hi" Mulle can put his big forefinger on some other sources of revenue. Fact is, he's got to.

So Sonora, Columbia, and all Tuolumne County extend an invitation to the Native Sons of the Golden West—to come back where the gold was found.

Santa Monica Bay's Drum Corps has been practicing every Monday night in preparation for the Long Beach Centennial Parade on Saturday, May 7.

To the Officers and Members of Fairfax Parlor No. 225, N.D.G.W.

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed Sister Alice Rose Munz, submit the following:

Whereas our heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom and love, has called our beloved Sister to the Great Parlor on High, we wish at this time to perpetuate her memory as an outstanding example of the precepts of Friendship, Loyalty, and Charity of our order.

Resolved. That copies of these resolutions be sent to the Grizzly Bear for publication, and spread upon the minutes of our parlor.

May the memory of her sunny smile and kind ways be an inspiration to us all.

*Through the Valley of the shadow
 Down the road we all must tread
 One you love has gone before you.
 And now waits for you ahead.
 May you meet this sorrow bravely
 Knowing on some distant day
 You will be again united
 With the one who is away.*

SONORA

TUOLUMNE COUNTY ON THE MOTHER LODE

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY – MAY 16-17-18-19

In this great Centennial Year of 1949 it is fitting that the Native Sons of the Golden West hold their Seventy-second Grand Parlor Session at Sonora on the historic Mother Lode, whose golden wealth brought men from the four corners of the world to build the State of California.

Tuolumne and Columbia, host parlors, have well planned for this Grand Parlor Session, which, set in the atmosphere of the "Days of '49," promises to be one of the most interesting and colorful events in many years for the Native Sons.

It should serve to focus our attention on the responsibility of the Native Sons of the Golden West during the Centennial Years to the State of California and the purpose for which we were founded.

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed are those of the editor and not necessarily those of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

When a California concern celebrates its Centennial, it really goes all out. At least that was our experience when we visited the Ducommun Co., in its beautiful modern building on South Alameda Street, Los Angeles, on an open house Saturday, May 7.

The California Centennials Commission has its float there, and the Native Sons presented a Bear Flag. An estimated 10,000 people have filed through the doors of the big spacious 11-acre plant at the time we were there, and thousands more attended during the balance of the afternoon. All were guests of the Ducommun Co., at a wonderful buffet lunch.

All employees were on hand to greet the visitors, including Joe Augustine of Mississippis Parlor, who took special pains to make the Natives feel at home.

It seemed as if everybody from all over California was there. We met men and women that we hadn't seen in a long while, both Native Sons and Daughters, to say nothing of friends we have made through the years in the newspaper and allied fields, including Jack "Chief" Meyers, whom baseball fans will remember as one of the greatest catchers of a time.

The thing that struck us was the fact that the thousands of visitors were handled in such a way from the time their cars were parked until they left the plant for home, that each felt the party was especially for him. That took untold hours planning and it was a marvelous piece of work.

Down to Long Beach Saturday evening May 7, for the Long Beach Centennial Parade engineered by the Native Sons and Daughters. It was a two and half hour show complete with the oldest and most modern means of transportation, plenty of bands and marching units, a parade that the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West can well be proud of.

Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz was Grand Marshal. Seated in the reviewing stand were plenty of admirals, generals and other representatives of the Armed Forces. His honor, the mayor, was there, along with the heads of city departments. Film Star Barbara Britton, a native of Long Beach, added grace and glamour to the assembly of notables. Past Grand Presidents, Eldred L. Meyer and Judge Walter J. Odemar were present to add cheers as the Drum Corps of Santa Monica Bay Parlor NSGW, went by, as was Grand Trustee David W. Stuart in '49'er costume.

Dashing hither and yon, taking care of the hundreds of details that insure the success of a parade, were General Parade Chairman Gary Lynes, Otto Beck, float chairman, and other members of the Long Beach Parlor Grand Outside Sentinel Eugenia Smith took her place of honor to help the announcer identify and describe the various units as they came by the reviewing stand.

Members of Long Beach Parlor, Native Sons, were dressed in '49'er costume, many of the boys sporting beards of various degrees and colors. The Native Daughters were dressed in the charming costumes of the day when Long Beach was young.

Untold hours of planning went into the weeks allotted the committee for setting this splendid parade and too much credit cannot be given to the Native Sons and Daughters of Long Beach for this job well done.

San Jose To Greet Daughters

By IDA M. STOCKTON

THE largest, the most elaborate and perhaps the most important convention since the founding of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be held in San Jose, from June 19 until June 24, inclusive.

It will open in the huge Civic Auditorium on West San Carlos Street near Market street. Over 1000 delegates and visitors are expected to attend. Important business will occupy most of the sessions. Far-reaching decisions on policies and methods will be presented and as changes are taking place in our civilized world, so may it be necessary to make changes in the Native Daughter curriculum.

The local committee has been working for months to assure the success of even the least feature of the great gathering of Native Daughters. The entire theme of the convention will be "GOLDEN HERITAGE." Heading the local committees for the convention are Mrs. Kathryn Nelson, of San Jose Parlor No. 81 and Mrs. Sue Engfer of Vendome Parlor No. 100, joint chairmen. Miss Dorothy Salas, is secretary to the committee and Mrs. Mamie Pierce Carmichael is Honorary chairman.

Mrs. Carmichael is the first Grand President in Santa Clara County and is well-known in educational centers in San Jose, having taught for many years in the school department before her retirement. Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Engfer and Miss Salas are Past Presidents and Deputy Grand President of the Order and have given unlimited time and energy to the preparation of the convention. Mrs. Lillian Avilla, Supervising District Deputy Grand President, is the wife of Superior Judge Avilla, and is an ardent worker in the Native Daughters, having served as President of Palo Alto Parlor and also Deputy Grand President to El Monte Parlor.

Mesdames Tillie Guardino, of San Jose Parlor No. 81 and Ada Fox Carabal of Vendome Parlor No. 100 are in charge of decorations with several assistants.

Included in the convention program will be the solemn Memorial service honoring those who have gone before. Mrs. Alice Roll of Vendome Parlor is chairman for these services assisted by Mesdames Margaret Morgan, Thelma Barkley, Ruth Semichy, Lillian Castro, Henriette Marcott and Fern Rhodes.

Sunday afternoon at the Sainte Claire Hotel, just across the street from the auditorium, registration of delegates will be received and a reception will be held honoring the Grand Officers and delegates and visiting members. Mrs. Anna Plasker, president of Vendome Parlor and Mrs. Margaret Morgan, of Vendome Parlor, Deputy to San Jose Parlor, with Supervising District Deputy Grand President Lillian Avilla will be assisted in receiving by the four deputies and presidents San Jose Parlor No. 81, Mrs. Emily Falbo, Mrs. Fern Rhodes, Palo Alto Parlor, Mrs. Cora Grilli, El Monte Parlor, Mt. View and Deputy Grand President Mrs. Lillian Castro, of San Jose Parlor, deputy to Vendome Parlor, Miss Martha Bidwell, of Palo Alto Parlor, deputy Grand President of El Monte Parlor, and Mrs. Alpha Alford, of El Monte Parlor, Deputy Grand President to Palo Alto Parlor. Special music and refreshments have been arranged by this committee.

There will be many special "over the coffee cups" Monday morning at Hotels before the Grand opening at the auditorium. On the convention floor, with Grand President Margaret Farnsworth, and Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler will come the quick succession of credentials and preliminary reports. Grand Officers will give their reports and the Homeless Children Agency, probably the most important project of the Order will be thoroughly discussed.

The Grand Ball will be held Tuesday evening, with the well known Bob Kent orchestra furnishing the music. Mrs. Anne Weiss of Vendome Parlor No. 100 is general chairman assisted by Mesdames Jeanette Kneass, Thelma Barkley, Emily Falbo, Ida Connors, Mildred Gullo, Alice Berti, and Lillian Moore, representing the four Parlors in Santa Clara county.

Thursday evening will be the installation of newly elected officers and Henrietta Toothaker will be presented the gavel during the beautiful initiatory ceremonies. Miss Toothaker is well-versed in Parliamentary law and an experienced leader and a most profitable year awaits the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The large membership of Native Daughters in Santa Clara County are serving on the various committees and are ready to extend hospitality to all members attending, and Jay McCabe, the genial manager of the Municipal Auditorium has all the answers to questions that the committees cannot supply. San Jose is bidding welcome to all attending and a good time is assured by all.

San Jose Is Rich In Early History

SAN JOSE, among California's first born and the state's oldest civil settlement is situated in the beautiful Santa Clara Valley fifty miles south of San Francisco.

Originally El Pueblo de San Jose de Guadalupe, San Jose was founded by Lieutenant Jose Joaquin Moraga on November 29, 1777 which was less than seventeen months after the historic Fourth of July in 1776 when the Declaration of Independence was adopted at Philadelphia.

El Pueblo de San Jose, founded to serve as a larder for the military posts in San Francisco and Monterey, with a population of sixty-six of fourteen men and their families was situated on a site about a mile and a half from the center of the present city. This original tract proved unsatisfactory, because of spring floods, so in 1797 the town moved to a higher location to an area which is now bisected by Market and San Fernando streets.

San Jose's first tribunal was built in 1783 after the community moved to the higher location in 1798, a second Juzgado was erected and it witnessed the transition of the pueblo into an American village. In front of it Captain Thomas Fallon raised the American flag, on July 14, 1846, six days after Commodore John Sloat took over Monterey.

In 1800 San Jose had 180 inhabitants, but a decade later the number had dropped to 12 because of heavy enlistments in the army units at San Francisco and Monterey. Americans began arriving in the forties, attracted by stories of fertile lands of the Santa Clara valley. In 1847, seven years after the town was born, it still consisted of a small group of adobes bordering the plaza.

In 1849 San Jose began a surge forward. Many of those who had left the community in 1848 for gold seeking had returned.

On September 26 of that year, by vote of California first constitutional convention, it became the first capital of the state and the first legislature met there the following December, nine months before California was admitted to the Union. But its career as the seat of government was brief. The capital was moved to Vallejo in 1851, to Benicia in 1852 and to Sacramento in 1854.

On March 27, 1850 San Jose was incorporated, with a population of nearly 5000. Since then it has grown steadily as the mill cantile, manufacturing, food processing and distributing center of the valley's productive acres. The valley, which first was devoted to cattle ranches and then to grain, was transformed into an amazing realm of orchards and vineyards, with remarkable yields of prunes, apricots, grapes, pears, cherries, berries and other fruits.

Throughout its years San Jose has marked up many a "firsts"—the first motion pictures taken in the United States were taken for Leland Stanford in 1879 at the present site of Stanford University. The first wireless in California was operated by Charles D. Herrold in 1894. The first radio telephone station in America was in San Jose in 1904. The first stage line in California was operated by John Whitman between San Francisco and San Jose. The first public school in California was the San Jose Granary in 1895.

Today, with a population of approximately 90,000 and still growing, San Jose has numerous claims to greatness—rapidly expanding business and industrial activities, fine homes, outstanding educational facilities, a lot of cultural advantages and many more essentials for wholesome living.

GRAND PRESIDENT'S — MESSAGE —

Dear Sisters:

As I come to the end of my travels, I am left with a rainbow of thoughts, as I glance back over the horizon of our glorious State, I recall with pride and with joy, our "Golden Heritage," and when we convene at Grand Parlor convention, this June in the city of San Jose, let us meet with the true spirit of Fraternal understanding and deliberate for the good of our State, Country and Order.

We are founded on the everlasting principles of Love of Home, devotion to our Flag, veneration of the Pioneers, and an abiding faith in the existence of God. These principles,

Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth, Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West, of Vendome Parlor No. 100, who will preside over the Sixty-third Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters to be held in San Jose June 19 to 24 inclusive.

Although four days will be confined with perhaps hard work during the Grand Parlor Native Daughter convention, beginning June 19, yet ample provision has been made for relaxation, Santa Clara County can also boast of a "Golden Heritage" as in the eastern foothills of the City of San Jose there lies the 687 acre municipally "Playground" called Alum Rock Park. It is often referred to as "Little Yosemite" because of its curious rock formation. The park has every facility of recreation including 22 active mineral springs, saddle and hiking trails, a wonderful swimming pool and picnic grounds. People come from all over the world to take from the mineral springs and to enjoy the beautiful park. It is here that the able committee of Santa Clara County Native Daughters have planned an outdoor luncheon picnic for the delegates and visiting members. The Chamber of Commerce of San Jose will provide the necessary busses to transport delegates and visitors to this most unique and picturesque park. Members of Vendome Parlor Native Daughters under the sponsorship of their founder, Miss Tillie Brohaska, dedicated a Log Cabin to the Native Daughters of the Golden West, in this park in 1916. The virgin logs were hewn and hauled from the Santa Cruz mountains by Antone Matty, an ardent Pioneer and was dedicated after many months of planning by the members of Vendome Parlor on September 17th of that year. Mrs. Mildred Gullo of San Jose Parlor No. 81 and Mrs. Marie Serpa, of Vendome Parlor No. 100 are joint chairmen of "Playday" and have promised a most delicious menu for all attending. The registration ticket will entitle delegates and visitors without any extra expense, not only to Playday but to the Ball Tuesday evening and to the dinner at the Sainte Claire Hotel Wednesday evening after the trip to the park.—Photo San Jose Chamber of Commerce.

along with our romantic and enchanting History of California, our faithful devotion and duties to Veterans Welfare, with an interest in the proper legislation of laws governing our State, restoration of Missions, Native Daughters Home and other Branches of constructive endeavor, make for the Native Daughters of the Golden West a most distinguished Organization of California Women.

We look back with pride to the twenty-fifth day of September, 1886 when thirteen young women, with a far-seeing leader of culture and heritage, Lily O. Reichling, known better to us as Lily O. Reichling-Dyer, founded the Native Daughters Organization of the Golden West, in Jackson, Amador County. As the thirteen stars, representing the thirteen States that came into the union of the United States and grew and grew so these thirteen young women came into the first Native Daughter Parlor in California. Today, with a membership of twenty thousand and a Junior membership of five hundred we are well on our way to future glories of Historical developments. We must look to the future with high resolves high hopes and be ever alert to guard our "Golden Heritage" and not allow the enemy at the Gate with communistic propaganda wedge into our State or Order and take from us that which our forefathers suffered and sacrificed for us to enjoy.

My theme song during the entire year as I went from place to place, was "Do unto others as you wish them to do unto you."

It has been a very busy, but never-the-less an interesting year. To witness accomplishments, to receive gracious hospitality, wherever I went, made me feel that the Native Daughters are practicing the Golden Rule. To have instituted new Parlors and to have met with the Junior Units, the young people who are the Native Daughter leaders of tomorrow and who will carry on our great historical work and principles, will leave with me a most lasting memory.

May this Grand Parlor be blessed with Fraternal Understanding, the Will to smile and to appreciate our "Golden Heritage."

Let us not forget what Polonius said in Hamlet, "To thine own self be true, and it must follow as the night, the day, thou can'st not then be false to any man."

MARGARET M. FARNSWORTH,
Grand President
Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Fishing Notes

By HAR LAR

We've talked a lot of "fishing" recently. Why not? It's that time of year. We've discussed those far away fishing places from Alaskan waters to Baja, California. And the conversation generally ends up with a longing sigh and a fervently uttered prayer, "If I could only get away."

Here in Southern California at the most a 15 to 45 minute auto ride will bring a fellow to what it undoubtedly some of the best fishing waters in the world. The blue Pacific stretches a thousand miles or more before your very door. There's actually more fish fighting action packed into three or four hour salt water fishing than the average angler can find in a week of stream fishing.

Off modern live bait boats anyone can catch fish. These boat captains know their fishing grounds and take you where the fish are to be found. They'll show you how to rig your tackle and bait your hook. It's a cinch to catch fish.

Albacore are supposed to be one of the wildest and smartest fish in the sea. They come in schools and without doubt are the prize tid-bit of ocean anglers. But hook one and lose it and chances are the entire school will vanish out to sea.

Last year twenty men and women chartered a boat out of Port Orange, Newport Harbor. According to Tom Scott, eighteen of the twenty rented poles and equipment, an absolute give away that most of the party had done little if any fishing previously. They met up with a school of albacore off the 14 mile bank somewhere near Catalina. Seventy-six fighting jumping albacore were boated. They brought back a boatload weighing approximately three-fourths tons.

Can you blame them if they want to go again. The fact is that same bunch phoned in a reservation for this year. They want the same boat. They insist on going to the same place. Furthermore, they expect to catch the same big haul of albacore. Does lightning strike twice in the same place?

Maybe you don't think you have time to fish. Try the deep sea barges off Huntington Beach. You may come and go as you wish for there's continuous shore boat service all day long. Bring along the family—there's plenty of room even if they don't fish. There's an excellent galley and plenty of well cooked food. Sparks tells us that kids go for half price. Sure, there's live bait aboard.

In reminiscing over last year's fishing, Captain Clarence Lane of the Challenger out of Port Lido, Newport, opines that a party of twelve took 96 albacore. His most unexpected catch was off Catalina. The fishing had been poor. Capt. Lane had up-anchored at least a dozen times in search of fish. It was after four p.m. and the skipper was just about to haul anchor for the last time when the sea bass came in. Sixty-five were caught with the big one weighing forty pounds. Which all goes to prove most anything can happen.

What undoubtedly might be well tagged "the fish story to end all fish stories" was enacted on the blue waters of Big Bear Lake, San Bernardino County, recently. It is a tale of a hungry catfish weighing 23 3/4 pounds caught by Wayne Forton. Certainly fortune didn't wane when the young man pulled in this prize "cat" for upon cleaning Wayne found a sterling silver charm bracelet complete with eight charms in the big fish's gullet.

Up on the same lake A. E. Weatherwax was catching bass, trolling with a 6-F flatfish, when he nabbed a small bluegill. Before he could retrieve his line and shake off such a small fry, a 4 3/4 pound bass swallowed the bluegill. Weatherwax landed 'em both.

Veracity of both incidents may be checked through the Big Bear Chamber of Commerce.

Making our usual pre-season sojourn along the waterfront, we find the mountaintop lake resort in readiness for the vanguard of 3,000,000 annual southern California vacationists expected. The weather is already delightfully balmy much to the appreciation of early May fishermen. Though limit strings of both bass (Continued on next page) and crappie were being reeled and creeled, the old-timers tell us that due to cold weather (the ice did not break up on the lake until late April) the wily trout is still spawning and is not expected to end his fasting days until about June 1st.

Stream fishermen may fish Bear, Holcomb and Deep Creeks though feeder streams into the lake are closed due to spawning.

The Kernville fish hatchery at Victorville supplied some 100,000 fingerling trout, all destined for the frying pan this summer if fishermen have their way. This is a top score in the "put and take" annual contest. However, trout has always been a native to Big Bear waters. Long before there was a lake the rainbow beauties lived in the creek waters that flowed through her lush meadows. The first "fingerlings" planted in the lake, according to editor Elinor Wirth of Big Bear's Reporter, was back in the middle 1880's. William Shebly, local chief of the U. S. Fish and Game Commission, carried two cans of the wigglers on his back up from Seven Oaks.

Beverly Hills Daughters Dedicate Historic Plaque

Reminiscent of the days of the dons, ceremonies were held on Sunday, April 24, in Coldwater Canyon Park in Beverly Hills, during which Beverly Hills Parlor No. 289, NDGW placed a bronze landmark plaque at "Rodeo de las Aguas" (The Gathering of the Waters.)

This historic stream emanates from the original source of water supply to Rancho "Rodeo de las Aguas," granted to Maria Rita Valdez in 1839 and incorporated as the city of Beverly Hills in 1914.

Mrs. Gerald J. Thomas, chairman of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee, was in charge of arrangements and was chairman of the day. Mrs. Thomas did extensive research in preparing for the marking of this historic spot.

Margaret M. Farnsworth, Grand President of the Order, was guest of honor and unveiled the plaque during the ceremonies. Mrs. Roger J. Sterrett, Past President of the Historical Society of Southern California was the speaker of the day.

The wording on the plaque is as follows: "RODEO DE LAS AGUAS, The Gathering of the Waters that supplied the Maria Rita Valdez Adobe. This Rancho was granted in 1839 and incorporated as The City of Beverly Hills in 1914. Presented to The City of Beverly Hills by Beverly Hills Parlor No. 289, Native Daughters of the Golden West, April 24, 1949"

The order of the program was: A Dramatic Advance of the Colors, Pledge of Allegiance, National Anthem. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Concannon, Pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd pronounced the invocation. Next was the speaker, and then a medley by the band of California music.

Don Blanding, famous California Poet, read two of his most famous works, "California Speaks To Its People," and the "Gnat and the Sequoia."

Mrs. Carl J. Spain, President of Beverly Hills Parlor then made the presentation of the plaque to the City of Beverly Hills and Grand President Margaret Farnsworth unveiled the plaque.

Otto A. Gerts, Mayor of the City of Beverly Hills accepted on behalf of the City. The program closed with the audience singing "I Love You California," with band accompaniment.

Presentation of California State Bear Flag to E. F. Ducommun by Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, on behalf of Compton Parlor No. 273, NSGW, at ceremony celebrating Centennial of the Ducommun Company, Saturday, May 7. Left to right: Judge Stanley Sargent, president of Compton Parlor; Joseph C. Augustine, Jr., past president of Mission Parlor No. 38, superintendent of stock for Ducommun Company, just completing 25 years service with the pioneer firm; E. F. Ducommun, president and son of founder, former officer and member of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz, Santa Monica Bay Parlor; Charles Ducommun, vice-president and treasurer, grandson of the founder.

California Concern Celebrates Centennial

With over 10,000 people in attendance at a giant open-house the Ducommun Metals & Supply Co., 4890 South Alameda St., Los Angeles, celebrated its Centennial year in business on Saturday, May 7, with appropriate ceremonies in which the Native Sons of the Golden West played a prominent part.

Three California Bear Flags were presented to the company by three Los Angeles County parlors, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, presenting one on behalf of Compton Parlor, through President E. F. Ducommun.

A second flag was presented by Alfred Peracca, past president of Los Angeles No. 45, Mr. E. F. Ducommun's old parlor; while a third was presented for the flag pole in front of the Ducommun Company building by Manuel Avila, of University Parlor No. 272.

All arrangements for the presentation of the three flags were made by Joseph C. Augustine, Jr., past president of Mission Parlor No. 38, San Francisco, superintendent of stock for the Ducommun Company, who is just completing 25 years service with the pioneer firm.

The history of the Ducommun Company these past hundred years is closely allied with that of Southern California.

The company was founded in 1849 by Charles Louis Ducommun, a Swiss watchmaker who had come to the United States in 1841. He had come to California, drawn, like thousands of others, by the lure of gold and the opportunity of a new land.

Presentation of Bear Flag to E. F. Ducommun in commemoration of the Ducommun Centennial, by Alfred Peracca, past president of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, of which Mr. Ducommun was a member for many years. Ducommun, president Ducommun Company; Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, Santa Monica Bay Parlor; Charles Ducommun, vice-president, Ducommun Metals and Supply Co.; Alfred Peraccas, past president Los Angeles No. 45. Four Years' Work Brings Success To Parlor Project

Four years of campaigning by Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, NDGW, and several other women's groups to obtain a "ranch-type" home for a 'teen-age delinquent girl wards of the Los Angeles County Juvenile Court have culminated successfully.

Mrs. Milo McGinley, president, reports the ranch-type home now has been approved by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors and is under construction.

It will be located near Downey, and dedication ceremonies will be staged in September. Representatives of the parlor and other women's organizations will take part in the dedication, which formally will open the institution.

Approximately 60 girls will be accommodated in the home, which will be under supervision of the county's probation department. They will be taught trades to enable them to earn their own livelihoods when returned to their places in community life. Trades will include animal husbandry, poultry culture, gardening, domestic science and laundering.

The home, Mrs. McGinley points out, will be conducted along lines of similar "outdoor" camps for delinquent boys. These have been successful in improving the mental, spiritual and physical conditions of boys, and have effected a general reconditioning and normalizing process. In conducting the campaign, the parlor pointed out that Los Angeles County had five such "outdoor life" institutions for boys and none for girls.

Among Los Angeles members who will take part in the dedication are: Miss Grace S. Stoermer, past grand president, who also led the crusade for the "ranch-type" home as a past president of the Los Angeles Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Evelyn Howell, Mrs. Kerrins J. (Louise) Crawford, Miss Olive Hedges and Mrs. Jack (Lillian) Stratton.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 also has adopted resolutions recently as follows:

One urging the nation and state to acquire Sequoia and Sugar Pine land in Tuolumne and Calaveras counties to preserve the irreplaceable woodland before the groves are destroyed by lumbering interests.

Another urging Governor Warren and the legislature to pass Assembly Bill No. 2339 to establish the Butano Redwood Forest as a state park.

The parlor also has put itself squarely in favor of the reconstruction program planned for Mission San Antonio de Padua.

PIONEER

A 99-year-old Long Beach woman, Mrs. Anna Leslie Swift, daughter of Forty-niners who pioneered San Jose, was named by Long Beach Parlor No. 154, NDGW, as guest of honor on Mothers' Day during the Centennial week celebration in Long Beach, according to Ann Barton, committee chairman.

Mrs. Swift, who was born in San Jose March 7, 1850, was honored as the oldest Native-born mother in Long Beach during the "100 Years of Religion," services Sunday, May 8, with Mayor Burton Chace presenting an orchid to her.

The pioneer mother is a second cousin to Andrew Jackson and a grandniece of Gen. Leslie Combs of Tennessee. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Combs Bostick, came overland to San Jose during the gold rush. Her father had extensive real estate holdings in San Jose. He also was county recorder for many years.

After her marriage to William Swift, the couple came to Los Angeles by boat. There was no railroad at that time. Their two children, Leslie Combs Swift, who died in 1914 and a daughter, now Mrs. C. H. Berry, with whom she resides in Long Beach, were born in Los Angeles. Mr. Swift passed away in 1902. The Berry family and Mrs. Swift have resided in Long Beach 10 years.

Keith Parlor Honors Deputy Grand Presidents

Easter arrived one day late, but in all its glory when Keith Parlor No. 137, N. D. G. W. gave a party honoring their own Vera Thompson, SDDGP and her Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County, on April 18 in the Native Daughters Home.

As the distinguished guests and members entered the beautiful surroundings, they were met with a scene that will long remain in their memories—the beautiful flowers and colorful decorations in keeping with the Easter decor were a profusion of color. The theme of the party was one of laughter, gaiety, and fun. The program for the evening included a short formal opening, which covered greetings by Alice Barichievich, general chairman of the affair, and the introductions of Miriam Mayerhofer, President, the officers and members of Keith Parlor, Mae Frugoli, charter member, Edna Erney of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 Deputy Grand President, SDDGP Vera Thompson, and the San Francisco County Deputy Grand Presidents. Anna Mae Murphy sang "So Dear To My Heart" very beautifully, as the escort team ushered SDDGP Vera Thompson into the room. The piano accompanist during the festivities was La Verne Mungo who contributed so much to the success of the evening. Rita Ford's lovely vocal solo, "La Golondrina" was also enjoyed. By then, the evening was in full sway. Everyone joined in the community singing under the direction of Anna Mae and Ida Murphy. There were "Amateur Try-Outs" supervised by Alice Barichievich, where the hostess Parlor and the guests had a chance to show off their thespian abilities, and there were prizes for all. Mary Davis conducted a series of games during a most hilarious portion of the evening which she called "Play Time," and all joined in the fun.

Retiring

To the many friends within our Order who have expressed their interest and admiration for our esteemed member Dorothy Donofrio by sustaining her as a Grand Officer for five years, and whom we know will offer concern as to her absence from the Grand Parlor scene this year, we regret that illness alone, of a serious nature, confronting her loving and devoted husband has prompted her retirement from Grand Parlor activities.

On behalf of El Carmelo Parlor and our Dorothy, we express our sincere appreciation to all Native Daughters for their cooperation and encouragement through the years and for their regard for our esteemed member in allowing her, as a Grand Officer to serve the Order she loves so dearly.

Centennial Theme Accented By Reina del Mar Parlor

Reina del Mar Parlor, Native Daughters, did itself proud when Grand President Margaret Farnsworth returned to the city of her birth and early schooling on her official visit. Mar Monte Hotel's banquet hall was the scene of a banquet attended by citizenry as well as members. For the formal meeting the parlor adjourned across Cabrillo Boulevard from the hotel to the clubhouse of Santa Barbara parlor Native Sons.

Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Los Angeles Parlor 124, developed the program there and voiced a challenge to native daughters to be particularly effective with Centennial Year activities.

Rev. Noel F. Moholy, O.F.M. of the Queen of Missions staff, was speaker of the evening, discussing the four tenets of the Native Daughter order. In concluding the padre said:

"Today Junipero Serra's body lies buried in his beloved Carmelo, but his spirit lives on. That spirit must animate us, native sons and daughters of the Golden State. We must march forth as missionaries, using the same weapons as Serra, love of God and love of all mankind. The first conquest of California demanded the lifeblood of her Apostle and his gray-robed companions. But it saved this romantic land from the Russian Bear of aggression. The reconquest of California for God and Christ will demand work and sacrifice of us, but it can again save this garden land from Russian communism. Serra saved California in 1770; his spirit will save California in 1949."

Three community relationships were accented by paying special recognition to four Santa Barbara women, leaders in the fields of history, traditions, conservation and cultures. Mrs. Russell Hastings of the Santa Barbara Historical Society, Miss Pearl Chase of the State conservation committee, Mrs. Hilmar O. Koefod of the Lobero Theater Foundation, and Miss Lita Paulding of Santa Barbara News-Press were those honored. Mrs. Mary Oldfield

Steele of the Lobero group represented Mrs. Koefod.

Miss Josephine Pagliotti, president, presided over Reina del Mar's formal meeting at which chairmen of standing committees reported to the grand president. Presented to each member was a brochure of salute to California Centennial Years. This set forth Native Daughter order heritage, aims and objectives, and special plea for participation in the Centennial observance. Preparation of the booklet was by Mrs. Anita Harp Bookman, chairman, Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Mrs. Lydia Whitney Brady, Miss Edna L. Sharpe and Miss Elise Bottiani.
